Dennett Road Collecting Items To Be Recycled

Dennett Road Elementary School is currently collecting recyclable items until Thursday, Feb. 18, and is asking that the community donate to the cause. The collection is being held in part to raise funds for the school. Items accepted include used cell phones, empty laser, fax, copier, and inkjet cartridges, laptops, Palm Pilots, iPods, video games, GPS systems, DVDs, and digital cameras.

"We are trying to preserve our environment by keeping these harmful items out of landfills, as well as raise funds for our school," noted a spokesperson. Recyclable items that are collected will be given to Cartridges for Kids® (CFK). "Dennett Road is among more than 12,500 non-profit organizations nationwide that are helping the environment by recycling."

Community and business supporters can participate at no cost, as CFK will send postage-paid pre-printed shipping labels for the return of the used items being collected. Items may also be dropped off at the school.

For more information about the program, persons may contact Cindy Stem at 301-334-3452 or via e-mail at cstem@ga.k12.md.us. Persons may also visit www.cartridgesforkids.com or call toll free at 1-800-420-0235.

CHRISTMAS MADE A LITTLE BRIGHTER – Students at the Partners After School @ Loch Lynn recently held their annual Christmas program and received a Christmas surprise. Kent and Nancy Miller of Grantsville donated presents to all the students in memory of Kent's mother, Alice Miller. Over the past year, Alice Miller has donated items to the program, such as books and toys. "It is nice to know that people still know the true meaning of Christmas," said a spokesperson for the program. Pictured are some student's receiving their gifts. In the front row are Kayla Harris, Todd BeMiller, and Brent BeMiller. In the back are Morgan Carr, John Pelland, and Kent. The Partners After School @ Loch Lynn is a collaborative effort between Garrett County Community Action, Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families, the Maryland State Department of Education, Garrett County commissioners, and HUD. The program is also a service learning site. Anyone seeking more information about the program may call at 301-334-0723.

NETL Selects Local Man As Senior Analyst

The National Energy Technology Laboratory (NETL) recently selected Swanton resident Chris Nichols as a senior analyst. He will be working on analyses and assessments of the role that energy-related research and development can play in solving the national security, environmental, and economic sustainability issues facing the nation.

Nichols earned his undergraduate degree in physics from Drew University, Madison, N.J., and a master's degree in safety and environmental management from West Virginia University. He served as a site support contractor to NETL and began his professional career as a nuclear engineering officer in the U.S. Navy.

NETL is one of the U.S. Department of Energy's national laboratories, and according to a spokesperson, focuses on America's economic prosperity, which requires secure, reliable energy supplies at sustainable prices.

Three overarching issues characterize the energy situation in the United States, said a spokesperson, and they are energy affordability, supply security, and environmental quality. The Department of Energy's only government-owned, government-operated national lab, NETL is a research and technology center where these energy challenges converge and energy solutions emerge.

NETL implements a broad spectrum of energy and environmental research and development programs through its own research staff and through funded research at other labs, universities, and industries that will return benefits for generations to come.

Weitzell Family Preserves Bear Creek Ranch

Gov. Martin O'Malley and the Maryland Environment Trust (MET) yesterday announced the preservation of Bear Creek Ranch, a 745-acre forested property in Garrett County.

The Board of Public Works recently approved $860,000 of state-side Program Open Space funding to purchase a conservation easement from the Weitzell family, which will permanently protect the property from development.

"We are thankful for the ongoing wise stewardship of Bear Creek Ranch by the Weitzell family," O'Malley said. "Their decision to allow a conservation easement on their property will protect western Maryland's cherished scenic ridge tops for current and future generations. I hope other landowners will be inspired by the Weitzell family's diligent protection of the forest habitat and biodiversity on their property."

Located off route 219, just north of Deep Creek Lake and west of Savage River State Forest, the property spans two ridge tops in the South Branch and protects the headwaters of Bear Creek.

"The property's high quality habitat for many rare, threatened and endangered species – including the tiger spiketail dragonfly, southern water shrew, and glade ferns – earned it a high ecological ranking under the governor's new Program Open Space targeting system," said a Maryland Department of Natural Resources spokesperson.

Additionally, the property provides rare habitat for forest interior dwelling birds, whose populations are declining in Maryland and throughout the eastern United States as the result of sprawl development and deforestation, according to the spokesperson.

"The Maryland Environmental Trust has been anxiously awaiting the completion of the Bear Creek Ranch easement acquisition, a multi-year collaborative effort between MET, the Allegheny Highlands Conservancy, and Maryland Department of Natural Resources," said MET executive director Elizabeth Buxton.

"Preservation of Bear Creek Ranch offers an impressive array of environmental benefits, including

GLAF Issues Urgent Plea For Funding Support

The downturned global economy has resulted in several blows to the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF), organizers reported this week, greatly affecting the 22-year-old arts presenting group's budget. GLAF presents a variety of arts events throughout the year in Garrett County, including performances by the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra, theatrical shows, and other presentations for the citizens and visitors of Garrett County. However, external events have resulted in the following reductions in the presenting organization's income:

1. The Pennsylvania Performing Arts on Tour (PennPAT) has denied GLAF's grant request for $40,000 dollars. The organization learned of this complete denial of funds only last week and it was totally unexpected, according to Skip Case, executive director of GLAF

2. The Maryland State Arts Council has announced a 12.4% cut in GLAF's funding, with more cuts on the way.

3. The Maryland State Humanities Council will charge GLAF for Chautauqua performers for the first time this summer.

4. Corporate donors who rely on revenue from real estate transactions have reduced or terminated their donations.

"All symphony orchestras are extremely expensive and represent a significant portion of GLAF's budget," Case said. "The Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra was selected because of the availability of an additional income stream from PennPAT grants, which are not available for other orchestras not domiciled in Pennsylvania, such as the Maryland Symphony. After reviewing competitive bids and considering the

A QUICK GAME OF CHRISTMAS HOCKEY – Although the temps were uncommonly warm on Christmas Day in Garrett County, the pond at the Jerry Opel family farm in Bittinger was plenty frozen for some fun. So after opening gifts and having a good Christmas breakfast, the neighbor kids got together for some action on the ice. It appears that not all were actually wearing skates, and the goal was fashioned out of a pair of shoes, but hey, a game is a game, and the neighborhood impromptu matches are sometimes the very best. As for the weather, things seem to be far more normal this week for January, with snow pouring down today and causing a two-hour delay for schools. The forecast for the next week or so involves snow nearly every day, so things are definitely back on track for the mountaintop. Photo by Michele Maust.

Local Residents Support, Oppose Proposed Master Plan Amendments

The Garrett County commissioners held a public hearing Tuesday on two amendments to the county's master plan that would provide public water and sewer service to the proposed McHenry Business Park (MBP) and a workforce housing development called Lake Hill. Both projects are to be built on the county's Whiteface Farm property near the airport.

About 25 local residents and officials attended the hearing, with several voicing their support for or opposition to the amendments or the projects in general.

Lake Hill is a Garrett County Community Action project that would utilize about 50 acres and contain up to 250 units consisting of a combination of lease-purchase town homes and/or duplexes and single family homes for sale.

Under the auspices of the county's economic development department, the MBP would use about 190 acres and would provide developable parcels for businesses.

Director Linda Lindsey, Garrett County Department of Public Utilities, said the Deep Creek Lake Sewer System and McHenry Water System would serve the park and housing development.

"The water line extension will connect to the present system at Garrett College on Mosser Road and will follow Bumble Bee Road and an easement on privately owned property to the southern portion of the Whiteface Farm," she said.

A 250,000 gallon above-ground water tank would be built at the airport to provide fire suppression for that facility as well as the MPB and Lake Hill. The tank would also supplement domestic service for the park and housing development, Lindsey noted.

John Kahl, Negro Mountain Road, questioned the need for the water line to be located in the Bumble Bee Road area. He wondered why new easements were needed in that area when a line was already in place along Pysell Road.

"That water line was sized for the airport," Lindsey said about the Pysell line. A bigger pipe is needed for the park and Lake Hill in order to provide water and fire protection, she indicated.

The director said it would be "much shorter" for the new line to go the proposed route than along Pysell.

Additionally, she noted, a portion of Pysell Road is solid rock, which caused difficulties and additional costs for contractors who put the water line in that area. Furthermore, there is not enough room along Pysell to run a new water line parallel to the old one on the current rights of way. Easements would still be needed in that area.

Much of the Bumble Bee route cuts across private lands, including some owned by Commissioner Denny Glotfelty and his brother Warren. Glotfelty stressed that he recused himself during talks about

by Mercedes Pellet, HART development director

"New Year's Eve will never be the same in Garrett County," said HART president Mike Pellet. "The Fur Ball was a smashing success, in spite of gale-force winds and snow earlier in the day."

Nina Tate-Elliott, Fur Ball Committee chair, pointed out that "even though tickets were sold out two weeks before the event, we still had over 180 guests attending."

The Fur Ball, held at the former Oakland armory, was transformed through the efforts of the decorating committee under the direction of Candy DeGiovanni into a "Winter Wonderland." Two large indoor "event" tents were joined by a draped panel of gossamer and speckled with lights, which reduced the size of the building to an attractive and cozy dimension.

The food, provided by Catering by the Champions, was named and presented around the animal theme, with animal-shaped centerpieces, butter slices, and desserts.

The popular Cumberland-based band Queen City Funk & Soul played tunes that pulled people out of their seats and onto the dance floor. Some of the dancers remarked, "I haven't danced like this in so long," and toward the end of the evening, dancers even formed a conga line and twirled around the lobby. The band leader himself said, "We haven't played at a place where so many people danced all night."

Those who preferred not to dance went to the Casino Room to play Texas Hold-'em poker, blackjack, or modified roulette.

Since the attire for the evening was "relaxed elegance," people took the organizers at their word: They wore what allowed them to "feel good and look good" – although many of the guests

Maryland's Education System Ranked #1 In National Report

The Maryland public school system has moved to the head of the class, according to an independent national report that was released Wednesday.

Education Week, the nation's leading education newspaper, looked at data in six critical categories over the past two years, and found that Maryland's state education system is at the very top of national rankings.

Receiving an overall percentage ranking of 84.7 (and a letter grade of B) Maryland placed at the top of the list in Education Week's tally, just ahead of Massachusetts (84.6). Other high-scoring systems include New York (84.1) and Virginia (83.2).

Neighboring Pennsylvania and West Virginia also fared well in the rankings, with respective percentages of 80.3 and 80.0.

At the bottom of the national rankings is the District of Columbia system, which received a score of 68.3 (D+). The next three from the bottom were Nevada (68.8), Idaho (69.1), and Mississippi (69.4).

The overall score for the United States was 76.2, or a grade of C.

Maryland's ranking is based on student performance and state education policies that reflect more than a decade of work on a pre-K-12 curriculum; state accountability and standards; and work on school readiness, high school reform, and preparation for college and the workplace.

"School reform doesn't happen overnight. It takes a long-term commitment to high standards and collaboration, always keeping in mind the students and the families we serve," said State Superintendent of Schools Nancy S. Grasmick. "The 'Quality Counts' report reaffirms Maryland's status as one of the nation's most desirable places to live, work, and raise a family."

Maryland has had a history of success in Education Week's annual review of BOOGYING INTO THE NEW YEAR – Oakland mayor Asa McCain and his wife Marilyn (at left) and numerous other local residents danced into 2009 during HART's Fur Ball gala on New Year's Eve at the Oakland Community Center. The fundraiser featured music by Queen City Funk & Soul, a casino room, and food tables, featuring displays centered around an animal theme. Deemed a "smashing success" by organizers, the gala raised $4,500 for the proposed HART animal adoption center. See story.

CRELLIN ELEM. NAMED TITLE 1 DISTINGUISHED SCHOOL – Crellin Elementary School was one of only two Maryland schools recently named National Title 1 Distinguished Schools for the 2008-09 school year. Of the 365 Title 1 schools who participated in the Maryland School Assessments, a total of 80 Title 1 schools from 40 states will be honored by the U.S. Department of Education and the National Association of State Title 1 Directors in a ceremony to be held in San Antonio, Texas, next month. The Maryland State Board of Education also added congratulations during its regular board meeting, at which Crellin principal Dana McCauley shared information about the school. "Maryland has great students and teachers doing wonderful things in all of its schools, and these two schools have achieved at the highest level," commented state superintendent of schools Nancy S. Grasmick. "We congratulate both Crellin and Doswell E. Brooks elementary schools for the way they serve students and their families." Title 1 is the largest federal aid program in K through 12 education. Schools use Title 1 funds to improve the education of all students in high poverty areas. MSDE administers Maryland's Title 1 program and nominated the two schools after a thorough review of students' achievement data based on the MSAs. Crellin Elementary scored the highest in Category 1 with exceptional student performance for two or more consecutive years. The school serves 88 students. Above, beginning with the front row, are principal McCauley, Amanda Spiker, Becky Sanders, Linda Stephens, and Heather Poe. Back row: Megan Pike, Janet Cosner, Karen Gilpin, Debra DeWitt, Susan Friend, and Carrie Hordubay.

Md. Health Insurance Plan Premiums To Be Reduced For Some Residents

Governor Martin O'Malley announced Wednesday that the Maryland Health Insurance Plan (MHIP) will reduce premiums for its subscribers who have limited income. A quarter of MHIP's subscribers will benefit from the premium reduction. MHIP's board of directors approved the premium reduction in December

Qualifying MHIP members who already receive discounted premiums through the "MHIP+" program will save an additional 4 percent to 10 percent on their monthly premiums.

For individual members, savings will range from $8 to $47 per month. For family coverage, savings will be $18 to $99 monthly. The reduced premiums take effect in February.

MHIP members who will benefit from the reduced monthly premiums will be notified by mail. Monthly individual MHIP premiums range from $90 to $556 per month, and vary based on age, plan option, income and family size.

"This rate reduction serves to provide relief to Maryland's middle class families who are struggling to maintain access to critical health coverage," said Governor O'Malley "This reduction will make coverage more affordable for current MHIP members whose health condition prevents them from having any other insurance option, and for future members, many of whom may be losing their existing health coverage due to the national recession."

Since opening in 2003, the MHIP high-risk pool has provided health insurance coverage for over 27,000 individuals who, because of pre-existing health conditions or other factors, cannot obtain commercial health coverage. MHIP currently provides health coverage to 15,000 qualified individuals regardless of income. Because of the higher medical costs associated with the high-risk individuals served by MHIP, premiums typically are higher than most traditional private individual insurance.

However, to keep coverage costs affordable, MHIP premiums are currently capped at 33 percent above the rates charged on standard, medically underwritten, individual health insurance policies. Premiums are

Oakland Notes Participation In Trail Program

At the regular meeting of the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland on January 5, Elizabeth Huxford, a local geocache participant, was recognized for her assistance in helping the town get its start in the Maryland Municipal League Geocache Program.

Huxford gave a presentation on the program, saying, "It's such a neat way to explore other geographical areas and learn about the area, while having fun."

The Maryland Municipal League (MML), with the help of sponsor/partners, the Maryland Geocaching Society, ESRI, KCI Technologies Inc., Local Government Insurance Trust (LGIT), Stearns & Wheeler LLC, and the Hagerstown-Washington County Convention and Visitors Bureau, became the first state league in the country to launch a statewide city/town Geocache Trail.

As was noted in a previous article in this publication regarding the Town of Mtn. Lake Park's participation in the geocache program, MML is using this innovative approach to promote awareness of and visits to Maryland's cities and towns, with the goal of helping to stimulate economic development in the municipalities.

"Discovering a geocache is very much like going on a treasure hunt, using a hand-held GPS (Global Positioning System) to plot map coordinates to locate the treasure, or 'cache,'" Huxford explained. The geocacher must access the official geocache web site at www.-geocaching.com, go to the MML account, download or manually enter the map coordinates for each cache on the Maryland Municipal League Geo Trail, and then use the GPS to find the caches.

A geocache trail is a series of geocaches tied together by a common theme. The theme of the Maryland Municipal League Geocache Trail is "Celebrating Maryland's Cities and Towns." The trail comprises 78 city/town caches located in the 11 MML districts (regions) throughout the state.

A geo coin will be given to the first 500 geocachers who locate a minimum of 22 city/town caches throughout the state. To be eligible for the coin, geocachers must pick up a passport at any participating visitor center, use the stamp in each cache on their passports, and write in the cache code word.

"We can't tell you where it is, but Oakland has a great location for its geocache," said Oakland Mayor Asa McCain, "and while in Oakland, you can discover our town's many treasures."

Persons may download a list of participating cities/towns and the participating county visitor centers with addresses and hours of operation from MML's web site, www.mdmunicipal.-org.

OAKLAND IS GEOCACHE PARTICIPANT – The town of Oakland is among nearly 80 towns in the state of Maryland that are now participating in the Maryland Municipal League Geocache Program. By using a hand-held GPS (Global Positioning System), players plot map coordinates to locate the treasure, or "cache," in any of the participating towns. Explaining geocaching to the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland was Elizabeth Huxford, pictured above center, with Councilman Jack Riley, left, and Mayor Asa McCain. Pictured below is Brian Widerman, the first person to find the Oakland geocache. A student at Virginia Tech, Widerman is from Sykesville. See story for details.

NEW MARKET COUPLE WIN HART CAR RAFFLE – HART For Animals president Mike Pellet has announced the winner of the 2008 Pontiac Solstice raffle. The drawing was held at HART's Fur Ball gala on New Year's Eve in Oakland. At the request of Pellet, Grantsville resident Diana Kinser shook the box with the ticket stubs in preparation for Oakland mayor Asa McCain to pull out the winning ticket. "Sale of raffle tickets had been brisk earlier in the evening and continued until Mike announced the drawing," said Mercedes Pellet, HART's director of development. The winning ticket was one of six tickets purchased by Tom and Deborah Cera of New Market. When interviewed about their reaction to winning, the Ceras expressed their thanks and joy. "We were going to buy a second car this year – a Solstice, as a matter of fact," Deborah added. "But my husband said that he wanted to wait because he had a feeling that we were going to win the car. And we did." The Ceras were notified on Jan. 1, and they came to Team One Auto Mall in Oakland the following Monday to pick up their car. Pictured above is Mercedes presenting the car keys. While signing the paperwork, the Ceras explained that they had seen a banner for the HART raffle at Arrowhead Market, Deep Creek Lake, and felt that it was a great cause because of their own love for animals. Their current and past pets have been rescued animals. "The Ceras also own a house in Garrett County and may be seen in the summer riding around in their jazzy red convertible," Mercedes said. protecting pristine woodlands, habitat for more than a dozen rare, threatened and endangered species, and keeping Bear Creek healthy and clean," Buxton added. "The conservation easement on the ranch includes special provisions that protect native biodiversity, enhance water quality, control harmful invasive and exotic species, and minimize forest fragmentation."

A statewide land trust governed by a citizen board of trustees, the Maryland Environmental Trust, was established in 1967 by the Maryland General Assembly to preserve privately owned farm and forest lands and significant natural resources.

"MET is one of the oldest and most successful land trusts in the country," said the DNR spokesperson. "It holds more than 950 easements and has protected over 117,900 acres across the state."

MET promotes the protection of open land through its Land Conservation Program, Monitoring and Stewardship Program and Local Land Trust Assistance Program. MET also provides grants to environmental education projects through the Keep Maryland Beautiful Program.

The three-member Board of Public Works, chaired by O'Malley, is composed of Treasurer Nancy Kopp and Comptroller Peter Franchot. The BPW is authorized by the General Assembly to approve major construction and consultant contracts, equipment purchases, property transactions and other procurement actions.

wore tuxedos and long gowns, giving the flavor of Monte Carlo to the event.

Rounding out the evening were the silent auction and the photos by Bello's Studio. The silent auction was open throughout the evening, and guests put in their bids on items donated by many local businesses. For a souvenir of the evening, Bello's Studio gave many of the guests the opportunity of having their pictures taken in their fancy clothes.

The evening came to a close shortly after the midnight countdown, the balloon drop, and the champagne toast. All guests were given a commemorative ornament with the logo of the 2008 Fur Ball, courtesy of Eagle Rock Construction.

In expressing HART's gratitude for the help provided by sponsors, guests, businesses, and volunteers, HART treasurer Caroline Robison remarked, "It was truly a great event – and we were able to raise $4,500 for our building fund."

Tate-Elliott also expressed her appreciation for the many people who helped make the first Fur Ball such an outstanding success. Asked if there would be another Fur Ball, she replied, "Most definitely. We plan to have it every year."

Can't Afford A Backslide...

At the risk of sounding like a broken record, going on ad nauseum (for some) in this column about how outstanding our public school system is in Maryland and in Garrett County, it is important to remind ourselves, and especially our elected officials, about this particular blessing, especially during a tight economy.

As can be seen via a front-page story in this newspaper today, Maryland's public education system now ranks #1 among the 50 states of the union, according to Education Week, the nation's leading education newspaper. This is up from a #3 ranking by the same publication last year.

This ranking complements others received by the state, as last year the Milken Institute ranked Maryland's system #2 nationwide for technology economy preparedness, and #1 in the nation for human capital investment.

Zooming into our own county of Garrett, our local school system has for many years been at or near the top in a number of areas among those of Maryland's 23 counties and Baltimore City. So if the job being done by Garrett County's educators and students is among the best in Maryland, it follows with this most recent state ranking that they are right at the top in the entire nation. Wow!

And as a quick addendum for our readers in neighboring states, you folks are doing very well also. Pennsylvania ranked seventh and West Virginia is eighth. Virginia finished fourth.

Governor Martin O'Malley issued a statement when the rankings were released yesterday, which included the following sentence: "Now more than ever, even in these difficult times, we must continue to protect our investments in public education to ensure that every child receives a world-class education and a better future."

The budget process for the county is about to begin for FY 2010, and because of the struggling economy, this task will be considerably more difficult for our county commissioners this year. However, we sincerely hope that they take the words of the governor to heart and do everything they can to enhance, or at least maintain, the status quo in local education. The investment made in the education of our young people has obviously been one of the best investments in the history of Garrett County. Although times are tight, we simply cannot afford to allow any backslide in this area. Our administrators, teachers, parents, and particularly our students are certainly doing their part and thus have earned the utmost consideration of the county commissioners.

We've written it before, and we will write it again: Education is without a doubt the primary key to the future success of our citizens, our communities, and our society.

A sincere thanks to whoever was responsible for placing our American flag in a military fold on our cabin's porch. Apparently, in our absence, the lanyard had ripped from our pole because of the high winds last week.

To the Editor:

It was with great sadness that we observed the closing of Towne Restaurant on Dec. 31. We have been going to Towne for 20 years. We have made many friends there, both staff and customers.

Our daughter Shannon thoroughly enjoyed being there, and we called it her "home away from home." They were always so kind to her and treated all of us like family.

We will miss going there, but especially we will miss the social times we had with the friends we made there. Hopefully this will continue in other venues, but somehow we fear it will never be quite the same.

Sincerely,
Anne and Don Forrester

To the Editor:

I wish to thank The Republican newspaper, the GFWC Civic Club of Oakland, all of you who generously opened your wallets, and all the volunteers who make the Warm the Children (WTC) program a success. It truly takes a village to make this effort succeed.

Staff at The Republican donates and prints all the advertising, form letters, stationery, and forms needed to apply, and handles the banking. Department of Social Services folks verify application data, and two teams of Civic Club members administer the program. Ellen Fritz's team ensures every contributor gets a hand-written thank-you note. I assign a shopper to go with each selected family to ensure that only warm clothing is purchased. I also handle questions or problems that occur, and my team is responsible for verifying the charges on the WalMart bill. One of the big pluses to this program is that not one cent is spent on administration. Every cent donated is spent on warm clothing and footwear.

Here is some WTC trivia: Ellen's team of 19 writers wrote 400 thank-you notes. My team of 39 shoppers broke last year's record by shopping for about 350 children. There is a team in Grantsville, too, with 12 more volunteers.

We shoppers are the ones who witness how much WTC means to families who need a helping hand. Just imagine seeing a little girl's face light up when she tries on that "perfect pink snow jacket," or the little boy who is so happy with his Bob the Builder boots that he refuses to take them off and the cashier has no choice but to scan his foot with the boots on; or the teenager who later sees you on the street and seeks you out to model her new ski jacket and thanks you for finding her color and size. Or the emotion you feel when the parents hug you and thank you for helping to make WTC possible.

I cannot began to tell you how rewarding it is to me knowing that because people care, hundreds of local children are warmer this winter. Who knows? Some day those same children may be the volunteers helping the next generation locate their perfect pink coats, Bob the Builder boots, or warm ski jackets.

Thank you again, Garrett County residents, vacationers, friends, and family members who gave so generously to support WTC with your money and your time.

To the Editor:

This is in response to Bill Detrick's letter in last week's paper.

Though the U.S. Constitution actually says that "Congress shall make no law respecting the establishment of religion...," since 1947 the U.S. Supreme Court has held that federal, state, and local governments shall not take actions that in the court's opinion might possibly "establish" religion. Nevertheless, the court has held that to deny a citizen's right to free expression about their Christian beliefs would both violate the Constitution's guarantee of free speech and also exhibit a hostile attitude toward Christianity in general.

Displaying a nativity scene on government property is expressly allowed through the U.S. Supreme Court's ruling in Lynch vs. Donnelly, 465 U.S. 668 (1984), as long as the nativity is included in a group of secular decorations. This ruling is popularly known as the "3 Reindeer Rule." If anything secular is displayed – such as a Christmas tree, wreath, or reindeer – a nativity scene may be also. It is considered part of our history and culture.

In Pickering vs. Board of Education, 391 U.S. 563 (1968), the high court held that government employees "do not relinquish their First Amendment rights simply because they enjoy the benefit of public employment." As a result, government officials must justify any restriction they place on free speech and expression at the workplace.

By extension one would expect that those who rent HUD housing also do not relinquish their free speech because they enjoy the benefit of government subsidized housing. Therefore, you should be able to display nativities on your apartment door and windows. Whoever manages the building has the discretion to decorate or not in whatever way they choose. If a tenant group expresses a preference, perhaps your manager will listen.

If your apartment manager objects to your religious expressions on the door and windows of your apartment, there are organizations and law firms that represent citizens free of charge to respond to threats against their freedom of religious expression. If legal action is necessary, the Alliance Defense Fund, 15100 N. 90th Street, Scottsdale, Arizona 85260, 1-800-835-5233, and the Rutherford Institute, P.O. Box 7482, Charlottesville, Virginia 22906, 434-978-3888, are two possible sources. You could also contact them for a more thorough explanation of your rights to religious expression.

To the Editor:

I just wanted to comment on the Northern/Southern wrestling match that I attended this week.

First, there was a very nice recognition of previous coaches and then wrestlers from both schools from over the past 40-plus years. Then they gave a special recognition to my parents, Delos and Wanda Carpenter, for their support of the sport over the past 30 years. I can say that this was certainly well earned and a delight to see. Thank you to those responsible.

What was also a delight to see was the mature attitude and respect both sides of the gym gave each other. After years of taking their lumps, the guys on the Southern end decided a couple years ago it was time to put the wrestling program back on track. And rebuild they did. You could see them coming on strong for each of the past several years. As an alumni member of the Northern wrestling program, it was hard to see my beloved Huskies go down in defeat, but the respect that everyone showed for each other made it a little less painful.

So, good job to everyone, and let's look for the Southern Rams to challenge all Maryland teams for that first-place state trophy this year.

To the Editor (et al):

A couple of months ago a friend asked me if she could honor the memory of her mother by donating some money to Our Town Theatre to help defray the cost of the scripts and royalties for our production of I Remember Mama. I told her that indeed she could and that I would list both her name as well as her mother's name in the program to commemorate her generosity, as well as her relationship with her mom.

Since then, others have professed an interest in helping to fund the royalties and scripts for the production by paying homage to their mothers, and I am opening up the chance for everyone to do so.

If you would like to send a contribution commemorating your mother to Our Town Theatre at 121 Center St, Oakland, MD 21550, by February 1, I will be happy to publish your name and your mother's name in the program. I will not mention the size of your contribution, which, by the way, is tax-deductible. The cost of scripts and royalties is one of our major financial stumbling blocks, and donations would certainly help with production costs.

We will be taking reservations for I Remember Mama starting on Tuesday, Jan. 20. Performances will be on Monday, Feb. 9, through Sunday, Feb. 15.

This remarkable play is richly steeped in an affirmation of family values, which makes the production appropriate for young and old. Even though Mother's Day isn't celebrated until May, you can and should celebrate and remember your mama more than one day a year. Bring her or her memory to this wonderful play for a Valentine's Day present. For more information, call OTT at 301-334-5640, x 3.

Thanks!

Editor's note: The writer of the following letter to the Garrett County commissioners requested that it appear in this column.

Dear Commissioners Glotfelty, Gregg, and Holliday:

As a member of the board of directors and a past executive director of Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF), I beg you to make every effort to "Keep the Music Alive" in Garrett County.

In its 22-year history, Garrett Lakes Arts Festival has never sought a single dollar from county government. Yet, because of the efforts of hundreds of volunteers and supporters, GLAF has given our citizens a gift of the arts that is truly remarkable.

Today the world-class Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra considers Garrett County, Maryland, its "summer home."

Today every single fourth and fifth grade student in Garrett County is bused (by GLAF) to Garrett College for exposure to music and dance, correlating with and enhancing the school curriculum to help build a strong appreciation for the arts.

Today cultural tourism supports the economic development of Garrett County, through such marvelous programs as Chautauqua and concerts by the likes of the Morgan State University Choir, Preservation Hall Jazz Band, River City Brass Band, Pittsburgh Ballet Theater, U.S. Marine Band, and bluegrass greats Ernie Hawkins and Johnny Staats.

Please consider an "emergency gift" to Garrett Lakes Arts Festival to "Keep the Music Alive" as we face the largest economic challenge of our history. In an attached release, Skip Case explains the recent cutbacks that threaten Garrett County's relationship with the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra... and much more.

As our elected officials, please take the lead to "Keep the Music Alive!"

Sincerely,
Elizabeth S. Johnson
Member, Board of Directors
Garrett Lakes Arts Festival

To the Editor:

In response to "New Year's Ramblings" concerning the Israeli-Palestinian-Gaza war, in 2005 Israel moved out of Gaza, digging up graves, removing settlements and returning to Israel. The Israelis also left the Palestinians 14 million dollars in greenhouse structures so the Palestinians could successfully continue a lucrative export business.

The ungrateful Palestinians immediately trashed the greenhouse. Hamas was voted in in democratic fashion and won the election supported by the Palestinian majority. So was Hitler in pre-WWII Germany!

If you think that this conflict has anything to do with land, you are mistaken. It has to do with only one thing: hate! The Jewish people never learn. They are willing to do anything for peace, and the thanks they get is a never-ending barrage of rockets launched at their citizens.

The Hamas Palestinians do not want peace; they want death to Jews. What army in a conflict has ever dropped leaflets warning citizens to leave areas populated by the enemy? The Russians didn't worry about collateral damage when they rolled into Georgia last summer. The civilian Palestinian casualties that the news likes to report are mainly the wives and children of Hamas terrorists who hide them among their rockets, mosques, and hospitals.

They only way to stop the hate is to cut out the cancer. I pray that the Israelis, who have been more than tolerant, stay the course and finish the job.

Larry Gerson,

To the Editor:

I would like for you and your readers to consider the following comments I made recently to the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene and Maryland governor Martin O'Malley.

I have always been perplexed about the title of "Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene." What exactly is the second part of the title – Mental Hygiene – before I bother to "familiarize [myself] with the numerous activities and accomplishments of the Department" – an invite from Secretary Colmers' welcome statement on the web site? Could you please explain "mental hygiene" to me?

This title with "mental hygiene" included certainly does not say to me or indicate that the department, its employees, and its governor do not plan to do any harm to me and the public, but rather the opposite is what it projects and technically means. I would like to see some other title formulated for the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene. This title that includes "mental hygiene" is extremely unfair and indicative of a volatile past concerning mental health. So again, I request that the department, and the government it represents, make some resolutions and bring forth itself with a new name to help people in a better fashion.

Editor, if you and your readers feel the same and expect the same after reading my comments above, then please contact Governor O'Malley and/or Secretary Colmers to express your concerns about a need for a new title for the DHMH and demand change.

Sincerely,
Rebecca A. DeWitt

state education systems, and ranked third in the 2008 "Quality Counts" report. But this is the first time Maryland has ranked first overall.

The publication's detailed analysis of state education systems rated Maryland's program of transitions and alignment – the policies and programs that take students from preschool through college- and work-readiness – as tops in the nation. Maryland scored an A, 96.4 percent.

Maryland also ranked among the nation's leaders in "Chance for Success," which looks at how well graduates achieve beyond high school; and in school finance, a score helped greatly by the Bridge to Excellence Act funding, according to Dr. Grasmick.

The overall grade includes scores from the 2008 "Quality Counts" report in K-12 achievement, ranking high because of a strong showing on the National Assessment of Educational Progress (NAEP), high school graduation rates, and Advanced Placement (AP) performance. Also included are 2008 scores in standards, assessments, and accountability; and in teacher quality and preparation.

Education Week has often spotlighted the strength of Maryland schools in "Quality Counts." The highly regarded report, now in its 13th year, has gone through some major changes over the past three years, while continuing to assess state progress in a variety of areas key to classroom success.

Most of the state-level data gathered by Education Week comes from a policy survey of the states conducted in the summer and fall of 2008. In addition, the publication draws on state-level data from such organizations as the U.S. Department of Education, U.S. Bureau of the Census, and the American Federation of Teachers.

"This is tremendous news for the state of Maryland," said Governor Martin O'Malley upon hearing the rankings. "It is a great tribute to the students, teachers, and parents who, in response to the increased investments made by all Marylanders, continue to achieve at unprecedented levels."

Ask Sheila

Decorating Dilemma?
Sheila offers helpful advice.

Dear Sheila:

I am kind of embarrassed to write you about this but I figure it can't hurt.

First let me say that I love sales. I took advantage of the after Christmas sales and bought new comforters, pillows, sheets, you name it. Now I am looking at all of it and I can't figure out what to do with it all! I would like to make all my bedrooms look like the magazines I buy by the handful but am at a loss!

Do you work with existing pieces that customers already have? I love everything I bought but what now? I don't want to get rid of my blinds on the windows but the windows need help!

SALESMANIAC

Dear Maniac:

No problemo! We can work around anything. Bring your pieces in and we can coordinate with our fabrics and create those rooms you want. Even down to the artwork and color on the walls.

If it is WAYYYYY TOOO MUCH stuff we are more than happy to come to your house and work from there. Give us a call.

Christmas Trees Can Be Recycled At GC Landfill

The Garrett County Solid Waste & Recycling Division is accepting Christmas trees for recycling at the county landfill during January and February. Trees may be dropped off Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the landfill, located at 3118 Oakland Sang Run Road.

"Please do not deposit trees at the Grantsville town hall, the Southern High School athletic field parking lot, or any of the refuse and recycling sites," said Kim Madigan, recycling coordinator.

Christmas tree recycling is available to residents, businesses, and municipalities free of charge. A resident disposal permit is not required to participate in this event or any other recycling program in Garrett County, Madigan noted.

"Christmas trees may also be recycled at home by placing cut branches and needles under trees and shrubs as a temporary winter mulch – or by chopping them up and adding them to your compost pile," she said.

Madigan asked that all tinsel, garland, and ornaments be removed from the Christmas trees before they are recycled at home or the landfill location.

More information about recycling in Garrett County is available by contacting Madigan at 301-387-0322 or kmadigan@garrettcounty.org.

High Speed Chase Ends In Arrest Of West Virginia Man

A West Virginia man was arrested Saturday following a high speed pursuit along I-68 West involving members of the Cumberland Police Department, Maryland State Police, and several other agencies. The driver was identified as Roy A. Aldridge, 40, Fort Ashby, W.Va.

The incident began when a CPD deputy initiated pursuit on the driver of a 2003 GMC Sierra on Greene Street, Cumberland. Information was then relayed that the driver had allegedly attempted to ram the police cruiser near Bridge Street before turning west onto I-68.

The pursuit was joined by Cumberland Barrack troopers and officers from the Bureau of Police, and continued at speeds reaching over 100 mph. At one point, the suspect stopped his vehicle on the interstate near Exit 33, then accelerated again, nearly striking an officer and a trooper.

The suspect continued into Garrett County, where MSP troopers utilized stop sticks. The stop sticks were successful, as the vehicle came to a stop near the 12-mile marker of I-68. The suspect was apprehended without further incident.

Aldridge is charged with three counts each of first and second degree assault, driving under the influence, fleeing and eluding, and related traffic charges. He is currently being held at the Allegany County Detention Center on $85,000 bond.

No injuries were sustained to the suspect or any officer.

Arrested On Sex Offense And Assault Charges

Michael G. Reed Jr., 18, is charged with second and third degree sex offense, second degree assault, perverted practices, and contributing to a condition of a child. The incident allegedly occurred in June 2008 with against juvenile female.

the lines.

"I bowed out of the discussion of this project when it started," the commissioner said. "I sent a letter to the Ethics Committee to make sure they understood what was going on. We gave the right of way. They (project officials) talked to Warren through it all. We get nothing out of it as property owners."

Director Jim Hinebaugh, Garrett County Department of Economic Development, noted that a contractor estimated the county will save $159,300 if the water and sewer lines are built on the proposed route involving the Glotfelty property, rather than a longer path along Bumble Bee.

Kahl asked about funding sources for the park and housing projects.

"Why are we as a county taking on additional costs of proposing a technology park and housing project?" Kahl asked. "With the economy the way it is, we as taxpayers are probably going to see an increase."

He questioned the need for the housing development and another business park.

"We have a total of about $5.3 million," Hinebaugh said. "The amount of the park that we'll be able to fill out initially is going to depend on the bids we get."

Commissioner Fred Holliday said that funding was in "gifts."

I Did Not Die

Do not stand by my grave and grieve
I am not there, I did not leave.
For I'm that distant shining star.
I'm all around you never far

I am the sparkle in children's eyes.
I paint the blue in the autumn skies.
And in those cool sweet summer eves
I hide in the shadows the sunshine weaves.

Yes, together we laughed and cried.
But now I'm ever at your side.
For as long as I am in your heart
We'll never really be apart.

So live your life and do be gay.
And look forward to that day
When somewhere just around the bend
We will surely meet again.

Loved and missed very, very, much.

Maddie, Morgan, Brandy,

Timothy John Nevel McBride, 52, Accident, passed away on Saturday, Jan. 3, 2009, with his loving wife Shari by his side at the Cancer Treatment Centers of America, Philadelphia, Pa.

Timmy's family and friends were with him throughout his last days on earth. Thanks to the caring and compassion of his family, CTCA, and the Radisson, his beloved dog Lassie was able to be with him in his final hours.

Born on May 12, 1956, in McKeesport, Pa., Timmy was a 1974 graduate of Elizabeth-Forward High School. Timmy, the second youngest in a family of nine children, was always a child of invention and good humor. Blessed with his good nature and generous heart, Timmy had many friends. He gladly gave of himself, helping anyone who needed it. He loved being surrounded by his friends as well as family to share stories, food, and drink.

Timmy loved coming to the pristine Garrett County as a boy with his family. He worked on the road for many years as foreman and window installer on high-rise apartments. GLAF Issues

PennPAT grant availability, GLAF concluded that the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra was the best value for our community."

When the GLAF board was informed of the first cuts, members immediately "and regrettably," Case said, cut two performances scheduled for 2009, and reduced payroll hours. When it was informed of the recent PennPAT cut, GLAF cut even more payroll hours as well as advertising funds.

"The budget has been cut to the bone, and volunteers are taking on more and more of the work," Case said. "Now we are asking the community to help us raise money to offset some of the above mentioned funding cuts. This appeal has a financial goal of $20,000, which is over and above current pledges and donations."

The executive director did note that although the economic news "is doom and gloom," there is actually a 91% increase in season ticket sales this year compared to this time last year. But even with this positive news, Case said donations are still needed, as ticket sales only pay for about 20% of the cost of the performances.

"Please show us that you want Garrett Lakes Arts Festival to continue offering a symphony weekend and other musical performances and educational programs," Case said. "Money or pledges must be received by Jan. 30 in order for us to maintain a balanced budget for 2009."

Contributions or pledges of support may be sent to Garrett Lakes Arts Festival, 687 Mosser Road, McHenry, MD 21541, or by calling the GLAF office at 301-387-3082 or 301-616-7875.

Master Plan

arm of the Workforce Coalition, voiced his support for the amendments concerning Lake Hill. Sponsored by the Development Corporation, his group was established about three years ago to examine the issue of workforce housing in the county.

Thayer noted that Lake Hill was still in the developmental stage. Feasibility and noise level studies will need to be conducted, and such issues as financing, marketability, and qualifying ratios for home buyers need to be addressed.

Thayer stressed that the Lake Hill development is not a give-away or subsidized program. A family with two incomes totaling up to $60,000 a year would be able to participate in the venture.

"We feel that it's a natural fit with the business technology park, especially in these times . . . of gas price increases," Thayer said about Lake Hill. "It's a marriage of being able to live where you work."

He also noted that multiple builders would be able to participate in the construction of the homes.

Hinebaugh stressed the need for the MBP. He said five of the county's four parks are essentially "sold out." Other than four acres in the Southern Business and Technology Park, the only space available is in the Keyser's Ridge Business Park

He said one company, American Woodmark, has signed an agreement with the county for a 37-acre parcel at Keyser's Ridge to build a dimension mill. That project, however, has been delayed because of the national economy, Hinebaugh noted.

The director said the McHenry park would focus on technology businesses, while the Keyser's Ridge park is geared toward manufacturing and distribution.

"We want to build a very diversified economy so that we don't get in a situation like we were in 1996 when Bausch and Lomb closed and caused our unemployment to go up to almost 20 percent," Hinebaugh said.

He said the proposed park was an important component in the county's strategic plan for a better diversified economy and, hopefully, in attracting better paying jobs with better benefits for residents.

The director also stressed the need to have sites available for expanding businesses or those looking for new locations.

"What we've learned through experience is that you really can't wait until somebody is looking for a site," Hinebaugh said. "You can't be competitive. You have to have sites that are ready to go, that are shovel ready, with the infrastructure already in place. So that when a business comes looking, you can take advantage of that."

Hinebaugh noted that Lake Hill residency would not be limited to only MBP workers.

Del. Wendell Beitzel commended the county's efforts to expand economic development for residents.

"But I don't think it's a good idea to put people next to an airport," he said about Lake Hill.

He submitted written comments about his stance to the commissioners.

"It is generally recognized that locating homes next to an airport is not a good practice, and operation of airports throughout the country are hampered by the complaints from people who live in proximity to the airports," Beitzel wrote.

The delegate listed several other points about Lake Hill that he felt should be considered before the county changes the water and sewer master plan. Those issues include Smart Growth, airport expansion, the need for an airport buffer zone, and the use of county land for the housing project.

The commissioners left the record open on the amendments for two weeks. Holliday said written comments could be mailed or e-mailed to the commissioners' office.

County administrator Monty Pagenhardt said this morning that all Lake Hill property would be placed in a land trust for future projects.

"The county will hold the title," he said. "By doing this, the purchase cost [of the homes] will be more affordable."

Also on Tuesday, the commissioners rendered decisions on two other proposals. Public hearings were held on the Garrett County Agricultural Land Preservation District Ordinance and the Garrett County Electrical Code two weeks ago and the public comment period on those issues was held open until Tuesday.

After closing the record, the commissioners unanimously approved and adopted the ag land ordinance. The new edict establishes local preservation districts. Landowners participating in this county program can receive a local property tax credit and prequalify for the state's agriculture easement program.

The commissioners did not approve, amend, or disapprove a current draft of the proposed electrical code. They tabled the issue for now.

The Garrett County Electrical Mechanical Association requested the code. It would regulate and provide standards for the installation of electrical wiring and apparatus, require that those who provide electrical service be licensed by the Maryland State Electrical Board, and would provide for the issuance of electrical permits, fees, and inspections.

Real Estate Facts by... Dale Carpenter

AND NOW, THE GOOD NEWS

Consumer Reports recently published a survey, and the results indicate that there is, in fact, some good news in the real estate industry! While foreclosures and other economic factors still exert some negative impact, those buyers and sellers who have worked with real estate professionals expressed a high degree of satisfaction, both with their representatives and with their bottom line.

Nearly 10,000 consumers were surveyed, and nearly three-quarters of those buyers and sellers reported that they were very or completely satisfied with their real estate agent. More good news: 86 percent of sellers who listed with a professional made the sale! (Many of the remaining percentage still had their homes on the market at the time of the survey.)

Other results showed what all agents already know, because over four-fifths of consumers who listed through a broker netted an average of only $5,000 less than their asking price. On the flip side, two-thirds of buyers who used a representative paid about $5,000 less than their purchase's original listing price. (The remaining third, who negotiated on their own, ended up paying very close to the asking price.)

So what do all these statistics mean to you? Regardless of your market's conditions, when you face the need to buy or sell your home, you'll get the best results when you seek the representation of a qualified real estate professional! If you are thinking of buying or selling a home but feel "out of touch" with real estate, give me a call at the office or on my cell at 301-501-DALE

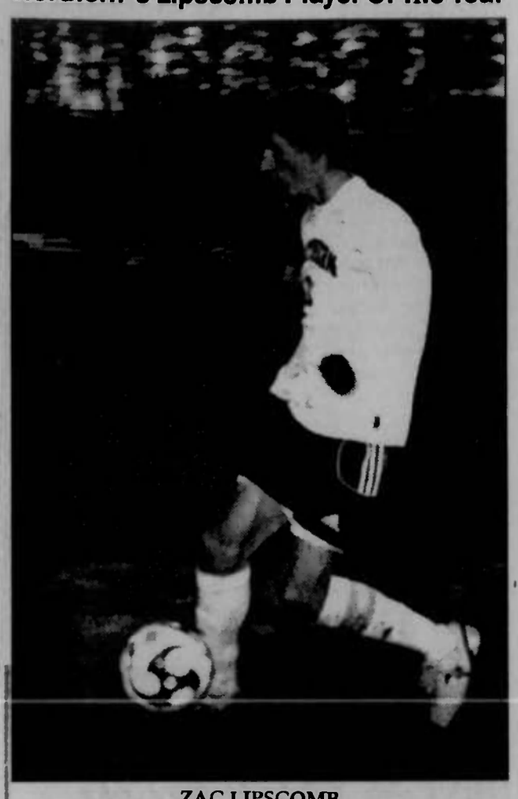
All-Area, AMAC First Teams Announced, Northern's Lipscomb Player Of The Year



ZAC LIPSCOMB

Five Garrett County high school soccer players, led by Player of the Year Zac Lipscomb of Northern, have been selected as members of both the All-Area and the Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference first teams. Six other players received second-team and honorable mention designation.

Joining Lipscomb on the first-team are Northern High School's Daniel Warnick and Aaron Valentine, and Southern High School's Andrew McCreery and Conor Forrester.

Lipscomb, a senior at Northern, was voted the Edward C. "Ebbie" Finzel high school boys' soccer Player of the Year by area coaches. He led the 2008 Huskies to a 12-3-1 season record and to second place in the AMAC. He is Northern's all-time leader in career goals (63) and points (157).

Lipscomb scored an area-leading 31 goals, assisted on nine others in 16 matches for 71 points, and held a 4.43 scoring average. He reached a scoring average of 4.71 in the AMAC, with 14 goals and five assists for 33 points in seven conference matches.

Warnick was sixth in the area with 13 goals and eight assists in 15 games for a 2.26 average. He ranked fifth in the AMAC with five goals and four assists for a 2.00 average.

Valentine transferred to Northern his junior year and has been a two-year starter for the Huskies as well as a senior co-captain. He was a key defensive player, allowing only 17 goals in 31 games.

McCreery was the Rams' team captain for his senior year, leading the team in scoring. He ranked 11th in the area with nine goals, three assists, and 21 points in 15 matches for a 1.40 average. He ranked third in the AMAC with six goals, three assists, and a 2.14 average.

Forrester, a two-year starter, was selected Southern's Most Valuable Player. He was among the area's top 30 scorers and was fourth among the Rams, with four goals and three assists in 14 matches for a 0.73 average. He was 11th in the AMAC in scoring with three goals, two assists, and a 1.14 average.

Other local players who were selected for both the All-Area and AMAC's second teams are Northern's Thomas Holtschneider and Taylor Nicklin, and Royce Warnick of Southern. Ryan Beiler was also selected as an AMAC second team member.

Honorable mentions for the All-Area include Ryan Beiler, Travis McFarland, and Wil Herpel of Northern, and Southern's Kody Lewis.

Among the AMAC honorable mentions are Northern's McFarland, Herpel, and Steven Holtschneider. Lewis, Jake Bramande, and A.J. Storck were named for Southern.

Brock Glotfelty Ups Collegiate Record To 22-0

Former Northern High School wrestling standout Brock Glotfelty, Grantsville, recorded three more individual victories on Saturday to lead McDaniel College to a 2-2 day at the North/South Duals, hosted by Ursinus College in Collegeville, Pa.

The three wins stretched Glotfelty's perfect record for the 2008-09 season to 22-0.

As a team, the Green Terror (3-6) opened the day by dropping a 25-20 decision to Oneonta before defeating Trinity (Conn.), 30-12. McDaniel fell to No. 14 Cortland, 43-6, before closing the day with a 32-12 win over West Chester.

Glotfelty, who competes in the heavyweight division, started his day by recording a pin over Oneonta's James Lamonica. He then pinned Cortland's Joe Murphy for the Green Terror's only points of that match before finishing the event with a forfeit win to cap the team win over West Chester.

Glotfelty and his team will be back in action at home against Gettysburg this evening.

Service Club Basketball To Begin Saturday

Lakers Edge Chesapeake Via Clark's Crucial Three-Pointers

After a holiday layoff, the Garrett College men's basketball team came back to record its 10th victory in 11 starts for the 2008-09 season; however, it was not easy, as the Lakers nipped host Chesapeake, 47-46, in a defensive struggle.

The low-scoring affair ended in the Lakers' favor after Rodney Clark drained two three-point buckets in the final moments.

It appeared at intermission that the Lakers had things well in hand, as they held nearly a 2-1 lead, 31-16. But the Lakers' shooting iced up in the second half, and the home team rallied to take a two-point lead with 45 seconds remaining in the game.

Clark's second big three-pointer came with about 40 seconds to play, giving the Lakers a one-point lead. The Skipjacks missed on their next attempt, and Clark ended up at the foul line with 14 seconds remaining. He missed the front end of a 1-and-1, giving Chesapeake another opportunity to win, but the Skipjacks threw the ball away at the one-second mark.

Recording nearly half of the Lakers' points with a game-high 20 was Mo Gunn, while Clark finished with 15. Leading the Skipjacks offensively was Carlton Bush with 12 points.

The Lakers, who are 10-1 overall and 2-1 in Maryland JUCO play, were scheduled to play at Howard CC last night, but that game was postponed until this evening because of some technical difficulties being experi-

Different Eye Drops for Glaucoma

Glaucoma can cause loss of vision. It is caused by optic nerve damage and increased pressure inside the eye (intraocular pressure). A fluid known as the aqueous humor is normally produced in the front of the eye and then drained. However, when this drainage does not occur properly, pressure within the eye begins to increase. Primary open-angle glaucoma and acute closed-angle glaucoma are the most common types of this condition. While primary open-angle glaucoma is characterized by gradually decreasing peripheral vision in both eyes, acute closed-angle glaucoma occurs suddenly and is characterized by severe eye pain, redness, and blurred vision.

There are several different types of eye drops commonly prescribed for glaucoma. Beta blocker-type eye drops include levobunolol, timolol, and betaxolol. These eye drops decrease the production of aqueous humor. Alpha agonist drugs such as apraclonidine and brimonidine also decrease the production of aqueous humor, as well as increase the drainage of aqueous humor. Carbonic anhydrase inhibitor drugs are also prescribed to decrease the production of aqueous humor. Dorzolamide and brinzolamide are examples.

HALL OF FAME INDUCTEES – Among those inducted into the Northern High School Wrestling Hall of Fame Saturday evening, before a standing ovation, were Wanda and Delos Carpenter, pictured above right, with Coach Scott Stough and his wife Terri. The Carpenters have supported the program at NHS for many years, primarily by attending nearly every match and by taking thousands of action photos and making videos, both for the wrestlers and their families, as well as for publication on the sports pages of The Republican newspaper. The Carpenters' son Dale wrestled for the Huskies in the late 1970s, and their daughter Trudy was statistician for the program from 1977 to 1982. "Wrestling is truly one of the best character-building sports for life," Delos said. "Wrestlers never, never quit until the last whistle blows. The harder you work, the luckier you will be." Also inducted into the Hall of Fame that evening were: Vaughn Bunazzi, Northern's first wrestling coach; Blair "Petey" Bittinger, Northern's first state champion; the late Jack Lear, Northern's second coach (for 10 years); Dale Garlitz, a coach and a collegiate wrestler who was instrumental in starting the Northern youth wrestling program; and the late Leonard Wilhelm Sr., whose family produced at least 23 wrestlers who earned regional, state, and national honors.

Rams Crush Huskies On The Mats; Ranked Third In State

The first county clash between the Southern and Northern high school wrestling teams, hosted Saturday by the NHS Huskies, ended in a lopsided 64-9 win for the Rams, which upped their dual meet record to 5-0 and their overall mark to 12-1.

The Rams recorded eight pinfall victories, one via a decision, and two by forfeit, while the Huskies managed just three decision wins.

Gaining pins for Southern were Nick Stewart in the 103-pound division, David Stewart at 112 pounds, Josh Arnold at 125, Brutus Scheffel at 140, David Sweitzer at 145 pounds, Jordan Skipper at 160, Ryan Bennett at 189, and J.B. Gnegy in the heavyweight division.

Lex Ozias earned a decision in the 130-pound division bout, and Bubba Scheffel (152) and Ryan Fitzwater (215) received forfeit wins.

The decision winners for Coach Scott Stough's Huskies were Kameron Kamp in the 119-pound division, Adam Moranduzzo at 135 pounds, and Dustin Stough at 171.

Brutus and Bubba Scheffel and Lex Ozias are all undefeated, each with 17-0 records, as is Northern's Dustin Stough with a 9-0 mark.

Other outstanding personal records among the Rams are those of Jordan Skipper (15-2), Ryan Bennett (15-3), and Ryan Fitzwater (14-3).

The Rams are currently ranked third in the state among all high schools (1A, 2A, 3A, 4A, and private schools) behind only private schools Mt. Saint Joseph and McDonough.

"We are the top-ranked public school in the state, and have been all season," noted Coach Dave Taylor, who won his 100th dual meet as the Rams' coach last week at the Wheeling Park Dual Tournament.

The Rams will have the opportunity to move even higher in the state rankings this Saturday when they travel to Harford Tech to take on top-ranked Mt. St. Joseph in a 2 p.m. match.

Southern was scheduled to wrestle East Fairmont last night at Preston High School; however, results of that competition were not received.

After this Saturday's big match against Mt. St. Joseph, the Rams will travel to Mountain Ridge in Frostburg next Tuesday.

The Huskies were slated to compete last night in Morgantown against University and Fairmont Senior, but results of that were also not received this morning.

Northern will vie in the Jefferson Tournament this Friday and Saturday, and travel to Meyersdale next Thursday evening.

Snowflake Chase Scheduled For Saturday, Jan. 17

The 2009 Snowflake Chase, a fundraising event that features a five-mile run and a two-mile fun run/walk, will be held Saturday, Jan. 17, at Deep Creek Lake State Park. Registration will begin at 8:30 a.m., and the race will get under way at 10 a.m.

The event is sponsored by the Garrett College men's basketball program and Uno Restaurant, and all proceeds this year will benefit the Landon's Library of Garrett County program and the Southern High School track teams.

Prizes will be awarded to the top overall finishers of the two races, as well as the top three finishers in several age groups, male and female. There will also be a number of other prizes given away by random drawings.

"Donations of money as well as post-race prizes will be greatly appreciated," said GC men's coach Dennis Gibson, who said that checks or vouchers may be mailed to Snowflake Chase, c/o Dennis Gibson, Garrett College, 687 Mosser Road, McHenry, MD 21541.

"Prizes can come in the form of new merchandise, gift certificates, or restaurant coupons," Gibson said. "Each donor will have his or her business or name added to the back of the race T-shirt."

Each participant will receive a long-sleeved T-shirt. Uno Restaurant donates a post-race pizza buffet for all registered participants and workers.

Nearly 200 runners and walkers participated in the event last year.

Elks Hoop Shoot Slated Jan. 17 At Southern High

The 36th annual Elks Hoops Shoot, the national free-throw shooting contest for youth ages 8-13 and sponsored locally by the Oakland Elks Lodge, will be held at Southern High School in the main gymnasium on Saturday, Jan. 17, at 3 p.m. Registration will begin at 1:30 p.m.

Refreshments will be on sale, the proceeds of which will benefit the SHS Best Buddies organization.

According to an Elks spokesperson, over three million youngsters from throughout the country entered last year's competition for boys and girls in age categories 8-9, 10-11, and 12-13.

Each contestant has 25 shots at the hoop. The boy and girl in each age group with the best scores advance through four tiers of competition to qualify for the national finals, held at Springfield, Mass. Local winners will compete against other contestants in the district event, to be held in Frederick later this month.

Over 3,000,000 boys and girls throughout the country are expected to participate this year.

The Elks Hoop Shoot started originally as a local Elks activity in Corvallis, Ore., in 1946, according to the spokesperson. Out of that local program grew the national program, now in its 37th year. Each of the over 2,100 Elks lodges was encouraged to establish its own local contest. All 50 states and the District of Columbia are now represented.

From the millions of youngsters who participate, six national champions are named – one boy and one girl in each of three age categories.

For more information about the local contest, persons may telephone John Sharpless at 301-334-8618 or Sue Saunders at 301-334-2025.

Climate Change To Be Focus Of Society Program

The Western Mountains Chapter of the Maryland Native Plant Society will hold its first meeting for 2009 at the Appalachian Lab in Frostburg on Saturday, Jan. 24, at 10 a.m. The guest speaker will be Raymond Najjar, associate professor in the Department of Meteorology at Pennsylvania State University.

Dr. Najjar will give a PowerPoint presentation titled "Climate Change and the Mid-Atlantic." His program will begin immediately following a brief business meeting. The public is welcome to attend.

Najjar says that, though climate change has always occurred, humans are likely responsible for the warming of the climate system over the past century.

"It is likely that warming will continue over the next few decades as a result of greenhouse gases already emitted," he said. "But the degree of climate change by the middle and end of this century will largely depend on choices we make now."

In his presentation, Dr. Najjar will summarize research about the possible climate futures that will be faced in the mid-Atlantic region, and how the likely impacts are sensitive to future emissions choices. The program will include a discussion of potential impacts to a variety of native plants and animals, including black cherry, sugar maple, ruffed grouse, white-throat-ed sparrow, and brook trout.

Najjar is an oceanographer who conducts research on the impacts of climate change on coastal regions. He has participated in several climate impact assessments for the mid-Atlantic region over the past 10 years.

He also studies the cycling of climate-reactive gases in seawater, such as carbon dioxide.

A native of New York, he resides in State College, Pa., with his wife Jean and their three daughters.

The Appalachian Lab is located along Braddock Road, just off I-68 exit 33 toward Frostburg. Parking is available.

The Maryland Native Plant Society uses education, research, and community service to increase awareness and appreciation of native plants and their habitats leading to their conservation and restoration. Membership is open to all who are interested in Maryland's native plants and their habitats. MNPS sponsors monthly meetings, workshops, field trips, and an annual fall conference. For more information, persons are invited to visit www.mdflora.org online.

The Western Mountains Chapter was formed to expand the efforts of MNPS on the Allegheny Plateau and Ridge & Valley physiographic provinces of the central Appalachians. Residents of western Maryland, nearby Pennsylvania, and West Virginia, and anyone else interested in learning more about and conserving the native plants of this region are invited to join. For more information, persons may telephone Liz McDowell at 301-895-3686 or visit the chapter web site at www.mdflora.org/chapters.

TO SPEAK LOCALLY – Dr. Raymond Najjar, a faculty member at Pennsylvania State University, will be the guest speaker at a meeting of the Western Mountains Chapter of the Maryland Native Plant Society on Saturday, Jan. 24, at the Appalachian Lab in Frostburg. His topic will focus on climate change and how it will likely affect the Mid-Atlantic region. He is pictured above at Palmer Station, Antarctica, participating in a field experiment to study the climate reactive gas dimethylsulfide. See story for details.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

Even if I was still not lying low with the after-effects of the horrible intensive bug I suffered from in the few days after Christmas, and sick of the hustle and bustle of the holidays, one look outside on New Year's was enough to confirm my decision to stay home.

The Glotfeltys, Basses, and Herpels of Accident decided to ring in the New Year with a toast with Lesa Whittemore.

I am glad to see 2008 gone and hoping for the prospect for a better year for America in 2009. Of course, it's hard to believe we could go any lower, short of a full depression as in the 1930s.

I will celebrate the change in the new year and new president on January 20. My daughters Caitlin and Meredith will be attending the historical inauguration in D.C., among millions of others. I can't stand the crowds, traffic, etc. of D.C., especially during the madness that will take place on that day, so that would be the last place I want to be on January 20.

The same goes for New Year's Eve, as the last place I would want to be is in Times Square, New York City. Even when I was in my 20s and living adventurously in Manhattan, I didn't go near that mob scene. The closest I've ever been to the "big-ball" drop is in front of various televisions at New Year's Eve parties I've attended over the years. This year I fell asleep at 8:30 and watched the ball drop the next morning on the news; not a very exciting New Year's for me.

On the other hand, it was a great New Year for Sharon and Gary Buckel, who headed to the Chesapeake Bay area to enjoy their grandchildren. Yes, that's plural. They saw their 7-month-old grandson, son of their Leslie and her husband Brook Stevens, in St. Leonard. Gary said Bradden is almost ready to walk and is almost like a new person since they saw him last.

And they also celebrate a genuine new person, as their first granddaughter, Madeline, was born to Kandi and her husband Tyler on December 30, a true New Year's baby. She reportedly has lots of brown hair. The proud new father Tyler is the son of Rob and Polly Smith of Friendsville.

There's nothing on earth more precious than being a grandmother, so Sharon rushed down on that day with husband Gary following a few days later. They returned to Bittinger to a cold home on Sunday, but were warmed and glowing with pride and joy to have such wonderful grandchildren.

After a couple of months of almost weekly drives to Harrisonburg, Va., to enjoy their granddaughter – daughter of their son Terry – Naomi and Denver Beitzel got a chance to host Terry's family post-Christ-mas. The baby girl took the long drive in stride.

As I recently wrote, the long-term forecasts for a bad December did not happen. But December went out like a lion because I think New Year's Eve had the worst winter weather so far. January is supposed to have milder, warmer weather.

However, almost one week into January, the latch on my storm door was once again frozen today. It takes a sharp blow to open it. This usually means my girls kick the door to open it. So, it's far from a January thaw at this point. So far the month has seen little sunshine. In fact this morning there was thick fog.

Besides the skiers among us, most people in Bittinger are grateful for no blizzards, little snow, or no constant pushing of slush out of driveways. I remember one January in the mid-70s when we did almost nothing but try to get unstuck. We haven't gotten snowed in that much this winter, but today, like most of the area, we are somewhat iced in. Rock Lodge Road and Rt. 495 are too icy to drive on.

A few birds got a pleasant surprise when they ventured to my bird feeding station stocked with food. My cousin Courtney repaired and filled the feeder, and as he does every year, he gave each family a large bag of sunflower seeds.

Our cats, Tigger and his little new friend Gideon, enjoyed sitting by the window and watching birds outside.

It still looks like Christmas inside my house. Our tree is still up and the display of the Christmas cards around the living room is still there.

Lottie Brenneman's family Christmas was delayed by her stay in the hospital. They celebrated together on Sunday. Lottie rode home from the hospital in the worst weather of the winter on New Year's Eve. She went from the hospital to daughter Linda Buckel's house for their family New Year's celebration. She was able to toast the New Year, then Lana Roby took her home and stayed with her mom over night. She is getting better every day, with no signs of long-term effects from the stroke she suffered, except for some minor speech trouble. The same goes for Ethel Buckel, who is still staying with her son Buck and family.

I am certainly enjoying having all three of my girls around, and especially enjoying the delicious food cooked by Caitlin. But unfortunately, it is almost over. My girls will accompany their father for their holiday visit with their grandparents in Silver Spring. Then Caitlin will go back to West Virginia University for the remainder of her junior year.

On the brighter side, Claire was able to find someone to take over her lease in Morgantown so she can pursue job hunting from home. Job hunting is kind of tough these days, and it probably won't be fixed very fast.

FIRST BARN QUILT PLACED IN GARRETT COUNTY – Gary and Kate Fratz are the owners of Garrett County's first barn quilt. With the help of their sons, Brent and Greg, the block was erected on Nov. 25. The design is a Lemoyne star, done in the Maryland state flag colors. This first quilt can be seen while traveling south along Rt. 219 between Accident and McHenry on the right-hand side of the highway. "Once the rest of the barn is painted red, this block is really going to pop!" said a spokesperson for the Barn Quilt Association of Garrett County. The group is planning more squares for other barns in the county. "A self-guided auto tour will be ready for viewing in the spring and summer," said the spokesperson about the barn quilts. "As soon as the tour progresses, there will be maps that you can pick up from the Chamber of Commerce's Visitors Center in McHenry." The Barn Quilt Association's mission is to provide a sustainable heritage tourism attraction/activity, while preserving and celebrating the unique agriculture, history, and arts culture of this area through visual combinations of barns and quilt designs to educate the public and showcase the Appalachian tradition. More information is available online at garrettbarnquilts.org or by calling 301-616-4978.

Sabal Medication Cart To Be Tested At Garrett Hospital

The pharmacy department and the sub-acute rehabilitation unit at Garrett County Memorial Hospital are currently working together to host a trial of a new Sabal medication cart system. The Sabal cart is a complete system designed to help ensure that the right medication is given to the correct patient in the correct dosage form at the right time, a spokesperson explained.

"Patient safety has always been one of our highest priorities here at GCMH, making the functionality of the Sabal cart of great interest to us," said Dr. Lance Rhodes, director of pharmacy at the hospital.

The cart functions as an automated drug storage cabinet that may be used to take medications to the patient's bedside. This reduces the possibility of medication errors occurring. Bar code technology provides the advantage of scanning both the medication and the patient via the patient identification bracelet. The scanning of the medication is done to compare the medication given to the prescription to ensure they are the same, and that the medication has been ordered for that specific patient.

SABAL CART BEING TESTED AT GARRETT MEMORIAL – A trial of a new Sabal medication cart system is going to be tested at Garrett County Memorial Hospital next month. The hospital's pharmacy department and sub-acute rehabilitation unit are currently working together to host the trial of the system, which is designed to help ensure that the right medication is given to the correct patient in the correct dosage form at the right time. See story. Pictured with the cart, from left, are Bill Park, president and CEO of Sabal Medication; Lori Davis, RN and director of the sub-acute rehabilitation services; Dr. Lance Rhodes, director of pharmacy; Tracy Lipscomb, vice president of financial services; and Denise Liston, vice president of clinical and support services at the hospital.

"We are moving toward implementing bar code technology in our medication administration process. This trial will provide an opportunity to explore the best methods of implementing newer technologies to continue to provide a safe environment for our patients," Rhodes said.

The trial period has two phases. In the first, the cart will be used as a medication cabinet for specific patients with a limited number of medications retrieved from the Sabal cart. The second phase will include using the cart as the sole medication delivery system in the sub-acute care unit. The pharmacist will enter medication orders into the computerized system, and the nursing staff will be using the cart to provide medication delivery to the patient's bedside. There the cart's automated system will only allow for access and delivery of medications for that specific patient.

"This phase will provide a more complete examination of the Sabal cart design and functionality to provide a safe, efficient, technology-assisted process of administering medications," said Rhodes. "The trial will be completed in early February, at which time we will evaluate whether this is a system that we would like to pursue as a hospital-wide service."

GCEMA Meeting To Be Wednesday

The Garrett County Electrical Mechanical Association (GCEMA) will hold a meeting next Wednesday, Jan. 14, at 7 p.m. in Room 224 at Garrett College. All area contractors and their employees associated with electrical, plumbing, and HVAC work are invited to attend the GCEMA meetings.

According to a spokesperson for the association, GCEMA is a non-profit, member-driven organization for electrical, plumbing, and HVAC contractors and their employees, established to advance professionalism and represent a collective voice to communicate on local, state, and national levels.

Savage River Assn. To Meet Next Thursday

The Savage River Watershed Association (SRWA) will hold its regular meeting at the Route 40 Elementary School next Thursday, Jan. 15, at 7 p.m. Each meeting brings local citizens and SRWA members together to talk about issues within the watershed and to host an expert from an assortment of professions.

The guest speaker for this meeting will be Alan Heft from the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) to talk about the Frostburg pond removal project.

Heft will provide details about this pond removal project in the headwaters of the Savage River and provide an opportunity for those in attendance to ask questions. The pond is located near Finzel on the city of Frostburg's property and, according to an SRWA spokesperson, is contributing significant thermal impacts to downstream fisheries. SRWA is partnering with DNR to seek funding for the project, which could involve alterations to the stream channel.

Heft will explain the study he conducted this past summer, with the help of SRWA volunteers, measuring the thermal impacts of the pond. DNR and SRWA are working toward finding solutions to these thermal impacts through a number of potential options involving the pond.

"The Savage River is a designated cold water stream and is host to Maryland's largest intact population of native brook trout," the spokesperson said. "Any impacts to the Savage River or its tributaries jeopardize the health of fish populations and the ecosystems in which they live."

Heft is the statewide coldwater biologist for the Maryland DNR's Inland Fisheries Management Division. He has been working with Inland Fisheries for the past 21 years, and is currently the president-elect of the Trout Committee for the Southern Division of the American Fisheries Society and the chair of the Mid-Atlantic workgroup for the Eastern Brook Trout Joint Venture.

The SRWA raffle drawing will also be held at this meeting. Among the raffle prizes are a week's stay at the Massanutten Resort in western Virginia, native plants from Elk Ridge NatureWorks, and a rain barrel. Persons may purchase raffle tickets at the meeting or by contacting SRWA via e-mail at SRWAcoordinator@gmail.com, or via telephone at 301-689-7156. Tickets are $5 each and six for $25.

SRWA is a group of local landowners and other citizens dedicated to preserving and enhancing the rural nature and natural resources of the Savage River watershed. Members assist interested landowners and public land managers with environmental stewardship efforts and educational outreach. Anyone who is concerned about the Savage River watershed is welcome to join.

SRWA meetings are held at Route 40 Elementary School on the third Thursday of odd-numbered months, beginning at 7 p.m. The school is located at 17764 National Pike (U.S. Rt. 40), a few miles west of Frostburg.

SRWA is a non-profit charitable organization. Do-nations may be sent to: Savage River Watershed Association, PO Box 355, Frostburg, MD 21532.

Persons desiring more information about SRWA may do so by using the contact information above.

Farming On The Mountaintop

New Marketing Info Available To Meat Producers

Profitably marketing farm-raised meat requires having a high-quality, in-demand product and a good understanding of the regulations and marketing outlets that govern those sales, according to the University of Maryland Extension Service.

Producers raising, processing, and direct marketing their farm-raised meats now have a trio of new resources that provide information on processing regulations, direct marketing from the farm, and resources for value-added or processed food products. Written by Ginger S. Myers, regional marketing specialist for University of Maryland Extension, these publications include:

•A Producer's Guide to Meat and Poultry Processing Regulations in Maryland. This 13-page guide is intended to assist farmers, growers, and their advisors in understanding the regulations affecting the processing and marketing of meat and poultry products in Maryland. The guide also contains information on labeling, marketing, risk management, and regulatory exemptions.

•Direct Marketing Farm-Raised Meats in Maryland is a brief outline about how Maryland farmers who raise meat – beef, pork, lamb, chevon, and veal – on their farms can obtain a state license to sell their USDA processed frozen products and frozen cuts directly to the public from their farms.

•The Food Processor's Resource Directory is a 43-page publication covering a wide range of food processing resources from analysis labs to web site designs. A sample of the categories covered include HACCP audits, processing authorities, packaging supplies, ingredients, and a wide range of service providers catering to the small and specialty foods processing industry. This publication is deemed valuable for any small food-processing business.

These publications are available online free of charge at agmarketing.umd.edu. Printed copies of A Producer's Guide to Meat and Poultry Processing Regulations in Maryland and the Food Processor's Resource Directory are available for $3 each. Checks should be made payable to the University of Maryland and mailed to WMREC, Attn: Ginger S. Myers, 18330 Keedysville Road, Keedysville, MD 21756.

For more information, persons may contact Ginger Myers by e-mail at gsmyers@umd.edu or Susan Barnes by telephone at 301-432-2767.

FSA REMINDS PRODUCERS OF LDP DEADLINE ON UNSHORN LAMB PELTS

The Preston County Farm Service Agency reminds eligible producers that they have until January 30, 2009, to apply for Loan Deficiency Payments (LDPs) for unshorn pelts produced during the 2008 crop year.

Eligible producers must have beneficial interest in the pelts, owned the lamb for at least 30 calendar days before the date of slaughter, and sell the unshorn lamb for immediate slaughter. Producers must also comply with wetland conservation and highly erodible land conservation provisions on all lands they operate or have interest in.

Lamb slaughter companies, order buyers representing lamb slaughter companies, and processors are ineligible to request LDPs on unshorn pelts produced from unshorn lambs purchased from eligible producers.

To qualify for payment, pelts must have been produced by an eligible producer from live unshorn lambs of domestic origin in the United States.

To obtain further information or to file an application for an Unshorn Pelts LDP, persons may visit the Farm Service Agency, located in the Corner Mall of the Kingwood Plaza, or telephone 304-329-1923.

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

Those new to wearing instruments should bear in mind that background noise sometimes poses problems for people with normal hearing. While it cannot be eliminated entirely, there are circuits and features available in hearing instruments that can reduce unwanted sounds. In the case of the early digitally programmable (and some digital) circuits, the problem was dealt with by filtering out low frequency sounds. However, the sound of conversation was lowered along with the unwanted noise. More recently, 100% digital instruments reduce background noise based on timing and amplitude cues and other complex noise reducing techniques. While these methods are very effective, they are not perfect. The best way to eliminate or reduce background noise is through the utilization of FM technology.

Success in wearing any kind of hearing instrument begins with the proper fitting of the most appropriate aid by a hearing specialist. A hearing aid that is appropriate to the impairment and well-fitted to the individual is more likely to be worn regularly—a key factor in bringing back the enjoyment of sound. If you'd like a hearing test to determine the state of your hearing, please feel free to call us at AUDIBEL. We'll also show you the amazing technology now available in today's hearing instruments.

P.S. Hearing instruments with directional microphones help eliminate background noise by focusing the amplification on sounds that are directly in front of the instrument user.

Senior centers operated by the Area Agency on Aging (AAA) are organizing bowling leagues for adults age 55 and older using the Wii Nintendo game, which began on Monday, Jan. 5.

The Mary Browning Senior Center league in Oakland will meet on Mondays at 1 p.m. for "Learning to Play Wii" and Fridays at 1 p.m. for "Playing Wii Bowling."

The Grantsville Senior Center league will meet on Wednesday mornings at 10:30 a.m. for "Learning to Play Wii" and Wednesday afternoons at 1 p.m. for "Playing Wii Bowling."

"This is an excellent opportunity for older adults to remain active and have fun doing something they enjoyed when they were younger," said an AAA spokesperson.

Many older adults belonged to bowling leagues in years past but are no longer physically able to lift a bowling ball, she noted.

"The Nintendo Wii bowling game takes the need to lift a heavy object out of the equation, allowing even players with arthritis to relive their glory days burning up the lanes with strikes and spares in the bowling alley," the spokesperson said.

Wii bowling has also caught the attention of physical therapists, who have begun using the game to motivate patients. The Nintendo game helps patients work on their balance, eye-hand coordination, response time, and stretching. Using Wii, players stand, or sometimes sit, in front of a big-screen TV and manipulate a wireless controller that translates their arm motions onto the screen. It makes it possible for almost anyone to bowl, according to the spokesperson.

Hundreds of Wii bowling leagues are cropping up across the country in senior centers, assisted living facilities, and in some cases nursing homes, she added.

"The AAA is hoping older adults in the community will join in the fun at their local center," said the spokesperson. "We anticipate a few weeks for everyone to become comfortable with the equipment, then we'll get the leagues started and hope to have a tournament in the spring."

For further information about the bowling leagues, persons may contact senior center operations director Carrie Clow at 301-334-9431, ext. 119, on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, or 301-895-5818 on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

STUDENTS GIVE TO LANDON'S LIBRARY – Instead of participating in a Christmas gift exchange this year, the second graders at Broad Ford Elementary School chose to donate new books to Landon's Library. The entire second grade has been recognized for displaying the December character traits of caring and giving. Each student donated one or more books to be distributed to children throughout Garrett County. Brian and Crystal Roberson-Boal, founders of the organization, visited the school to collect the gift of books. "The students were very excited to meet Mr. and Mrs. Boal and to hear all about Landon's Library," said a spokesperson. "It's an experience they will always remember." Second grade students and teachers are pictured above with the Boals.

30-Day Sentence Handed To Grantsville Man For Second-Degree Assault Charge

The following Garrett County District Court cases were heard recently by Judge Leonard J. Eiswert, and of those cases was one of William Charles Jones Jr., 42, Grantsville, who was found guilty for a second degree assault charge. He was sentenced to 30 days with all being suspended, one year of supervised probation, and $307.50 in fines.

He was charged in August after Maryland State Police responded to an assault report, stating that Jones had allegedly had an altercation with two other adults.

It was stated, by Jones, to officers that he had gotten into an argument with the two victims, striking one in the nose and the other on the chin. After checking with the victims of assault and other witnesses, it was determined that Jones had been the aggressor. He was not prosecuted on charges of disorderly conduct and assault in the second degree.

In an unrelated case, Andre Edward Houston, 19, Olney, was found guilty on charges of disorderly conduct and CDS possession of paraphernalia, with sentencing of 10 days, all of which was suspended, one year of supervised probation, and $115 in fines.

Houston's possession charge stemmed from a scan by MSP and the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force of dorm units at Garrett College in April. After a K-9 scan, a positive alert came from Houston's room. Officers made contact with the occupants of the room, and proceeded to search the room. The search revealed a smoking pipe containing suspected burnt marijuana and a glass jar containing suspected marijuana, which all tested positive.

Houston's disorderly conduct charge stemmed from a September arrest made by Garrett County sheriff's officers after responding to a disorderly person report from Garrett College administrators. Houston was reportedly intoxicated and would not cooperate with officers.

Houston was not prosecuted on charges of failure to obey a reasonable and lawful order by a law enforcement officer and failing to provide proof of age and identification.

Deborah Ann Auvil, 44, Oakland, was handed a probation before judgment (PBJ) for a charge of second degree assault, was sentenced to one year supervised probation, and fined a total of $207.50.

Auvil was arrested by GCSO in July after allegedly assaulting three adult victims. She was not prosecuted on charges of burglary in the fourth degree, two charges of assault in the second degree, theft less than $100, disorderly conduct, and causing a disturbance of the peace.

Kalon Vane Sherwood, 28, McHenry, was not prosecuted on charges of CDS possession of marijuana and CDS possession of paraphernalia. He was arrested in February by MSP and GCNTF after officers executed a search and seizure of his residence.

Andrew Jason Pettitt, 28, Arnot, Pa., was not prosecuted on charges of CDS possession of marijuana and paraphernalia. He was arrested in September by GCSO.

Timothy A Welch, 43, Mtn. Lake Park, was not prosecuted for violating an ex parte protective order. The order had been issued in July.

DUI/DWI CASES

The following driving while under the influence (DUI) and driving while impaired (DWI) cases were heard in recent Garrett County District Court proceedings:

David Evan Staples, 41, Ohio, was given a PBJ for a DWI charge, with one year of unsupervised probation and $307.50 in fines. He was not prosecuted on charges of DUI and DUI per se.

Sandy Marie Michaels, 40, W.Va., was handed a PBJ for a September DWI charge, with fines totaling $300. She was not prosecuted on charges of DUI and DUI per se.

Kelsey Jean Lytle, 19, Md., was placed on stet for his September charges of DUI, DUI per se, and DWI.

Anti-Pay Raise Bill Supported By Rep. Bartlett

"I have actively opposed any increase in pay for members of Congress, but that has been a lonely minority position," said Md. Sixth District Congressman Roscoe Bartlett on Tuesday.

"I have been joined by 62 colleagues as co-sponsors of bipartisan legislation to freeze our pay and decline a scheduled cost of living adjustment (COLA) in 2010 anticipated to be around $4,700. This signals the strongest demonstration of Capitol Hill support to block the automatic pay hike in recent years," he said

Rep. Bartlett has consistently voted against increasing members' pay, most recently to block the COLA for 2008 (Roll no. 580). Only in 2000 was Rep. Bartlett among a majority who voted to freeze members' pay.

Earlier on Tuesday, Reps. Harry Mitchell, D-Ariz., and Ron Paul, R-Texas, introduced the Stop the Congressional Pay Raise Act, which would require members to forgo the 2010 pay raise. Rep. Bartlett is among 63 co-sponsors of the bill. The measure would save taxpayers an estimated $2.5 million.

Last year, Bartlett was one of only 34 bipartisan co-sponsors of similar legislation introduced by Reps. Mitchell and Paul to block the 2009 COLA. It was not considered in committee.

In addition to supporting legislation to freeze members' pay, Bartlett has annually donated more than five times the amount of the COLAs to scholarships for students attending the colleges and universities in his district.

In 1989, Congress passed a law that provides lawmakers with an automatic cost of living adjustment (COLA) increase in pay. The COLA takes effect every January unless Congress votes specifically to reject the raise.

The Stop the Congressional Pay Raise Act has also earned the support of the National Taxpayers Union, Council for Citizens Against Government Waste, Taxpayers for Common Sense, and the Senior Citizens League.

CONVERSION TO DIGITAL TV

by Dr. Thomas P. Sheahen

Q. Why are TVs changing to digital? What do I have to do?

A. If you get TV via cable or satellite, you don't have to worry about a thing.

However, if you are getting TV free via an antenna (or rabbit ears), then you have to ask whether or not your set contains a digital tuner. That question really amounts to asking whether your set is old or new. If it's an old analog TV set, typically manufactured before 2000, it probably doesn't contain a digital tuner, and so you have to take action.

The action you must take is pretty simple: Call 1-888-388-2009 and get one or two coupons mailed to you. Then you go to the store and buy a converter box (Sears, WalMart, CVS, around Oakland), with a list price of perhaps $50-$70, reduced to $20-$30 by the coupon. Next you hook up the converter box between your antenna and your TV set, following pretty simple directions. There is no risk of getting electrocuted while doing so.

The change-over to only-digital broadcasting takes place on February 17, 2009, but you can go ahead and install a converter box now. In fact, you might notice a slightly sharper picture right away. But even a converter box cannot make an old TV better than it was originally. To see the really sharp high-definition (HD) images that are possible now, a modern TV set is needed.

The other question you asked was "Why?" There is a good reason, but it takes some explanation.

To understand what it's all about, the first step is to understand how TV is transmitted. Any TV picture is transmitted by modifying the electromagnetic field at some particular frequency. The transmission frequency for any particular TV signal lies within the "broadcast band," between 54 and 806 megahertz (MHz).

One simple example of a broadcast is a typical FM radio station: "104.7 FM" means the transmission frequency is 104,700,000 cycles per second, or 104.7 MHz. That frequency is called the carrier frequency. Modulation of that frequency (hence, FM) is what carries the sound from the studio to your home or car. Television signals are more complicated, but the basic idea is the same.

Both radio and TV signals can be transmitted either by analog or digital means, but since the information content of a TV picture is so much greater than the sound on a radio, there has to be a lot more information sent in the same amount of time. This requires more bandwidth -- more of the electromagnetic spectrum, more space in the "airwaves."

Historically, the analog TV stations took up 4 MHz of bandwidth, meaning that all frequencies in a slice of the electromagnetic spectrum 4 MHz wide were being "occupied" by the TV signal being transmitted. Moreover, to keep signals broadcast by different channels from interfering with one another, there needed to be sidebands in which nothing was transmitted, making each analog TV station effectively require 6 Mhz. Channel 8 might be centered on 120 MHz, Channel 10 on 140 MHz, and so forth. That was the state of technology in the 1940s and 1960s, and people looking at TV saw the limitations clearly: "snow," graininess, interference, etc.

With digital transmissions, the TV show is converted to a gigantic string of "ones" and "zeros." To designate a zero instead of a one only requires a reversal of the phase of the frequency. Consequently, transmitting a long string of ones and zeros means switching the phase back and forth. But that can be done incredibly fast, and the electronic equipment doesn't get confused or fall behind. At the other end, the capture and interpretation of the long string is equally swift, and the image shown on your TV is quite clear.

Today, using digital transmission (just ones and zeros), a TV transmitter can send very complex signals within a much narrower bandwidth, and still have perfect clarity of picture at the receiving end. High-definition TV is possible because of digital transmission. The great technical achievement of digital transmission is the ease with which electronic equipment can both send and receive a specific signal that represents a one or a zero. Cable and satellite systems have no trouble doing that a hundred million times per second.

Mobile phones also transmit messages via this digital method, but at entirely different carrier frequencies.

Today, there is little need to occupy lots of bandwidth for just one analog TV signal. So the Federal Communication Commission (which regulates the broadcast band) decided a few years ago to switch to all-digital TV transmission.

That had the effect of freeing up considerable bandwidth. The digital TV stations now fit into the band from 54 to 698 Mhz, so 108 MHz at the top end became available for other purposes. That is the equivalent space occupied by 17 old analog TV channels. That has been auctioned off to companies wanting more channels for mobile phones, emergency networks, additional TV stations, and so forth. The value of the auctioned channels is estimated at $50 billion – a nice chunk of change for the government budget.

Again, in a home served by cable or satellite TV, this will all go unnoticed. The inconvenience affects only older analog TVs receiving via broadcast antennas.

Vitamin K and Insulin Resistance

Vitamin K is a fat-soluble vitamin that is found in plants. It is necessary for the normal clotting of blood. For most of us the primary source of vitamin K is through the dietary consumption of green vegetables. Vitamin K is also available by prescription for use in the treatment of overdoses of blood-thinner medicine. Although rare, vitamin K deficiency can lead to abnormal blood clotting.

Vitamin K is being investigated for its potential in reducing a condition called insulin resistance. Insulin is a hormone made in the body that is necessary for normal glucose processing. When the body becomes resistant to the action of insulin, blood glucose levels rise, increasing the risk of developing diabetes. In one study, 355 individuals received either 500 micrograms of vitamin K daily or no vitamin K for 36 months. At the conclusion of the study, men that received vitamin K supplementation had significantly lower insulin resistance than men that did not receive vitamin K. No differences were found in women. Larger studies are needed to fully evaluate vitamin K supplementation in reducing insulin resistance.

What's in a Name?

People desire designer products because they have become known for style throughout the years. The "names" assure us of quality.

We, too, are known by our names. Mention of "John Smith" immediately inspires a positive or negative reaction, depending on the man's reputation. A good name is indeed our most priceless, and most perishable, possession.

There is one name we can always count on, the most hallowed name of all - God. "The name of the Lord is a strong tower; the righteous run to it and are safe." (Proverbs 18:10) Praise God's name in His house this week.

Transforming the Ordinary Into the Extraordinary

Sometimes, we travel through life so quickly that we don't notice how extraordinary the world really is. At 60 miles per hour, we certainly won't notice the roses, let alone smell them. Likewise in life, if we are hurrying from one frenetic task to another, we simply won't have the time or energy to appreciate the joys and wonders of life. We should slow down and savor our food. The next time we are having a conversation with someone, we should try to be fully present with them and then notice how much richer the experience can be. Instead of multitasking, we should be fully present and aware while doing only one thing at a time. Better to do one thing right than to botch two things simultaneously. Part of transforming the ordinary into the extraordinary is about slowing down, but it is equally important to see the world with new eyes. Our ordinary way of seeing can also be a way of not seeing. That is, perception allows certain things to enter our minds at the same time that it filters out others. What we notice is often determined by our current needs or by what we are doing at the time. For example, if we are hungry, we are more likely to see the restaurants as we drive down the road. To see the world with fresh eyes, we can start by slowing down and really noticing things. We should strive to regain the wonder of experiencing life like a child, as if for the first time, because in reality, each day, indeed each instant, is a new creation.

For with You is the fountain of life;
In Your light we see light

What about tomatoes?

Q. In your Dec. 8 column, you listed foods that were not good for dogs, among them avocados and tomatoes. My Chihuahua loves avocados, tomatoes, broccoli and many other veggies (without salt, of course). Please tell me why avocados and tomatoes are not good for them. — Diana, via e-mail

Q. I recently read your article on foods for dogs to avoid, and was curious about the tomatoes. I raise miniature pinschers, and one day as I was cutting up tomatoes I gave them some. I had two tomato vines out in my backyard and for the rest of the summer I did not get any more of them, as the dogs ate them as soon as they would start to ripen. It never hurt them at all. I have heard of chocolate but never tomatoes. — MaryAnn W., via e-mail

A. In dogs, tomato plants (leaves and stems) can cause tremors and heart arrhythmia (an irregular, rapid or "fluttering" pulse); the fruit itself is not listed as toxic by the Humane Society of the United States, but I would keep dogs out of the tomato patch at all times and feed them very limited amounts of the fruit.

Avocados can cause breathing difficulties and fluid accumulation in the chest, abdomen and heart. All parts of the avocado - the fruit, the pit and the plant - are toxic. This fruit is also toxic to cats, birds, mice, rabbits, goats, horses and cattle.

Strange BUT TRUE

• It was Canadian-born author and educator Laurence J. Peter who made the following sage observation: "The man who says he is willing to meet you halfway is usually a poor judge of distance."

• Successful inventor and businessman Thomas Alva Edison received only three months of formal education, at a public school in Michigan.

• Those who study such things claim that the human skull can be compressed by 10 percent before the bone cracks. It begs the question, though: How did they test the hypothesis?

• Only male mockingbirds sing; the females of the species are silent.

• In 1740, a judge in an ecclesiastical court in France tried a cow — yes, an actual bovine — for sorcery. The poor animal was found guilty and sentenced to hang from the neck until dead.

• If you're like the average American, you consumed more than 250 eggs last year.

• The first photograph of a United States citizen was taken in 1839. The subject was Samuel F.B. Morse, a painter who also happened to be the inventor of a single-wire telegraph system and developer of the Morse Code.

• You've probably never heard the term "univocalic"; it's one of those specialized words used by those who study the English language. The word refers to a piece of writing that uses only one of the vowels. "Strengthlessness," for example, is the longest one-word univocalic in English.

• Experts say that in the United States, approximately 3.5 billion tons of soil are lost every year to erosion. That's enough to fill a freight train so long that it would circle the globe 19 times at the Equator

Collecting

by Larry Cox

Q. I recently inherited a teddy bear that was first given to a distant relative in about 1910. The bear has a hump on its back and its original leather collar. I have found similar ones in price guides and think the one I have could be quite valuable. — Frank, New Paltz, N.Y.

A. I suspect you could be quite right.

The first teddy bears were produced in the United States in about 1902 and were named in honor of Theodore Roosevelt. The earliest stuffed bears were made of mohair and had elongated muzzles, jointed limbs and humps on their backs. The stuffing was generally excelsior with eyes made of either glass with pin back or black show buttons. Noses and mouths are often black and embroidered onto the fabric.

These first American bears are believed to have been manufactured by the Ideal Toy Corporation. The better European bears were crafted by a German company, Steiff. I contacted several teddy bear collectors and have been told that many that were made before 1910 sell in the $1,000-$3,000 range. As with most collectibles, it depends on size, maker, condition, rarity, and demand.

Some tips if you are buying a vintage teddy bear include the sniff test. Always sniff an old bear, since it is impossible to fake the smell of years of love, attention and use. Get to know the defining features of well-known makers and avoid suspiciously clean "old" bears or an old label on obviously new paw pads. Beware of fake, newer buttons that are shiny.

Although there are several references, I highly recommend the Buying & Selling Teddy Bears Price Guide by Doris Michaud and Terry Michaud (Portfolio Press, $19.95). Although it was published seven years ago, it is still available through amazon.com, and the prices still accurately reflect the marketplace.

A real Treat: Williams' work on television

By Jay Bobbin

Treat Williams

Q: I saw "Front of the Class" with Treat Williams, and I'm thinking that he used to play in a weekly show. Can you tell me which television series I might have seen him in previously? –Jan Rubelman, Owasso, Mich.

A: He actually has had several, but the one he's best-known for – as we know from the frequent mail we still receive about it – is "Everwood," in which he played a widowed doctor who relocated from New York to Colorado with his two children. It aired on the now-defunct WB Network from 2002 to 2006, and Williams and his family still have a home in Utah, where it was filmed.

Prior to that, in 1991, the actor played a maverick lawyer in ABC's "Eddie Dodd," assuming the role that was originated by James Woods in the 1989 movie "True Believer." After "Everwood," Williams had a recurring role on ABC's "Brothers & Sisters" during its first year; he then played another doctor in the TNT drama "Heartland," which had a single season in 2007.

Q: I would like to know the status of the series "Friday Night Lights." It supposedly was renewed for another season. When will it be starting? –Annette Emmons, Fort Pierce, Fla.

A: To keep the show alive, NBC made an arrangement with DirecTV, which was given first dibs to show the third season of Kyle Chandler's high-school football drama. Those episodes began running on the satellite service in October, and that set of stories begins its broadcast debut this Friday, Jan. 16, on NBC.

Q: Is the series "In Plain Sight" coming back? I really enjoyed the fast-paced dialogue. –Kay Berresford, Negley, Ohio

A: There's good news to report in this case, since Mary McCormack will return to USA Network for a second season as a U.S. marshal in the Witness Protection Program. It didn't take long for that decision to be made, since the show scored high ratings right from its premiere last June. The new episodes currently are in production; you can expect to start seeing them in late spring or early summer.

Q: I want to know if the FX show "The Riches" will be returning sometime in the coming year. –Alice Buydos, Jupiter, Fla.

A: It won't be. It took a few months for the cable network to confirm that after the Eddie Izzard-Minnie Driver show completed its second season last spring, but it's over.

2008 IN REVIEW
by Lucretia Sines

Well, another year has come and gone, and it is time once again to reflect on events of 2008. The past year proved to be a very busy one for me personally, and the Friendsville news column suffered greatly, so this year I vow to try my best to keep up with all the happenings and produce as good a column as previous years.

A few things do come to mind when thinking about the past year, with one of them being the young man's death on the Yough River that was ruled a homicide. I hope that 2009 will bring the much-needed answers that the family deserves.

Also, who can forget the tornado that hit Friendsville on July 30? And they say it can never happen here! The community pulled together to help clear debris, and Friendsville Days carried on without hesitation on August 1 and 2.

The year 2008 also brought about the loss of many members of the Friendsville community, including: Lavona Shaheen, Alfreda Friend, James Frantz, Fern Lininger, Shawna Stallman, Roland Fisher Jr., Betty Guard, Linda Fike, Floyd Grover, Janice Ross, Tracy Sharp-Sullivan, Minnie Ours, Robert House, Pauline Coddington, James Lininger, Arnold Bowser, Herbert Stephens, Geraldine Driscoll, Thomas Schroyer, Derek Bittinger, Glenna Braccy, Joey Uphold, James Speicher, Dorothy Fearer, Christopher Reckart, Evelyn Uphold, Agnes Geoghan, Junior Savage, Robert Detrick, Ralph Humberson, Josephine Hinebaugh, Douglas Schroyer, Robert (J.R.) Tressler, Gladys Frantz, and Thomas Sines.

All those who have left us will be remembered in hearts fondly and missed for our lifetimes. (I sincerely apologize if any name was omitted from this list. Please contact me about any names that I missed.)

CRELLIN TEACHER RECEIVES NATIONAL AWARD – Crellin Elementary School teacher Becky Sanders was recently selected as one of six national teachers for the Richard C. Bartlett Environmental Education Award. "She has been a major leader in the wonderful success of the Crellin Corps of Discovery Program," noted superintendent Dr. Wendell Teets. The award is given to teachers who are able to integrate environmental education into their everyday classroom routine. "It's for the little ones and the parents even who take interest in the projects we do," said Sanders. "It's a tribute to the whole community." Sanders is pictured with Board of Education president Rodney Durst and Teets.

BEES BUSY — IN WINTER? Bees do apparently stay busy even in the darker months, surprisingly, as evidenced above in a photo taken near Friendsville. The bees were discovered by Roger Lohr during the unseasonably warm spell in late December. They swarmed the birdfeeder all day long, he said, which seemed exceptionally odd. They are surely not moving much at all today, though, and are certainly deep in their hive, as the temperatures have plunged to the skin-freezing (and bee-freezing) level. Today's high is to be all of 12 degrees Fahrenheit, and tomorrow's will not even reach more than 5. Mr. Lohr will surely not see the bees again for some time.

Commissioners Address Beitzel's Lake Hill Stance

The Garrett County commissioners have expressed their concerns about comments made by Del. Wendell Beitzel during last week's public hearing on proposed amendments to the county's master plan.

Approval of the amendments would provide water and sewer service to the proposed McHenry Business Park and a workforce housing development called Lake Hill, a Community Action initiative. Both projects are to be built on the county's Whiteface Farm property near the airport.

Beitzel stated his opposition to the amendments for a variety of reasons in a letter he presented to the commissioners at the hearing.

Following that event, the commissioners and county administrator Monty Pagenhardt commented on the delegate's stance.

"Del. Beitzel voices his opposition to the Lake Hill Project and states that it is 'not good public policy to give away a large portion of very valuable undeveloped public county property for housing development . . .,'" Pagenhardt said. "This opinion by the delegate is contradictory to House Bill 784 – 'Affordable Housing – Enabling Authority for Counties and Municipalities,' which unanimously was passed into law in 2007 by the Maryland House of Delegates. This bill reads as follows and is exactly what Community Action proposing and what the county has supported."

20-101 – To support, foster, or promote an affordable housing program for individuals or families of low or moderate income.

1) Establish local trust funds or provide for the appropriation of funds;

2) Enact legislation that restricts cost and resale prices and requires development of affordable housing units as part of any subdivision in return for added density;

3) Provide land or property from the inventory of the county or municipality and;

4) Support programs to encourage the construction of affordable housing.

The commissioners noted that Beitzel voted for this bill, yet continually voices his opposition. They

Garrett County Building Permits Decrease In 2008

Permits and Inspections Division chief Jim Torrington, Garrett County Department of Planning and Land Development, presented a year-end report to the county commissioners on Tuesday about building activity during 2008.

A total of 525 permits were issued last year, according to Torrington. This is nearly 20 percent fewer permits than were issued in in 2007, 23 percent fewer than in 2006, and 30 percent fewer than in 2004. These permits were for all types of building activity.

Housing permits alone, Torrington noted, were down about 32 percent in '08 compared to '07, nearly 46 percent compared to '06, and more than 51 percent in comparison to '04.

Across Maryland, housing starts are down 38 percent, Torrington said, and nationally they have decreased 40 percent.

"So, we're following the trend," he said. "We're a little bit behind, but we're following the trend.

Torrington reported, however, that commercial permits were up more than 23 percent in '08 compared to the previous year, nearly 32 percent from '06, and 87 percent in comparison to

Oakland Bypass Tops Garrett Co.'s Request List For Federal Funding

Garrett County officials have compiled a list of projects they would like considered for funding through President-elect Barack Obama's proposed Economic Stimulus Program. Topping that list is the $42 million Oakland/Rt. 219 bypass.

"I think there is a good chance we'll get something," said Director Jim Hinebaugh, Garrett County Department of Economic Development, about receiving money through the $775 billion program.

The director presented the list to the Garrett County commissioners for their review on Tuesday afternoon. Hinebaugh said assistant director Frank Shap contacted county departments, agencies, organizations, and others, and asked for input on compiling the list. The final draft contains 10 economic development, three capital, and six public utility projects.

"Our recommendation is that the Oakland Rt. 219 bypass be the top priority for the county," Hinebaugh told the commissioners.

Hinebaugh said his understanding is that a certain amount of the federal funds will be earmarked for transportation projects, such as highways. Funding for railroads, mass transit, and high speed broadband may also be available.

Lists from entities throughout the state are to be sent to the governor's office. The director noted that the projects are suppose to be "shovel ready."

"The state, apparently, is going to determine which projects get submitted and approved," Hinebaugh said.

He added that once Garrett County submits its list to the governor, Senators Barbara Mikulski and Ben Cardin will be informed so they will know what projects to support.

Hinebaugh noted that Oakland mayor Asa McCain has already sent a letter to the governor listing his ~~priorities, which includes the~~ Oakland bypass.

Maryland transportation officials announced in September that the project would be deferred until the economic conditions improve.

The commissioners reviewed Hinebaugh's list, commenting on what they felt should be priorities.

"I think we need to look at projects that aren't going to increase our operating budgets," Holliday said.

He favored funding number eight on the list, a broadband service project. He said he would like to see more local people have access to the service.

Hinebaugh said about 70 percent of county residents currently have access to broadband through satellite, cable, DSL service, etc.

The $4 million broadband project listed would Commissioners Pledge Funds For Gypsy Moth Prog.

The Garrett County commissioners have pledged funds toward a gypsy moth suppression operation on private lands this spring. During their regular public meeting on Tuesday, the commissioners signed an agreement with the Maryland Department of Agriculture, which requested they commit $1,700 toward a local cost-share program.

The MDA predicts that only 101 acres of private land will need to be sprayed this year. Last spring, more than 11,000 acres of private property were treated at a cost of more than $70,000. The county, private land owners, and the Deep Creek Lake Property Owners Association participated in the cost-share program.

In addition to private land, the MDA also sprayed more than 30,000 acres of state land last spring.

Commissioner Fred Holliday, who is member of the Garrett County Forestry Board, noted that certain conditions have aided local efforts to eradicate gypsy moths.

"Last year was the perfect storm," he said.

The 2008 spray operation, a wet spring, and ideal conditions for a fungus that attacks gypsy moth caterpillars resulted in fewer egg

2009 Maryland General Assembly Opens Amid Major Budget Problems

by Dylan Waugh
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS – Maryland lawmakers returned to Annapolis Wednesday for the opening of the 426th session of the General Assembly optimistic about the state's future despite a nearly $2 billion projected budget deficit.

"We're going to come through this national economic downturn quicker than any other state in the union," said Gov Martin O'Malley, in his speech to delegates and other invited guests.

With Maryland facing about a $400 million shortfall for this fiscal year, in addition to the $1.9 billion deficit for fiscal 2010, the annual 90-day session is expected to be dominated by budget talk.

"There's no money," said Delegate Saqib Ali, D-Montgomery. "There's clearly going to have to be some cuts."

O'Malley's office confirmed a Baltimore Sun report Wednesday that the budget will include between 500 and 1,000 layoffs of state employees.

"Obviously the budget will be the center of what takes place," said House Speaker Michael Busch, D-Anne Arundel, after the opening session. "I know the governor has to make a lot of tough decisions."

But Busch said he hopes layoffs are not necessary.

"Everything's on the table," said Lt. Gov. Anthony Brown, about the budget crisis. Brown said he remains "extremely optimistic and hopeful."

While the budget shortfall and the slumping economy are sure to dominate the session, issues like a repeal of the death penalty and a bill mandating cuts in carbon emissions might also receive attention.

In the wake of the widely reported 2005-2006 state police spying incidents, legislation protecting peaceful

Juvenile Escapees Both Apprehended

Two juveniles escaped from Backbone Mtn. Youth Facility on Sunday, and both were apprehended in the Swanton area.

One juvenile was located en route to the facility along Altamont Tower Road following a short foot chase and search. The second juvenile was found sitting in front of Swanton Grocery Store by Maryland State Highway Administration employees while the search for the first suspect was taking place.

Both were taken into custody and will be charged with escape. The Garrett County Sheriff's Office also assisted in the search.

UMUC Grants President's Medal Posthumously To Chester Miller

University of Maryland University College (UMUC) and its president, Dr. Susan C. Aldridge, recently honored the late Chester Miller III with the university's highest honor – the President's Medal – at a special graduation ceremony for officers at Baltimore City Police Headquarters.

Linda Miller, Grantsville, accepted on her late husband's behalf, with Baltimore mayor Sheila Dixon, Police Commissioner Frederick H. Bealefeld III, university leaders, police officers, and members of the

As part of the ceremony, 18 Baltimore City police officers received UMUC certificates in criminal justice leadership, members of the first class to complete the requirements of a unique leadership development program that was designed specifically to address the needs and challenges facing law enforcement professionals in Baltimore.

"Chester played a central role in developing the curriculum for the program, which began in March 2008, and also served as a lead instructor," a UMUC spokesperson said. "He passed away unexpectedly on Aug. 20, but not before he had made an immediate and lasting impact on students in the program, leadership at the police department, and his colleagues at the university."

Born Sept. 5, 1954, in Washington, D.C., Miller was an adjunct professor for the University of Maryland and had more than 25 years'

Memorial Service For Deputy Slated By Area Police

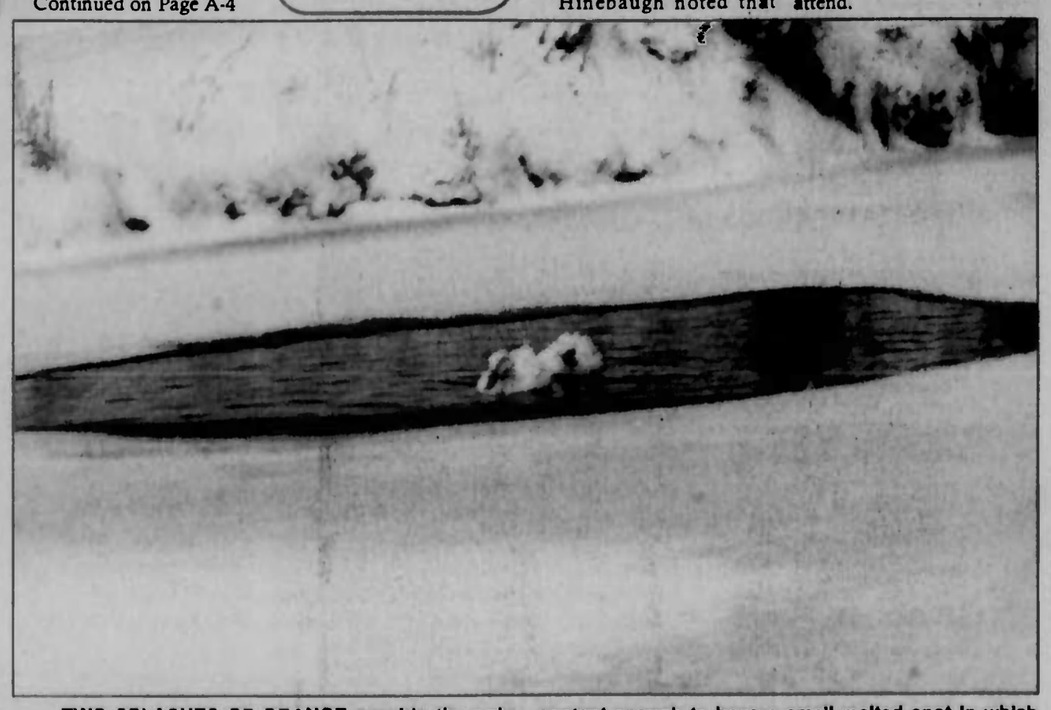
The Garrett County Sheriff's Office and Garrett County Fraternal Order of Police Lodge #99 will host a memorial service in memory of the 30th anniversary of the murder of Deputy Sheriff David G. Livengood and his K-9 partner Sarge.

The two were killed in the line of duty on Jan. 18, 1979, while investigating a breaking and entering at an Oakland store.

The service will begin at 1 p.m. at the Garrett County Sheriff's Office on Sunday, Jan. 18. Guests will relocate to Fourth Street, Oakland, and the service will conclude in the area of the murder.

The public is invited to attend.

"LEAVES AND LOGS" is the title of this colored pencil piece by Ashlay Folk, a junior at Northern High School. Not only was she selected to be a part of the GFWC Civic Club and Garrett County Arts Council Youth Art show, being shown at The Gallery in Oakland, but she was also given a third place award for her creativity and composition. Ashlay, along with many other students from Northern and Southern middle and high schools, are displaying work for the next two weeks. Stop by and see the amazing work these students have done. More details about the show can be found in today's art section.



TWO SPLASHES OF ORANGE provide the only real color of this wintery shot, taken by Glenn Tolbert at the Glades Park pond. The bills of Roger and Rufus, two regulars on the water there, certainly stand out amidst the white and gray of the scene. The two seem content enough to have a small melted spot in which to swim, although that area is probably frozen hard today, and will stay that way at least through the weekend. Hope Rog and Ruf have someplace warm to nest awhile.

GC Nurse-Family Partnership Marks One Year Anniv.

FAMILY-NURSE PARTNERSHIP PROGRAM PRODUCING RESULTS – The lo-cal Nurse-Family Partnership is more than a year old now, offering assistance, attention, and education to new parents. The national Nurse-Family Partnership program has shown remarkable results in improving the lives of the young families. There are currently nearly 50 young parents participating in the local program. See story. Pictured above are the RNs (registered nurses) who are working in the Garrett County Nurse-Family Partnership. Shown left to right are Joanne Greene, RN; Tracy Savage, RN; Earleen Beckman, RN, BSN, Healthy Families program director; Karen Lucas, RN; Maria Friend, RN, and Yvonne McConnell, RN, NFP, nurse supervisor.

The Nurse-Family Partnership is a nationally recognized program implemented through the Garrett County Health Department and funded through the Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families/Local Management Board.

The local Nurse-Family Partnership nurses began offering the program in September 2007. Currently Garrett County is the only Nurse-Family Partnership program in Maryland. There are 49 young mothers participating in the local effort.

"This program changes the life trajectories for both mother and child, benefiting multiple generations," said Earleen Beckman, Healthy Families program director.

The Nurse-Family Partnership (NFP) is an evidence-based nurse home visitation program that improves the health, well-being, and self-sufficiency of first-time parents and their children. Registered nurses begin services early in pregnancy and continue visitations through the child's second year. Nurses provide support, education, and counseling on health, behavioral, self-sufficiency, and parenting issues. For example, they help families learn about and get community services for which they qualify.

NFP was recently recognized by First Focus and the Brookings Center on Children and Families in a research brief as being the most well-developed nurse home visiting program in the United States.

A cornerstone of NFP is the extensive research conducted over the last three decades through randomized controlled trials conducted with three diverse populations in Elmira, N.Y. (1977); Memphis, Tenn. (1987); and Denver, Colo. (1994).

This research has shown consistent and dramatic benefits to both mother and child, Beckman said, noting the following results of the program: Improved prenatal health, fewer childhood injuries, fewer subsequent pregnancies, increased intervals between births, increased maternal employment, and improved school readiness.

In light of these proven outcomes, NFP has been praised by the National Institute for Early Education Research, the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, the Department of Justice, the office of the Surgeon General, and the president's New Freedom Commission on Mental Health. In addition, several independent studies have weighed the costs and benefits of implementing NFP, including a 2004 cost-benefit analysis by the Washington State Institute for Public Policy, which demonstrated a savings of $17,180 per family served.

National implementation of this program is now under way, Beckman said. It currently serves families in 22 states.

For more information about the Garrett County Nurse-Family Partnership, persons may call Yvonne McConnell, nurse supervisor, at 301-334-7720. For program and national replication information, persons may visit the NFP National Service Office web site at www.nursefamilypartnership.org or call 866-864-5226.

Governor O'Malley Expects Federal Assistance With Inauguration Costs

by Leonard Sparks
Capital News Service

Maryland Gov. Martin O'Malley said he is hopeful that the federal government will reimburse the state for the $11 million to $13 million it is expected to spend managing traffic and security for the inauguration of Barack Obama and the president-elect's visit to Baltimore.

O'Malley joined Washington D.C. Mayor Adrian M. Fenty and Virginia Gov. Timothy M. Kaine at a Tuesday news conference where they urged that people coming to the District for the inauguration on Jan. 20 should plan ahead and expect delays entering and leaving the city.

About 2 million people are expected for Obama's swearing-in, an inaugural parade from Capitol Hill to the White House, and numerous balls and events. Another 150,000 are expected when Obama stops Saturday in Baltimore as part of his whistle-stop train tour to Washington.

In a letter to their congressional delegations earlier this month, O'Malley, Fenty, and Kaine estimated that the inauguration will cost Maryland, the District, and Virginia $75 million, including money for extra law enforcement personnel and expanded bus and rail service.

The District, which already received $15 million for inauguration expenses, estimates that it will spend $47 million. Virginia projects costs greater than $16 million.

On Tuesday, President Bush ordered additional federal funding for the District after declaring an emergency because of the inaugural.

O'Malley said he has spoken personally with Senate Majority Leader Harry Reid, D-Nev., and "traded a couple of calls" with House Speaker Nancy Pelosi, D-Calif., about federal reimbursement.

"I think it's safe to say most people were somewhat taken aback that there had not been a provision made in the federal budget for the inauguration, as there was for the Republican and Democratic national conventions," O'Malley said. "I think that they understand that needs to be addressed."

Maryland is contributing about 600 public safety personnel from about 17 different agencies, O'Malley said. In addition, about 3,000 members of the Maryland National Guard will be deployed in the District on the day of the inauguration.

With access for private vehicles sharply restricted and parking limited, travel into the District through Maryland and Virginia will be mostly limited to public transportation, including buses, taxis, and the Metrorail system.

"This is not a typical day in our country's history. This is not a typical crowd," O'Malley said. "This is not like throwing the family in the van and heading down for a visit at the (National) Air and Space Museum."

For those traveling from Maryland:

•MARC tickets for Inauguration Day are sold out. On Jan. 19 and Jan. 20, the Maryland Transit Administration will offer shuttle service from nine park-and-ride lots in Maryland to five suburban D.C. Metro stations: Branch Avenue, Greenbelt, New Carrollton, Silver Spring, and Shady Grove. Round-trip tickets cost $10 and are available the day of travel.

•High Occupancy Vehicle lane restrictions are in effect for Interstate 270 and U.S. Route 50 on Jan. 19 and Jan. 20.

•Those not traveling to the District should avoid Interstate 495. Alternative routes include: Interstate 81 to the west; and Interstate 97, U.S. Route 301, and U.S. Route 13 to the east.

SHA Names New Engineer For District Six

State Highway administrator Neil Pedersen announced Monday that Anthony Crawford is SHA's new District Six engineer. Headquartered in LaVale, the district covers state-numbered routes in Allegany, Garrett, and Washington counties.

"Mr. Crawford has a wide range of experience, and during his career has placed customer service and safety as top priorities," an SHA spokesperson said.

Crawford assumed his new duties on Jan. 1. A 12-year SHA employee, Crawford was previously the assistant district engineer for maintenance in the District Six office.

As district engineer, Crawford is responsible for an operation budget of $20 million and manages all construction, traffic, and maintenance operations for state roads in the three counties.

He supervises approximately 200 employees within the district office and three maintenance shops in Keyser's Ridge, Hagerstown, and LaVale.

"My predecessor, Bob Fisher, was an outstanding leader and mentor," Crawford said. "I'm very excited to take on the role of district engineer because of the wonderful staff I have to work with."

Crawford is a 1996 graduate of the University of Maryland, with a bachelor of science degree in civil engineering. He resides in Morgantown, W.Va., with his wife Celinda and two sons, Connor and Preston.

CRELLIN ELEMENTARY RECOGNIZED BY BOARD OF ED – Many teachers and parents, and even several children were present at the January Board of Education meeting Tuesday as representatives of Crellin Elementary School. The school was recently recognized as one of two schools in Maryland ranking highest in Category 1 for two or more years on school assessments. The Board of Education wanted to recognize the teachers, parents, and students for their achievement. "We are very, very proud," opened PTO president Rodney Reckart. "On paper, it's a test score, but to us it means so much more. We can't say enough to thank everyone, especially the staff, and particularly the board for giving us our staff." Principal Dana McCauley was present to introduce the group and speak about the accomplishment. "It was a total group effort. I have an awesome staff who gives 110% everyday, even on weekends," she noted. "We got here with the help of the parents and the support of the staff." From left, beginning with the front row, are Natasha Helbig and Annie Zimmerman. Second row: Becky Sanders, Reckart, Joy Helbig, Mikal Zimmerman, Linda Stephens, Ashley Green, Debi DeWitt, Amanda Compton, Rose Mary Mayne, Megan Pike, Heather Poe, Aaron Hordubay, Karen Gilpin, McCauley, and Dr. Wendell Teets, superintendent. Third row: BOE president Rodney Durst, Amanda Powers, Susan Friend, Carrie Hordubay, Janet Cosner, and Regina Green.

Those Facing Foreclosure Are Advised To Act

An area housing specialist is warning residents facing foreclosure to take action as quickly as it appears that they may be facing the possibility of losing their homes.

"Help is available to those facing foreclosure, but it is best that action is taken to obtain counseling as soon as the first indicators of a possible foreclosure are spotted," says Cindy Sharon, housing services director for Garrett County Community Action Committee (GCCAC). In addition to offering foreclosure prevention counseling, GCCAC has a special revolving loan fund that may assist with a low interest rate loan (averaging 1%) to assist in bringing current an affordable mortgage facing foreclosure.

To obtain this financing, a home owner must have an affordable mortgage and the ability to repay the loan and their other household expenses. "It also requires owner occupancy" she said. "This type of assistance has benefited home owners that faced a temporary setback that has since been resolved, such as loss of income."

There is no cash assistance for mortgage delinquency. This special loan fund assists home owners that have received a Letter of Intent to Foreclosure from their lender. Since this is a revolving loan fund, home owner repayments increase the cash balance of the fund to assist other home owners in Garrett County that may face the same situation in the future.

Many seniors are struggling to keep their homes because of unaffordable mortgages or escalating utility rates. Senior home owners who are at least 62 years of age are benefiting from Home Equity Conversion Mortgages (HECM), currently referred to as reverse mortgages, to pay off their mortgages and access their equity to make their living arrangements more affordable. There is no monthly payment with an HECM mortgage and home owners may stay in their homes for as long as they live in their homes or when they should choose to sell their home.

In addition to assistance provided locally, the state of Maryland has three programs that assist with early foreclosure prevention for home owners with unaffordable loans or subprime mortgages that have adjustable rates or high fixed rates that are at least 2% above the rate of their mortgages to refinance, which is currently 8% with zero points.

GCCAC is a certified Housing and Urban Development (HUD) counseling agency and provides counseling for the homeless, home renters, home buyers, and home owners. The GCCAC Housing Services Department counseled 2,197 individuals last year. A total of 118 completed the homebuyer education workshop and are receiving long-term pre-purchase counseling, and 17 purchased their first home.

More information about the above programs may be obtained on the GCCAC web site at www.garrettcac.org/housing.html or by calling GCCAC at 301-334-9431 or toll free at 1-888-877-8403.

Local CPA Is Recognized By Comp. Franchot

In an effort to acknowledge Maryland tax preparers who file their clients' income tax returns electronically, Comptroller Peter Franchot recognized one tax preparer from each county and Baltimore City who recently implemented the E-File system when filing tax returns.

The honoree for Garrett County is Brian R. Boal, an Oakland-based CPA.

The awardees were selected for having the highest percentage of increase of returns over last year. More than 1.5 million tax returns were filed electronically in 2008, of which 982,358 were filed by commercial tax preparers. Overall, there was a 10.5% increase in electronic filing compared to last year's numbers.

"In these tough economic times, electronic filing is the way to go," said Comptroller Franchot. "It allows taxpayers to conveniently file their taxes using a safe and fast method while simultaneously speeding up the process for receiving tax refunds and saving the state money."

He added that each tax return filed electronically costs the state approximately 38 cents to process, while every paper return costs nearly $1.95.

Since electronic filing was implemented in the early 1990s, Maryland has saved more than $14 million in processing costs, he said.

Taxpayers are invited to go online and visit marylandtaxes.com to file electronically, receive refund information, locate forms and publications, and get answers to frequently asked questions. Additionally, taxpayers can also e-mail questions regarding their state taxes to taxhelp@comp-.state.md.us, or contact a representative by telephone at 410-260-7980 or 1-800-MD-TAXES, Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Beginning February 2, the telephone assistance hours will extend to 8 p.m. These hours will continue through April 17.

NATIONAL BOARD CERTIFIED TEACHERS RECOGNIZED BY BOE – Over the last decade, several Garrett County teachers have pursued and completed the National Board Certification program. A total of eight middle and high school teachers from both ends of the county have completed the program, with four finishing within the last year. The Garrett County Board of Education recognized the group at the January board meeting. "It is the most rigorous professional development I've ever been involved in," said SHS teacher Dave Bender. "I went in thinking it would be a piece of cake, but I had no idea how time-consuming and incredible it would be." The board announced that it would be covering the cost of the teachers' 10-year recertification when the time comes for each. "We are so appreciative to the board for the support," noted NHS teacher Michelle Harman. "It was absolutely difficult, but one of the most helpful programs offered to teachers." Above, from left, are Rebecca Kenyon, 2008-09; Harman, 2001-02; Gayle Farrar, 2001-02; Anne-Marie Savage, 2008-09; Donna Durst, 2008-09; superintendent Dr. Wendell Teets; BOE president Rodney Durst; Jennifer Burdock Rankin, 2007-08; and Bender, 2008-09.

With the proposed economic stimulus effort of President-elect Obama, state, county, and municipal government elected officials have been advised to make a list of projects in their respective areas that they would like to see funded by some of the several hundred billion dollars that are tentatively going to be allocated. The county and municipal wish lists are then to be submitted to the governor office's for consideration.

The Garrett County commissioners prepared their list this week, and to the dismay of many, their top priority for funding is the Oakland Rt. 219 bypass project, which was essentially tabled indefinitely earlier this year because of the huge deficit being faced by the state. As expected, the bypass project is also #1 on the list of Oakland city government officials.

The projects for which funding is requested, according to state officials, are those that can be considered "shovel-ready"; in other words, those for which all of the planning, research and design, and property acquisition (if necessary) have been completed, or at least nearly completed. The term "shovel-ready," then, certain does not apply to the Oakland bypass project.

The second item on the commissioners' list, which is funding for the Garrett County Career Technology Center – and frankly, everything else on their list (which can be found in our front-page story) – should rank well ahead of the bypass project. It seems that the proposed tech center, which would prepare high school and college students for trade careers, would benefit far more people than the bypass.

And cost is another major factor. While the bypass project is still estimated – undoubtedly, grossly underestimated – at $42 million, the additional funding needed for the tech center is about $2 million. The amounts on every other list item come nowhere near $42 million, with the next closest being an estimated $6 million for the expansion of the Garrett County airport. What a major shame it would be if the state approved only the bypass project at the expense of all the others in the event that no more than $40 million or so will be allocated for Garrett County projects.

The mayor and town council of Mtn. Lake Park, which will be significantly affected by the bypass, are unanimously against the project, nearly half of the members of the Oakland town council are against it, and one of the three commissioners (Ernie Gregg) is also opposed. That's about 10 elected officials opposed and roughly five in favor. What's wrong with this picture?

To the Editor:

The comments aired on WKHJ radio last week concerning Delegate Beitzel being against building more low income housing beside the airport in McHenry is right on. For once, we have a delegate who is interested m Garrett County's welfare, and the welfare of the people who live here year-round.

If this housing complex is built beside the airport, it will be an eyesore in a few years. If I have been informed by The Republican correctly, the airport is to be expanded so that more and larger planes can be accommodated, thereby bringing more tourists to Garrett County. What will they think when they see what surrounds the airport?

Garrett County citizens, you need to look around you and see just how many low income housing projects we already have. We have Yough Glades, Pinewoods East, Overlook, Meadows East, Parkwood Village, and the newest addition on Liberty Street, with more to come in that area. There is one in Grantsville, and more I probably don't even know about. Why do we need any more?

This county can't even afford to maintain our roads properly and our schools have to go shout for funds to properly educate our children. But let something be asked for at Deep Creek Lake, and it is funded even if our commissioners have to raise our property tax to do it.

I say, give them a good fight, Del. Beitzel. You are in the right. Even if you did think it would be a good thing to begin with, that doesn't make you wrong now to try and save this county not only higher taxes to fund this unnecessary building complex, but you will be saving an eyesore to come.

The economic situation here in Garrett County is out of control. Our representatives, especially our commissioners, need to be addressing the unemployment problems, not nit-picking with Del. Beitzel. Our commissioners need to be paying attention to budget cuts, not spending.

Mr. Commissioners, robbing Peter to pay Paul is over; Peter just doesn't have any more tax dollars for you.

Mr. Commissioners, I ask where are you going to get all this money to erect this monstrosity? Why don't all the citizens of Garrett County who don't want their property taxes, etc., raised, let our commissioners know? Write The Republican, write Del. Beitzel. Let them know we are against more unnecessary building with tax dollars.

Dottie Pritts

To the Editor:

Three things about the county's new comprehensive plan.

1. The new comprehensive plan reflects two years of hearings and discussions across all segments of society in Garrett County. While the planning commission reached out to the community, John Nelson deserves credit, and the gratitude of all citizens in the county, for going above and beyond the call of duty to meet with anyone interested in the comprehensive plan. He met anywhere and anytime with anyone who had anything to say about the plan. While the plan is not perfect, it is better than it would have been without this pro-active outreach effort of John Nelson.

2. Commissioners surgically altered the plan submitted by the planning commission to make it easier to construct windmills on the ridges of Garrett County. They justify this change first by claiming it is what people want. Second, they fall back on the tired argument that they did it to protect freedom and property rights. Neither of these arguments holds water. The commissioners need to come forward and tell us why they continue to give special treatment to windmill operators.

3. Finally, owners of more than half the taxable property in Garrett County receive substantial property tax subsidies because their land is in either agricultural or forestland preservation programs. These property owners have made agreements with the residents of the county that they will keep their land in agricultural or forest use and the other taxpayers in the county, not receiving special treatment, will subsidize their property taxes, up to a 90 percent discount in some cases. They have given up some of their property rights for this subsidy. Now some of those owners want to take advantage of opportunities that enrich them personally by building windmills or natural gas wells on their property.

Such efforts, however, violate the agreement these property owners made with citizens of the county because they are embracing industrial land uses for their properties and not keeping their land in agricultural or forest uses. In such cases, the property owners have violated their agreement with their neighbors and we are no longer obligated to subsidize their property taxes. Their property should now be taxed at full market value. They are trying to have their cake and eat it too; it is simply not fair to the taxpayers in the county who do not receive such special treatment.

Sincerely,
Michael Bell
Oakland

To the Editor:

In those memorable words of President Ronald Reagan, "There you go again." Our county commissioners adopted an amendment to the county sewer and water plan to provide sewer and water to the Lake Hill Estates, as reported in The Republican newspaper on Jan. 8. Lake Hill Estates is a 200-250 unit government affordable housing development on 50 acres of the Whiteface Farm. The location is within proximity of the Garrett County airport. This is nonsensical.

Recently at Miramar Naval Air Station in San Diego, a Marine pilot ejected from his plane because of engine failure and the plane crashed into a housing development and killed three occupants. Miramar was built years ago, before any development, and it stood alone in the desert. However, developers persuaded local government to allow housing in proximity to the airstrip. Now the local residents want the air base closed because of this accident.

This could well happen at the Garrett County airport since most airplane accidents occur during take off and landing. Oddly enough, the Federal Aviation Administration has no objection to this development.

Our county commissioners should consider the objections proposed by Delegate Beitzel and the citizens along Bumble Bee Road instead of listening to bureaucrats and developers.

Sincerely,
DeCorsey E. Bolden
Former Naval Aviator

To the Editor:

Being a vetcran of World War II, I'd like to share a humbling experience.

My lifelong friend, Raymond "Buck" Brant, was also a veteran of WWII. Buck was also a founding member of the Garrett County History Club in 2007. I was born on June 18, 1924, in McHenry, and Buck was born on Oct. 4, 1922, in McHenry. We both served in WWII from February 1943 to 1946.

Raymond's funeral was held on Jan. 8 at the Newman Funeral Home near McHenry. It was a snowy day.

I want to tell the readers about the dedicated services provided for the military funeral. The Oakland American Legion Honor Guard and the Deer Park Veterans of Foreign Wars Rifle Squad paid a great tribute to everyone's friend, Raymond Owen Brant, Army veteran of WWII.

Being a life member of the American Legion and the VFW, I just wanted to say thanks to the military and the many friends who honored a great American.

Sincerely,
Charles G. "Bud" Railey

"Teaching was Chester's passion and his gift," Linda said. protesters from surveillance is likely to be considered. Emergency medical transportation might be discussed following the September rescue helicopter crash which killed four people.

Land use issues and anti-domestic violence legislation will likely get the attention of legislators.

But the main issue is the budget.

The state constitution requires a balanced budget, so O'Malley and lawmakers must cut expenditures or raise taxes to cover the deficit. O'Malley is required to submit his budget to the legislature next week.

At a Democratic luncheon on Tuesday, O'Malley said some programs will maintain level funding and some will be cut.

K-12 education will likely be one of the few items to receive increased funding, O'Malley said Tuesday.

"We're going to cut the budget, I understand that," said Delegate Curtis S. Anderson, D-Baltimore. "I'm hoping that education will be the last cut."

Busch and O'Malley both touted the progress made by the state's public school systems in their speeches Wednesday.

State leaders are hoping for a federal economic stimulus package from Congress and President-elect Barack Obama that will help alleviate the budget crunch. O'Malley stood, cheered, and ushered the crowd to its feet when Rep. Chris Van Hollen, D-Montgomery, mentioned the possibility of a federal stimulus package at the Democratic luncheon Tuesday.

Even with a federal aid package, O'Malley and lawmakers will have to get creative when searching for solutions.

A furlough plan for state employees has already been introduced and is expected to save $34 million.

Among the cuts O'Malley will consider is the state's direct support to county governments, many of which are already dealing with deficits of their own.

Slot parlors, which Maryland voters approved in a November referendum, will not be online soon enough to generate revenue to help with the looming deficit.

Maryland Senate President Thomas V. Mike Miller Jr., D-Calvert, has publicly suggested the state should permit universities to increase tuition, reversing a three-year-old freeze. But O'Malley may oppose such a move.

Miller has also said Maryland should consider raising the state gas tax, which now stands at 23.5 cents per gallon.

Debate has already started about whether the state should shift responsibility for some of the $600-$700 million per year cost of public school teachers' pensions to the county level.

"That will bankrupt several counties," said Ali. "It's something that I'm very focused on preventing."

Other options include tapping a $700 million "rainy day" fund or a $366 million little-known income-tax reserve fund.

The income-tax reserve fund is kept to ensure the state can issue tax refunds. But refunds have been paid out of incoming tax collections each year, making the reserve fund available.

"My office can use the $366 million reserve fund, which is a one-stop source for funds, and that should be helpful," said State Comptroller Peter Franchot.

Withdrawing money from either fund might cause bond-rating agencies to lower the state's strong AAA bond rating, making it more expensive to borrow money.

The state might also consider taking money from its annual capital budget.

Legislators raised $1.3 billion in taxes during a special session in the fall of 2007 to address a then-$1.7 billion shortfall, likely making budget cuts more appealing than increasing taxes to address the current deficit.

Despite the looming cuts, lawmakers are confident.

"It's very important for us to all work together," said Busch. "We can get the job done in the tough times."

also stressed that affordable housing is a major priority for the county.

"This project (Lake Hill) is the county's best opportunity to do something meaningful on affordable housing," Pagenhardt said. "If the county doesn't follow through on this project, we may as well stop talking about affordable housing."

The commissioners also wanted to point out that the Lake Hill project/site is "almost strategically perfect" for an affordable housing community. It is centrally located in the county and can have public utilities without major public expenditure and construction over great distances.

It is also near a major employment center (Deep Creek Lake), where the highest density of traffic occurs during vacation seasons, and it is near shopping, recreation, and Garrett College, the officials added.

"The synergies between businesses and workers are obvious," Pagenhardt said. "This project allows the very workers that support the vitality of the Deep Creek tourist economy to reside in proximity to where they work and will minimize the cost of commute."

The commissioners also noted that the term "public housing" is "very stigmatizing and has failed to acknowledge the many positive attributes proposed."

"The proposed development does not contain public housing in the traditional sense where a public agency owns and operates the project often in barrack like conditions," the administrator said. "Instead, the initiative is to create a new community of various types of housing for people of mixed incomes with public spaces and streets. Yes, there will be an emphasis on affordable housing."

He said the project would include small houses for first-time buyers and market rate housing that will provide proceeds to help repay the subsidies for developing the land and build affordable housing in other areas of Garrett County.

The commissioners said development of the Whiteface property was initially planned to accommodate the McHenry Business Park.

"The Lake Hill project is consistent with the state policy of 'live where you work' and development of a mixed residential/business park will result in a development that is truly compatible with the principles of Smart Growth and fulfills one of the strategic initiatives of the Garrett County Economic Development Strategic Plan to provide workforce housing," Pagenhardt said.

He added that the acreage or portion of the White Face property that will be used for the business park, housing, and the area intended for conservation still needs to be clarified.

"The Board of County Commissioners is committed to economic growth and an improved quality of life for county residents," Pagenhardt concluded. "Workforce housing is a key component of this policy, especially when you consider the fact that Garrett County has the lowest housing affordability index (income versus cost of living) in the state of Maryland. In addition, the Lake Hill project properties will be assessed and will pay the applicable real estate tax."

Garrett Co. Man Sentenced For Sexual Offenses

Harold Leroy Crowe, 87, Frostburg (Garrett County), was sentenced last Thursday in Circuit Court by Judge Jim Sherbin to 18 months in the Garrett County Jail on each of four sexual offenses. The sentences are to run concurrently.

Crowe had pleaded guilty in November to committing third degree sexual offenses on three minor victims and to committing sexual abuse of a minor on a fourth victim. A presentence investigation report had been completed for the sentencing hearing.

Crowe was arrested by Maryland State Police in March 2008 after the victims made reports to police and protective service workers from the Department of Social Services of events that had occurred over the last few years.

"Crowe admitted to family members of the victims, as well as to investigators, the acts he had perpetrated at his residence," said State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch.

Crowe will be registered as a child sexual offender after he is released from jail.

He pleaded not guilty to 11 other counts and was not prosecuted for the following: two counts of sexual abuse of a minor, five counts of second degree sexual offense, one count of unnatural or perverted practice, one count of fourth degree sexual offense, and two additional charges of third degree sexual offense.

In other Circuit Court proceedings from last week, Delena Nicole Hardesty, 20, Oakland, was sentenced to one year in the Garrett County Jail for causing her child to be in need of assistance. The sentence was then suspended in favor of supervised probation (one year).

She had pleaded guilty to the charge in October, and sentencing was then postponed for a pre-sentence investigation report to be completed. Hardesty pleaded not guilty to three other counts, of which she was not prosecuted: second degree assault, reckless endangerment, and confining an unattended child.

Hardesty was arrested by investigators with the Garrett County Sheriffs Office in February 2008 after her 7-month-old child was injured while Hardesty was at a neighboring apartment and the child was left unattended.

In an unrelated case, Henry Lee Plummer, 40, Cumberland, admitted in Circuit Court to violating his probation. Sherbin then imposed 20 days of a previously suspended sentence and ordered Plummer to serve those on weekends, consecutively to a sentence of weekends he is serving in Allegany County.

Plummer was originally placed on probation in June 2007 for driving under the influence (DUI). While on probation, he was arrested in Allegany County for another DUI, which led to his current Allegany County Jail sentence, as well as the basis for the violation of probation.

In other Circuit Court news, Troy N. Townsend, Oakland, pleaded not guilty to second degree assault. The state's attorney placed the case on the stet docket.

The charge stems from an incident that occurred in July 2008.

Eric William Sines, 25, Md., was given a PBJ for a DUI per se charge stemming from April 2008. He was not prosecuted on DUI and DWI charges.

Jeffrey Dee Tetrick, 46, W.Va., received a PBJ verdict for a DWI charge from October 2008. He was not prosecuted on charges of DUI and DUI per se.

Bradley Joseph Ridder, 21, Fla., was placed on stet for charges of DUI and DWI. His charges were from February 2008.

Jeffery Joseph Bittner Jr., 20, Md., was placed on stet for charges of DUI, DUI per se, and DWI. His charges stemmed from July 2008.

Kevin William Sines, 61, Md., was not prosecuted on charges of DUI and DWI. He was charged in October 2008.

LOWE'S GRAND OPENING TO BENEFIT HABITAT FOR HUMANITY – All Lowe's gift cards purchased during the new Oakland store's grand opening next Thursday, Jan. 22, will be matched dollar for dollar (up to $5,000) with Lowe's in-store credit for Garrett County Habitat for Humanity. The agency will be able use that credit for its next project. "Garrett County Habitat for Humanity helps to provide decent, safe, and affordable housing for low-income residents in Garrett County, thereby promoting a healthy neighborhood environment for community residents," said a Garrett County Chamber of Commerce spokesperson. Garrett County Habitat for Humanity is in its 25th year of building homes, having built 61 to date. "We are grateful for the ongoing support we receive as we continue to eliminate poverty housing in Garrett County," executive director Doug Riley said. Lowe's is a national partner of Habitat for Humanity International and is the underwriter for its Women Build program. In addition to contributing more than $2 million per year, employees from Lowe's stores volunteer on build sites and host how-to clinics at stores to give Habitat volunteers hands-on practice on the basics of construction. Presentation of the Lowe's gift card donation to GC Habitat for Humanity will take place at 7 p.m. on Jan. 22, but gift cards will continue to be matched until the store closes that day. Rinker, Lowe's store manager; Mike Sione, Lowe's sales manager; Bob Huebner, Habitat for Humanity board member; Riley; James Sanders, Lowe's operations manager; and Charlie Ross, chamber president/CEO.

House Damaged By Accidental Fire Tuesday A.M.

A house in McHenry and its contents sustained an estimated $7,000 in damages when fire broke out in the living room Tuesday morning, reportedly caused by an overheated flue.

Volunteers from the Deep Creek, Accident, Friendsville, Bittinger, Oakland, and Deer Park fire departments were summoned to 918 Kates Mountain Road at 6:16 a.m. after Joseph Spiker, occupant of the two-story wood-frame dwelling, discovered the fire and dialed 911.

The blaze was brought under control in about 10 minutes by the approximately 20 firefighters on the scene, according to the report filed by Deputy State Fire Marshal Jamie Rodeheaver.

He estimated $5,000 in damages to the structure, and an additional $2,000 to contents. His report also noted that the house was equipped with smoke alarms, but they did not activate.

Also responding was the Northern Rescue Squad. There were no injuries reported.

DUI Per Se Charge Leads To 90-Day Sent.

The following driving while under the influence (DUI) and driving while impaired (DWI) cases were heard in recent Garrett County District Court proceedings, with Judge Leonard J. Eiswert presiding:

Larry Clifford Poling, 51, Pa., was found guilty for a DUI per se charge from July 2008. He was sentenced to 90 days with all being suspended, 18 months of supervised probation, and fines of $257.50. He was not prosecuted for charges of DUI and DWI.

Samuel Jason Schmidt, 26, Md., was handed a probation before judgment (PBJ) for a DUI per se charge from January 2008. He was not prosecuted on DUI and DWI charges.

Police Investigating Church Break-In At St. Matthew's

The Oakland Police Department was notified of a breaking and entering Monday morning, which is still under investigation. Unknown suspect(s) reportedly forced entry into St. Matthew's Episcopal Church Sunday evening, and left evidence which Pastor Chip Lee found the next morning.

Lee contacted Oakland Police and reported the suspected break-in to Officer John Sines, who then reported to the church, where he was shown the rear door (on Second Street) where the suspect(s) gained entry by breaking out a 6x8 wire mesh glass. The offices and kitchen are located near that entry.

Once inside the building, the suspect(s) broke out another window in the door of the secretary's office. The vestibule door was also damaged, where it seemed the suspect(s) attempted entry but were unsuccessful. Officer Sines was unable to locate any fingerprints at the scene, as was Det. Mark Pfaff, who was sent by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office to investigate the scene.

The investigation is ongoing.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

There is no sign of any January thaw. On the contrary it seems to be getting colder. In fact, the fuel delivery man said that it may drop below freezing in the days ahead. I doubt it will be as bad as one day here in Bittinger during the 1980s. Then it was 30 degrees below zero with 50-mile-per-hour winds. That equals almost 200 degrees below zero! That goes beyond very cold – it is bitterly frigid. Thank God it wasn't that bad last night.

Today (Tuesday morning, Jan. 13) is, however, plenty cold for my liking. The cold woke me up very early this morning to rush to turn up the furnace. I turn it down every night before bed. This morning when I woke it was so cold in my house it felt like there was an open door or window somewhere, although I found no sign of that.

Unfortunately when I turned up the thermostat that furnace would not kick on. I was glad to know that I wasn't out of fuel oil because I just got 300 gallons yesterday. That should be enough to last for the rest of the winter. But I had to call Rush Services early this morning to address the problem. I was so happy to see the truck pull up, as the temperature in my house was dropping below 50 degrees. In a matter of a half of an hour, he fixed whatever was wrong with the furnace and the house warmed up over the next couple hours.

I am glad to have everything worked out with the heating as the temperature is supposed to drop again in the coming week. Our couch potato black Lab, Boo, is not a big fan of winter and when I let her out this morning, she refused to stay out for more than five minutes.

It's not just the cold air that is proving that winter is far from over; possibly more dangerous is the accumulation of ice on everything. For the past week I have been very fearful that we would lose power at any moment because of the ice and wind. It would be especially terrifying to lose power during this cold spell because without electricity the furnace will not run. It's not just a problem occurring in Bittinger. I heard from several friends throughout Garrett County that they can't get out of their steep driveways because of the ice and snow. My deck and ramp are very icy and will remain that way until I get more rock salt to melt it down.

Betty Sacra of Winchester, Va., was visiting the area long enough to scoop up my mother for an outing to Wheeling, W.Va., for the weekend.

I, along with a majority of the country, am proud and excited about the Pittsburgh Steelers making it to the semi-final round of the NFL playoffs. My daughter Claire chooses to aggravate me and other family members by rooting against the Steelers. On Sunday we will all be rooting for the Steelers, and she will be rooting for the arch-rivals, the Baltimore Ravens.

It was very sad to see my Caitlin return to Morgantown to resume spring classes at West Virginia University and her beloved job at the homeless shelter downtown. She was happy to report that two families with children were able to move out this season, even though she will miss their presence.

Adorable Adoptables

IN NEED OF WARM, LOVING HOMES – Available for adoption this week at the Garrett County Animal Shelter are a male orange tabby, a male hound-Doberman mix that was found in Loch Lynn, a female gray cat that was picked up in Accident, and a female white Lab-shepherd that was found along White Church Road. Pictures of these and other homeless animals are available on Petfinder.com. "HART was able to take seven dogs out to rescues last week, as the shelter was full and there were no adoptions," the spokesperson said. "Please provide shelter and water twice daily to your outdoor pets. Hay is available at the shelter for bedding but only take what you need." For more information, persons may call the shelter at 301-334-3553.

Festival of Trees
Garrett County

Thanks to the countless number of volunteers.

If we have missed anyone, please forgive our oversight. So many people helped that it seems impossible to acknowledge you all as we would like.
~Festival of Trees Committee~

Telephone Program Provides Elderly With Help Line

The Garrett County Area Agency on Aging is looking for telephone reassurance volunteers to fill a much needed service for elderly individuals who are homebound, without immediate family in the area, or in need of a little friendly conversation.

"Receiving a brief phone call is not only a real morale booster for them," said a spokesperson, "but provides a way to check on the overall well-being of each client on a regular basis." One can help by simply making a brief check-in phone call on a regular basis to one or two of these individuals.

Each volunteer would contact an elderly individual daily or several times per week based on the need and desire of the person. Because clients are located in different areas of the county, the agency attempts to match volunteers with clients in their community if it's possible.

"The Telephone Reassurance Program provides an opportunity for volunteers to contribute to their community without leaving their home, while fulfilling a need for our frail elderly," said the spokesperson.

To learn more about the program or to volunteer to make a significant difference in the life of an elderly individual, persons may contact Beverly Carvell at 301-334-9431, ext. 137.

masses being laid, the commissioner indicated. As a result, there should be fewer caterpillars eating leaves this spring in Garrett County.

Holliday noted that other areas will not as fortunate.

"Frederick County, parts of Washington County, and parts of Harford County are going to have it rough," he said.

In 2007, nearly 50,000 acres of trees were defoliated by caterpillars in Garrett County, despite a 15,000-acre suppression operation on private and state lands that spring. In 2006, about 14,000 acres were sprayed.

Driver Charged With DUI, DWI

Garrett County sheriff's deputies responded to a call made about a suspected intoxicated driver last Thursday that ended in the arrest of a local man.

Deputies received the call at approximately 9:15 p.m. reporting the driver traveling toward the Oakland area. A traffic stop was conducted at Water Street and E. Oak Street.

The driver was identified as Jimmy Marvin Teets Jr. He was arrested and charged with driving under the influence, DUI per se, and driving while impaired. Teets was taken to the Garrett County Detention Center to await an initial appearance before a District Court commissioner.

4-H Club News

Beitzel Attends 4-H National Congress Event

Amanda Beitzel, Grantsville, recently attended the 4-H National Congress held in Atlanta, Ga. She was one of two delegates chosen from Garrett County, and was selected after winning the grand champion title in the fashion revue at the Maryland State Fair in August. She was among approximately 2,000 delegates chosen from across the country to attend the 4-H National Congress.

Beitzel had the opportunity to participate in a variety of programs and activities. The theme for this year's National Congress was "Accept the Challenge." Beitzel participated in small group team building activities, attended lectures by guest speakers, and attended a variety of other workshops which focused on how people can "Accept the Challenge" in many aspects of their own lives, a spokesperson said.

Additionally, the delegates had an opportunity to participate in a tour of Atlanta. Beitzel took part in the "Home of the Brave" tour, visiting Turner Field, home of the Atlanta Braves. The tour included a stop at the press box and several other stadium locations not generally open to the public.

She also participated in a service project which involved going to an inner city elementary school to share her experiences in 4-H, as well as her experiences on her Hobby House farm, and growing up in rural Garrett County.

The 4-H National Congress concluded with a gala held at the Georgia Aquarium for all of the delegates. For the gala, Beitzel wore her camouflage formal gown for which she won the title at the Maryland State Fair.

"It was an experience of a lifetime," Beitzel said. "Anybody who ever has the chance to go to Nationals should go, because it would be a trip that would never be forgotten."

Beitzel is currently a freshman at Garrett College, where she is studying pre nursing. She has been a member of 4-H for 11 years. She has participated in a variety of activities at the Garrett County Fair, and has been chosen twice to participate in the Maryland State Fair.

She is the daughter of Steve and Jenny Beitzel, Grantsville.

The Arts

LOCAL COUPLE AND DOGS HONORED BY AUTHOR – A recent Ruth Enlow Library news article about a special story time found its way to Seattle author Alexandra Day and resulted In the unexpected recognition for the Accident Library and for Bill and Betsy Harper and their dogs Ira and Belle. The Harpers had taken their pets, certified therapy dogs, to the Accident Library for the reading of Day's books about a Rottweiler named Carl. The dogs represent real-life examples of Carl's breed and were a hit with the children. The story was made known to Day through local resident Pam Snyder, who knows the Day family. Snyder sent a clipping of the article to her daughter in Seattle, who then showed it to Day. Day decided to honor the Harpers, Belle, and Ira, as well as the library with gifts of two autographed books and a poster. The photo shows Snyder (right) holding the signed poster of Carl's Birthday, which will hang at the Accident Library. Bill (left) is holding the book Puppy Trouble addressed to Betsy and him. Betsy (center) is holding Carl's Summer Vacation, addressed to Belle and Ira, who are sitting. "It is a very special and real honor to receive unsolicited recognition for having fun with our dogs," said Betsy. "This is a wonderful reward for the work that we do for our breed, and it is an honor to be recognized by such a wonderful lady who loves the dogs." The Ruth Enlow Library also expresses it appreciation to Day.

GFWC Civic Club, GCAC Sponsors Youth Art Show

The Gencral Federation of Women's Clubs (GFWC) Civic Club of Oakland and the Garrett County Arts Council (GCAC) announces their annual 2009 Youth Art Show, being shown at The Gallery on Alder St. in Oakland until Jan. 24.

"This ongoing project is planned to encourage the young people in their art endeavors," said Helen Earles, member of the GFWC, "and to emphasize the importance of visual arts in our daily lives."

The artwork being featurcd was completed over the past year by students from Northern and Southern middle and high schools in grades 6-12, and was judged by local artists for 1st, 2nd, 3rd, and honorable mcntion awards, with nominal cash prizes being given.

The pieces range in influence from artists such as Andy Warhol and Georgia O'Keefe to self-portraits to cxploring techniques in painting and drawing.

The two judges of the Civic Club Student Art Show were Odette Lueck and Fred Peacock.

"The judges award prizes on the basis of creativity demonstrated, composition of thc clcmcnts of dcsign, the use of color, and the degree of expertise exhibited in thc handling of the particular medium used," said Lueck.

First place awards were given to SHS junior Akiva Toyoda's "Illuminated Letter" colored pencil drawing, and to Bloomington School 7th grader Melinda Holtschncider's piece which was createcl following a heraldic coat of arms lesson, using mixed media.

Second place winners were SHS senior Brooke Baier's colored pencil "Self-Portrait," and SMS 6th grader Sarah Hutton, who drew a colored pencil flower piece after studying Georgia O'Keefe.

Third place awards went to NHS junior Ashlay Folk's "Leaves and Logs" colored pcncil drawing, and to SMS 7th grader Leah Moran's "New Age: Calligraphy/Graffiti" piece, drawn with markers.

Honorable mentions were givcn to SHS senior Erika Lennox for her piece that focused on painting techniques, using acrylic paint and mixed media, and to Rachael Huxford, a 7th grader at SMS, for her "Self-Portrait" pencil on paper drawing.

The pieces selected will bc entered into a Western District contest on Feb. 28 in LaVale, where entries will be received from Carroll County west to Garrett County. Winners from this competition will be cntered into a state contest, which is conducted at the GFWC Maryland's annual convention near Baltimorc in April.

The youth artwork will be on display during Thc Gallcry hours Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

An Eye For Art

by Angela M. Sincell

I'm lacking motivation, or perhaps more like inspiration, to create art right now. And it's not as if I'm not surrounded everyday by stimuli or muses, if you will, it's just that I can't connect to them. It's interesting to me that when I'm expected to create something, I can. But when no one is depending on me to do a piece, nothing gets done. Maybe I have this "don't disappoint others" attitude which forces me. But what about me? Do I want to disappoint myself? No, I don't.

During college, I had such a drive to do art. So many ideas were coming and going, and I would barely have enough time to sketch somcthing or write in my journal when something new would pop in my mind. The creative juices were flowing! Where did they go? I'm getting frustrated because I'm impatient. I want to be inspired again and I want it now! How do I get it back?

The inspiration of the artists in this area seem to mostly come from nature and the textures and patterns found in nature. Such as the pattern that ice makes when it's shattered. Or the veins of a maple leaf. Others focus on objects in nature, likc a rusty old truck in the middle of a field or an old barn with its roof caved in. Sometimes there are animals and houses, or flowers.

The Civic Club's youth show, being shown at The Gallery in Oakland, really steps outside this and focuses on things like past artists, past art movements, art principles, techniques of painting and drawing, and many self-portraits. (Do you know how many ways you can do a self-portrait?) One of the pieccs, by Laura Schroyer, an 11th grader at NHS, is a self-portrait of herself as a little girl, done in pcncil. Can I just say Wow! I was so impressed by her steady hand and pressure, detailing the shadows and highlights of the picture. And her precision of detail; you don't see drawings like that often.

Another piece that really stood out to me was SHS senior Bryan Hutton's self-portrait. He really pushed the boundaries and experimcnted with paint and mixed media to create a colorful, abstract piece. Hc sketched himself either skateboarding or surfing onto the canvas into a mix of colors, using charcoal and acrylic paint as his media. Most self-portraits arc more like stills, stationary head and shoulder shots. Bryan draws in action. My guess is that he wanted to focus on one of his favorite pastimes.

In one of my photography classes, one of our assignments had us doing self-portraits. Well without really even thinking about what direction I wanted to take, I just started taking pictures of myself. I had a lot of back pain while in college, and after seeing my facial expressions and positions in those photos, I realized that the focus was rcally about that pain and discomfort I experienced cvery day. So I went with it. And by the end I had a triptych that expressed exactly how I felt. I don't have that back pain anymorc, but when I look at those photos, I'll always be rcminded of what it used to be like.

Art can do that. Artists go through phases of joy and pain and happiness and anger, and each emotion will be expressed if the artist has made art through each phase. In a way, it's recording history. An emotional history.

Inspiration and ideas can come from anywhere, such as:

- Nature and "manmade" nature
- Other visual art
- History and myth
- Science and mathematics
- Industry and technology
- Emotion and spirit
- Philosophy, psychology and social
- Environment

In my opinion, one got left off that list – people. Oh how I love to have people as my subject! There is no greater emotion and curiosity than that which can come from a photograph of a person.

So what's my excuse? I really don't have one, besides I feel I'm stuck in trying to make a living and not having the energy or time to focus on my art.

Perhaps I should go back to the basics, start slow, and focus on the fundamentals ofiart to get the creativity flowing again. Like the students in the art show. They didn't need to have a whole new concept or angle to start a piece of art. They simply took from an idea that was already in place and were able to create some really fantastic, even stunning pieces!

Sometimcs all a person needs is to start at the foundation and work up from there. So I think I'll try to go back to the beginning and see what happens.

provide wireless service for approximately 2,500 residents/small businesses in Garrett County.

Commissioner Denny Glotfelty stressed the importance of number nine, the $2.5 million Keyser's Ridge Water Upgrade Project. This initiative calls for construction of a water tank and redundant water source to support the Keyser's Ridge Business Park and other retail/commercial sites in that area.

Commissioner Ernie Gregg leaned toward something that would provide high value at a lower cost, such as number two on the list, the Garrett County Career Technology Center.

To be located in the old Phenix Tech building in Accident, the center will prepare high school and college students for trades careers. This project is currently in the design stage, with $1.5 million appropriated for the first phase. An additional $2 million is needed for the second phase in order to construct technology/automation labs, automotive tech shops and classrooms, and a trades shop and classrooms.

The commissioners reviewed Hinebaugh's list further on Tuesday afternoon and made no changes to the priority of items. Those are as follows:

Economic Development Projects

- Oakland/Rt. 219 Bypass
- Garrett County Career Technology Center
- McHenry Business Park
- Garrett County Exhibit Hall
- Rt. 219 and Glendale Road Intersection Improvements
- Rt. 219 North (I-68 to Pennsylvania border) Improvements
- Garrett County Broadband
- Keyser's Ridge Water Upgrades
- Coal-to-Liquid Plant

In the preliminary investigation stage, the plant would be located in northern Garrett County. According to Hinebaugh, there are indications that this is a viable project with sufficient coal readily available. An estimated $2.5 million is needed for a formal study and preliminary engineering to evaluate potential sites and other facility requirements.

General Services Capital Projects

- Garrett County Public Works Building
- General Services Maintenance Warehouse
- Garrett County Airport (expansion of apron area to meet increased demand for additional hangar space and traffic)

Department of Public Utilities Projects

- Crellin Improvements
- McHenry Water Improvements
- Mtn. Lake Park Water Improvements
- Thayerville Water System
- Friendsville Sewer Rehabilitation
- Western Conveyance Sewer System

Weigh Your Options For Inheritance

Q. I want to list my son on the deed of my home so that if I should pass, it will go to him. Is there a downside to this?

A. Putting children or other relatives on deeds is often done, but may not be the best idea. This is often done to avoid probate when the other joint tenant passes. There are several negative things that could come out of this situation.

If the son and his wife should get divorced, what happens with her share? What if the son is in the victim of a lawsuit, an IRS lien, or bankruptcy? Could the son force the sale of the property? These are all things to consider before following through with that type of transaction. It would be a good idea to get legal counsel and contact a financial planner. Home owners in this position could also investigate a living trust and/or other methods to accomplish their goal.

Q. My home has been on the market for three months and the realtor who listed it hasn't shown it once. Whom should I contact?

A. The role of a listing agency and realtor is to list your home on the market and make it available to as many people as possible, to assist you during the negotiation process, if any, when offers are presented, then to assist you to closing once an offer has been accepted.

Keep in mind that the ultimate goal is to sell your home, regardless of who sells it. It may be that the particular agent doesn't even work with buyers, but may still be doing a great job of offering your home for sale. The buyers are out there and will seek the assistance of an agent, perhaps from another company, but the end result is the same. It is simply luck and timing that determine if an agent's listing fits the needs of a buyer one has at the time. If you still have concerns, you should meet with the agent and broker for a discussion, as communication is the key to success.

Q. Should the sellers be home when we are looking at houses?

A. Typically, it is better if the sellers are not home so that you can speak freely about the home and give accurate feedback. If it is absolutely necessary for an owner to be home, it would be best for the owner to move to a room away from the interested party, and not to attempt to show the home him/herself.

Treatment for Crohn's Disease

Crohn's disease is an inflammatory condition of the digestive tract lining, which could lead to severe diarrhea and abdominal pain. Symptoms include abdominal pain, ulcers, and bloody stools. A decreased appetite and weight loss may also occur in persons affected by this condition. Crohn's disease is possibly attributable to a viral or bacterial infection, and the immune system reaction caused by the infection. The digestive tract may become inflamed as a result of the immune system's attempt to fight off the invading organism. The condition also may occur as a result of genetic susceptibility. Stress and dietary habits may play a role.

Anti-inflammatory medications, such as sulfasalazine and mesalamine, decrease the symptoms of Crohn's disease. Corticosteroids also decrease inflammation, but are associated with certain side effects. Corticosteroids are typically only used for short-term treatment. Budesonide is a newer corticosteroid that may cause less side effects; however, it is only prescribed for a certain type of Crohn's disease. Immunosuppressant medications, such as azathioprine and mercaptopurine, also decrease inflammation through their effects on the immune system.

MHEC Accepting Applications For Federal Grant Prog.

The Maryland Higher Education Commission (MHEC) is now accepting applications for the Maryland College Access Challenge Grant Program (MCACGP).

The MCACGP is a federally funded program designed to conduct outreach activities and services to improve preparation for and access to college for low-income students. This program funds projects to provide information to students who are at risk of not enrolling in or completing college and their parents on post-secondary benefits, opportunities, and career planning and preparation.

"This is a wonderful opportunity for nonprofits to develop programs to inform middle school students and their parents of postsecondary education options and to spread the message that college is possible for low-income students," said higher education secretary James E. Lyons Sr.

Grant funds will be used for project services in two areas of greatest poverty and lowest achievement in the state. A list of the schools identified as eligible to participate in this program can be found in "The Request for Applications." An RFA can be found on MHEC's web site at www.mhec.state.md.us/Grants/MdCollAccessChallGrant.asp.

Funding will be awarded on a competitive basis to eligible non-profit organizations, including institutions of higher education, or partnerships of organizations to provide outreach services. To qualify for funding, non-profit organizations must have been in existence on or before Sept. 27, 2007; must provide activities and services related to increasing access to higher education; and must be currently registered with the Maryland Office of the Secretary of the State, Charitable Organization Division.

Technical assistance meetings will be held on Thursdays, Jan. 29 and Feb. 5, at the Charles I. Ecker Business Training Center, 6751 Columbia Gateway Drive, Columbia. Both meetings will cover the following material: an overview of the MCACGP and a review pf the RFA.

Ram Grapplers Fall To St. Joe's, But Defeat Harford Tech, Miners

Despite falling to Maryland's top-ranked high school wrestling team, Mount Saint Joseph's, on Saturday, 42-30, the Southern Rams held on to their third-place state rank this week. Southern also handed talented Harford Tech a 48-18 loss on the same day, and then whipped host Mountain Ridge on Tuesday, 55-24.

The Rams recorded four pins and two decision victories against Mt. St. Joe's. The pin wins were by undefeated Bubba Scheffel in the 152-pound class, Jordan Skipper at 160 pounds, Ryan Bennett at 189 pounds, and Ryan Fitzwater in the 215-pound bout.

Southern's Lex Ozias moved up one weight class (135) to take on Benny Schaufele, a state runner-up last year, whom he edged on points in overtime, 3-1.

Also getting a decision for Southern was Nicholas Brant, who edged Jake Hulsey in the 140-pound division, 13-11.

St. Joe's got pinfalls from Kevin Johnson (103), Tyler Goodwin (112), Andrew Biedingmaier (119), Frank Goodwin (125), Matt Mullett (171), and Karl Green (285).

Previously undefeated Brutus Scheffel, a two-time state champion, also moved up one weight class and was nipped 5-4 in the 145-pound division by reigning state champion Dan Orem.

In the team victory over Harford Tech, Ozias, Bubba Scheffel, and Brandon Pritt (160) won via pins, while Brant and Skipper won by technical fall in their respective divisions. Ryan Fitzwater recorded a major decision in the heavyweight division, and gaining regular decision wins for the Rams were Matt Slone at 119 pounds and Brutus Scheffel at 140. J.B. Gnegy was awarded a forfeit in the 215-pound class.

Harford Tech pinfalls were garnered by Brandon Hoch (103) and Brandon Gain (112).

In Tuesday's match at Mountain Ridge, the Rams recorded seven pins over the 16-5 Miners. Gaining those victories were Sean Chapman in the 103-pound division, Josh Arnold at 130, Bubba Scheffel, Jordan Skipper, Kody Lewis at 171 pounds, Ryan Bennett, and Ryan Fitzwater.

Brutus Scheffel jumped back into the win column with a technical fall win in the 145-pound division, while Ozias upped his record to 20-0 with a major decision in the 135-pound bout. Nicholas Brant also earned a major decision win in the 140-pound division.

Recording pins for the Miners were Lenny Vega (112), Tom Patterson (119), Cody Clise (125), and Nathan Payne (215), which accounted for all 24 points for the home team.

Bubba Scheffel, like Ozias, also has a perfect 20-0 record, while Brutus Scheffel is 19-1, Jordan Skipper has an 18-2 mark, Ryan Fitzwater is 17-3, Ryan Bennett is 17-4, and Nicholas Brant has won 16 of 20 matches.

The Rams will be in for stiff competition again this Friday and Saturday when they participate in the Mount Mat Madness Tournament, which will be hosted by Mount St. Joseph's in Catonsville. They will host Fort Hill and Keyser next Thursday, with the first match to begin at 6 p.m.

TIME TO MAKE LEMONADE

When one hears the word "foreclosure," images are conjured of families unable to meet their loan commitments, and forced to consider unpleasant options. However, it's not only homeowners that suffer from a foreclosure. Renters can be "out on the street" if their landlord defaults on mortgage payments.

A report from the Mortgage Bankers Association states that nearly 20% of recent foreclosures have been against investors who did not live in the property, and even tenants in good standing face having to vacate the premises if they're renting one of these properties.

Why mention this gloom and doom scenario? Because the economy has slowed and buyers are seeing the best deals in many years. While unpleasant for sellers, price declines increase affordability for buyers, so if you've been renting, now is a fantastic time to turn that monthly payment into equity.

Interest rates have inched up, but still-historically low rates combined with very affordable housing yield a formula that should put you in a home that you own for the same amount you are now paying for rent. Not to mention that at a lower purchase price, you'll enjoy some great appreciation over the coming years.

Just because you're renting now, you're not necessarily safe from suffering the consequences of a foreclosure. Take matters into your own hands and buy yourself some peace of mind. If you are thinking of buying or selling a home but feel "out of touch" with real estate, give me a call today.

THE LAKERS' BIG GUN was Mo Gunn last night when the Garrett College men's team recorded a 78-65 Maryland JUCO Conference victory over visiting Dundalk.

Lakers Record JUCO Wins Over Howard, Catonsville, Dundalk

It's been another good week on the basketball court for the Garrett College men's basketball team and Coach Dennis Gibson, as the Lakers recorded a 95-74 Maryland JUCO Conference win over host Howard CC last Thursday, whipped home-standing Catonsville in another JUCO clash on Monday, 94-70, and handed visiting Dundalk a 78-65 conference defeat last night.

The victories improved the Lakers' overall record to 13-1 and their JUCO mark to 5-1.

Redshirt freshman Howard Ferguson came off the bench late in the first half of last Thursday's game against Howard to fire up a sluggish Garrett offense.

Down by as many as eight points, Ferguson, a 6-0 guard, canned two three-pointers and a driving lay-up in a five-minute span, igniting a run that gave the Lakers a 35-31 halftime lead, which they would not relinquish.

Three Lakers – Rodney Clark, Mo Gunn, and Terrance Taylor – led a balanced scoring effort, with each of them recording 18 points. The trio got the running game going, helping to build a 20-point lead by the 10-minute mark of the second half.

Ferguson finished with 12 points, a career high. Clark added 11 assists to his point total, and was 8-for-10 from the free-throw stripe, all in the second half.

"First and foremost, Ferguson is one of the hardest working guys I have," said Coach Gibson, "and I was confident that with his long-range shooting ability he would give us a boost against Howard CC's zone defense."

Leading Howard in scoring was Cameron Crump with a game-high 23 points.

Cameron Crump 9 5-6 23, Marcus Jeter 2 4-8 8, Anthony Jones 3 0-2 7, Eugene Jones 1 0-0 3, Joe Jones 6 1-5 14, Deantre Washington 8 1-2 19. Totals 29 11-23 74.

Halftime - Garrett 35-31

Three-point goals - Garrett 6 (Clark 2, Ferguson 2, Siler 1, Gunn 1), Howard 5 (Wash-ington 2, J. Jones 1, E. Jones 1, A. Jones 1). Total fouls - Garrett 21, Howard 15. Fouled out - Gunn (Garrett), J. Jones (Howard).

Deantre Washington finished with 19 and Joe Jones contributed 14.

Describing the win as "important," Gibson said, "but it is more important that we get back into the style of play that we finished with the first semester – with tough defense and good decisions. To be honest, we have yet to play the top teams in the league, except for Hagerstown. We have had some good wins, but we are going to end up playing three or four games a week, which really hurts us with our practice preparation."

In Monday's game against Catonsville, the Lakers jumped out to a 11- 0 lead in the first minutes, but the Cardinals fought back and took a two-point lead with 4 minutes remaining in the half.

Hot shooting Reco Siler, with a career high of six three-point buckets in a single game, hit his fourth long-ranger to tie the score at 30-30.

The Lakers then employed successful full-court pressure and pushed the intermission lead to 47-33.

Ferguson again came off the bench with solid play for the second straight night, scoring 15 points, all in the second half, including 9-for-9 from the foul line.

Siler finished with 22 points to pace the Lakers, while starters Taylor and J.T. Lewis hit 16 and 10, respectively. Doma Ibrahim and Brian Koonce each added eight points.

Leading the Cardinals in scoring was Brandon Baylor with 20 points, while teammate George Johnson finished with 17.

"We are not a one-man team," said Gibson. "Gunn and Clark have been consistent for us this season, but when you play as many games a week as we have to, you have to have a deep bench."

Gunn, who got into foul trouble, was held to just three points, and Clark had only five points.

"Injuries and foul trouble are an adversity that all teams have to overcome at some point, and good players and good teams can fill in and make it work," he continued. "I think this team has that capability."

The Lakers also started slowly last night against Dundalk, and were down by two points, 27-25, at intermission. But they scored the first two field goals of the second half to take the lead for good.

Mo Gunn got back on track in the scoring department and poured in a game-high 25 points, while Rodney Clark netted 14, all in the second half. Clark also had eight assists.

Terrence Taylor and Brian Koonce also reached double figures for the Lakers with 12 and 11 points, respectively, and J.T. Lewis pulled down 10 rebounds, including six offensive. Taylor grabbed seven boards.

The Lakers finished with a commanding 51-33 lead in rebounds.

Coach Gibson praised the defensive efforts of his team, particularly of Clark and Reco Siler, who were generally able to contain Anthony Baglin and Ricardo Laing, two of the top scorers in the conference. Baglin finished with 17 points to lead his team, while Laing netted 10.

"Good teams at our level have to rely on their defense," said Gibson, "especially as poorly as we were shooting and handling the ball in the first half. Reco and Rodney did an excellent job on Laing and Baglin. Laing averages 23, second best in the league, and Baglin, 18. At halftime I asked Clark to step and shoot the ball and play like he was capable, and he responded."

Sinclair Harris also reached double figures for the Lions with 14 points.

The Lakers were scheduled to play a home game against Division 3 powerhouse Montgomery Germantown, ranked as high as #4 in the polls, on Saturday; however, that contest was postponed because of possible ice storms and is rescheduled for Feb. 14.

In the meantime, Garrett is scheduled to host Prince George's CC this Saturday in a 7 p.m. game, and entertain Frederick CC next Wednesday with a 7:30 p.m. tip-off.

He Only Takes The Best
God saw you were getting tired and a cure was not to be.
So he put his arms around you
And whispered, "Come with me."
With tear-filled eyes we watched you,
And saw you pass away
Although we loved you dearly,
We could not make you stay.
A golden heart stopped beating,
Hard working hands to rest.
God broke our hearts to prove to us,
He Only Takes The Best.

Sadly Missed,
Not just today, but every day
In silence we remember.

"New, Improved" After Hours Event Launched In MLP

Nearly 60 guests attended the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce's recent Business After Hours event at the Mountain Lake Park Town Hall.

Catered by the Winner's Circle and Long Branch Saloon, the event featured a new Business After Hours format and displays from Lou DiCarlo's Stained Glass Gallery, Mountain Lake Park Tennis Club, First United Bank & Trust, Radio FX, and Simon Pearce.

"We are thrilled with the outstanding reception our new and improved Business After Hours events have received," said chamber president/CEO Charlie Ross. "The board and the staff of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce would like to thank not only the town and businesses of Mountain Lake Park but also everyone who came out to support the Mountain Lake Park Business After Hours, in spite of the snowy weather."

He added that the chamber was excited to be able to highlight Mountain Lake Park businesses and looks forward to spotlighting more Garrett County communities at future Business After Hours events.

In December, the chamber announced that in a effort to allow smaller businesses to participate, the 2009 Business After Hours events would be held at a central location in different communities throughout the county.

"Following the motto that 'people do business with people they know,' whether you have a small office, are home-based, or work out of a business vehicle, chamber members will now be able to join in as hosts for a Business After Hours just like those with storefronts or meeting rooms have done in the past," said a chamber spokesperson.

The remainder of the 2009 schedule is as follows: McHenry in February, Accident in March, Deer Park in April, McHenry in May, Friendsville in June, Oakland in July, Grantsville in August, McHenry in September, Loch Lynn Heights in October, and Kitzmiller in November. Dates and exact locations will be determined later.

Businesses in each community are invited to participate in Business After Hours. For more information about the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce or future Business After Hours events, persons may call 301-387-4386 or visit garrettchamber.com.

EAGLE SCOUT IMPROVES MEMORIAL – Anthony Hillegas of Salisbury, Pa. (pictured below), obtained the rank of Eagle Scout last fall. His project involved making significant improvements to a memorial for Air Force Sgt. Mel Wooten, who died after parachuting out of a B-52 bomber that crashed into Big Savage Mountain on Jan. 13, 1964. Tuesday marked the 45th anniversary of that crash. The bomber was carrying nuclear weapons, and it began breaking apart as it flew over Salisbury during a winter storm with high winds. Wootan was ona of four men who parachuted from the plane, and he was struck by a piece of tha plane and injured during tha fall. A small monument was erected the next spring to mark the spot where Wooten died. In the years that followed, however, the monument waa not well cared for, and brush and trees grew up around it. Anthony decided to improve the memorial as hia community aarvice project in order to earn his Eagle Scout statua. Ha joined tha Scouts when he waa in kindergarten. By the tima he waa in third grade, he had decided that if he ever made it far enough in Scouting to aarn hia Eagla Scout ranking, his project would involve tha memorial. He and tha other members of Boy Scout Troop 53 of Grantsville logged over 100 hours at the aite, clearing brush, piecing railroad ties, and creating a shale-covered parking area. Anthony also built a bench for apectators to sit on and decorated the area with flaga. The coat of the project totaled $1,564, and Anthony received financial support and donations from numerous individuals and businesses, including the Salisbury VFW, Salisbury American Legion, Grantsville Rotary, St. John's Christian Church, Keystone Lime and Beitzel Corporation. Anthony's Eagle Scout ceremony was held at the memorial site last fall. It included a 21-gun salute by the Salisbury American Legion Color Guard and the Salisbury VFW. Anthony is the son of Terry and Dawn Hillegas. He graduated from Salisbury Elk Lick High School last spring, and currently works as a machinist at Augustine Tool & Die in Somerset. Eventually, he hopes to open his own machine shop.

Comptroller Mails 1099G Forms To State Taxpayers

Comptroller Peter Franchot announced Monday that his office began mailing 1099G forms to Maryland taxpayers who itemized deductions on their federal income tax return last year and received a refund from the state.

From Jan. 12 through Jan. 30, nearly 1.4 million of the tax forms will be disseminated to taxpayers at a rate of 100,000 per day, according to the comptroller.

The 1099G informs taxpayers that the refund they received must be reported as a source of income on their 2008 federal tax return. Taxpayers do not need to include the form with their tax filings.

"It is our mission to ensure that taxpayers receive the information they need quickly and efficiently," said Franchot. "The sooner Marylanders receive the necessary information from our office, the faster they can file their taxes and the quicker they can get their refunds. For the quickest refund, I encourage Marylanders to use the iFile system on our web site or have their tax preparers take advantage of electronic filing programs."

Form 1099G reflects all Maryland refunds credited to the taxpayer during 2008, including refunds received from amended returns of previous years. Form 1099G also indicates how much, if any, of the refund was applied to estimated taxes, delinquent taxes, debts owed the state, child support, and/or forwarded to the Central Collection Unit.

For more information about Form 1099G, persons may visit the comptroller's web site at marylandtaxes.com.

Taxpayers can also e-mail questions regarding the form to taxhelp@comp.-state.md.us or contact a representative at 410-260-7980 or 1-800-MD-TAXES (1-800-638-2937), Monday through Friday, from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. From Feb. 2 until April 17, the hours will extend to 8 p.m.

Gank Is Honored By Loar Aux. For Volunteerism

The Loar Auxiliary of Garrett County Memorial Hospital honored Phyllis Gank as the featured volunteer of the month for December.

Gank joined the Loar Auxiliary as a volunteer in 2001 and has served as scheduler of the volunteers at the organization's gift shop in the hospital since 2003.

"Juggling the schedule to make sure all of the shifts are covered is a difficult task, but one that Phyllis handles with ease," said Betty Wolford, Loar Auxiliary president.

The Loar Auxiliary is a volunteer organization of the hospital. Although its main function is the management and staffing of the gift shop, the group has branched out to include oversight and management of the Cup O' Joe vending area. Members also host special vendor sales, sponsor bake sales, and undertake various other efforts that all ultimately benefit the hospital. Anyone interested in volunteering for the Loar Auxiliary may contact the hospital's Volunteer Services Department at 301-533-4041.

The local group usually meets the last Monday of the month. For more information, persons may call Donna McClintock-Fost at 301-334-7741.

On Dean's List At Potomac St.

Potomac State College of West Virginia University has announced that 191 students have been named to the dean's list for the fall 2008 semester.

Three local residents received that honor: Devan N. Yoder, Friendsville, and Keith E. Beckman and Clarissa P. Blamble, both of Oakland.

To qualify for the dean's list, students must earn a 3.0 to 3.669 grade point average and be enrolled full time. Those who have a 3.7 to 4.0 GPA are named to the president's list.

Oakland Chapter OES Holds Regular Monthly Meeting

Oakland Chapter #67 Order of the Eastern Star recently met at the Paul B. Naylor Masonic Lodge. The thought of Worthy Matron Charee Reckner was "Influence."

Arthur Coddington, Grand Warder of the Grand Chapter of Maryland, was greeted as a special guest. A memorial was read for Wilda Hile, and a report was given for the special veterans' deliveries that were made in December, as well as the fruit basket deliveries to shut-in members. Shirley Blue, North Carolina, will be mailed her 50-year membership certificate.

A report was given on the dinner served for the past Masters of Western Maryland, and it was announced that the Rainbow Girls will be having their installation of officers this Saturday, Jan. 17, at 4 p.m. All members are encouraged to attend, and advisory board members will also be installed.

The Rainbow Girls are also having a soup sale on Monday, Jan. 19, with turkey noodle soup and chili to be offered.

There will be a social event for all Eastern Star members and their families this Sunday, Jan. 18, at 1 p.m., at Uno Restaurant for lunch with social time. A movie at Garrett8Cinemas will follow the meal. All members and families are welcome to join the group.

For more details, persons may call Reckner at 301-616-2807.

The Chapter is also planning an Appointed Grand Officers Reception, slated for Saturday, Jan. 31 in Dundalk to help honor the officers. Those interested in attending are asked to call Reckner immediately. The dinner is priced at $22, and transportation is being arranged for the group to travel together.

The closing thought for the meeting was "Flowers of Tomorrow." The next meeting will be held on Tuesday, Jan. 20, at 7:30 p.m. All members are encouraged to attend.

BENEFIT HELD TO SUPPORT ROTARY, TECH FUND – An evening of entertainment, food, and silent auctions was hosted last month to benefit the Rotary Club of Oakland and the Garrett County Public School Technology Fund, resulting in a profit of nearly $700. Hosted by Million Dollar View Vacations, K.a.r.l.o. Photo, and MountainStone Media, the event took place at Will O' the Wisp at Deep Creek Lake. Million Dollar View Vacations provided free food and beverages, and the entertainment was supplied by Chip Rowan of Mountain Lake Park and Gina Powell and Derek Shank of Frostburg. This was the first year for the event. As part of the evening's activities, the top donor, who was Dean Martin of Chambersburg, Pa., was given the opportunity to gift a one-night, all-inclusive stay at the Prestige Condominiums at Will O' the Wisp to a family chosen by the Dove Center. Other notable contributions were made by Dorothy Tuel (Dove Center board member) and an anonymous donor. A silent auction was also held, with items given by Gesner and Hannah and Maria Watkins, Oakland, including photographs and handmade jewelry. Organizers felt this first year for the event went well. "It was an honor to collaborate with the Dove Center, and we look forward to future involvement with their program and other complimentary organizations," said organizer Jenna Glandoni, Deep Creek Lake. Pictured from left are Gregg Petch, Million Dollar View Vacations, Brian Oxford, MountainStone Media, Tuel, Martin, and Gesner.

TERRA ALTA NEWS

FOUND PUPPY

A 6-month-old puppy was found on the side of the highway, starving and cold, by Jerry Everly. He has been taking care of it, but needs to find it a good home as he already has two dogs. Interested persons should call 789-5819 or 698-7407 to see about adopting it.

TERRA ALTA BETTERMENT INC.

The Terra Alta Betterment Inc. (TABI) group extended thanks to Junior Grimm, who has said he will give the posts for the sign at town park entrance. The estimate from Domenick Signs to the town council has been submitted for approval. TABI will cover the cost of $1,500, as voted on in a previous meeting, if the town will cover the rest. The president of the Terra Alta Economic Development Corporation has been contacted to cover the additional $2,000 needed for the park trail bid. The town and TABI have agreed to cover $2,000 each. If all this falls into place, the park trails will be started in May. The project will involve making the entire park wheelchair-accessible, as well as easy to walk around.

The next TABI meeting will be held on Feb. 2, 7 p.m., at the town hall.

CORTLAND ACRES AWARDED FIVE-STAR RATING – Cortland Acres Nursing Home was recently awarded a five-star rating, the highest possible recognition, by the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services. Following numerous on-site inspections by the CMS, a federal government agency, Cortland Acres achieved the highest among eight other facilities in West Virginia to be accorded the five-star rating. "To achieve this rating is most gratifying, and it reflects the efforts of all members of our team who have earnestly planned and worked toward providing the best possible care for our patients," commented Cortland administrator Don Black. Facilities are rated based on health inspection surveys, staffing information, and quality of care measures. The rating system was developed following consultation with a panel of experts from academia, patient advocacy, and nursing home provider groups. Ratings are available for the public to view at www.medicare.gov. "Our goal in developing this unprecedented quality rating system is to provide families with a straightforward assessment of nursing quality, with meaningful distinctions between high and low performing homes," said CMS acting administrator Kerry Weems."The new information will also help consumers and families identify important questions to ask nursing homes and will challenge nursing homes to improve their quality of care."

THANK YOU!

I wanted to thank everyone who helped my family during my recent house fire. Friends, family, neighbors and people I didn't even know came together to help. When tragedy strikes, as I had already once experienced when battling cancer, they were there for me again! Special thanks to Brenda and Jake Reckner and the following people for their support and prayers as well as anyone else I may have missed; the boys and I deeply appreciate anything and everything that you have done.

Area Businesses Help Route 40 With Donations

Nine Garrett County families with loved ones presently serving in the military were given Christmas baskets made possible through the combined efforts of Route 40 Elementary School and 10 local businesses.

During one of the monthly meetings of the school's Action Team for Partnerships group, it was suggested by a former military wife that there was a need to support the military families. The idea was implemented into the school's annual December reading program by the group, which consists of teachers Patty Rice, Angie Harris, and Connie Kamp, parents Kathy Dolan, Wadiya Boykin, Tracy Jenkins, Kimala Keister, Gloria Hoffmann, and Diana Bennett, and principal Candy Opel. Local businesses sponsored the classrooms by making donations as students met their reading goals. The character traits of caring and giving were also emphasized.

The gift baskets were made possible with donations from J & R Contracting Services LLC (Jim and Renee Bone), Varndell Engineering LLC (George and Lisa Varndell), Miller's Welding Service Inc. (Ray Miller and Gerald Miller) Katie's (Scott and Karen Smith), Feel the Heat Firewood Co. (Jesse and Dale Opel), Powell's Grocery (Billy and Susan Powell), Mary Kay (Michele Robey and Patty Rice), the Hen House (Gary and Bill Warn), Beitzel Corporation, and Darren Kamp Excavating.

Each basket contained a Sheetz gas card, cookies from Annie's Kitchen, a Biederlack blanket, Mary Kay body wash and lotion, fruit from Hilltop Fruit Market, hot chocolate, soup, and a variety of comfort food from Powell's Grocery, note cards, a Garrett County postcard, stamps, and a Christmas card signed by each student whose class earned the basket. One basket went to two young boys, so it also contained some toys and games.

The baskets were delivered to Pastor Mel Menker and his wife Kathy at the Oak Park Church of the Brethren in Oakland, who distributed the baskets to the families. A sum of money was also given to help with the cost of mailing packages. Pastor and Mrs. Menker lead a support group at their church, and will be coming to Route 40's January assembly to thank the students for their efforts.

Students who participated in the "Read Around the World" program were rewarded with a Winter Fun Day. Activities included a winter clothes relay race, toilet paper snowman center, doughnut on a string relay, ornament on a spoon relay, obstacle course, board games, card making, stories, and refreshments.

Diabetes, Weight Loss To Be Focus Of Day Seminar

The University of Maryland Extension department will offer a seminar about weight loss and diabetes management on Jan. 24 at the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Board Room, 9 a.m. until noon. The seminar will be taught by Dr. Jennifer Bentlejewski, registered dietitian.

Participants will learn about meal planning strategies, including carbohydrate counting and the diabetic exchanges. They will also find out how to dine out healthfully, read food labels, and use artificial sweeteners.

Seats for the seminar are limited, so interested persons are urged to call 301-334-6960 by Jan. 21 to make a reservation. The cost is $10 per person, which will cover weight management and diabetes materials as well as refreshments.

GRANTSVILLE STUDENTS LEARN ABOUT COOKING In the Partners After School program. They made a variety of nutritious and fun snacks, including football subs, fruit kabobs, stone soup, and more. Each student took part in the preparation of the snacks. The cooking class was part of the new Friday Theme Nights schedule. Each Friday focuses on a different theme. During the month of January, students will participate in science night, winter cooking, watercolor painting, and bowling. The program is open Monday through Friday, providing homework assistance, arts and crafts, sports and recreation, 4-H programming, life skills, and friendships. The Partners After School @ Grantsville program is provided by Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc., and funded by grants through Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families Inc. and the Governor's Office of Crime Control and Prevention. For more information, persons may contact Karen Wood at 301-895-5818 between the hours of 3 and 6 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Have You HEARD?

Cathy Arnold, HIS

SIMPLE AS 1-3-6

The majority of states require hearing assessments for all newborns in recognition of the fact that hearing loss is one of the most common types of birth defect. With their children's best interests in mind, parents may want to subscribe to the "1-3-6" approach to hearing assessment. That is, a child should have his or her initial screening by one month of age. In the event that a loss is detected, that evaluation should be followed up by a more extensive evaluation at age 3 months. An intervention plan should be initiated by six months of age. This approach will help ensure that babies with hearing losses will be fitted with hearing instruments during the age of critical speech development.

Discovering and acknowledging there is a hearing problem is the first step toward correcting it, regardless of a person's age. The next step is turning to a hearing specialist for comprehensive examination, evaluation, and determination of the best approach to the impairment. Are you thinking there might be a problem with your child's hearing, or your own? Would you like to learn more about today's advanced technology in hearing devices? We can help you address these issues and others at AUDIBEL.

P.S. Three out of every 1,000 babies are born with hearing loss.

Spiritual Conditioning

Each shining surgical instrument reflects the bright light overhead. Gowned and masked figures move deftly and quietly. All of this skill and technology is dedicated to one purpose...the assurance that the patient will be restored to health.

There is one condition which all the skill of the surgical team cannot control; the condition of the patient's spirit. It has been proven that those patients with a hopeful, positive, and faithful attitude have a significantly greater chance of survival and recovery.

Romans 12:12 instructs us to "be joyful in hope, patient in affliction, faithful in prayer." We can learn those attributes by worshipping at God's House and by studying His Word. Practice positive spiritual conditioning. It could save your life!

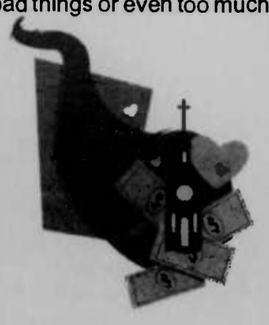
Life in Abundance

Life often seems to alternate between abundance and scarcity. Sometimes there is too much rain, and at other times, not enough. Before addressing how to create more abundance in our lives, we should first ask whether we should want more abundance, and if so, what kind. It is possible to have an abundance of bad things or even too much of a good thing. The promotion at work that comes with a raise in pay may also come with so many headaches that we find our self wanting our old job back. Sometimes the quickest route to a life of abundant joy is to simplify our life and get rid of some of our material possessions.



Wisdom warns that material things can be "golden shackles" that tie us down and make us miserable. So, how do we attract positive abundance in our lives? Trust in God's goodness, but also work hard and work smart. Live simply, and live within, or even better, under our means. Save something from every paycheck, but also be sure to be generous, giving to charity, to our church, and to those less fortunate than us. Paradoxically, those who give the most seem to attract the most abundance; fruit grows on the trees and wheat in the fields, and God wants us to both live and to give abundantly.

And God is able to provide you with every blessing in abundance, so that you may always have enough of everything and may provide in abundance for every good work.

Thiamine and Diabetic Kidney Disease

Thiamine is a B-complex vitamin, also known as Vitamin B-1. This vitamin plays an important role in nerve and muscle function, the processing carbohydrates for energy, regulating the flow of electrolytes into and out of body cells, and producing acid in the stomach. Thiamine levels are maintained through our daily dietary consumption. Thiamine deficiency can occur in as little as 14 days.

One recent study evaluated the effect of high-dose thiamine supplementation on kidney function in people with Type 2 diabetes and microalbuminuria (a condition that occurs when the kidneys lose their ability to filter properly, allowing small amounts of protein to leak into urine). Forty people received either placebo tablets or thiamine 300mg daily for three months. At the conclusion of the study, those that received high-dose thiamine had significantly less protein present in the urine compared with those that took placebo. There were no side effects from thiamine reported during the study. Thiamine is usually well tolerated; however, large doses may cause drowsiness and relaxed muscles.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• It was American science-fiction author John Thomas Sladek who made the following observation: "The future, according to some scientists, will be exactly like the past, only far more expensive."

• Although they're not as much in fashion these days as they have been in the past, you certainly know what sideburns are — but you may not know where the term came from. It seems that Ambrose Everett Burnside was a rather indifferent general for the Union Army during the Civil War, suffering a disastrous defeat at the Battle of Fredericksburg. Despite his lack of military genius, however, he was rather notorious — for the enormous bushy facial hair he wore. Eventually his last name, slightly morphed, became the generic word for such a pattern of facial hair

• In Germany, police officers often use pigs rather than dogs to sniff out illegal drugs such as marijuana.

• Those who study such things say that on average, Americans over the age of 60 catch less than one cold per year.

• The first woman to be featured on the cover of BusinessWeek magazine was Brownie Wise, the creator of the Tupperware party. This was back in 1954.

• If you've never seen an example of Leptotyphlops carlae, don't be surprised — the species of threadsnake seems to be found only on the Caribbean island of Barbados. The animal's claim to fame is that it is the world's smallest snake, measuring only 4 inches long when fully grown and achieving a girth about that of a spaghetti noodle.

• Consumers in India purchase more gold than those of any other country in the world.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Jan. 25, 1905, at the Premier Mine near Pretoria, South Africa, a 3,106-carat diamond is discovered during a routine inspection by the mine's superintendent. Weighing 1.33 pounds and christened the "Cullinan," it was the largest diamond ever found.

• On Jan. 22, 1912, Florida East Coast Railroad opened, running between Key West and the mainland. The railroad closed in 1935. Three years later, the roadway was paved, bringing automotive traffic to the Florida Keys for the first time.

• On Jan. 23, 1922, at Toronto General Hospital, 14-year-old Canadian Leonard Thompson becomes the first person to receive an insulin injection as treatment for diabetes. The teenager improved dramatically, and the University of Toronto immediately gave pharmaceutical companies license to produce insulin, free of royalties.

• Jan. 24, 1935, canned beer makes its debut. The Gottfried Krueger Brewing Company delivered 2,000 cans of Krueger's Finest Beer and Krueger's Cream Ale to Richmond, Va. Ninety-one percent of the drinkers approved of the beer, driving Krueger to give the green light to further production.

• On Jan. 20, 1945, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, the only president to be elected to three terms in office, is inaugurated to his fourth term. In 1947, the 22nd Amendment to the U.S. Constitution was passed, limiting future presidents to a maximum of two elected terms in office, or one elected term if the president already served more than two years of another president's elected term.

• On Jan. 19, 1953, episode No. 56, "Lucy Goes to the Hospital," of hit 1950s sitcom "I Love Lucy" airs for the first time. The episode, in which Lucy Ricardo, famously played by Lucille Ball, gives birth to a son, was one of the most popular in television history.

• On Jan. 21, 1977, U.S. President Jimmy Carter grants an unconditional pardon to hundreds of thousands of men who evaded the draft during the Vietnam War. In total, some 100,000 young Americans went abroad in the late 1960s and early '70s to avoid serving in the military.

Collecting

by Larry Cox

Q. I have a Desert Storm commemorative plate. I picked it up at a flea market for $25. Did I get a good deal? — Bill, Waldron, Ark.

A. The Desert Storm commemorative plate issued by Hamilton currently lists for about $40.

Q. I have some Santa Clara Indian pots that date from the teens and 1920s. I would like to have them appraised, but the professionals I contacted charge a great deal for this service. Is it possible to find someone who can help me who is more affordable? — Sue, Rio Rancho, N.M.

A. As I have often written in this column, a free or cheap appraisal is generally worthless. Your pots are probably valuable, and you need a competent appraiser to determine just how valuable. If you can't afford to hire a professional, then simply enjoy your pots for their beauty.

Two appraisers I especially recommend are Michael Higgins, 4429 N. Campbell Ave., Tucson, AZ 85718; and Rick Rosenthal, Morning Star Traders, 2020 East Speedway, Tucson, AZ 85719. Both have national reputations for being knowledgeable in this field of collecting.

Q. I have two figurines by Austin Productions from 1957. I paid $100 for them. What are they worth now? — Joseph, South Daytona, Fla.

A. I checked eBay and found dozens of Austin figurines available, including Bright Eyes ($14.99, one bid); two sculptures from 1971, 1975 ($20.50, eight bids); and The Thinker ($125, no bids). To find out the exact value of the two that you have, you should have an appraisal done.

Where There's a Will ...

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: Is it possible to include a pet in your will? I saw all the controversy about Leona Helmsley's dog inheriting her money on TV. I'm not rich at all, but I do want my two Chihuahuas and my parakeet "Bobby" to be well cared for if I should pass before them. — Beryl in Ormond Beach, Fla.

DEAR BERYL: It is possible and, in fact, recommended. The American Pet Products Manufacturers Association estimates that 69 percent of American households own at least one pet. Of the 2.4 million Americans who die each year, statistically, many of those who pass away are pet owners.

Even if we aren't wealthy, we still leave stuff behind when we die, including (and especially) pets. Adding a pet to your will is important — it's less about leaving the pet your money as it is about making sure a pet will be cared for after you're gone.

The online estate-planning service ItsMyLife.com (www.itsmylife.com) recommends that pets be protected in writing, as part of your will. Verbal agreements can easily be forgotten.

The company is offering its "Pets Letter of Wishes" for free through Valentine's Day, and its other estate-planning documents are available at a reasonable price.

You don't have to go through a service — you can add a provision for your pet in your existing will, or create a will, simply by writing out your wishes on paper and having a witness agree to and sign it. But I recommend an attorney look over any will, regardless of how or where it was made, to make sure it can be carried out with few problems.

Gone from 'CSI,' but perhaps not forever

By Jay Bobbin

William Petersen

Q: Could you tell me why William Petersen is leaving "CSI: Crime Scene Investigation"? –Denise Garvey, Raleigh, N.C.

A: After so many years on a weekly series, the actor reportedly wants the time to do some different things, including a return to his background in live theater. That's not really a surprise, given his previous multiple-episode absence when he did a play (with CBS bringing in Liev Schreiber for those "CSI" stories).

It should be emphasized that Petersen – who's now out of the show as a cast regular as of last week's episode – still retains a link to the series as one of its producers, and the door has been left open for him to return as Gil Grissom, though it's unlikely that would happen on a continuing basis again. He has indicated that if it makes sense in story terms, he's open to a reprise, too.

Q: I understand Jay Leno is going to take the place of "Law & Order" next season. When can I see "Law & Order"? –Geri Owen, Corsicana, Texas

A: Provided NBC renews the long-running drama, which hadn't been confirmed as of this writing, it likely will go into the hour before Leno's weeknight show, which will close the network's prime-time lineup. The same applies to "Law & Order: Special Victims Unit," since that's where most of NBC's hourlong dramas would appear destined to go – a situation that's been stirring interesting conversations since the announcement of the new Leno deal.

The plan gives drama producers five fewer programming hours to vie for as they try to place their shows with NBC. It also forces them to consider the sort of content they include, since what normally might play as a "10 o'clock (ET/PT) show" will have to air at least an hour earlier, and that could affect their plans creatively. It's also relevant to potentially continuing shows that often have had that last hour, those in the "Law & Order" franchise being among them.

Q: Can you tell me if "Kung Fu Killer" with David Carradine will be released on DVD? –Jeff Grazcyk, Chattanooga, Tenn.

A: We can, and you'll be glad to know that it already has been. Originally shown on Spike TV as a miniseries last summer, the action tale with Carradine – also a veteran of the 1970s "Kung Fu" show, of course – and Daryl Hannah was released on disc Jan. 6 by Genius Entertainment.

Farming
On The Mountaintop

SCHOLARSHIP CONTRIBUTION PRESENTED – The Garrett County Livestock Association recently presented a $1,000 contribution to the Joyce Colbert Scholarship fund in honor of Dr. Colbert's generous support during the time that she lived and practiced in Garrett County. Colbert supported county FFA and 4-H livestock exhibitors by providing hundreds of hours of volunteer service to the county's youth livestock programs. She regularly attended the spring and fall tagging events, completing hundreds of animal health checks at no cost to the county's FFA and 4-H members. She also provided vet coverage for the annual rodeo fundraiser sponsored by the Livestock Association. The Colbert Scholarship is managed by the Tucker Foundation and is designed to support youth who are pursuing an education in veterinary medicine. Pictured from left are Rick Rush, president of the Garrett County Livestock Association, and Rob Burns, executive director of the Tucker Foundation.

Changes Noted To Ag Programs

USDA recently published an interim final regulation in the Federal Register announcing changes to Adjusted Gross Income (AGI) qualification, program payment limitations, and direct attribution for FSA and Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) programs, which became effective in accordance with the 2008 Farm Bill.

For commodity and disaster programs, the AGI limitation was reduced from $2.5 million AGI from all sources to a three-year average non-farm AGI of $500,000. A person or entity shall not be eligible for such programs if the non-farm AGI exceeds $500,000.

Also, under the new regulations, an individual or entity must have a three-year average AGI less than or equal to $750,000 per year from farm income in order to qualify for direct payments issued under the Direct and Counter-cyclical Program.

The definition of income derived from farming, ranching, and forestry operations was expanded to include, among others, such items as the packing, storing, and transporting of agricultural commodities; production of livestock products; farm-based production of renewable bio-energy; and in some instances, the providing of operational inputs to farmers, ranchers, and foresters.

For conservation programs, the average non-farm AGI limitation is $1 million or less for eligibility with allowances for certain exceptions.

Individuals and entities must be "actively engaged in farming" with respect to a farming operation in order to be eligible for specified payments and benefits. To be "actively engaged in farming," the individual or entity must make significant contributions to the farming operation of: (1) capital, equipment, land, or a combination; and (2) personal labor or active personal management, or a combination.

Public comments on this interim final rule must be submitted to the department within 30 days of the date of publication.

MILC Program Sign-Up Slated

Registration for the Milk Income Loss Contract Program (MILC) is currently under way, and will continue through the program's expiration date of Sept. 30, 2012.

The 2008 Farm Bill reauthorizes the MILC Program, which operates similarly to the counter-cyclical payment program for crops, and makes three key changes in program operation. Under the Farm Bill, the MILC payment rate and the per-operation poundage limit are modified, depending on when the milk is produced. In addition, a "feed cost adjuster" is introduced over the life of the 2008 Act, which adjusts the $16.94 per hundredweight (cwt.) benchmark price upward depending on the cost of feed rations.

When available, MILC payments are based on a payment rate percentage that is multiplied by the difference between a now-flexible target ($16.94 per cwt. or higher) and the specific month's Boston Class I price of milk.

The 2008 Farm Bill made changes to the provisions for payment eligibility and adjusted gross income (AGI). If the individual or entity has non-farm AGI greater than $500,000, the individual or entity is not eligible for MILC benefits.

Receives Dean's List Honors, Again

Shelly Crotts, formerly of Oakland, has been named to the 2008 fall semester dean's list at Allegany College of Maryland. She has the added distinction of earning a perfect 4.0 grade point average for the semester.

Crotts has been on the dean's list for the past spring and fall semesters. Only full-time students with a 3.80 GPA or higher may named to the list.

An elementary education major, Crotts is a 1989 graduate of Southern High School. She previously attended Washington Bible College in Lanham and Prince George's Community College. Crotts plans to continue her studies at Frostburg State University next fall.

She and her husband Tom live in Cumberland with their three children: Michael, Austin, and Mattesyn.

Crotts is the daughter of Harry and Angie Biggs, Oakland, and the late Thomas H. Stuck.

Students Urged To Begin Filing FAFSA Forms

Students planning to attend Maryland's two- and four-year public and independent colleges or universities or private career schools for the 2009-10 academic year are advised to begin filling out and submitting the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) in order to be eligible for student financial assistance.

The FAFSA form determines whether a student qualifies for need-based, federal aid, such as the Pell Grant and Stafford Loans, and for Maryland's numerous scholarship programs. Students can now access the form online at www.fafsa.ed.gov. The deadline for filing the FAFSA for state need-based aid programs, such as the Howard P. Rawlings Guaranteed Access Grant and Educational Assistance Grant programs, is March 1.

"Competition for federal and state financial scholarships and grants will be especially tight this year," noted higher education secretary James E. Lyons Sr., which is why he encourages potential college students to file their FAFSA right away. "Simply put, to determine eligibility for state financial aid, students must file a FAFSA."

For information regarding state financial aid programs, students should visit www.mhec.state.md.us/financialaid/descriptions.-asp. A description of each program is listed, and students are able to gain access to that particular scholarship's application.

If students have questions regarding scholarship program eligibility they may e-mail the Maryland Higher Education Commission's Office of Student Financial Assistance (OSFA) at osfamail@mhec.state.md.us or contact the agency at 1-800-974-1024 or 410-260-4565.

The Maryland Higher Education Commission is a 12-member coordinating board responsible for establishing statewide policies for Maryland public and independent colleges and universities and private career schools.

GIRL SCOUTS CREATE "BIRTHDAY-IN-A-BOX" PACKAGES – To help celebrate the Girl Scout Black Diamond Council's 35th birthday, Scouts from Troop 55004 created seven Birthday-In-a-Box packages to donate to the Dove Center in Oakland. "The girls really loved 'planning a party' for someone they didn't even know," said Elizabeth Huxford, co-leader for the troop. "This birthday service project recognizes the importance of a birthday in a person's life. Sadly, there are many people whose birthdays will pass without any celebration. Receiving that special gift, enjoying a slice of birthday cake after blowing out the candles, and the knowledge that someone remembered you and took the time to let you know they care, can make a difference. This project can provide normalcy, joy, and hope in the lives of those who may not otherwise have a birthday celebration." Huxford noted that the girls will take a break from this service project to start the Gift of Caring project during cookie season. This year our troop will donate cookies to the Ronald McDonald House and the Fisher House, which serves a similar purpose for injured soldiers' families at the Walter Reed Army Medical Center. "Character, conduct, and community service are core qualities of Girl Scouting," Huxford said. In the first handbook, written by Girl Scout founder Juliette Gordon Low, Girl Scouts are charged to "do a good turn every day." Community service is an important element throughout the Girl Scout program, she said. "Girls learn important and valuable skills through community service that will help them develop into responsible citizens," said Huxford. Shown above in the front row, from left, are Elizabeth McClean, Alanna Kinney, Rainey Norris, Emily Dawson, Rachael Huxford, and Grace Dubansky. In the second row, same order, are Corinne Weaver, Adriana Cogley, Julia Jordan, Bethany Evans, Quinn McClean, Brianna Evans, and Jian Travis.

THE SOUND OF RUSHING WATER is almost audible when one gazes at this photo, taken recently of Tolliver Falls at Swallow Falls State Park. While the winter weather is harsh, and seemingly relentless recently, the season does provide some of the most lovely scenes around the mountaintop. After sub-zero temperatures late last week, today's high of 30 feels like a heat wave. Rain is expected tomorrow, but then snow again much of next week. So go out and take a look. It's a beautiful place. Photo by Karla Harman.

Admin. Building At Public Works Center Deferred

The Garrett County commissioners have decided to defer another capital project: the Public Works Administrative Building (PWAB). This decision was made Tuesday, following a review of financial and budget matters. The county's fiscal year 2010 budget process is currently under way.

"The board decided to defer construction of this facility at this time, and the project will be moved on the County Capital Project Fund from fiscal year 2009/2010 to fiscal year 2011," county administrator Monty Pagenhardt said.

He noted, however, that the commissioners will proceed with the final bid process for the PWAB.

The $3.6 million project is be located at the Public Works Complex, located off Rt. 135 near Mtn. Lake Park, and would house the administrative offices of the County Roads Department, Department of Public Utilities, county engineering staff, and Department of Planning and Land Development – Division of Permits and Inspections.

Garrett County Roads Department personnel recently moved into their new $3.4 million Oakland area garage at the Public Works complex. Pagenhardt said the commissioners will market (by public sale or sealed bid) the former roads garage site, located along Rt. 219 in Oakland.

"Proceeds from this sale may be used for construction of the PWAB, but the board is unsure of a final

Friendsville Woman Killed In Vehicle Accident In Florida

A Friendsville woman was killed in a two-vehicle accident Monday night that occurred in South Fort Myers, Fla. Her husband, the regional director of the Maryland Department of Juvenile Services, was also injured in the collision.

According to Florida Highway Patrol, Dale W. Schroyer, 67, was operating a 2008 Cadillac with his wife, Ethel "Nikki" Schroyer, 67, riding as passenger. The couple were stopped at a red light at U.S. Rt. 40 and Bell Tower Boulevard, when their vehicle was struck from behind by a 1994 Ford SUV, driven by Adam R. Boily, 20, Fort Myers.

Upon impact, the Schroyer vehicle was pushed into the northbound turn lane, where it flipped onto its side. Boily stated that he failed to see the Scroyer vehicle.

Dale Schroyer was hospitalized for two days at Lee Memorial Hospital following the accident.

Appalachian Crossroads Jobs Program Receives State Honor

by Peggy Santamaria

Bleak year-end statistics have become the staple of news and economic reports, as the track records of 2008 are reviewed by governments, businesses, and agencies across the country.

Against this dismal background, Scott Hollings-worth has reason to be proud of the successful record of the vocational programs he directs for Appalachian Crossroads. Not only did the Supported Employment program at the Oakland-based agency surpass its goals for 2008, but it also earned a prestigious statewide award.

Appalachian Crossroads received the 2008 Excellence in Partnership Award, which was presented by the Maryland Division of Rehabilitation Services (DORS) at its annual conference. The agency oversees 116 community-based rehabilitation programs which provide services similar to those offered by Appalachian Crossroads.

DORS director Robert Burns noted that Appalachian Crossroads was selected as the organization that best represents excellence.

Burns cited Appalachian Crossroads' creative collaboration with an array of partners as instrumental in setting the stage for the success of Garrett County citizens with disabilities achieving their goals of fulfillment through meaningful employment.

Hollingsworth showcased the award and annual reports at a recent Appalachian Crossroads board of directors meeting. The reports highlighted the success of the past year.

O'Malley Budget Includes 700 Layoffs, Large Cuts To Counties

by Dylan Waugh
Capital News Service

Gov. Martin O'Malley proposed a "very, very lean" 2010 budget Wednesday, including $1.2 billion in cuts, 700 state employee layoffs, and level-funding for numerous programs.

Local governments were hit with $310 million in cuts. In-state tuition for higher education would be frozen for the fourth straight year.

O'Malley's proposed budget assumes $350 million from a federal economic stimulus package that has yet to pass Congress, and includes millions from the state's rainy day fund.

"There will be more cuts in this budget than any other prior budget in our state's history," O'Malley said Wednesday at the State House.

O'Malley's proposals addressed a $2 billion projected shortfall for next year, as well as a $346 million deficit this year. By law, legislators can only make reductions, not additions, to the governor's proposed budget, and have until April to pass a balanced budget bill.

The $14.4 billion operating budget is 1.3 percent lower than this year's $14.6 billion budget.

The 700 layoffs "will come from many, many departments," O'Malley said. In addition, 250 vacant positions will be eliminated.

"It's my hope that these painful cuts will be done in such a way that they will not too terribly impact services," O'Malley said.

Education was on a "very, very short list" of items seeing increases in O'Malley's budget.

O'Malley proposed a $68.3 million increase in K-12 spending. He also set aside $260 million for school construction.

Throughout his speech O'Malley touted the #1 ranking Maryland's public school system received from Education Week and called education the state's top priority.

But not all educational programs were immune from level funding, including the School Breakfast

Garrett County Dept. Heads Report On Effects Of Economic Downturn

The Garrett County commissioners held their quarterly staff meeting on Tuesday, hearing reports from 14 departments and agencies. The main topic of discussion was the economy, budgets, and other issues affected by the downturn.

Economic Development

"Our unemployment's up a little bit," said Director Jim Hinebaugh, Garrett County Department of Economic Development. "But it's still well below the national average."

The director did not have the final number for the year, but he calculated that the county's unemployment rate for 2008 would be about ½ to ¾ point above the previous year.

"That puts it at about 5 [percent]," Hinebaugh said. "So, certainly by Garrett County's historical standards, we're doing very well."

He added that even compared to the national unemployment rate the county was doing well. According to the U.S. Department of Labor, last year's unemployment average was 5.81 percent. For December alone, the national rate was 7.2 percent.

Hinebaugh said he was not aware of any local business closures causing significant unemployment. He noted, however, that some businesses have cut back and laid people off. The director said the opening of Lowe's in Oakland would help offset that a little bit. About 85 have been hired by the company.

"The good thing is, and it's kind of surprising, we still have a good bit of commercial interest," he said. "There are a number of national or regional chains that are looking for sites in Garrett County. So there's still a good bit going on on the commercial/retail side."

The director said he keeps waiting for the impact of what is happening with the national economy to hit the local level.

Social Services

Director Rick DeWitt, Garrett County Department of Social Services, reported that because of a budget reduction, the Maryland Department of Human Resources (DHR) has placed a statewide moratorium on providing certain services for new adult clients.

"We will continue serv-

Commissioners Approve Master Plan Amendments

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners approved two amendments to the county's master plan during their weekly meeting on Tuesday. This decision will allow the proposed McHenry Business Park and a Community Action workforce housing development called Lake Hill to have public water and sewer service.

Both projects are to be constructed near the airport on a county-owned piece of property called the White Face Farm.

Commissioners Ernie Gregg and Fred Holliday approved the amendments. Commissioner Denny Glotfelty abstained because of a possible conflict of interest. The service lines will run across land owned by Glotfelty and his brother Warren.

SCOUTS SEEKING COOKIE SHIPMENT SPONSORS – Katie Carpenter, representing Junior Troop 55023, and Christine Carpenter, representing Cadet Troop 55021, display a flag and certificate that were received from a military unit to which the Scouts had sent Girl Scout cookies. Each year, Girl Scout troops from all over the country sell and ship cookies to local soldiers serving in the Middle East. Since they have chosen to send these cookies to local men and women, the shipping must be paid for locally as well. "In previous years, this cost has been generously provided by select local businesses," said Scout leader Debbie Carpenter. "However, due to the failing economy, those funds are not available this year." The cost to ship one case (12 boxes) of cookies to a soldier is $12. The local Girl Scouts are asking anyone who is interested in donating funds to pay for shipping to call Carpenter at 301 387 8199. "Any and all donations for this worthy cause are appreciated," she said.

NO NEED TO YELL 'MUSHI' TO THESE LOCAL SLED DOGS, who appear to be perfectly happy to run along on their own through the snowy Garrett County pathways. These dogs, shown with musher Shaina Custer Saturday, 21, will be taking part in races this weekend. Saturday and Linda Herdering, 51, both of Accident, will compete in dogsled races and "dogsled drag races" on Saturday, Jan 31. They have each been accepted to race teams in the fourth annual Pennsylvania Dogsled Races, held at the Links Golf Course, Nemacolin Resort, beginning at 11 a.m. Saturday will race a three-dog, purebred Siberian husky team, with Jag as her leader and Colt and Indy as wheel dogs. Herdering will race in the four-dog class with huskies Gunny and Charger at lead, along with Oreo and Buzz at wheel position. They will both use a white ash six-foot dogsled made by Maine Made Sleds. Saturday has five years of experience mushing dogs at Husky Power Dogsledding tours in Accident. She raced once before at Fairhill State Park, where she won in the six-dog purebred class. Herdering has been mushing for more than 25 years and owns Husky Power Dogsledding with her husband Mike. They have 20 huskies. Most of the 2-mile race, involving more than 20 teams, can be seen from the Links Golf Course parking lot. Following the regular race will be "drag races" at 9 p.m. This event, to be held under the lights at the ski area, will feature three-dog teams running side-by-side on a short flat course. The winners will continue to "drag" each other until a final champion is determined. An awards ceremony will take place at 11 a.m. Sunday. All are welcome to come watch both races and cheer the Garrett Countians on. Saturday is pictured as she mushes the 12-dog team for her stowaway guest, Eric Aral.

Second Annual WinterFest Set For Feb 20–22

Oakland Main Street/ Greater Oakland Business Association will host the second annual WinterFest on Friday, Feb. 20, through Sunday, Feb. 22, in a four-block area along Alder, Second, and Liberty streets. Some activities may have a small fee involved.

Prior to the festival weekend, Frozen Assets Ice Carving Company artists will begin carving ice sculptures and a large ice castle. Weather permitting, the sculptures will be on display through Sunday evening.

Friday night will feature a progressive dinner. As they stop at various locations for their dinner courses, participants will tour historic parts of Oakland via a horse-drawn sleigh and see lighted ice sculptures along the way.

The cost is $75 per person. Reservations are required, and seating is limited to 24 participants.

"Last year's dinner sold out quickly," noted a GOBA spokesperson. "So get your reservation in early."

Many activities for all ages have been planned for Saturday. Early that morning, weather permitting, Bill's Marine Service will host a snowmobile race and demonstration rides at the Oakland Golf Course, located off Oakland Sang Run Road.

Master carver Bill Sandusky will finish up the ice castle, which will feature a 12-foot slide for children to

Grantsville Man Receives Six Months In Jail

A 21-year-old Grantsville man was sentenced recently in Garrett County Circuit Court for a second degree rape charge. Judge Daniel Moylan (retired) sentenced Cory Joe McKenzie to six months in the Garrett County Jail.

The sentence was suspended, and McKenzie is on probation. The judge ordered McKenzie to perform 250 hours of community service, among other special conditions of probation. He also has to register as a child sexual offender.

McKenzie was arrested and charged by Maryland State Police in August after investigators learned he had had inappropriate relations with a teenager in the Grantsville area in September 2006.

McKenzie had pleaded guilty in November, and sentencing was held earlier this month after a presentence investigation was completed.

In other recent court proceedings, Seth Edwin Feather, 21, Aurora, W.Va., pleaded guilty to driving on a suspended out-of-state license. Related charges were dismissed upon his plea.

Judge Jim Sherbin then sentenced Feather to six months in the Garrett County Jail. Five months of the sentence were suspended, and Feather will be on probation after serving the 30-day sentence. He will also pay a fine of $200.

Feather was arrested and charged by Garrett County sheriff's deputies in July after his car was found wrecked in a wooded area off Garrett Highway, north of Foster Road. Feather had gone off the west side of the roadway, traveled approximately 100 yards into the woods, and struck trees, according to the state's attorney.

The investigation began when a woman in a nearby residence called the Sheriff's Office to report that a man with injuries had come to her house, requesting to use her phone. The man left before authorities arrived and could not be located that night.

The next day, the car was found in the woods, and the woman later identified Feather from a photo lineup. Additional witnesses were located by officers to place Feather as the driver of the car the night of the accident, the state's attorney said.

Relay For Life Kick-Off Event Slated Feb. 17

Garrett County's 2009 Relay For Life kick-off meeting will be held Tuesday, Feb. 17, at 6:30 p.m. in Garrett College's Continuing Education building, Rooms 205–207. Individuals, families, friends, organizations, businesses, and other groups are invited to form teams.

Teams raise money throughout the year for the American Cancer Society. Each team member is asked to raise a minimum of $100 before the Relay For Life event, scheduled this year for June 12 and 13 one the Southern High School track.

Team members camp out and try to keep one member on the track throughout the night. When not circling the track or sleeping, team members participate in cookouts, games, and other festivities.

Relay For Life begins on a Friday evening with a Survivors Lap to celebrate the lives of those who have had cancer.

"Later in the evening, the Luminaria Ceremony takes over the track as hundreds of candles are lighted in memory of those lost to cancer and in honor of those still fighting cancer," said an event spokesperson. "And finally, when morning comes, individuals are asked to make a commitment to fight back against cancer in their lives and in their communities."

For more information, persons may call the Cumberland American Cancer Society office at 301-722-2145 or visit relayforlife.org/garrett.

Man Cited After Leaving Scene Of Car Accident

An Oakland man was cited by a Garrett County sheriff's deputy last Thursday following a single-vehicle accident in the area of Mason School Road.

The deputy's investigation discovered that Christopher Allen Bittinger, 28, had been traveling westbound on George Washington Highway, when he apparently lost control of his vehicle, striking the guardrail. Bittinger's vehicle continued westbound and struck the embankment several more times.

He had left the scene of the accident by the time the deputy had arrived, and was later located and issued citations for failure to return and remain at the scene of a motor vehicle accident and failure to notify the nearest police of the accident.

ESSAYS ADVANCED TO STATE LEVEL – Two Garrett County students whose essays won in the local Patriot's Pen contest, sponsored annually by the VFW Post 10077 in Deer Park, have now placed in the district contest. District 3 VFW Commander Donald Bland announced that Garrett County entries written by Rebecca Flinn and Justin Derato took first and second places, respectively, at the district level. These students, representing the Deer Park VFW, were competing in the district level competition, which encompasses western Maryland. Rebecca is a 7th grader at Southern Middle School, and Justin is a student at Northern Middle. The results of the state judging will be announced in Westminster on Jan. 25. Both young writers, pictured with Commander Bland, received prizes at the monthly meeting at the Deer Park Post, under the direction of Post Commander Paul Everly. They received certificates and cash prizes from Bland and Patriot's Pen chairman Wayne McCaughey.

DUI Charges Given To Oakland Man

A traffic stop last Thursday led to the arrest of an Oakland man on charges of drinking and driving.

Brian Lee Moats, 25, was stopped on Paul Friend Road driving a 2007 Pontiac. Further investigation led to his arrest.

He was charged with driving under the influence, DUI per se, driving while impaired, and driving in violation of a restricted license.

Del. Beitzel Will Be Reassigned To Appropriations

Del. Wendell R. Beitzel (R-District 1A) was informed last Friday by House Speaker Michael Busch that he will be reassigned to the House Appropriations Committee for the 2009 Maryland General Assembly session.

"It is quite an honor to serve in this capacity at such an important year for the state of Maryland," said Beitzel.

The delegate had served two years on the House Health and Government Operations Committee, where he was instrumental in crafting legislation to provide help with liability insurance for family practitioners who provide obstetrical service in Garrett County.

"I deeply respect and admire the chairman of the Health and Government Operations Committee, and I am thankful for the relationships that I have developed with my colleagues on the committee," Beitzel said. "However, I am ready for this new challenge and feel that I will be in a better position to serve my constituents in District 1A in this new capacity."

The House Appropriations Committee and the Senate Budget and Taxation Committee are charged with dealing with the state's budget.

"This year's budget is going to be difficult," said Beitzel. "We are looking at a massive deficit that the state needs to address to balance the budget."

Current estimates suggest that Maryland faces a $1.9 billion deficit for fiscal year 2010. In accordance with Article III, Section 52 of the Maryland Constitution, the governor is required to submit the budget for the upcoming fiscal year for the General Assembly's inspection and approval.

Beitzel noted that he will now sit on a committee where he can work closely with Sen. George C. Edwards (R-District 1), who sits on the Senate Budget and Taxation Committee, in passing the state's budget.

Charged With Theft Following GBI Investigation

An Oakland woman was issued multiple theft charges last Thursday afternoon stemming from an investigation into an alleged internal theft from her place of employment.

Bonnie Lynn Miller, 45, was charged with felony theft, felony theft scheme, and misdemeanor theft after an investigation that was conducted by the Garrett Bureau of Investigation. Miller allegedly stole over $8,000 from her place of work during a time period spanning approximately six months during 2008.

Detectives were alerted by the owners of the business, which prompted the investigation. Detectives recovered evidence indicating the alleged theft. Miller was charged by detectives with a criminal summons that was served at the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

Woman Taken To GCMH After Single-Vehicle Accident

A McHenry resident was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital Wednesday morning following a single-vehicle accident in the area of Glendale Road.

A Garrett County sheriff's deputy responded to the 10 a.m. mishap that was determined to have occurred when Tana L. Hight, 63, lost control of her vehicle on the icy roadway. Hight had been traveling east, when her vehicle slid into a ditch/culvert, requiring to be towed from the scene.

She was taken to Garrett Memorial by Northern Rescue Squad and was treated for her injuries. No charges were filed in the accident.

Vehicles were reportedly egged, tires were slashed, and profanity was scratched into the paint. The victims include private citizens, law enforcement officers, school teachers, and school administrators, past and present.

Both individuals were additionally charged with two counts of contributing to a certain condition of a child after it was discovered that they had transported two 15-year-old females across state lines, where they allegedly consumed alcohol and illegal drugs.

Feaster was released on his signature, and White was released on an unsecured bond.

Garrett College To Host 2009 GC Job Fair

Garrett College will host its 2009 Garrett County Job Fair on Thursday, March 26, from 3 to 7 p.m. Registration will begin at 2:30 p.m.

Participating employers will offer display space, including a table, chairs, and a sign with company's name. Access to electrical outlets will be available at a first-come, first-served basis, and early registration is recommended as space is limited.

"Last year's job fair was an outstanding success, with more than 450 job seekers in attendance and a full house of employers," stated Judy Carbone, coordinator of career and transfer services at Garrett College. "Unfortunately we ran out of floor space and had to turn a few employers away."

Businesses are encouraged to return the registration form no later than Tuesday, Feb. 27, in order to be included in pre-job fair radio and print advertising. Additional spaces will be available on a limited basis until March 20. The registration form for businesses is now available at the job fair web site at www.garrettcollege.edu/events/jobfair-/Employers.htm, or persons may contact Carbone at 301-387-3046. The cost for employers is $35.

The fair is open to any employer who is expecting to hire people within the next several months, whether full-time, part-time, summer, entry level, or experienced.

The fair will be open to all members of the community, including college and high school students, as well as experienced workers seeking a job or career change. Job seekers are encouraged to bring copies of their resumes.

The job fair is sponsored by Garrett College, the Garrett County One-Stop Center, the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, and Radio FX.

"The nominating process provides an opportunity to recognize the many talents and contributions of extraordinary women," said the spokesperson.

To All Valued Customers Of NuWay Cleaners

111 East Center St., Oakland, MD 301-334-2695

Friends,

We want to thank you for your support these past 20 months and for your continued support and cooperation in the coming years ahead.

We feel it is important to inform you of our situation at NuWay Dry Cleaners. As many of you have discovered as you have come into NuWay to either drop off or pick up your clothes, the building has been very cold. Here's why– sometime between Saturday evening, December 20, 2008, and Monday, December 22, 2008, our boiler shut off. With the frigid temperatures and high winds during that time frame everything froze. The boiler is the main piece of equipment that we must have in order to operate. We have been working hard getting everything restored, fixed and operational since December 22, 2008, but are still not there. We hope to have the plant operational by the end of the month.

With our cleaners down, we quickly made arrangements for all our dry cleaning, laundry and pressing to be done by the LaVale Dry Cleaners. Each day your clothes are taken down to LaVale and cleaned clothes brought back to NuWay. We have been doing this since December 22, 2008. Why do this instead of just closing, you ask? It is because we are trying very hard to earn and keep your business as your local cleaner.

Additionally, due to the turbulent economic times we currently live in, it is necessary to make some minor changes in the way we do business effective February 1, 2009.

1. There will be a minimum charge of $5.00 required for the use of credit or debit cards.
2. Orders will have to be partially paid for in advance when you drop off your clothes if you do not have an established account on record with us. Establishing an account is easy.
3. All accounts must be paid when invoiced unless a credit card number has been provided to charge that month's invoice.
4. All orders must be picked up within 30 days of the order. Beginning on the 31st day, a $5.00 storage fee will be added to your bill. The fees will increase every 30 days.

We apologize that we must make these changes, but we must in order to remain in business so we can continue to provide this service to all the great citizens of the local area. We wish you all a successful 2009!

Sincerely,

Jack and Libby Riley

Absolutely Remarkable...

Politics completely aside, there were some pretty amazing things that took place surrounding the inauguration of Barack Obama on Tuesday in Washington, D.C. Even though the media has been in its now customary total frenzy about the election of the first black American as president, and has arguably gone overboard in some areas of its coverage, this was nonetheless a historic day for America.

Regardless of one's political affiliation, regardless of how one voted in the 2008 election, how refreshing it was to experience such an extreme wave of optimism and emotion that stretched far beyond the masses assembled on the Mall in D.C. Even the departing and much maligned President George Bush was overheard telling someone on the Capitol steps, "This is a great day in the history of our country."

Perhaps the single most telling indication of the uniqueness of this event was the behavior of the people who made the trip to D.C. for the ceremony. The estimates of the size of the crowd range from a minimum of 1 million to as many as 2 million people. Because of Obama's race, it is likely that the massive crowd comprised roughly half black and half white Americans, with those percentages varying slightly by the presence of those of other races and nationalities. Yet – and this is the most astounding thing about it – in that crowd of as many as 2 million people, people of mixed races, standing virtually shoulder to shoulder, some for many hours in the freezing cold, jockeying for the best vantage points, there was not a single arrest reported by law enforcement officials. That is absolutely remarkable; it seems impossible.

Now, the bar has been set extremely high for President Obama, and almost without question, it is unlikely that he will be able to accomplish all, perhaps even most, of what many citizens expect. Reality has now set in for the new president, who probably knows better than anyone else the monumental task that lies before him.

But attitude plays such a huge role in the battle against any adversity, and after witnessing and experiencing the events of Tuesday, Jan. 20, 2009, our nation should surely be off on the right foot to tackle the difficulties that lie before us.

Writers of letters to the editor are reminded that letters will not be published if they exceed 400 words, do not include contact information, and/or are deemed to be libelous.

To the Editor:

Thank you for the informative article on "Weitzell Family Preserves Bear Creek Ranch" in the January 8 edition of The Republican. It is wonderful that 745 forested acres near Accident will be preserved forever from development and left in their natural state.

Landowners and others who want to learn more about protecting forest and agricultural land through conservation easements are urged to contact the Allegheny Highlands Conservancy (AHC), a Garrett County-based land trust that co-holds the Bear Creek Ranch easement along with Maryland Environmental Trust (MET). AHC's president is Kevin Dodge, who can be reached at 301-387-3328. Also, more information about AHC, including meeting dates and times, can be found on AHC's web site at www.alleghenyhighlandsconservancy.org.

Bob Lewis
Mountainview Drive

To the Editor:

It is apparent that our county leaders are looking, again, how to continue to spend taxpayers' money, when we need to show restraint. They have just listed some intended non-essential spending projects, when they need to reduce spending. The three latest non-essential projects are: $2 million for a Career & Technical Center which will be in Accident; $2 million for infrastructure in McHenry near the airport; and $4 million for setting up broadband for Garrett County.

This obvious intent to spend, in light of our economy and the struggles all are having, seems to be an apparent disregard for the folks who pay taxes. Whether the funds come from city taxes, county taxes, state taxes, or federal taxes, many apparently think that this money is free.

Our commissioners will not change their spending unless the taxpayers are heard. If they hear from 10 of us, they assume most of the county is in agreement with them. We must call, contact, notify, or somehow get word to them that we have had enough spending on "future" projects which they "want." We need a reduction in spending, and the only way we will get it is to let them know you have had enough.

Spending $8 million equals about $1,200 per worker in this county, assuming 1 in 4 persons in favor for the House Bill works. The burden on the taxpayer is too much. Commissioners, think about the taxpayer. Taxpayer, contact your commissioners. The only way we will survive this economic crisis is for all to curtail non-essential spending and reduce budgets.

Thomas E. Doyle
Oakland

To the Editor:

I was also present at the public hearing on January 6, and I expected that the commissioners would finally be willing to answer pressing questions about both projects planned on the county's Whiteface Farm property as promised at the first hearing about this matter. Instead it appeared that they had already made up their minds.

The commissioners, as well as the representatives of the Garrett County Department of Economic Development and Garrett County Community Action Committee, are continuously praising the benefit of both projects for Garrett County, but once again rejected questions and requests for more information about the planned housing project. The brave citizens who stood up and requested more information about the sewer project were quickly muzzled. If the commissioners really think they can provide sound and convincing argumentation for both projects, why are they so reluctant to share this with the people who will pay the bill at the end? Isn't it understandable that the taxpayers want to know more about "their" projects?

For instance, I truly believe that the taxpayer has the right to know why the main sewer line will not follow a direct way. I do not think it is enough to tell the taxpayers that it is cheaper to take a detour through a commissioner's property. This argumentation must be proven by evidence, and this evidence must be made public.

Please do not get me wrong; of course I applaud any attempt to improve the infrastructure of Garrett County, and therefore the quality of living here, but why not share their reasoning behind these attempts with the citizens of the county? The audience can applaud when they have seen the entire play.

Instead, the commissioners attack Del. Beitzel for expressing legitimate concerns. The attempt to hurt the creditability of this fine man by pointing at his vote in favor for the House Bill 784 in 2007, which has nothing to do with locating houses next to an airport or destroying a rural neighborhood, shows for me all too clearly that the commissioners lack strong and sound arguments for their position. Not that one who is capable of changing his mind when facing new circumstances is a fool, but that one who refuses to revise his consideration when necessary is one.

To the Editor:

I am writing this letter to you to express my great admiration for the emergency services and the medical care that is available to the residents of Garrett County.

We are fortunate to have the services of both the Northern and Southern teams. Their quick responsiveness to medical emergencies is to be commended. Based upon my recent experience, as well as a similar episode two years ago, I give them high praise for what they offer to the residents of this county.

There is not enough space on this page to list all of the wonderful medical personnel with whom I came in contact during my stay at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. However, Dr Thomas Johnson, the staff on the third floor of Garrett County Memorial Hospital, and the GCMH emergency room team are at the top of the list!

We are so fortunate to have these medical facilities and personnel in Garrett County.

Sincerely,
Eric S. Smith

Editor's note: The writer of the following letter to Thomas V. "Mike" Miller Jr., president of the Maryland Senate, requested that it appear in this column.

Dear Mike:

As the lead sponsor of SB 566 (2007 Session) "Public Utility Companies – Generating Stations – Wind," I am writing to respectfully request that you consider amending or repealing this act which allows land-based industrial wind turbines to be built without a comprehensive and coordinated state level review, evaluation, and comment process. Additionally, a Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity (CPCN) is no longer required from the Public Service Commission. The law now allows a wind company applicant to bypass regulatory review. Prior to its enactment, several other state agencies, including DNR, MDP, and MDE, had major responsibilities in assessing environmental, health, safety, cultural, and historical resources, as well as land-use conditions. Industrial wind turbines are not benign, and there are serious environmental, safety, health, and aesthetic impacts. An orderly process is essential in order that the public be protected.

The act virtually scuttled all of these environmental review protections for land-based, wind-generating stations. State regulation of facilities is minimal, and local oversight in the case of Garrett County is non-existent, as there is no county-wide zoning, and the Board of Garrett County Commissioners refuses to enact any type of protection whatsoever. Allegany County is not much better, and both counties have refused to enact moratoria so that ordinances could be developed without the pressure of pending applications from wind developers. Under these circumstances, the citizens of Garrett and Allegany counties have no environmental, safety, or health protections against industrial wind turbines that, at 460', are nearly as high as the Washington Monument.

Thus, the conundrum, Mr. President, of little state oversight and no local oversight. This unintended consequence needs to be remedied, and it is for this reason that I am seeking your assistance. Thank you for your careful consideration.

With best personal regards as the Session begins,
Sincerely,
John N. Bambacus
Former State Senator

To the Editor:

Congress and the administration are touting alternative energy sources to replace power production derived from foreign oil. They want to generate 10% to 20% of the U.S. energy needs from alternative sources.

Most of the alternative energy would have to be generated from wind power systems. If we assume 10% of the U.S. energy requirements consists of 100,000 megawatts, and each wind turbine produces approximately 2 to 3 megawatts, it will take about 40,000 wind turbines to produce the 100,000 megawatts.

The siting of 40,000 wind turbines around the country could be a monumental task since an average wind speed of about 12 mph is needed to efficiently operate a wind turbine. Hilltops, mountains, canyons, and some coastlines are candidate locations for the wind machines, but these locations pose logistical, noise and aesthetic obstacles. The generation of power from the wind turbines is dependent on weather conditions, and we all know how unpredictable and varied the weather can be. Furthermore, we would need an electrical grid system spread out around the country to tie in the wind turbines to the national grid.

Approximately 50 nuclear power plants with two units per site providing a total of 2,000 megawatts per site will generate 100,000 megawatts of clean, reliable, operationally cost-effective and continuous power.

Nuclear power plants, domestic oil production, wind energy systems, and other alternative energy sources are all viable components of a comprehensive energy program.

To the Editor:

After reading in the Jan. 14 Republican, I see that our county commissioners and our county administrator are trying to convince us that the housing development at McHenry is for our "work force." Which work force are they talking about? The hard-working work force of Garrett County, or the work force that was talked about in The Republican a few weeks ago? You remember! The work force that is to be imported by the owner(s) of the tourist industry around Deep Creek Lake. Will they also import labor to build this development?

This morning on the 6 o'clock news broadcast on WKHJ, Commissioner Ernie Gregg announced that he was and has been against the Oakland bypass. It seems to me that Mr. Gregg needs to take another look at the housing project at McHenry and speak out to stop this spending spree; if he doesn't want something as important as this bypass around Oakland, why is he saying yes to spending money on a housing project that is not wanted by many taxpayers?

We have Habitat for Humanity building homes for our "work force" every year, helping people to realize the American dream of owning a home of their own.

It is time for our local government to get control of spending and say no to developers who don't have enough of their own money to build a development. To quote Mr. Bolden in his letter to the editor: "There you go again, Mr. Commissioners."

Dottie Pritts

To the Editor:

I believe that Don Sincell's editorial last week was succinct, on point, and revealing. Mr. Sincell has over the years taken accurate information and presented a balanced point of view that is based on our local news and happenings. He then, I believe, translates these facts into legitimate and pertinent information for us, the consumers.

This editorial speaks as well to our current national and global situation. Here is a brief reality check: Over 2 million Americans are out of work. America is in two wars. Our retirements and savings are shattered. Our health care system is in crisis. Our teachers' retirement is deflated and at risk. Fuel and heating costs continue to soar. Maryland's existing infrastructure is crumbling and the state is broke.

I am shocked and disappointed at the news of our local officials still listing at the top of our "bail-out money" list to the Maryland State Highway Administration, a 2-mile, at least $42 million new "Oakland bypass" that will do nothing but bypass traffic past our local Oakland businesses. Yes, this state, tax-supported road does nothing to divert north to south truck traffic past residential and tourist destinations in our entire county. Who's watching our budget? Who is identifying needed funds for needed projects?

Remember this at election time. Each of us must manage our funds through this economic disaster. Who is managing our other budget – our tax and spending budget?

This letter was written several days ago. It is reassuring that Commissioner Ernie Gregg went on record today, once again stating that he is opposed to the Oakland bypass. He states the bypass "will do little to alleviate the problem" and that "local businesses are planning expansions based on the present route." Thank you, Mr. Gregg!

To the Editor:

As Mother Nature lays down inch after inch of snow and brings us mind-numbing temperatures, I would like to stand out by my mailbox and salute the letter carriers of Garrett County for making their appointed rounds. I know it is "their job," but I appreciate their work.

As a tiny token of thanks, I stop each morning while walking my dog, and swipe the snow off the row of mailboxes that serve my neighborhood. It's not much, but I figure it might be a little less snow-up-the-coat-sleeve for Tonia, as she tucks a handful of letters into each of our mailboxes. Maybe a couple other folks might do the same?

To the Editor:

God is alive and still performing miracles!

By now I'm sure all are aware of U.S. Air Flight 1549 that went down last Thursday in the Hudson River – 155 passengers and not one fatality. Just a coincidence? I think not.

The pilot and crew were applauded for their excellent response and calmness during such a disaster.

I, too, applaud them for their work, but I just want to say that I believe this outcome came from one more powerful. Far too often we think of miracles as something that happened during the time Christ walked this earth, but He is the same Lord – the same miracle worker that He was then obviously continues to provide safe harbor in the time of disaster.

God bless each of those passengers and crew members, and I pray they are graciously aware that God has more work for each of them in his or her life's journey.

To the Editor:

I'm writing to thank Glenn Tolbert for his picture of the two ducks taken at the Glades Park pond in your last issue. The names of the ducks, however, are incorrect, although he would have no way of knowing that. These ducks were named Duke and Daisy shortly after their arrival at the Glades Park about a year and half ago in July 2007. Some neighbor children named them, and the names have stuck.

I wrote a letter to the editor in the fall of 2007 expressing my concern that the ducks would not survive the winter, and asking for assistance in giving them a home. Those efforts failed, and they did survive last winter and, so far, this one. This recent sub-zero weather is certainly testing their survival abilities.

I heard from an environmental society in Frederick last year, and I was told through tests in that area, it was proven that feeding bread to the ducks will harm their digestive systems, and if they were to survive our winters, they would need cracked corn. So two neighbor ladies, Brenda and Linda, and I feed them daily. They make such joyful sounds and talk to us when we come with their food, as though they are saying "thank you."

The next time you visit Glades Park, look for Duke and Daisy, either in the water or on the nearby banks. They have been such a joy to everyone. Thanks so much to the town for providing them with a shelter box under the pines.

How to Improve Your Financial Literacy

FINANCIAL LITERACY DEFINED

by William Welch

What is financial literacy and how can it make my life better?

Financial literacy is knowing how to make the best use of your money. Financial literacy includes knowing where your money comes from and understanding where it goes, and knowing how to manage it in between. Financial literacy is knowing the difference between your wants and your needs. Financial literacy is knowing how to save and knowing the risks of credit.

Financial literacy can help you get more control over your life by saving and by understanding what credit is and when you should use credit and when you should not use credit by separating what you want from what you need.

In the weeks ahead The Republican will publish a series of articles about financial literacy that can help you improve your life by learning more about money. For most of us controlling the use of money gives us more control over how we live.

The articles are not intended to give all the answers. The articles are intended to ask common questions and provide some help finding resources where you can learn about money and spending decisions that can help you and your family to save and to spend in ways that promote financial well being. In the end it is up to each of us to make decisions that make our lives better. No one can do that for us.

The Ruth Enlow Library has impartial information. Garrett County Community Action Committee can provide impartial information about financial literacy. Your bank also offers information about financial literacy because educated customers are the best customers. The internet is a useful resource about financial literacy; always remember to be careful online.

Editor's note: William Welch, a manager for Simon Pearce Inc., serves on the board of directors of GC Community Action Committee Inc. and has written this series from expert sources as part of GCCAC's community financial literacy initiative. Individual readers are advised to use these articles as a starting place to find professional advice on financial literacy.

decision at this time," the county administrator said.

The county had planned to build a new detention center at the old Oakland roads garage site. The $19.4 million detention/public safety center project, however, has been deferred, as has the Adventure Sports Center access road.

The $9.1 million Community Athletic Recreation Center has also been placed on hold, pending private donations and state funding, which is being requested by Senator George Edwards.

"If funding is secured, the county will still need to determine the actual operating cost prior to a final determination to proceed with construction, Pagenhardt said about the recreation center.

BOE SWEARS IN MEMBERS – The Garrett County Board of Education recently swore into office two returning members to the board, James Raley and Charlotte Sebold. Sebold returns for her sixth year on the board, while Raley signs on for a fifth term. Sondra Buckel, clerk of Garrett County Circuit Court, was present at the January meeting to swear in the two under the oath of office. Buckel is pictured at right presenting Sebold and Raley with their certificates of office.

THE LEGENDARY BOE GAVEL IS PASSED – Past Board of Education president James Raley was honored with the "golden gavel," presented by superintendent Dr. Wendell Teets. The gavel is ceremoniously put into the care of each past board president until it is time to pass it on to his/her successor.

"The objectives we set for this program measure effectiveness, efficiency, and satisfaction across various domains," he explained to the board members, adding, "The outcomes exceeded the goals in all domains."

The Supported Employment program served 19 people during 2008. Typically those served work with staff members to identify work skills, create a job development plan, and progress through the steps required to reach the goal of job placement, assisted by a job coach. Of the 19 people served, seven began service for the first time and five of them were placed into employment.

The average time to placement was 40 days. It was also noted that the average wage earned by people in the program is $7.57 per hour, and they work an average of 21 hours per week.

Hollingsworth also reported that the number of participating employers increased during 2008.

"Three new businesses were added to the employers list. Eleven businesses, spread from Grantsville to McHenry and Oakland, employed individuals enrolled in Appalachian Crossroads Supported Employment Program," he said.

Another indicator of achievement Hollingsworth noted is the response from employers. One hundred percent of the employers responding to questionnaires reported being satisfied or very satisfied with the services.

Beyond the goals and objectives set for the supported employment program and measured at the end of the prescribed period are other results perhaps less quantitative. These include improvements in the quality of life for the individuals served.

"Supported employment continues to be a predictor of success and competency in other areas of life," said Hollingsworth. "Without exception, individuals served are happier, have more friends, and live richer lives because of the services we provide."

To the Editor:

What is the most crucial decision you have made today? How to successfully complete a school or work project? Maybe the best way to juggle the family budget? Perhaps what to do about a troubled teen or an elderly parent in declining health? All are unquestionably important decisions.

What if you had to decide which patients should receive the limited blood supplies in the hospital blood bank? When supplies are critically low, as in the case of Type O negative and B negative blood following the holiday season, this possible life-or-death question may not be as far-fetched as you might think.

Type O negative blood is the universal blood type and can be transfused to any patient in an emergency. Yet just 7 percent of the population has Type O negative blood – and they must receive Type O negative blood if they need a transfusion.

Every two seconds, someone in our country needs a blood transfusion. And too many among us assume that adequate blood supplies will always be there when we or someone we love needs a transfusion. This can only happen with the community's support.

Although eight out of 20 people may be eligible to donate blood, only one in 20 actually donates each year. Of those who donate, most give just once a year. Yet many can donate blood every 56 days.

We urge you to make the vitally important decision to help patients in need by donating blood. For more information, call 1-800 GIVE LIFE or go online and visit redcrosslife.org.

To the Editor:

This is in response to a letter of 1/15/09 by Michael Bell.

I have 170 acres of forestland enrolled in a Forest Conservation Management Agreement with the state of Maryland, not with the residents of the county. Yes, I have had contact with an oil/gas company.

They require five acres for a well site. One well site would be located on the property. When drill rigging is removed and a wellhead is set, the disturbed area will be seeded with perennial rye grass, 10 lbs. per acre; birdsfoot trefoil, 10 lbs. per acre; white Dutch clover, 8 lbs. per acre; four tons of agriculture lime per acre; 300 lbs. of 10-20-20 fertilizer per acre; and 100 bales of straw per acre. This area would now be a wildlife food plot.

When this five acres of woodland cover is removed, the county will assess it as five acres of rural residential. (I would not let a family member build a house in the middle of my farm, much less a total stranger). This reclassification of five acres would more than double the land value from what it is now. This law has to be changed. Would you consider a wildlife food plot a residential home lot?

On the plus side, it keeps the land as open space for the enjoyment of the general public, and provides habitat for ground nesting birds and food for birds and animals. In addition, no building can be within 300 feet of a gas well.

This land has been intensively managed for timber and wildlife for 28 years. There are two one-acre wildlife food plots. Mr. Bell, with the figures I have given for a food plot, plus the cost of a gallon of diesel fuel to run the tractor, go figure. Throw in the annual cost of timber stand improvement and mowing of the road system. Have I placed a strain on your wallet?

Many educational tours and field days have been held here. I would be more than willing to give you a personal, one-on-one tour any time.

Sincerely,
C.W. "Sonny" Newhall

To The Editor:

In response to Ms. Pritts' letter in the January 15 edition of The Republican, I see nothing wrong with additional apartments being constructed for people to live in. The poor people of Garrett County need a place to live too. Not everyone in the county can afford a condominium at Deep Creek Lake, or a nice home, for that matter. Have you seen the prices that are being asked? One reason that taxes are high in the area is the same reason that prices are high. Garrett County is a resort area.

People complain about a possible apartment complex being built near the Garrett County Airport. They complain about how bad it will look, but don't say anything about the other side of the hill, with all of the condominiums and the all the development at the Wisp. They complain that it will be too close the airport. Is the airport that big? I wonder if they ever think about the people who have homes near the Cumberland or Morgantown airports? What about Pittsburgh and Baltimore?

Why waste monies on a complex at the lake or a technical center? Why not remodel the old county roads garage along Route 219, or the old Bausch and Lomb building? Thankfully, the proposed Route 219 bypass is #1 on the commissioners' list. I don't know why the town of Mtn. Lake Park is so against it, when it won't effect them. It is called the Oakland bypass, not Mtn. Lake Park bypass.

In closing, I do wonder what makes a county road a county road, and what does one have to do to get the non-maintained road they live on maintained?

4-H Club News

TRAILBLAZERS
by Erika Ritchey, reporter

The January meeting of the Trailblazers 4-H Club was held at the Garrett County Extension Office. The meeting was called to order by the new president, Levi Sweitzer. There were 15 members in attendance, including one new member, Jordyn Sines.

Under old business, club members discussed 4-H ski days and read a thank-you card sent for a food basket that was delivered around Thanksgiving. Re-enrollment forms and record books were collected.

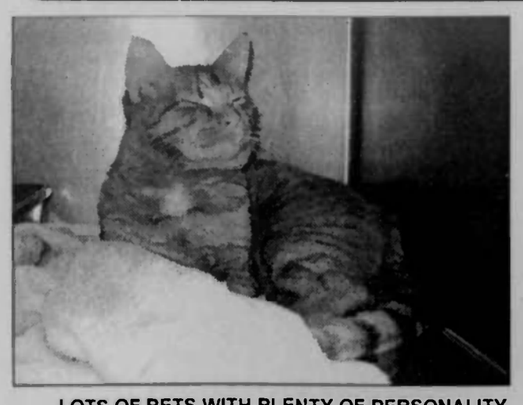
Under new business, members discussed donating non-perishable food items to Cody Ferguson. He is a former member of Trailblazers, and is sponsoring a food drive through AmeriCorps.

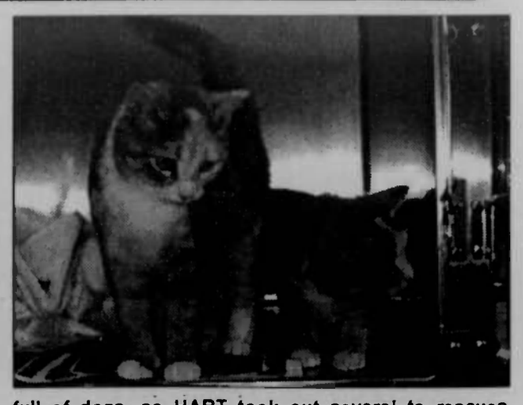
Members also discussed the junior dairy workshop in Frederick, officers' training at Southern Middle on Feb. 24, and snow tubing sponsored by the Livestock Association at the Wisp, then planned the calendar of events for the 2009 year.

The next meeting will be held on Thursday, Feb. 19, at Yough Glades Elementary with refreshments provided by Travis Newton. All members are required to have their 30-second radio spots or speeches ready and bring their non-perishable food items.

The meeting was adjourned, and refreshments were served by Laura Smith.

Adorable Adoptables





LOTS OF PETS WITH PLENTY OF PERSONALITY are in need of homes this week at the Garrett County Animal Shelter. They include a large male orange tabby, two young multicolored feline sisters who would like to be adopted together, a cute female beagle who was dropped off overnight at the shelter, and another pair of nice sibling felines who are a tabby-calico mix. "No pets were reclaimed and there was only one adoption this week at the shelter," said a Humane Society spokesperson. "This left the shelter full of dogs, so HART took out several to rescues downstate. There are other dogs (mostly medium-large breeds) and cats of all kinds available for adoption. The Humane Society has responded to many neglect reports because of pets having little or no shelter from this cold weather. Please make sure your pets are warm and have food and water." For more information, persons may call the animal shelter at 301-334-3553. Located along Oakland Sang Run Road, the facility is open Monday through Friday.

Ask Sheila

Decorating Dilemma? Sheila offers helpful advice.

Dear Sheila:

I have a LOT of PINK in my room. I loved the Pink and still do, but I am now married and my wonderful husband mentioned that he might like to see less pink but maybe some more masculine color added. Any ideas? (He doesn't hate the pink, he says it makes me look good to him!) Any ideas?

Pretty in Pink

Dear PiP,

I remember when we did your pink. It was beautiful, but alas, marriage has its demands!

How about a nice deep Chocolate Brown added to the room? It would make a nice masculine contrast, make the pink look richer. We can do it with some rugs, pillows, even combine with the existing window treatments! Give me a calt so we can set up an appointment to give that sweet hubby a bedroom he feets good in!

Tri-State Concert Assoc. To Present "Night With Garth And Friends" Again

The Tri-State Concert Association's country music division has announced it will present the return of the hit show "A Night with Garth and Friends." Steve Fairchild will bring his tribute show back to the Allegany High School auditorium on Saturday, March 29, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

This season's event will feature tributes to country superstars Waylon Jennings, Willie Nelson, Alan Jackson, Johnny Cash (appearing with tribute to June Carter Cash), Rascal Flatts, and Garth Brooks.

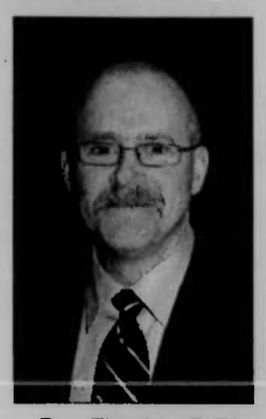
"This show, developed by Steve Fairchild, is going to be one of the best we've had. Johnny Cash, Waylon Jennings and Willie Nelson have such a fan base that we feel a tribute to these artists is fantastic," said a spokesperson for the concert association. "The losses of Johnny, June, and Waylon over the last few years has left a void to those who follow country music. We felt that it was only fitting to pay tribute to these great artists."

Fairchild, performing as Garth Brooks, will be emcee for the show again. Also returning this year is Doug. Brewin, reprising his role as Alan Jackson. Brewin will be backed up by his band, Late Nite Rodeo, from New Jersey. Marion Deaton will return as Willie Nelson, and Coley Chaudion from Louisiana will perform as Waylon Jennings. Jeff Tankersley will portray Johnny Cash. Tankersley, who is from Kingsport, Tenn., will perform with Deanna Marshall as June Carter Cash. Rounding out the show will be a tribute to Rascal Flatts, presented by the group Third Town.

Tickets are now on sale and preferred seating is becoming limited, the spokesperson said. Tickets can be purchased by calling the organization's call center at 301-759-0580. Tickets can also be purchased by visiting the TWR Communications office during regular business hours, located at 549 N. Centre Street, Cumberland.

More information on the show and seating charts are available on the web site at www.tri-stateconcerts.com.

Timothy DeWitt Receïves Honor At A-B College



Dr. Timothy DeWitt, professor of music, has been named the January Employee of the Month at Alderson-Broaddus College, Philippi, W.Va.

Dr. DeWitt teaches brass and music analysis, directs the Alderson-Broaddus College Brass Choir, serves as the music department's recruitment coordinator, and represents the department in campus strategies toward the assessment of student learning. He was named A-B's Outstanding Faculty of the Year at the College's 2006 commencement ceremonies.

"Not only does Tim go the extra mile for his students and the music department, but also does the same for alums, prospective students, and the college in general," stated one of DeWitt's colleagues. "He loves this college and the students, and personifies what A-B is all about – helping and educating others."

A member of the West Virginia Symphony Orchestra, Charleston, from 1985 to 2002, DeWitt has also performed with the Maryland Symphony Orchestra, the Bedford Springs Festival Orchestra, the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival's Symphony at Deep Creek, the West Virginia Symphonette, and the Tower Brass Quintet.

A former student of Charles Geyer, Edwin Betts, and Roger Sherman, Dr. DeWitt holds the doctor of musical arts degree in performance and literature (trumpet) from the Eastman School of Music; a master of music degree in performance from Bowling Green State University, Ohio; and a bachelor of music degree in applied music from West Virginia University. He attended the Northeast Wind Conducting Symposium in the summer of 2007, studying conducting under clinicians Stephen Peterson of Ithaca College and Mallory Thompson of Northwestern University.

Dr. DeWitt has worked at Alderson-Broaddus College since 1983, and resides in Philippi. A graduate of Southern High School, he is a son of Edward and Emily DeWitt, Oakland.

The Alderson-Broaddus College Employee of the Month Program was an idea generated by a group of faculty, staff, and students to improve campus morale and recognize individual employees for their special devotion to Alderson-Broaddus College.

Garrett, Allegany Arts Councils To Host Backbone Mountain Review Reception

The Garrett County Arts Council, the Allegany Arts Council, and the Frostburg Creative Writing Center will hold a reception in celebration of the 2009 Backbone Mountain Review on Sunday, Feb. 1, from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Avilton Inn.

This year's issue of the collaborative publication was just recently published. The reception will include a "writers read" portion, during which several of the authors will read their stories. The Avilton Inn is located near New Germany State Park. The reception is free and open to the public. Light refreshments will be provided.

The publication is available for free at the Gallery in Oakland, as well as from the Allegany Arts Council and the Frostburg Creative Writing Center at Frostburg State University. Copies will also be available at the reception.

The Backbone Mountain Review was initiated in the spring of 2006 as a collaborative project between the Garrett and Allegany arts councils, with support from the FSU Creative Writing Center, to showcase the works of community writers of various ages and diverse backgrounds. Manuscript submissions were reviewed by a six-person editorial board, with three editors serving on the board from each county.

This issue's photographs are by Garrett County photographer Jim Lawrence. There are 21 contributing writers. The writings include works of both prose and poetry. The public is invited to hear selected readings and meet the authors at the reception.

Funding support for the Backbone Mountain Review was made possible by the Maryland State Arts Council, Frostburg State University, First United Bank, and other financial sponsors of the two arts councils.

For more information persons may call the Garrett County Arts Council at 301-334-6580 or go online at www.garrettarts.com.

OTT Accepting Reservations For I Remember Mama

Our Town Theatre in Oakland is now taking reservations for I Remember Mama, a family-oriented play written by John Van-Druten. The performances are scheduled for Monday, Feb. 9, through Saturday Feb. 14, all at 8 p.m., and on Sunday, Feb. 15, at 2 p.m.

Tickets for Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Sunday are $5 per person, and for Friday and Saturday are $8 apiece.

"This remarkable play is richly steeped in an affirmation of family values, which makes the production appropriate for young and old," said Jane Avery, director. "The story shows how Mama, with the help of her husband, brings up the children in their modest San Francisco home during the early years of the century. Mama, a sweet and capable manager, sees her children through childhood, manages to educate them, and is able to see one of her daughters begin her career as a writer.

"Mama's sisters and uncle furnish a rich background for a great deal of comedy and a little incidental tragedy, while the doings of the children manage to keep everyone in pleasant turmoil," Avery said.

Reservations are required and can be made by calling 301-334-5640, ext. 1. Avery noted that the show is such a "crowd pleaser" and she expects it will sell out quickly. "So don't wait too long to make reservations," she said.

The production is produced through special arrangements made with the Dramatists Play Service, and is funded in part by the Garrett County and state arts councils.

RICH LIKE THEM
by Ryan D'Agostino
c. 2008, Little, Brown; $25.99; 256 pages
Review by Terri Schlichenmeyer

The sign said "Open Today!" and you couldn't resist. So what possessed you to go through a for-sale house that you could never afford? Curiosity, sure. But maybe it was a little bit of what-iffing that led you to peek into cavernous closets and run your fingers over marble baths, rare-wood mantels, and imported countertops. What if? What would it be like to live there? To have money like that?

Author Ryan D'Agostino wondered the same thing, and in his new book Rich Like Them, he knocked on a few doors – literally – and asked.

Whenever he and his wife went out of town, Ryan D'Agostino says they made a point of taking walks into luxurious neighborhoods. They loved looking at the immaculate grounds and imagining the lives of those who lived there. One day, curiosity got the better of D'Agostino, an editor at Esquire magazine. He purchased a list of the 100 wealthiest ZIP codes in the U.S., based on median household income, net worth, and home value. Then, with his trusty reporter's notebook in his pocket, and comfortable shoes on his feet, he stepped into some of the richest enclaves in America.

Not everyone agreed to speak to him. D'Agostino says he was sometimes met with silence, and security guards often turned him aside. But when he found people who would talk, he learned lessons of a lifetime.

Always – always – keep your eyes on your goal, even when on vacation. Never miss a chance for opportunity. Remember that you have to see the dots to connect them. Follow through with your connections. Understand that there are risks in everything, study the risk before leaping, and know that sometimes doing nothing is a risk itself. Stick to your plans, but know when something isn't working. Never let failure be an option. Remember that you can't do business with yourself. Work hard, and if you look forward to going to work, that's even better. Be humble.

What a refreshing business book!

Author Ryan D'Agostino took a simple concept (find people with money and ask them how they got it) and created something that seems like a blueprint for wealth, not only of the monetary kind, but of that for the soul.

I was struck by several things here: first, in this wacky world, that D'Agostino found so many people who invited him, a stranger, into their fabulous homes. Secondly, he often steps aside to let stories speak for themselves. The titles of the mini-chapters practically beg you to read further, and D'Agostino is quick to refresh your memory if he refers to someone from another chapter.

Thirdly, I loved how D'Agostino conveyed a sense of contentment. While almost every one of the subjects in this book admitted to working hard, they all seemed so Zen-like with their lives now. Just reading these stories inspired me.

If you're ready for a new start in the New Year, pick up this book and get energized. Rich Like Them is filled with a wealth of great motivation for you.

SRWA To Hold Visioning Session On Watershed

The Savage River Watershed Association (SRWA) will host a "visioning" session on Saturday, Jan. 31, beginning at 10 a.m. in the cafeteria of Rt. 40 Elementary School. The school is located at 17764 National Pike, west of Frostburg.

"SWRA seeks to gain knowledge of sensitive areas or specific problems within our watershed from those who live, play, and work there," said Kevin Devine, SRWA coordinator.

The meeting is part of a project that SRWA believes will help preserve and enhance the natural resources of the region. SRWA has partnered with the Izaak Walton League of America to assess the water quality and wildlife habitat of the Savage River. A conservation and restoration plan will then be developed to make sure the watershed meets community goals.

The Savage River watershed includes the river, its tributaries, and all the land that drains into the river and tributaries. Local leaders, landowners, and citizens will have an opportunity to work together to identify shared goals and specific strategies to achieve those goals. Discussed ideas will be recorded and organized to guide future conservation activities in the watershed.

The visioning session will help SRWA determine where additional information needs to be gathered through a Stream Corridor Assessment (SCA). With landowner permission, volunteers will walk select stream miles to gather information about potential problems like areas of erosion, lack of streamside vegetation, stream crossings, invasive plants, and exposed pipes. This information can then be used to identify and prioritize restoration needs. More information about the assessment will be provided in future mailings and meetings.

Those unable to attend the session may obtain further information regarding the matter by e-mailing SRWAcoordinator@gmail.com, or writing to SRWA, P.O. Box 355, Frostburg, MD 21532. Devine may also be reached at 301-689-7156.

Seats for the seminar are limited, so interested persons are urged to call 301-334-6960 before noon on Jan. 23 to make a reservation. Franchot Sends Unexpected Refund Checks To Thousands Of Taxpayers

In a storm of cloudy and troubling national economic news, Comptroller Peter Franchot provided a ray of sunshine Wednesday for thousands of taxpayers when he announced that his office recently mailed refund checks to taxpayers who qualified for the state's Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC), but did not claim it on their 2007 tax returns. In total, his office sent out 2,339 checks totaling $572,746.

The comptroller also urges all Marylanders to file electronically this year to help the state save money, to ensure speedy refunds, and to delay payments for taxpayers who owe money.

"The Earned Income Tax Credit is the most effective anti-poverty tool that we have, and I am firmly committed to ensuring that every qualifying Marylander takes advantage of it," said Franchot. "I want to thank the IRS for partnering with us in this initiative. Once we received the federal information, we reviewed all the accounts and identified those who qualified for the credit, proactively revised the returns, and sent them a check for the amount due. Affected taxpayers did not have to fill out any additional paperwork. This is money going directly to those who earned it and whose lives will be improved, thanks to the Earned Income Tax Credit."

Over the past year, there have been increases in the numbers of Marylanders filing for the credit. For tax year 2007, the comptroller's office processed over 2 million personal income tax returns, with nearly 200,000 accounts claiming the Earned Income Tax Credit, an amount totaling over $81 million. However, many Marylanders still did not know to take advantage of this program.

"The Earned Income Tax Credit program is a fundamental tool that provides relief for many low-income families throughout the state," said Senator Richard Madaleno Jr. "I commend Comptroller Franchot and his staff for ensuring that families unsure of their eligibility receive the credit for which they are due."

The comptroller asked the IRS to send his office a record of those individuals and families who received the federal EITC credit, but did not claim it on their state return. His office reviewed each of the 5,353 returns identified by the IRS and determined if and how much of a credit was due each identified taxpayer. Those eligible for the refundable portion of the EITC were then sent checks.

"The comptroller's office is a tireless advocate for working families in Maryland and is rigorous in making sure that every single eligible worker receives the Earned Income Credit," said Robin McKinney, director of the Maryland CASH Campaign, who joined the comptroller at the event.

Franchot was also joined by Debbie Langer, a Marylander who received a check thanks to the tax credit, and Jennifer Williams from the Maryland Committee for Children.

"The Earned Income Tax Credit was a wonderful benefit that helped me provide for my children during the toughest of times," Langer said. "I want to thank the comptroller and the state of Maryland for their public awareness campaign and for their support of this valuable benefit."

Franchot also urged all Marylanders to file electronically this year to help the state save money on processing returns and to ensure that Marylanders get their refunds quickly.

Taxpayers filing electronically can expect to get their refunds within a few days, while those submitting paper returns should plan to wait several weeks for their refund checks. The timing difference is because of cutbacks in the temporary workforce that is typically hired by the comptroller's office during tax season. Additionally, each paper return costs the state $1.98 to process, while electronic filings cost only 38 cents each.

For more information on the Earned Income Tax Credit and electronic filling, persons are advised to go to the comptroller's web site at: www.marylandtaxes.com or telephone 1-800-MD-TAXES (1-800-638-2937).

Pilot Program and aid to community colleges.

House Speaker Michael Busch, D-Anne Arundel, said community colleges might suffer from the proposed cuts to local aid.

"When you talk about the affordability of higher education, you also have to include community colleges in Maryland," Busch said.

He said there are 120,000 community college students in Maryland, many of whom are going there for economic reasons.

University of Maryland chancellor William Kirwan seemed pleased with the budget.

"I don't think it would be possible to find another state that has a governor with this aggressive commitment to higher education," he said, adding that O'Malley provided funds for the university to cover next year's increased costs.

O'Malley said he hopes a federal stimulus is passed in the next few months.

The $350 million figure is a "conservative and reasonable assumption," he said. He based the estimate on "conversations with our Congressional delegation" and daily readings of various newspapers.

"I fully concede that there's no guarantee that it will be $350 [million]," O'Malley said. "It might just be $50 [million]. It might be more than $350 [million]."

Nearly $510 million will be transferred from other funds, including $255 million from the state's "rainy day" fund. Another $380 million will be transferred from other reserve funds.

A proposed $154 million in cuts, including savings from state employee furloughs, agency reductions, and abolishing vacant jobs, will help close this year's shortfall if approved by the Board of Public Works.

Although counties will be asked to shoulder $310 million in local aid, the state will not pass on responsibility for the $770 million in teachers' pensions.

O'Malley stressed the importance of providing funds for protecting the environment. The proposed budget diverts $6.5 million from the Chesapeake Bay

NEWS from THE MARYLAND FOREST, PARK & WILDLIFE SERVICE

DEBRIS BURNING DURING THE WINTER MONTHS

Local landowners or contractors outside incorporated towns who are interested in burning brush, debris, etc., should take advantage of the winter weather now being experienced. According to the Open Air Burning Regulations, Title 8, Department of Natural Resources (DNR), Subtitle 07, Maryland Forest Service, "burning may occur at anytime when the ground is covered with snow, if all other requirements are met."

The open-air burning regulations apply to activities in woodland and within 200 feet of woodland or a flammable material that could carry fire to the woodland. There should be a firebreak at least 10 feet wide around the fire and adequate personnel and equipment present to control the fire. The fire should be out cold before all personnel leave the scene.

Landowners who wish to do some open-air burning while the ground is covered with snow are still required to obtain a burning permit from the Garrett County Health Department. These permits may be obtained by contacting the department, Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at 301-334-7760. Once this permit has been obtained, the landowner should contact the Garrett County Office of Emergency Management via the non-emergency telephone number, 301-334-1929, prior to burning. This will reduce the chances of one of the local fire companies being called out on a false alarm.

For further information, persons may telephone the DNR Forest Service office at Mt. Nebo at 301-334-3296.

YOUTH SNOW TUBING EVENT SCHEDULED – For the sixth year in a row, Wisp Resort and the Garrett County Health Department have teamed up to host a night of free tubing for Garrett County youth, grade six through 20 years of age. This "Play Hard, Live Clean" event is scheduled for Monday, Feb. 2, from 6 to 8 p.m. at the Bear Claw Snow Tubing Park, Wisp Resort, McHenry. Registration forms are available at county public middle and high schools, can be found online at garretthealth.org, or may be picked up in Room 206 at the Health Department. Registration forms must be signed by a parent or legal guardian. Deadlines for returned registration vary by schools, but forms will be collected in Room 206 at the Health Department until 5 p.m. on Thursday, Jan. 29, or until the registration limit is reached. "Play Hard, Live Clean" is a campaign to discourage underage drinking and drug or tobacco use and to promote "positive lifestyles." It is sponsored by the Garrett County Combating Underage Drinking Committee by a grant from the Governor's Office for Children through the Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families Inc./ Local Management Board and the GC Health Department. For more information, persons may call Venessa Stacy, Health Department, 301-334-7730 or 301-895-311. Up-to-date information about the campaign and other current issues may be viewed at garretthealth.org. Pictured are youth at last year's snow tubing event.

ing the customers that we have now, and we will continue Adult Protective Services, which is mandated 24/7," DeWitt said.

Adult Protective Services can assist or act on the behalf of disabled adults who are unable to protect their own interest, health, safety, or welfare.

DeWitt noted, however, his office cannot accept new clients in need of respite care, in-home aid, and other adult services until further notice from the state.

Also because of the economic downturn, the local Social Services office has seen an increase in new clients needing medical assistance and food stamps.

"We see that as a safety net for those who are just needing a temporary [solution]," DeWitt said about the two services. "We're there for them, and we will continue to serve those folks who are in need."

The director also reported that, despite the economy, his staff raised about $6,000 during the DHR's recent Maryland Charities Campaign.

Community Action

"We're seeing, as you might expect, a significant increase in the people coming in for energy assistance," Community Action president Duane Yoder reported.

To date, his agency's Office of Home Energy Programs has completed 2,800 applications from people needing help with utility and heating costs. The office had a total of 2,900 applications for the previous winter season.

"So, we'll be well over 3,000 households for this year, and I think that relates to both the economy and some of the energy problems that are out there," Yoder said.

Financial Services

The county's fiscal year 2010 budget process is progressing on schedule, Financial Services director Wendy Yoder reported. Departments are to submit their budget requests to her by Feb. 9.

"We are keeping a watchful eye on any announcements of budget cuts that might be coming from the state," she said.

Yoder noted that Gov. Martin O'Malley was to release his FY 2010 budget this week.

"So, we'll have a better knowledge of what's going to be handed down to the county after we see the state budget," she said.

Yoder said the state Board of Public Works is proposing reductions that would affect the county's current fiscal year (FY 2009) budget. Those include a funding freeze for community colleges.

"That impact for Garrett County is estimated to be $93,221," Yoder said about the college funding.

She said there may also be a 15 percent reduction for health and police aid.

"The impact for Garrett County for local health is $118,061, and $35,678 for police aid," Yoder said.

Health Department

Health officer Rodney Glotfelty, Garrett County Health Department, stressed that those health cuts were just proposed ones and that no official decisions have been made.

He noted, however, that if the reductions are made, they may be offset by furloughs and some fairly high-level salary retirements this year.

"So, I believe we may be able to deal with those cuts this year if they do come to fruition," Glotfelty said. Unfortunately, he added, reductions will continue through 2010, creating a bigger problem for the Health Department.

The health officer noted that grant funding has already been cut for core services, including mental health programs.

Glotfelty also reported that there has been a "significant" decline in the number of private well and septic permits issued by Environmental Health. Last year, 134 septic and 213 well permits were issued, compared to 241 well and 158 septic permits approved in 2007. In 2006, 270 septic and 321 well permits were issued.

Glotfelty said in the 1980s and 1990s, his office would issue between 300 to 350 septic permits per year. He noted, however, that public water and sewer systems have been and are being developed.

"So, these numbers don't reflect the building that's going on there," Glotfelty said. "But it is reflective of a little bit less speculation on land development. These things are cyclic, and hopefully they'll begin to pick up again in a year or two."

amendments was held two weeks ago. Glotfelty noted at that time that he had recused himself during talks about the lines.

"We gave the right of way," Glotfelty said at the hearing. "They (project officials) talked to Warren through it all. We get nothing out of this as property owners."

Preliminary plans call for the Lake Hill project to utilize about 50 acres of the White Face property. Up to 250 units consisting of a combination of lease-purchase town homes and/or duplexes and single family homes for sale are to be constructed.

The land itself will be placed in a trust, and the county will hold the title. County and project officials have noted that this arrangement will make Lake Hill homes more affordable for workers, as the cost of the land will not be figured into the selling price.

Under the auspices of the Garrett County Department of Economic Development, the McHenry Business Park will need about 190 acres of the White Face property to provide development parcels for technology based businesses.

The Deep Creek Lake Sewer System and the McHenry Water System will serve the park and housing development.

"We are not conquering our spending problem with this budget," said Sen. Nancy Jacobs, R-Cecil.

Sen. Allan Kittleman, R-Carroll, doesn't like O'Malley's plan to take money from a reserve income tax fund, money the state will have to pay back over time.

O'Malley is "robbing Peter to pay Paul, hoping he has money next year to give back to Peter," Kittleman said.

Even before Wednesday's proposed cuts, state leaders had taken drastic measures to address the budget shortfalls.

Lawmakers raised $1.3 billion in taxes in a 2007 special session by increasing the sales tax from 5 percent to 6 percent, restructuring the income tax, raising some corporate taxes, and doubling the cigarette tax.

The state Board of Public Works cut $350 million from this year's budget last October.

Two variables with critical implications for the budget, said O'Malley, include how well the global economy rebounds and whether federal aid comes to fruition.

If a federal stimulus package is not passed, O'Malley said he would "probably submit a budget with an additional $350 million in cuts." A special session would not be necessary, he said.

Busch had another idea if Congress does not allocate funds for the states.

"I'm going to come to the press," he said, "and ask everyone for $4."

Capital News Service staff writers Erika Woodward, Michael Frost, and Erich Wagner contributed to this report.

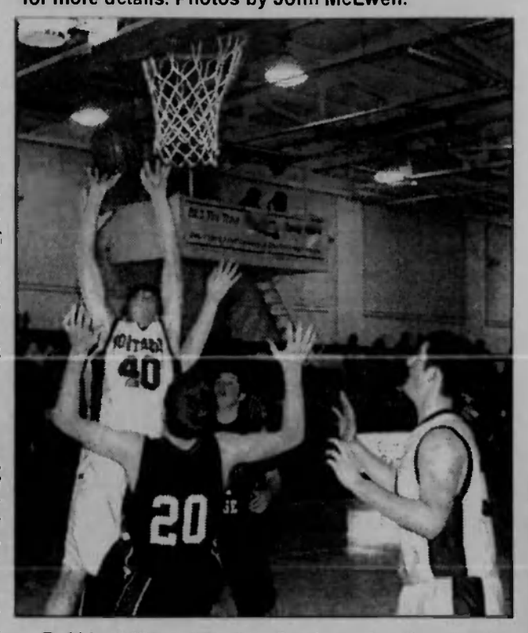
2010 Trust Fund this year to the general fund, leaving $25 million for the 2010 fiscal year – half of the $50 million per year initially promised by the General Assembly.

Given the current economic conditions, the fact that O'Malley still did his best to fund the trust fund at the same level as the previous year is encouraging, said Alison Prost, the Maryland office attorney for the Chesapeake Bay Foundation.

"He's still funding Program Open Space (land preservation program) and the Chesapeake Bay restoration, so the overall commitment to the environment is still significant," Prost said. "He's proposing layoffs, so we really can't be greedy."

Not everyone was pleased with the budget proposals.

The Rams suffered a 48-28 loss to the Miners, and were also edged by Hampshire last night, 40-37, in Romney. Below is Ethan Brady (#40) making a shot in a sea of Mtn. Ridge players, with teammate Brian Baker (#32), readying for a rebound. See story for more details. Photos by John McEwen.



Robbie Miller, J.P. Binotto, and Will Hughes each had eight points for Hampshire.

The first game was won by the Rams' junior varsity in overtime, 41-37. Bo Vanderbilt scored 18 points, and Kissclovich had 11 for Southern. Leading the Trojan jayvees was Jordan Nelson with 14 points and Clayton Davis adding 13.

Southern (1-10, 0-6 AMAC) will host Northern tomorrow, Fort Hill on Monday, and Tucker on Tuesday.

Lakers Cage Owls, But Fall To Cougars In JUCO Contests

The men's basketball team of Garrett College won its 14th game of the season by whipping visiting Prince George's Community College on Saturday in a Maryland JUCO contest, but then fell to Frederick CC last night, 83-75, in another conference clash. The results left the Lakers with an overall record of 15-2 and a JUCO mark of 5-2.

The Lakers used strong bench play and got a career-best game from power forward Terrance Taylor to lead them to victory over Prince George's.

Taylor led all scorers with 25 points and also pulled a game-high 14 rebounds, including nine offensive caroms.

The Lakers were on top by only five points, 51-46, at halftime, but put 54 more points on the board in the second, while holding the Owls to 38.

GC head coach Dennis Gibson appreciated the offensive output from his team, but was honest about the defensive effort.

"Terrance [Taylor] is being pushed hard by Doma Ibrahim and Marko Agbaba for minutes," he said. "He is running the floor harder and is much more aggressive, which he has to be since we match him up at only 6-4 with the opponents' center.

"While 104 is a lot of points, I felt our defense was not what it should have been," he continued. "Their big man (Chris Smith) had a career night also with 23 points, and we gave up too many easy shots. Obviously I have to be happy with a 20-point win against a team with such good scorers as PG, but we are trying to hold ourselves to a higher standard this year, and defensively we did not play like we can."

Also reaching double figures for the Lakers were Mo Gunn with 20 points, Reco Siler with 13, J.T. Lewis with 11, and Brian Koonce and Ibrahim each with 10. All 10 members of the team scored.

Lewis was 5-for-5 in field goals, pulled down six rebounds, and had three assists.

Point guard Rodney Clark did not reach double figures scoring, but came up with 12 assists, and his two three-point plays on drives to the basket late in the game helped the Lakers build the lead to 15 with about 2 minutes to play.

"With most teams you can key on one or two guys and try to make someone else beat you," said Gibson, "but with our team we have a bench rotation that allows our starters to get quality rest and then come back into the game and play even harder.

Ibrahim, Koonce, and Chris Speicher came off the bench throughout the game and kept the Owls at bay, especially as the Lakers had only a 7-point lead in the second half

"Koonce gives us that scorer off the bench, is playing better defense, and is one of our best athletes," Gibson said, "and Doma just keeps getting better as he gets more playing time, so teams have to play them as tough as they do our starters."

Also reaching double figures for the Owls, besides Smith, were Shawn Buckner with 17 points, Paul Johnson with 13, Darious Dunning with 12, and Ian Persaud with 11.

Garrett's shooting was as cold as the temperatures outsident the GC gym last night against Frederick, as the Lakers managed to hit just 23 of 70 from the field and only 4 of 21 from three-point distance.

"We had our chances, but you can't shoot 25 of 44 from the line and expect to beat a team as talented as Frederick is offensively," stated Coach Gibson. "We let them post us up and go inside too much. Our guys didn't play as a team tonight and thought they could turn it on when they wanted to and win the game, but Coach Miller had his team prepared. They wanted it more."

Freshman point guard Rodney Clark was the lone consistent scorer, hitting 9 of 11 free throws and 6 of 13 from the field. He also dishcd out 5 assists.

J.T. Lewis finished with 7 points, 3 steals, and 9 boards, while Terrance Taylor added 9 rebounds also, but only 3 points.

A bright spot for the Lakers was the bench again, as Howard Ferguson chipped in with 7 points, Chris Speicher had 6 points, and Doma Ibrahim provided 7 points and 4 rebounds.

Gibson said he is confident his team can learn from this loss.

"I have been warning our guys that you cannot win on talent alone; you have to learn how to win in adverse conditions, when you are down by 10 points, or when you have foul trouble," he said "We have been fortunate this year to not be tested as much as I would have liked. This will either make us better or we will have an average finish to our season. As someone said on TV the other day from the Big East Conference, you cannot let one loss become two."

The Lakers will not play again until next Wednesday when they tip off against visiting Baltimore City CC at 7:30 p.m.

AS COLD AS ALL OUTDOORS was the shooting of the Garrett College men's basketball team last night, as the Lakers lost for only the second time this season, failing to visiting Frederick CC, 83-75, in a Maryland JUCO Conference battle. Coach Dennis Gibson's squad managed to connect on only 23 of 70 shots from the floor, or just under 33%. Attempting a hook shot in the photo at left is Laker J.T. Lewis, who finished with 7 points and 9 rebounds. Ready to pass the ball to a teammate above right is GC's Chris Speicher, former standout for the Northern Huskies, who chipped in with 6 points. A NICE 8-POINT BUCK was felled by 9-year-old Ronnie Schrock, pictured right, during the recent Maryland rifle season. The rack was so large, Ronnie got the assistance of his younger brother Jacob, age 6, to help him hold it up for the camera. Ronnie and Jacob, sons of Ron and Peggy Schrock, are students at Yough Glades Elementary School.

Garrett Ruffed Grouse Society Now Established

A local chapter of the Ruffed Grouse Society (RGS) has been founded, named the Backbone Mountain Chapter. The newly elected board is in the process of making plans for several events in 2009.

The officers of the new group are Rich Skeweris, president; Heidi Quails, treasurer and chapter secretary; and Harold Harsh as prize chairman. About 14 others were in attendance at the first official meeting, which was held early this month. Also in attendance was the RGS regional director, Dave Hansroth.

Established in 1961, the Ruffed Grouse Society is an international wildlife conservation organization, dedicated to promoting conditions suitable for ruffed grouse, American woodcock, and related wildlife. The goal is to sustain the environment for the animals in order to maintain sport hunting traditions and outdoor heritage.

The new group hopes to grow the membership quickly.

"We encourage all upland bird hunters and other conservation-minded people to join us," Hansroth said.

The group will meet again in the spring, and meetings are held at the Backbone Mountain Sports Shop, located at 4768 George Washington Highway, Oakland.

Plans are under way for events such as a sporting clays shoot, possibly including a gun raffle, tentatively set for May 3. A fall banquet is tentatively set for Sept. 26 at Wisp. Some members will be attending a regional RGS banquet in Frederick next month.

Person interested in joining may call Skeweris at 301334-5814, or e-mail him at rskeweris@pennswoods.net. Hansroth can be reached at 412-303-1405 or rgshans@comcast.net.

Former NHS Golf Coach Is Ping's Fitter Of The Yr.

JEFF JACKSON

Ping Golf, Phoenix, Ariz., recently named Granville Golfland as its 2010 Fitter of the Year. Located in Ohio, Granville Golfland is own by Jeff Jackson, Northern High School's first golf coach.

The former Frostburg resident was also an instructor at Northern Middle School for more than a decade and director of golf at the Wisp Resort for several years.

The Ping award is given to the business and Ping club fitter that best epitomizes the company's "high standards of quality and integrity."

To be considered for the honor, establishments must show a combination of sales, consistent fitting standards, and the latest in fitting equipment, and must represent the Ping brand as a key part of its business model.

"To be recognized by a company that has been in business for 50 years as their top fitter is a definite honor," Jackson said. "I can remember when my dad bought a new set of Pings over 30 years ago and how those clubs were perceived as the best there were. . . . To now be honored by that very same company is truly special."

Jackson owned Western Maryland Golf in Frostburg and Cumberland for a number of years prior to moving to Ohio to become president of Dynacraft Golf

Real Estate Facts by...

RAISE THE CURTAINS

If you're selling in anything other than a hot market, you might find "staging" your home can help generate more interest and offers. You needn't spend thousands of dollars on improvements or professional consultants, however. There are several things you can take into your own hands to improve your home's appeal.

Begin by removing scatter rugs and knickknacks, which can clutter a room. In the kitchen, remove all appliances from the counters except the coffee maker and microwave. Set your dining table in a welcoming fashion, with plates, flatware and napkins.

You might be tempted to throw everything into the closets, but buyers will look there, too, so box everything up and place into storage. Focus on the "feature rooms" - the dining and living areas and master bedroom - keeping additional rooms as sparsely furnished as possible. Do your spring cleaning now, scrubbing the walls and floors and shining up those windows.

It has been estimated that one out of four homes listed are "staged," and "The Complete Idiot's Guide to Staging Your Home to Sell" states that you could gain up to $9,000 on a $200,000 house if it's properly presented. You might spend up to $100 per room in time and money, but that's a pretty small investment for that kind of return. Your real estate representative will have even more suggestions. If you are thinking of buying or selling a home but feel "out of touch" with real estate, give me a call today.

Treatment for Low Thyroid Activity

Hypothyroidism is a condition in which there is an underproduction of certain hormones by the thyroid gland. This leads to a slowing of the body's metabolism. The thyroid gland normally produces two hormones, thyroxine (T4) and triiodothyronine (T3). Both work to regulate metabolism. The hypothalamus gland sends a signal to the pituitary gland, which then releases thyroid stimulating hormone (TSH). The production of T3 and T4 by the thyroid gland depends on the amount of TSH present. Women, especially those over 50 years of age, are more likely to be affected by low thyroid (hypothyroidism), although anyone can develop the condition. Hypothyroidism may occur in response to a variety of causes, including an autoimmune condition, radiolodine therapy, and removal of the thyroid gland. Certain drugs may also cause hypothroidism, including lithium, and amiodarone.

Levothyroxine is the currently recommended treatment for hypothyroidism. This medication works to maintain a sufficient level of thyroid hormone in the body on a daily basis, resulting in improvements in signs and symptoms of the condition, such as fatigue and weight gain.

Rams 10th In Major Tourney; Bubba Scheffel Is Champion

The wrestling team of Southern High School placed 10th at the highly competitive Mount Mat Madness tournament held last weekend at CCBC Catonsville. There were 29 teams from five states competing.

"The tournament was filled with state champions, as well as national champions," said Southern head coach Dave Taylor, adding, "This is one of the toughest tournaments on the East Coast."

Nationally ranked Wyoming Seminary from Pennsylvania won the tournament, followed by Maryland's top-ranked team Mc-Donough, a private school, in second place.

Southern's 10th place was the best finish among the 11 Maryland public schools that competed.

Sophomore Bubba Scheffel won the title in the 145-pound division when he edged Curtis Holmes, a two-time private school state champion from Mc-Donough, in the finals by a score of 4-3.

Reigning Maryland state champion Brutus Scheffel, a junior, placed fourth in the 140-pound division, as he won his first three matches easily before meeting Eric Filipowicz from McDon-ough in the semi-finals. Scheffel lost a 3-1 decision to the defending private-school state champ to drop into the consolation round.

Sophomore Lex Ozias also advanced to the semi-finals with ease, but then dropped a 6-3 decision to Nick Dragonette from Wilson High School. Ozias also finished fourth in the 130-pound class.

Southern senior Josh Arnold placed sixth in a very tough 125-pound weight class, defeating two wrestlers who were ranked above him going into the tournament.

Seniors Ryan Fitzwater (215) and Jordan Skipper (152) both wrestled well and finished in the top eight in their weight classes. Skipper lost an overtime battle in the quarterfinals to Brent Mowry from LaPlata, who is currently the top-ranked 3A/4A wrestler in the state.

Rams Nicholas Brant (135) and Kody Lewis (160), also seniors, also wrestled well, according to Taylor, winning matches against some strong opponents before being eliminated.

The Rams will host Fort Hill and Keyser in a tri-match this evening, scheduled to begin at 6 p.m. They will host Northern next Thursday evening in a 7 p.m. contest.

Northern Youth Wrestlers In Pair Of Tournaments

Members of the Northern youth wrestling team participated in two tournaments this past weekend, traveling to Rockwood, Pa., for a first- and second-year novice tourney, and in a tourney at Keyser on Sunday.

At Rockwood, Brady Bittinger was the individual champion in the age 11-12/85-pound division, while teammate Josh Thomas finished third in the 6-under/45-pound division.

Also competing were Ethan Fratz, Shane Fink, Mac Raley, and Tyler Thomas.

At Keyser, individual titles were won by Justin Opel in the 11-12/75 division, Kody Osselburn, 11-12/100, and Tommy Durst, 11-12, 135.

Runners-up were Sergio Howard, 9-10/75, and Zach Haer, 11-12/75, while Justin Opel, 13-15/83, and Hunter Wilhelm, 6-under/55, each took thirds.

Finishing fourth was Nate Durst, 9-10/80 pounds.

Also participating were Shane Fink, Landon Broadwater, Brandon Stanczyk, Keygan Broadwater, Devin Wilhelm, Marco Howard, Ryan Weimer, and Jalone (J.C.) Carroll.

Southern Mat Club Members Vie At Keyser

Members of the Southern Mat Club competed in a youth wrestling tournament in Keyser on Sunday, finishing second as a team and with several bringing home individual trophies.

Dakota Pritt was the champion in the age 13-15, 128-pound division.

Runner-up honors were achieved by Justyce Fulmer in the 11-12/100 division, Brian Rinker, 11-12/150, and Mike Skipper, 13-15/128.

Capturing third places were Tanner Massey, 11-12/110, Mike Skipper, 13-15/135, and Tyler Gregory, 13-15/170. Coty Razel finished fourth in the 13-15/170-pound division.

Brandon Uphold and Austin Sines received participation ribbons.

The SMC will host its own tournament this Saturday, Jan. 24, at Southern High School.

RECOGNIZED FOR CLEAN-UP EFFORTS – The Accident Mayor and Town Council recently presented the 2008 Accident Community Volunteer of the Year Award to "all those who donated their time and equipment to clean up after the July 30 tornado." Those present to accept the award are pictured. Left to right in the first row are Robert Hook, Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company; Hob Bowser and Shalna Saturday, Accident Volunteer Fire Department; Accident mayor Richard W. Carlson with the plaque; and Allen Bach, AVFD. In the second row are Darrin Yoder, Bittinger Volunteer Fire Department; Loch Lynn Heights mayor Carolyn Corley; Mtn. Lake Park mayor B. Leo Martin; and Paul Custer and Allen Fratz, AVFD. In the back is Shawn Bender, Beitzel Corporation.

Oakland Man Handed Two Months For Failure To Pay Child Support

The following cases were heard recently in Garrett County District Court, with Judge Leonard J. Eiswert presiding.

Of those was the case of Albert Manuel Moon, 39, Oakland, who was found guilty for a charge of non-support to a minor child. He was sentenced to one year with nine months suspended, plus supervised probation for three years, and fines were suspended.

Moon's charge stemmed from his failure to pay child support from November 2001 until March 2008. He was found in contempt in October 2005 and again in January 2007. An arrearage of over $10,000 was in place by March 2008, and a warrant went out for his arrest. He was not prosecuted on two other charges of non-support of a minor child.

In an unrelated case, Paul Thomas Turner, 40, Lonaconing, was found guilty for trespassing on private property, and was sentenced to 60 days with 30 days being suspended, supervised probation for one year, and $57.50 in fines.

Charges stem from October 2008 after Maryland State Police responded to a local business in Grantsville for a disorderly subject. Turner had already been asked not to return to the place of business in April of 2008, after he had attempted to get a false prescription filled and allegedly became abusive toward an employee. Turner had returned to the business in October to get prescriptions filled and the employee refused. It was reported that Turner was yelling and cursing at the employee when officers arrived.

He was arrested and taken to the barrack for processing. He was not prosecuted on a disorderly conduct charge.

In another district court hearing, Rebecca Ann Winebrenner, 31, Cumberland, was handed a guilty verdict on a charge of theft valued at $500-plus. She was sentenced to one year with 11 months and 28 days suspended, supervised probation for three years, and restitution costs of $3,146, and all other fines were suspended.

Winebrenner was charged after it was found that she had taken some money from an ATM at a local business in June 2008.

Bonnie Ann Bailey, 39, Gormania, was found guilty for a charge of CDS possession not marijuana. She was sentenced to 60 days with all being suspended, one year of supervised probation, and $157.50 in fines.

Garrett County sheriffs officers and the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force were contacted by the staff at the Garrett County Jail in reference to a controlled dangerous substance (CDS) violation. Bailey had been arrested that day in June 2008 on the strength of an arrest warrant and had been brought to the jail by MSP. She was searched, and officers found a plastic bag with white powder residue. The substance tested positive for the presence of cocaine.

Cory Eugene Nolt, 29, Lancaster, Pa., was handed a guilty verdict for a CDS possession of marijuana charge and was sentenced to 30 days with all being suspended, one year of unsupervised probation, 40 hours of community service, and $250 in fines.

Nolt was charged in July 2008 after being pulled over by GCNTF for a speeding violation on I-68. A K-9 search was utilized by officers, and a positive alert for the odor of narcotics was present. A search of the vehicle revealed a plastic bag containing marijuana.

He was arrested and taken to the Garrett County Detention Center. He was not prosecuted on a CDS possession of paraphernalia charge.

Aaron Seth Chipikitis, 20, Gaffney, S.C., was placed on stet for two charges of theft valued at $500-plus, and one charge of theft valued less than $500.

He was arrested and charged in July 2008 in North Carolina for possession of stolen goods and property from residents of Garrett County.

Mitchel Terry Jackson, 52, Friendsville, was not prosecuted on charges of burglary in the first degree, burglary in the third degree, and theft valued at $500-plus. His charges stem from November 2008.

Charles S. Ward, 39, Bloomington, was not prosecuted on charges of violating an ex parte protective order and harassment. He charges stemmed from an altercation with an adult victim in September 2008.

Christopher Michael Rodgers, 18, Severn, was not prosecuted on charges of theft valued at $500-plus and first degree burglary. Charges stemmed from an October 2008 incident at a local college dormitory.

DUI/DWI CASES

The following driving while under the influence (DUI) and driving while impaired (DWI) cases were heard in recent Garrett County District Court proceedings, with Judge Leonard J. Eiswert presiding:

Jonathan Lyle Booska, 33, Md., was handed a guilty verdict for a DUI charge from November 2008. He was sentenced to one year, with six months suspended, three years of supervised probation, and $307.50 in fines. He was not prosecuted on a DWI charge.

Andrew John Piatnek, 25, W.Va., was found guilty for a November 2008 DWI charge and was sentenced

We Love You

I know you're already gone,
And it's been way too long
In love and remembrance,
We'll always love you.

Your face in pictures
Makes me feel sad
And it makes me feel,
Like it can't be real
You'll always be on my mind,
And in my heart, too.
And all the times I cried,
I never got to say good-bye.
I Love You!

I know you'll never get to read this,
But it'll show how much,
You'll be missed.
This poem shows how much
Your granddaughters love you.
We love You.

Gnegy Selected As Delegate To Nat'l 4-H Event

Katelyn Gnegy was recently selected to be one of 1,200 delegates from throughout the United States and its territories to attend the 87th National 4-H Congress.

The program includes a mix of educational, service, and recreational opportunities for young people. Delegates stayed at the Hyatt Regency Atlanta and learned about the history of the city of Atlanta. Through the years, the city has been the home to a variety of celebrities and statesmen such as President Jimmy Carter, Martin Luther King, Margaret Mitchell, and Ted Turner.

Katelyn's trip to the National 4-H Congress provided opportunities for her to explore a variety of Atlanta resources, including Centennial Olympic Park, the World of Coca-Cola, CNN Center, and the Georgia Aquarium, where she went to a formal dinner and dance. Her schedule included workshops to develop leadership skills, outstanding speakers and entertainers, tours, and recreational opportunities.

She also completed a service learning project at Grant Park, which including planting daffodil bulbs that will bloom in the spring.

Katelyn has received the President's Service Learning Award for many years and is a regular volunteer at Christian Crossing Thrift Shop in Loch Lynn. As a 4-H member, she has completed a variety of projects, including market animals, rabbits, leadership, fashion revue, and engineering events. Katelyn is a youth entrepreneur, having participated for several years as a vendor at the farmer's market selling produce from her family farm and handmade craft items.

"Katelyn has been an outstanding 4-H member in our county," said Ann Sherrard, Garrett County 4-H program leader. "She has been active in many projects with her club, the county program, and in the community. Her resume reflects this, and along with her impressive interview performance, she received the invitation to attend the congress as a Maryland representative."

Katelyn has been a 4-H member for nine years, and is a member of the Country Explorers 4-H Club. She is the daughter of Dan and Mary Gnegy of Oakland.

THE WORLD OF COCA-COLA was one of the many sightseeing opportunities in Atlanta, Ga., for Katelyn Gnegy recently. She was selected to represent Garrett County at the National 4-H Congress in Atlanta through a competitive process that required her to complete an essay, develop a resume of her 4-H and community activities, and participate in a personal interview. While at the Coca-Cola factory, she tasted different flavors of Coke from many different countries and learned the depth of the history of the drink. On her trip, she was also able to attend an international dance and dinner with dancers from different territories. At the dinner, she sampled foods from around the world. See story for details.

Have You HEARD?
by M. Keith Nester, Sr., BC-HIS
M. Keith Nester, Sr., BC-HIS — Cathy Arnold, HIS MORE COMMON THAN YOU MIGHT EXPECT
Hearing loss is more common than most people might expect. In fact, about 16% of adults suffer some impairment in their ability to hear speech. More than 30% of individuals over age 20 have lost some high-frequency hearing. This latter statistic, which comes from a recent study, should give us all pause and lead to some self-examination. That is, we should be asking ourselves if our music-listening habits (i.e., listening to loud music through headphones) are contributing to long-term hearing loss. Beyond that, it is possible that some people are exposed to ambient noise levels, at work or at home, that also may place them at increased risk for hearing loss. If so, corrective measures should be taken.
Because perfect hearing is out of reach for millions of people, our primary mission is to help as many people as possible improve their hearing. We hope to help the hearing impaired better enjoy the world through advanced technology, education, and friendly, compassionate service. For a knowledgeable understanding of how the body's hearing mechanisms work and a deep commitment to knowing what's available today to help each individual's hearing loss, we welcome you to AUDIBEL.
P.S. As a general rule of thumb, people should not listen to music through standard earbuds at 80% of the maximum volume, for more than ninety minutes per day. Doing so increases the risk for noise-induced hearing loss.

Ask The Everyday Scientist

MOTION DETECTORS
by Dr. Thomas P. Sheahen

Q. I have some motion-sensing lights on my garage that turn on when someone or something approaches. How exactly do they work? Would motion-sensors work in total darkness?

A A typical "motion" detector at a house contains a detector of infrared radiation, meaning the heat radiation given off by people as they move around. It's called a passive sensor, because it only receives radiation originating elsewhere. Even when a person wears a coat, his/her body still gives off some heat, and that radiation is what the detector picks up.

The simplest motion sensors are sold in hardware stores for prices like $20 to $40, for short-range or long-range devices. "Range" is not just about distance alone, but also how wide an angle is contained in the field of view. If you want to detect something moving 100 feet from your garage, you'll want the more expensive model with the greater range. If you just want to illuminate someone standing at the front door, the short-range, inexpensive type will do.

Standard motion detectors have certain things in common. First of all, when activated, the detector signals a circuit which throws a switch and turns on the light. Then the light goes off after 1, 5, or 10 minutes, depending on a setting you choose. Moreover, there is an override switch that allows you to simply turn the light on, without regard to motion.

Also, there is usually a variable setting for sensitivity. When something comes by that you don't care about, you'd prefer that the motion detector not respond and the lights not go on. So if the wind blows some leaves into the field of view of the sensor, you want the sensitivity setting to be low enough to ignore that. Cars going past out in the street should not set it off, either.

You can't have everything. To keep the price reasonable, some trade-offs are necessary: You would like it to ignore chipmunks and squirrels, but you want the lights to come on if a bear comes near your garage at night. What about a dog or raccoon? Don't expect to be able to set the sensitivity precisely.

In daylight, you don't want the lights to come on, so these devices can be turned off in the daytime. The cheapest models require you to set a timer, but better models contain a photocell that is activated when the daylight is sufficient, and that interrupts the electrical connection. When it starts to get dark, the photocell receives insufficient light, the connection is restored, and the lights can operate once again.

There are other, more advanced motion detectors available too. Such detectors send out a signal – perhaps ultrasonic waves, microwaves, or an optical beam, and therefore they are called active sensors, as contrasted to the passive sensor that merely collects infrared radiation. An ultrasonic motion detector sends out a sound wave (which you cannot hear) and picks up the echo that bounces back from whatever it hits.

In all cases, the idea is to detect when a change occurs in the signal coming back to the sensor. No matter what kind of signal is sent out, if the same thing keeps returning after bouncing off whatever is out there, it means that nothing moved, and so the door doesn't open or the lights don't switch on.

Many stores have automatic doors that open when a motion-detector discerns that someone is moving nearby. You can occasionally find indirect evidence of such devices being present. In front of big stores, the microwave signals being emitted might activate an automobile's radar detector – a "false positive." Ultrasonic motion detectors don't cause that problem

A motion detector still works in "total darkness." By that term we refer to the absence of visible light. There is still infrared radiation even when your eyes can't see a thing. The active devices likewise work in total darkness – an ultrasonic or microwave sensor isn't paying any attention to whether or not there is daylight.

Dr. Sheahen is a physicist who was educated at MIT. He lives at Deep Creek Lake and has taught physics at Garrett College. Persons wishing to submit questions for this column may e-mail them to newsroom@therepublicannews.com.

Each child is unique. Though he may look like his mother or act like his father, his particular combination of traits is unlike any other.

Each child needs to know this. He may not be as good an athlete as his brother or as good a student as his sister, but he should be appreciated for the good qualities he has, whatever they may be.

A child develops self-worth from many sources – parents, grandparents, and teachers. God's Word teaches him that he is special and loved. Let your child know that God loves him, that he is unique and irreplaceable.

Bring your family to worship each week and feel God's love at work.

The Importance of Etiquette

These days, it Is almost a cliché to say that common courtesy is not common enough. The concept of etiquette or manners seems almost a throwback to a distant era when girls might go to finishing schools and gentlemen all knew that it was their place to walk on the outside of the sidewalk.

The notion that there is a right and a wrong side to serve someone from-we are supposed to serve food from the left-may seem quaint until we consider that most of us are right-handed, and thus it is easier to receive food if it comes from the left. In short, the point of etiquette is sensitivity to the needs of others. Some of the arcane nuances of etiquette may indeed be quaint, and not entirely useful today, but the idea that we should be courteous to others, I.e., sensitive to their needs, is extremely important. Being considerate of the feelings of others and sensitive to their needs is the essence of etiquette. The person who embarrasses someone who has committed a breach of etiquette is obviously missing the point. Conversely, someone who is truly sensitive to the needs of their fellow human beings, even if they should commit a breach of etiquette, is still acting courteously by trying to meet their needs. If the commandment to love one another is the essence of Christianity, then etiquette is one of the ways we put this commandment into practice.

Do nothing from selfishness or conceit, but in humility countothers better than yourselves. Let each of you look not only to hisown interests, but also to the interests of others.

Effects of Vitamin D Deficiency

Vitamin D is a naturally occuring vitamin found in milk, salmon, eggs, cheese, fortified cereals, beef, and tuna. It can also be made in the body. When a person is exposed to sunlight, one form of vitamin D is produced in the skin. Once it is produced in the skin, it is converted to its most active form in the body by the liver and kidneys. This important vitamin is necessary for the maintenance of bones, muscles, nerves, blood vessels, and the heart. A deficiency can lead to muscle and bone deformities such as Rickets and osteoporosis.

Recent studies show that vitamin D deficiency can also increase a person's risk for developing heart disease, high blood pressure, and diabetes. The American College of Cardiology recommends treating vitamin D deficiency in adults initially with 50,000 units of vitamin D weekly for 8 weeks, then supplementing chronically with 50,000 units once every 2 weeks or 1,000 to 2,000 units daily. Daily exposure to sunlight for 5-10 minutes is also recommended. Vitamin D can also be obtained through the diet by eating salmon, tuna, or sardines and drinking milk and juice that have been fortified with vitamin D

By Samantha Weaver

• Herpetologists can tell you that of all the victims of rattlesnake bites, only about half of them actually hear the telltale rattle before being bitten.

• It was famed Elizabethan playwright William Shakespeare who made the following sage observation: "Beauty is all very well at first sight; but whoever looks at it when it has been in the house three days?"

• The "Guinness Book of World Records" used to have a category for how many live goldfish a person could eat at once, but it was eliminated. Interestingly, the reason for the elimination had nothing to do with cruelty to animals, but rather had to do with the difficulty of preventing cheating. It seems that some would-be competitors were breeding smaller and smaller fish for consumption.

• The word "alimony" is derived from the Latin word "alimonia," which means "nourishment."

• Those who study such things say that the month in which you are most likely to be shot, strangled or poisoned is December. They don't seem to venture an opinion regarding why, however.

• On average, British women are shorter than women in the United States.

• Who among us isn't familiar with the line, "Quoth the Raven, nevermore"? As virtually anyone who made it through middle-school English class can tell you, it's from Edgar Allan Poe's classic poem "The Raven." Considering the uhiquitous nature of the work, though, you might be surprised to learn that Poe earned a grand total of $9 from the first puhlication of the poem.

• The hrain of an ostrich is actually smaller than one of its eyes.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Jan. 26, 1838, the first Prohibition law in U.S. history is passed in Tennessee, making it a misdemeanor to sell alcoholic beverages in taverns and stores. Despite an often-vigorous effort, the federal government failed to prevent the large-scale distribution of alcoholic beverages, and organized crime flourished.

• On Feb. 1, 1893, Thomas Edison finishes the first movie studio on his property in West Orange, N.J. The studio, a frame cabin covered with black roofing paper, was built on a pivot so it could be turned to face the sunlight throughout the day Edison spent $638 building the studio, which he called a "revolving photographic building."

• On Jan. 27, 1918, the first Tarzan film, "Tarzan of the Apes," is released. The silent movie, based on Edgar Rice Burroughs' novel, was the first in a long line of Tarzan productions. Olympic champion swimmer Johnny Weissmuller starred in 11 Tarzan movies from 1932 to 1948.

• On Jan. 28, 1959, the Green Bay Packers of the National Football League sign Vince Lombardi to a five-year contract as the team's coach and general manager. In his first season, Lombardi guided the Packers to a 7-5 record and a third-place finish in the NFL's Western Conference.

• On Jan. 30, 1972, in Londonderry, Northern Ireland, 13 unarmed civil-rights demonstrators are shot dead by British army paratroopers in an event that becomes known as "Bloody Sunday." In April 1972, the British government released a report exonerating British troops from any illegal actions during the protest.

• On Jan. 29, 1980, the U.S. Postal Service issues a stamp honoring comedian W.C. Fields. On screen, Fields was a misanthrope who hated children and animals and fought bankers, landladies and the police. Friends reported that his stage presence reflected Fields' true personality.

• On Jan. 31, 1990, the Soviet Union's first McDonald's fast-food restaurant opens in Moscow. Throngs of people lined up to pay the equivalent of several days' wages for Big Macs, shakes and french fries.

Betta Fish Didn't Have to Die

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: I'm writing regarding the column about the children who didn't take care of their pet fish. It seems to me that the consequence of failing to take care of the Betta fish was that the fish died. Teaching the kids to be responsible is a wonderful thing; the parent was not being responsible.

I didn't see the original letter, but apparently the fish wasn't being fed. The mother should've put it in her routine to accompany the kids daily to their pet-care chores and verify they were being accomplished. If the kids didn't want to do those chores, she could've given the fish away. And if she was unable to fit overseeing the pet care into her schedule, she should have never gotten the fish in the first place.

I'm not accusing the mother of intentional animal cruelty, but definitely of being irresponsible. How can she teach responsibility when she wasn't responsible herself? In the long run, if neglect is the cause of the fish's death, she, not the children, is responsible.

On the positive side, she is correct to not allow the kids to have another pet. Good for her on that count. — Beth

DEAR BETH: That's a sensible answer, Beth, and thanks. I got quite a few letters on this issue, many fairly hysterical. While I don't condone the death of a pet due to neglect, I'm also quite sure the mother felt badly about what happened. If she didn't, she wouldn't have asked me for advice on getting another pet.

That leaves one remaining question for my readers: How can her children prove to her that they are ready for another pet?

Collecting

by Larry Cox

Q. I have a bowl that has been identified by a dealer as Goofus glass. What exactly is Goofus glass? — Betty, Morrison, Minn.

A. Goofus glass — also known as Mexican ware, Holligan glass and pickle glass — is basically pressed glass with relief designs painted on either the back or front. This style of glass was especially popular throughout the early years of the last century. Typical prices are: ashtray, $12; candleholder, $20; decanter, $50; and syrup pitcher, $85.

Q. I have a watch that was made by Rockford Watch Company sometime during the 1870s or '80s. It has a silver case and is key wound. Any idea of how much it is worth? Also, can you provide any information about this company? — Karl, Ashland, Ohio

A. The Rockford Watch Company crafted a small number of high-grade timepieces from about 1874 until 1915. The highest grade were engraved "Ruby Jewels" or "Ruby." Some of the later had a stylized "R" associated with the jewel count. I consulted several dealers, and they seem to agree that your watch is probably worth in the $200 to $450 range, depending on condition.

Q. I have a copy of "Above Suspicion" by Helen MacInnes, first published in 1941. The edition I have is from September of 1943, the third or fourth reprint. Is it valuable? — Faith, Mt. Storm, W.Va.

A. Although your book is an early edition, it is not a first edition. I contacted several book dealers, and they seem to agree that — with its original cover — it probably is worth in the $5 to $10 range.

A&E's 'Cleaner' way of doing things continues

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Q: What's happening with A&E Network's "The Cleaner" starring Benjamin Bratt? –Edna Lamb, Sumner, Wash.

A: The drama series about an intervention expert has been renewed for a second season. Since its original round began last July, it's likely that its return will be this summer, though the cable network had not confirmed that at this writing.

Q: I have noticed that several "Desperate Housewives" episodes have titles that also are the names of songs from Stephen Sondheim musicals. So who's the Sondheim fan? –Mery Caputo, Annepolis, Md.

A: Evidently it's series creator and executive producer Marc Cherry. His appreciation of the composer seems to run pretty deep, as he also demonstrated several years ago at an event to introduce ABC's lineup for that fall. Wearing top hat and tails, Cherry was surrounded by his female cast as he performed the Sondheim song "Beautiful Girls."

Q: Was there a television program called "Sisters," starring Sela Ward, and is it available on DVD? –Basle Gagnon, Port St. Lucie, Fla.

A: The drama aired on NBC from 1991 to 1996, and Ward earned considerable critical acclaim (and a 1994 Emmy Award) for her portrayal of Teddy, the most unpredictable of the siblings - as in such situations as her ex-husband's marriage to one of her sisters. Fans of the show will recall that one of her serious romances was with a police detective named Falconer, played by George Clooney before he checked into "ER." No DVD release plans have been announced for "Sisters."

Benjamin Bratt

Q: Sometime after the writers strike, someone asked if "Medium" was coming back. I believe the answer was January, but I haven't seen anything yet announcing a return date. Is it coming back? –Chet Stegall, Helotes, Texas

A: Yes, and soon. NBC has decided to begin the fifth season of the Patricia Arquette-starring, Kelsey Grammer-produced drama series on Feb. 2.

Q: I am a big fan of Tyra Banks, and I would love to write to her if you can print her address. –Juanita Washington, San Antonio

A: She has a fan club that fields her mail from viewers. You can address yours to Tyra Banks, c/o Studio Fan Mail, 1122 S. Robertson Blvd. No. 15, Los Angeles, CA 90035.

Q: I went to know if "JAG" is currently on any channels. I used to catch it on USA Network. –Mary Cunningham, Dublin, Ohio

A: It's actually still there. Repeats of the long-popular military drama are being shown weekday mornings; later in the day, USA also offers encores of earlier episodes of the "JAG" spinoff "NCIS."

Market Animal Workshops Set For Area Youth

Area members of 4-H and FFA are invited to attend a day of Market Animal workshops on Friday, Jan. 30, at Garrett College from 6:30 to 9 p.m.

The workshops will be held in the Continuing Education Building, Rooms 205, 207, and 2240. Registration will begin at 6:30 p.m., and the first session will start at 6:45 p.m. All three workshops will be presented at 6:45 p.m., and again at 8 p.m. Those attending may choose two sessions.

Speakers will discuss the feeding and care of animals, which can affect the success of market animal projects.

Scheduled speakers and topics are David Gordon, faculty extension assistant, 4-H youth development/agriculture and natural resources in Montgomery County, feeding and care of market swine; Dr. M. Scott Updike, assistant professor of animal and avian sciences at the University of Maryland, feeding and care of market steers; Susan Schoenian, principal agent and regional extension specialist, sheep and goats for western Maryland; and Dr. Illaina Euvrard of Casselman Veterinary Services, feeding and care of market sheep and market goats.

Those attending the program will receive credit for the required quality assurance certification. All young people raising and showing animals are required to attend a quality assurance program every two years.

For more information, persons may call the extension office at 301-334-6960.

State Fair Notes Livestock Show Order Changes

The 128th Maryland State Fair is scheduled for Friday, Aug. 28, to Monday, Sept. 7, in Timonium. Annually, the fair recognizes the hard work of thousands of 4-H and FFA members as well as the talents of Marylanders of all ages (open class exhibitors) who compete in shows and demonstrations throughout the 11 days of the fair.

The order of livestock shows will change this year. All beef cattle shows will take place on the first weekend of the fair, with the 4-H beef cattle shows on Friday, Aug. 28, and Saturday, Aug. 29. All open class beef cattle shows, including the new "purebreds of other breeds" division, will be held on Sunday, Aug. 30.

All 4-H and open class dairy shows will take place on the second weekend of the fair, with the open class dairy shows set for Thursday, Sept. 3, and Friday, Sept. 4, and the 4-H dairy shows set for Sunday, Sept. 6, and Monday, Sept. 7.

"In this difficult economy, we hope that this change in the schedule will help our exhibitors with their hauling fees and travel expenses," said Andy Cashman, assistant general manager.

The 4-H/FFA Livestock Sale will take place on Saturday, Aug. 29, at 7:30 p.m. in the Cow Palace, and the livestock judging and dairy judging will take place on Saturday, Sept. 5, at 8 a.m. in the Cow Palace.

FSA Offers Loans To Area Women, Minority Farmers

The USDA Farm Service Agency has noted that women and minority farmers interested in buying and operating family-sized farms may be eligible for loans.

"The Farm Service Agency is interested in promoting greater involvement in farming and ranching by women and minorities," said Diane Drabish, farm loan manager for the FSA in western Maryland. "Each year, we reserve a portion of our farm loan funds especially for socially disadvantaged applicants."

The loans available to women and minorities are the same as those for other borrowers, as are eligibility requirements.

Applicants must be primarily and directly engaged in farming and ranching on family-size operations.

In addition to being members of a socially disadvantaged group, applicants under this program must meet all requirements for FSA's regular farm loan program assistance, including the following: a satisfactory history of meeting credit obligations; sufficient education, experience, and/or training that indicates the managerial ability to assure reasonable prospects of success; be a citizen of the United States (or legal resident alien), including Puerto Rico, the U.S. Virgin Islands, Guam, American Samoa, and certain former Pacific Island Trust territories; be unable to obtain credit elsewhere at reasonable rates and terms to meet actual needs; and possess legal capacity to incur loan obligations.

A socially disadvantaged applicant is one of a group whose members have been subjected to racial, ethnic, or gender prejudice because of their identity as members of the group without regard to their individual qualities. For purposes of this program, socially disadvantaged groups are women, African Americans, American Indians, Alaskan natives, Hispanics, Asian Americans, and Pacific Islanders.

For more information, persons may contact Drabish at 866-316-8458 or the USDA Service Center.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

This inauguration is a bright spot in this long winter which started in mid-October. Last weekend Bittinger and many parts of Garrett County got a substantial amount of snow. My lane was so bad that my brother Barry couldn't come in to see me.

It is very appropriate that President Barack Obama's inauguration is the day after Martin Luther King Jr.'s birthday. If you treated it as more than just a day off work, then you may have watched one of the many TV specials about his life and actions. They point out very sharply how bad things were in the 1960s and just how far America has come in the last 50 or so years. We have finally lived up to "Liberty and justice for all."

There are thousands of companions of mine who were denied my comfortable hfestyle, high-quality education, and other opportunities. The first time I was aware of racist activities was in 1960, when I was 7 years old. My hero, Roberto Clemente, helped the Pittsburgh Pirates win the World Series. Even then I realized that he was more than just a great athlete, but that he was also a wonderful man and physically beautiful. I was shocked when someone referred to someone with the same color skin as his as a "dirty n**."

As I learned about America's history, I was appalled to learn about the dark stain of slavery. I was barely aware of segregation, only that there were practically no blacks in Bittinger – or Garrett County, for that matter. I saw very few on television.

I don't know when I was first aware of Martin Luther King Jr., but it was probably when he first marched on Washington and delivered his famous "I have a dream" speech. As I got older he inspired me with his message of change and non-violence through his wonderful speeches. He took on the seemingly unsolvable problem of violence and unfair race relations in America. He endured a bomb on his house, time in jail, physical beatings, and death threats. He still continued to lead the Civil Rights movement in spite of slow progress and some severe set-backs. Like the message of a peaceful march in a frenzy of state policemen.

When some of these events were televised it woke up many white Amer-icans to the unnecessary brutalities that were occurring in many parts of the U.S., and the South especially. King inspired millions of people, not just black, but white also. Influential people besides the youth heard his message as well.

John F. Kennedy and his brother Robert Kennedy lent a helping hand to the movement. Most people re-member King for his "I have a dream" speech, which he delivered on the steps of the Lincoln Memorial.

Multi-millions of people from all over the country packed into the D.C. mall today to be a part of the historic inauguration. All kinds of people flocked there, including a group of African American fighter pilots from World War II. There were also enormous numbers of young adults, including my daughter Caitlin, who attended the ceremony or watched from afar from various points of the mall. Caitlin is in D C. with the Young Democrats Club from West Virginia University.

Claire and Meredith traveled to Morgantown Sunday morning to see Caitlin off and to help her find a dress and accessories for the Youth Ball which she will attend Tuesday evening at the Hilton Hotel in downtown D.C. At 6 a.m. this morning I got a call from Caitlin, who had just board-ed a crowded metro train in Fairfax, Va. Although I was worried for her to attend, I am glad that a piece of me is there to be a part of the magic.

Early this morning (Tuesday) a news report claimed that the atmosphere on the Mall in D.C. resembled that of the Super Bowl. A few others from the Bittinger area who traveled there are Joe, Andre, Sioban, and Sarah Howe of New Germany Road.

Kevin and Carol Bass and family joined William Bass to celebrate his 78th birthday in Cumberland.

Another birthday to report about is that of my daughter Meredith. This year her birthday fell on Martin Luther King Jr. Day

It's hard to believe that my three little girls are all grown up. While I was in the hospital giving birth to Meredith, I watched the early stages of Desert Storm in Iraq on CNN, and here we are 18 years later still fighting an upward battle in the Middle East.

THIS IS SURELY STEELER COUNTRY, with a large portion of the Garrett County population gearing up for Sunday, armed with their Terrible Towels and ready to root for the Pittsburgh Steelers as they engage the Arizona Cardinals in the 43rd Super Bowl. Billy Hesen, a Garrett County native, worked for quite a while to create the scene above, emptying bottle after bottle of yellow food coloring on the frozen surface of Deep Creek Lake to spell out his favorite team's name. Pictured from left are Hesen's daughters, Elizabeth and Carrie Hesen, and their cousin, Erin Hooper. The game begins at about 6:30 p.m. and will be broadcast on NBC stations.

USDA Plans To Use Toxicant To Address Crows

In order to thin the huge numbers of American crows that are causing a variety of problems in Oakland, the United States Department of Agriculture Wildlife Services Program in Maryland has applied for a Special Local Need registration for a toxicant for use on the crows by the Maryland Department of Agriculture.

According to a news release from the Oakland Mayor and Town Council, the USDA is now working with its own National Environmental Policy Act coordinator to obtain this registration.

USDA must complete an environmental assessment in order to proceed with administering the toxicant. This assessment requires a 30-day public comment period and a decision document that can take up to 15 days to prepare and get approved. USDA hopes to have this process completed by the end of February, according to the release.

Once approved, USDA will start the pre-bating process. Colder weather and more snow cover will play a significant role in this process to ensure success.

Feeding areas outside the town limits will be used for the application of the toxicant. This will take only a few days, and the toxicant will be cleaned up in the feeding areas daily. USDA officials will be at the feeding sites to keep other birds, wildlife, and domestic animals from coming into the area. Dead crows will be

SUPPORT GROUP SHIPS "CARE" PACKAGES TO TROOPS – The Military Family Support Group recently conducted a "food drive" for local troops who are serving overseas. During the last few months, members collected enough items to fill 32 boxes to ship to the troops in time for Christmas. "Thank you to everyone who donated items and/or money," said a group spokesperson. "On behalf of the troops, we wish to extend our gratitude and appreciation for your hometown support." Pictured, left to right, are some of the group's youngest members: Russell Dillsworth, Casi Hughes, Madison Corley, Dalton McManus, Alexander Meyer, Cassandra Hoffman, and Brandon Dillsworth. The support group is a voluntary organization that helps families meet the unique challenges of military life. "We involve the entire family, as well as people from the community," said the spokesperson. "We welcome families of all branches of the armed forces. Families get together through the group and share many types of practical and emotional support. We communicate with each other, and provide a chance to ask questions and express ideas and concerns. The group leaders understand military life and are a wonderful source of strength and comfort for the spouses and parents of the service personnel." To join, persons are asked to provide the group with their military person's name, rank, and place of deployment. It does not matter if one is stationed stateside or overseas. There are currently 26 members in the group, eight of whom are serving overseas. The next meeting is scheduled for Wednesday, Feb. 18, at 6:30 p.m. at the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad building in Mtn. Lake Park. For more information, persons may call Mel or Cathy Menker at 301-334-5906 or Shella Shaffer at 301-616-6109, or visit supportlocalmilitary.com

Oakland Awarded POS Funding For Fort Alice Project

Governor Martin O'Malley announced on Tuesday Board of Public Works approval of local-side Program Open Space funding for a recreational improvement project in Garrett County.

The town of Oakland will receive $80,350 to acquire 12.12 acres of land, which will cover four acres of woods, the site of a Civil War fort called Fort Alice, and portions to be used for recreational trail development.

"Maryland's local parks and recreation areas offer children opportunities for outdoor exploration and create places of gathering for entire communities," O'Malley said. "Through these Program Open Space projects, we are enhancing our way of life in sustainable ways to be enjoyed by all ages."

Since 2007, O'Malley and the BPW have preserved more than 20,752 acres of natural areas for public recreation and watershed and wildlife protection across Maryland through Program Open Space, according to the Maryland

County Native Senior VP Of Project HOPE

Stuart Myers, formerly of Garrett County, was recently named senior vice president for Project HOPE (Health Opportunity for People Everywhere), an international health education and humanitarian assistance organization. In his new position, Myers will oversee all aspects of Project HOPE's Global Health programs operating in more than 35 countries, special projects including HOPE's partnership with U.S. Navy, and HOPE's multi-million dollar gifts-in-kind (GIK) program.

"Stuart's constant support and belief in the Project HOPE mission, and his valued experience, make him a true asset to this organization."

Myers began his career with Project HOPE in 1999 as the budget director. He has also served as HOPE's director of financial and program management, deputy to senior vice president of Global Health, and most recently, interim senior vice

Gov. Postpones Budget Cuts; Awaits $4 Billion From Ballout

by Erika Woodward and Dylan Waugh
Capital News Service

Gov. Martin O'Malley will delay $56 million in reductions to this year's budget in anticipation of $3.9 billion he expects the state to receive from the federal economic stimulus package being debated in Congress.

Proposed cuts to community colleges, local health grants, and county school systems are now on hold, the governor announced Tuesday at the State House.

O'Malley had planned to present the cuts to the Board of Public Works on Wednesday. The $56 million in cuts were meant to help plug a $346 million hole in the current fiscal year's budget.

The "strong, broad, and comprehensive" stimulus package might also negate the need for the state employee layoffs he proposed last week, O'Malley said. O'Malley proposed the layoffs as part of his plan for closing a $2 billion projected budget deficit next year.

"It's our hope that if [the stimulus package passes] we will not have to make 700 hard-working state workers unemployed in the middle of an economic downturn," he said.

The $825 billion American Recovery and Reinvestment Act could provide $2.5-$2.9 billion over 27 months toward the state's operating expenses, said Secretary of Budget and Management T. Eloise Foster.

Of that money, $1 billion is allocated for Medicaid and $1.1 billion for education.

The delay of a proposed statewide 50 percent reduction to the Geographic Cost of Education Index, a formula which awards more money to counties in which the cost of education is greater, could provide much-needed relief to cash-strapped school districts already dreading proposed cuts in fiscal 2010.

Eliminating cuts in fiscal 2009 could ease next year's drought, said John White, a spokesman for Prince George's County, where school funding could decrease by more than $35 million next year.

White said the decision to protect the geographic index means "state ... offi-

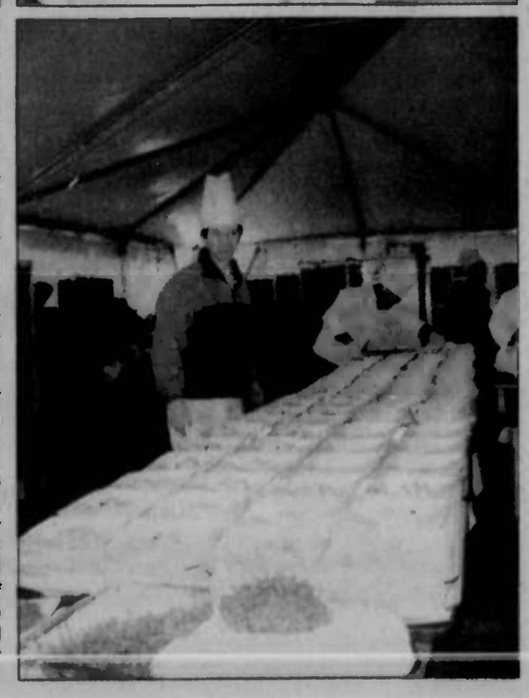
LOCAL CHEF BUSY AT INAUGURATION – Chef Pascal Fontaine, owner and operator of the Deer Park Inn, shown above, spent five days in Washington, D.C., last week, and most of that on his feet, preparing gourmet food for President Barack Obama and thousands of others in about nine inaugural events. Fontaine was recruited along with nine other chefs to lend his hands, and his expertise, in creating and "plating" meals for huge groups, including one for 650 and another for a staggering 1,200. That's 1,200 plates of food, all of uniform temperature and appearance, all at once. That kind of task can only be achieved by the most highly trained staff, who prepare the food, plate it assembly-line style, and store the prepared plates in large boxes (shown at the left side of the top action photo) before they are sent out to the guests. Fontaine helped with the inauguration eve "bipartisan dinner," preparing food for Obama, John McCain, Colin Powell, George W. Bush, and their families, among many others. His wife Sandy joined him for part of the stint, helping out with the bigger events. "We were on the go for 22 hours straight," she said. "It was exhausting, but amazing, too. The mood of the people was so jubilant, and everything went so smoothly. Really amazing." The Fontaines have operated the Deer Park Inn for 12 years, and will be serving the same dinner served on inauguration day this weekend (grilled shrimp with caramelized pineapple as the salad, and beef tenderloin with black peppercorn sauce) to guests who make reservations (301-334-2308). Fontaine was trained at the Culinary Institute of Paris and has been a chef for about 34 years.



"BOARD-CUTTING" OPENS LOWE'S – A host of local officials was on hand to assist the management of the new Oakland Lowe's Home Improvement store in officially opening the new facility, which is located along U.S. Rt. 219 north of downtown. Instead of a ribbon-cutting, Lowe's traditionally conducts a "board-cutting" ceremony, and on each half of the sawn board are the signatures of the employees. Getting the cutting honors was Oakland mayor Asa McCain. Identifiable in the photo, from left, are: Mike Slone, Lowes sales manager; Garrett County commissioner Ernie Gregg; Jim Hinebaugh, county director of economic development; Commissioner Denny Glotfelty; Robert Kurtz, president of First United Bank and Trust; Mayor McCain; Friendsville mayor Spencer Schlosnagle; Commissioner Fred Holliday; Irvin Fink, director of finance for the Garrett County Board of Education; J.D. Rinker, Lowe's store manager; Jim Thomas, director of facility maintenance and operation for the board of education; Teresa Gross, Lowe's zone manager; and John Sines, chief of the Oakland Police Department. Each half of the board will be shellacked and placed on permanent display, along with an employee group photo, in the employee training room. "We are excited to now be an official member of the Garrett County community," said Slone, adding that the store has been "very well received" to date. The store provided approximately 100 new jobs, with 75% of those going to local residents and the remainder being Lowe's employees at other stores who wished to relocate.

Local Residents Urged To Find Out If They Qualify For Tax Credit

by Glenn Tolbert

Some persons in the lower- to middle-class economic range have an opportunity to pick up some cash that is just waiting for them, which could mean a lot with the current state of the economy.

Called the Earned Income Tax Credit, or EITC, it is a federal income tax credit for persons in these particular economic situations. Congress originally approved the tax credit legislation in 1975, in part to offset the burden of Social Security taxes and to provide an incentive to work. When the EITC exceeds the amount of taxes owed, it results in a tax refund to those who claim and qualify for it. To qualify, taxpayers must meet certain requirements and file a tax return, even if they did not earn enough money to be obligated to file a tax return.

The EITC has no effect on certain welfare benefits. In most cases, EITC payments will not be used to determine eligibility for Medicaid, Supplemental Security Income (SSI), food stamps, low-income housing, or most Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) payments.

Workers with low wages who do not have a child might be able to claim the EITC. Childless workers with low incomes are believed to be the largest group of taxpayers who do not claim the credit. Those who qualify to claim EITC on their federal income tax returns may also be eligible for a similar credit on their state or local income tax returns.

Brian Boal, an Oakland certified public accountant, urges those in the economic classes who qualify for the EITC to also obtain free tax preparation work beginning next Tuesday, Feb. 3, at the Mary Browning Center, Oakland, as well as in Grantsville and Friendsville, through services at Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc. (GCCAC) centers.

The Mary Browning Center at 104 E. Center Street will provide this service on Tuesdays from noon to 4 p.m.; Wednesdays, 4 to 7 p.m.; Thursdays, noon to 4 p.m.; and Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Tax preparation services at the Grantsville Senior Center will be available on Fridays, Feb. 13, March 13, and April 10, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Services at the Friendsville Community Center will be offered Fridays, Feb. 27 and March 27, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

"This could literally seem like a 'free' infusion of cash," said Boal, "to the group of people who need it the most. So I urge anyone, even remotely qualified, to go to one of the service center days and find out what's available."

Persons who were from age 25 to 64 at the end of the year and had low wages or other earned income may be able to claim the credit. For married couples, either the husband or the wife must also fall within that age range. Some may also be able to claim the credit for the last few years with an amended income tax return.

Man Charged After Snowmobile Accident On DCL

Chad W. Lovett, 27, Baltimore, was charged by Maryland Natural Resources Police with failure to register an off-road vehicle with the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) after wrecking his snowmobile on Deep Creek Lake.

Officers responded to the DCL area near Pine Tree Point on Sunday, Jan. 18, at 1 a.m. Lovett had hit a snow bank on the lake and rolled the snowmobile he was operating. He was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by a family member where he was treated and released for non-life-threatening injuries.

NRP and the Maryland Park Service remind snowmobilers, ice fishermen, hikers, and cross-country skiers traveling on the lake to exercise caution, and be alert for potential unseen safety hazards, particularly at night.

Snowmobiles may only be operated on DNR lands on trails designated for snowmobile use. Snowmobiles utilizing these trails must be registered annually with DNR and display a registration sticker. Registration stickers are available from any DNR regional service center.

A snowmobile may be used on trails designated for its use from December 15 through March 15 of each year, except for certain trails, which may be closed based upon consideration of overall physical, environmental, and recreational use. It is recommended that persons call the State Forest and Park Service Office before using the trails to be advised of current trail closures or hazards.

Garrett Chamber Slates Allegheny Power Seminar

The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce has organized a presentation by a business account specialist team from Allegheny Power on Wednesday, Feb. 11, in the Garrett County Continuing Education building, Room 207, at 5:30 p.m.

This free seminar will provide local businesses with information on how to choose an electricity supplier.

"Each business's electric needs are different, and at this meeting you will get the facts necessary for you to make the decision that is right for your business," said Karen Reckner, the chamber's director of business services.

The presentation will provide information on how to shop for a supplier, consumer options, and Allegheny Power's role in providing service. The business account specialist team will also answer questions about the selection process.

"As a result of electric deregulation for business accounts three years ago, the market for the supply of power has gotten very competitive," Reckner said. "Local businesses are now receiving solicitations from energy providers through telemarketing and the mail. Trying to sort through the offers and make the best choice can be overwhelming, and this presentation will help businesses learn more about their options."

The event is open to any Maryland business customer in the Allegheny Power service area. To register, persons may call the chamber of commerce at 301-387-4386 or e-mail karen@garrettchamber.com by Friday, Feb. 6.

"If you are registered by Feb. 4, a detailed analysis for your individual business can be prepared if the Allegheny Power account number is provided," said Reckner. "This detailed analysis will help guide you through the details of choosing an electricity supplier or broker to work with in purchasing power."

Bus Fails To Yield, Then Struck By Oncoming Vehicle

Maryland State Police responded to the scene of a two-vehicle accident on Rt. 495 involving a charter bus.

William Frakes, 48, Vandalia, was identified as the driver of the 2009 charter bus. The bus was reported-ly stopped on the ramp going from I-68 to Rt. 495 to turn back onto I-68. Frakes failed to yield right of way to an oncoming northbound vehicle, driven by Donald McKenzie, 47, Grantsville.

McKenzie was unable to avoid striking the bus. Two passengers on the bus were reportedly injured, a 17-year-old female from St. Louis, Mo., and a 28-year-old female from Chesterfield, Mo. They were transported to Cumberland Memorial Hospital. Grantsville Fire and Rescue also responded to the scene.

Frakes was charged with failure to yield right of way.

Maryland Officials See Merit, Pitfalls In Federal Stimulus

Capital News Service

WASHINGTON – With the vote imminent, at least two members of Maryland's House delegation were unconvinced Wednesday that the economic stimulus package is the right move for the current economic crisis, even as misgivings rumbled from the State House in Annapolis.

Freshman Rep. Frank Kratovil, D-Stevensville, called it "wasteful spending" in a news release Wednesday, while Rep. Roscoe Bartlett, R-Frederick, was applauded by fellow Republicans during a meeting with President Obama Tuesday after he bellowed his concern for the burden that this stimulus package could have on future generations.

"Mr. President, I think our obsessive borrowing has fully mortgaged my kids and my grandkids," Bartlett told Obama, according to a statement from Bartlett's office. "Now we're working on mortgaging my two great-grandkids. Mr. President, I think it's more than a little bit selfish to try to solve our economic problems which we created by burdening future generations yet to be born."

Kratovil, meanwhile, voted Jan 21 to block the release of additional bailout money, and remained undecided on Wednesday's economic stimulus bill as of late morning, according to spokesman Kevin W. Lawlor.

"Right now Frank's working with the Blue Dogs to get some of the wasteful spending out of the bill. If they can strip enough wasteful spending out of the bill, then he might be comfortable voting for it. As of now, he hasn't decided how he's going to vote," Lawlor told Capital News Service. The Blue Dog Coalition is a group of fiscally conservative Democrats.

And even in Annapolis, where lawmakers and Gov. Martin O'Malley are trying to cobble together a budget in the face of projected shortfalls of $346 million this year and $2 billion next year, there was skepticism about the package.

"It's certainly not a quick fix, and it's not an ultimate solution," said Shaun Adamec, a spokesman for Gov. Martin O'Malley. In addition to protecting the workforce and education, he added, "We're also relying on the stimulus to get us by for a time until the economy has a chance to rebuild itself."

Maryland stands to gain nearly $3.5 billion of relief, including approximately $339 million injected into the school system, more than $2 million in tax cuts for residents, and the retention of 100,000 Maryland jobs, according to information from House Majority Leader Steny Hoyer's office.

Like their national counterparts, some Maryland Republicans believe the stimulus package falls short of solving what they call a long-term spending issue.

"Right now we have a very bad spending problem in Maryland, and we have to figure out how we can restructure that before this is going to be resolved," said Senate Minority Leader Allan Kittleman, R-Carroll. "Simply getting money from the federal government is not the answer."

Sen. Janet Greenip, R-Anne Arundel, agreed.

"What I believe is we are not addressing the problem," she said. "Getting the country in more debt is not helping the country at all. It's just postponing a major problem."

The grousing brought a strident defense of the legislation from Hoyer, D-Mechanicsville, on the floor Wednesday, pointedly countering Republicans' charges that Democrats have ignored their input.

He cited Democratic support for the Bush administration's $700 billion banking system bailout as an example of Democrats' willingness to work with Republicans.

"When they saw crisis, we responded," he said. "We did so because we believed it was in the best interest of our country."

Hoyer also described Republican predictions about the success of their proposals as "inaccurate."

"What we have seen from our Republican colleagues is a history of overstatement of what their program would do and great understatement of what the programs and policies that we pursued would do," Hoyer said.

"I hope that our Republican colleagues will put that history aside and join with us to pass this bill and try to help restore our prosperity."

Probably the delegation's biggest win with the legislation came with an amendment from Rep. Chris Van Hollen, D-Kensington, and Rep. Todd R. Platts, R-Pa., to incorporate their Whistleblower Protection Enhancement Act from last session into the stimulus bill, HR 1. The move passed by a voice vote.

"We need to make sure that these funds are spent for their use and that they are not lost through any waste fraud or abuse . . . and ensure accountability in the process," Van Hollen said on the House floor during the debate for the Whistleblowers Amendment, which would provide protection for federal and state employees.

Charged With DUI, DWI, And Related Citations By GCSO

An Oakland man was arrested by Garrett County Sheriff's deputies on drinking and driving charges, as well as several other charges, following a single-vehicle accident on Hutton Road, Oakland.

Deputies responded to the scene at approximately 10:15 p.m. last Wednesday. Investigation into the accident led the arrest of Justin Dillsworth, 21.

Dillsworth was charged with driving under the influence, DUI per se, driving while impaired, driving on a suspended license, and driving on a revoked license. He was also discovered to have an active arrest warrant issued in Charles County. He was taken to the Garrett County Detention Center to await an initial appearance before a District Court commissioner.

Oakland Volunteer Fire Department and Southern Rescue Squad also responded to the mishap. No injuries were reported at the scene by any of the occupants of the vehicle.

Two Taken To GCMH, One Later Flown To Ruby Memorial, After Snow Plow Hits Car

Two passengers were injured early Sunday morning when the driver of the 2006 Jeep Liberty they were traveling in turned into the path of an oncoming snow plow. One was later flown to Ruby Memorial Hospital, Morgantown, W.Va., by helicopter.

Charles Lincicome, 31, McHenry, was identified as the driver of the Jeep Liberty. Ashley Liller, 24, Oakland, and Beau Noonan, 30, McHenry, were both passengers. The Jeep was traveling south on Rt. 219 and attempted a left turn onto Mosser Road, McHenry.

A State Highway Administration snow plow, driven by Jared Resh, 24, Grantsville, was traveling north on Rt. 219 at the same location. The Jeep turned into the path of the snow plow, resulting in a collision. Liller and Noonan were taken to Garrett Memorial Hospital. Liller was later flown to Ruby Memorial.

Charges for Lincicome are pending on completion of the investigation.

W.Va. Man Arrested On Charges Stemming From Friendsville Burglary

Detectives with the Garrett County Sheriff's Office arrested a Hazelton, W.Va., man on burglary charges stemming from a three-month investigation.

Timothy Brent Kirby, 27, was extradited back to Garrett County after being held at the Tygart Regional Jail from an arrest in Preston County stemming from the same burglary, which occurred at a Friendsville vacation home that was used on weekends by the owners.

A receipt was located at the residence that was believed to have been left behind by Kirby and was later linked to a Morgantown, W.Va., store that led to video surveillance video images of the suspect. Several citizens contacted the Garrett Bureau of Investigation with the suspect's identity, which led to a search warrant at Kirby's Hazelton home.

The Preston County Sheriff's Office, along with detectives from the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, executed the search warrant on Dec. 19 and recovered property stolen from the Friendsville home. Kirby was arrested following the search by Preston County deputies and held on the Garrett County burglary warrant.

Once extradition proceeding were complete in Preston County, Kirby was arrested this past Monday by Garrett County detectives. He was transported to the Garrett County Detention Center to await a bond hearing.

Kirby is charged with first degree burglary, felony theft, and felony destruction of property.

Thank You!

The families of Ashley Liller and Beau Noonan would like to thank everyone for their prayers and well wishes following their accident last weekend. Both are back home And recovering!

A Note of Thanks from the Raymond Bender Family

The family of Raymond C. Bender expresses their heartfelt thanks to all who shared their expressions of sympathy through prayers, love and concern, food, flowers, "In Memory" Gideon Bibles and donations to the Cherry Glade Building Fund, over this time of loss.

Raymond will be missed, but friends help ease the pain of our loss.

Taking Care of Our Own...

Garrett County has certainly not escaped the recession in the economy, as real estate sales here on the Mountaintop have been generally flat for many months and sales at most of our retail establishments are down, some significantly. We include this newspaper, which depends so heavily on the sale of advertising, in the "significantly down" category, as our customers must pare back various areas of their budgets, including advertising. The grandfather of this writer, who worked here for about 60 years, liked to say, "When times are good, merchants can afford to advertise. When times are bad, merchants have to advertise." (Not entirely true, Grandfather.)

However, in spite of our negative economic condition right now, we continue to be amazed at the generosity of our citizens when it comes to helping those who are in greatest need. This column contained information several weeks ago about the success of our annual Warm the Children campaign, which had record donations this year of over $36,000. Last summer we mentioned the continued success of the annual Relay for Life, noting the tens of thousands of dollars that it continues to generate year after year.

The most recent example of extreme generosity occurred just one week ago today when the new Lowe's store offered to donate money to Garrett County Habitat for Humanity based upon the dollar value of Lowe's gift cards purchased that day. The company agreed to give as much as $5,000 in dollar-for-dollar matching funds. At 10 a.m. that morning, some $2,000 worth of gift cards had been sold, creating a wave of optimism in the minds of the Habitat personnel. At that point, it appeared that the maximum of $5,000 would probably be met. At the end of the day, however, a total of $32,000 in gift cards was sold. Further, Habitat's executive director Doug Riley told us that three different customers who purchased gift cards that day simply handed them over to him to be used to purchase materials for their 2009 housing projects. The cards totaled about $500.

Not only are we in a recession, but we live in what has always been known as "impoverished Appalachia," and admittedly, some of the local economic data support the label. (As an example, over half of our children qualify for free or reduced-priced school meals.)

We should be proud of ourselves, and feel good about how well we take care of our own, even during these difficult times.

Writers of letters to the editor are reminded that letters will not be published if they exceed 400 words, do not include contact information, and/or are deemed to be libelous.

To the Editor:

Being a past resident of Garrett County, I read with interest about the crow problem you are having in Oakland.

When I was a child years ago, my grandfather told me how he had the same problem. What they did when they had too many birds of a kind that they didn't want around was soak bread crumbs in alcohol (grain or vodka). The birds would eat until they were too drunk to fly. Then it was just a matter of wringing the necks of the ones they didn't want. The others would soon recover and fly away.

This may be the answer instead of poisoning or shooting.

St. Louis, Mo.

To the Editor:

The staff, board, and volunteers of Garrett County Habitat for Humanity would like to thank all those who purchased Lowe's gift cards last Thursday, Jan. 22.

All Lowe's gift cards purchased at the Oakland store on that day were matched dollar-for-dollar (up to $5,000) with Lowe's in-store credit for Garrett County Habitat for Humanity's use on its next home-building project. During that day we felt good that we would make the $5,000 goal. As usual this community not only met, but also exceeded all expectations.

The total of gift card purchases on January 22 was over $32,000. This is an amazing amount even for Garrett County. Your support of Garrett County Habitat for Humanity will make a significant difference in the lives of those who work to receive homes and the lives of all of you who work so hard to build those homes.

Our ministry continues by the Grace of our Lord and Savior, and we give Him all the honor and glory. Let me end with 2 Corinthians 9:8 – "God is able to make all grace abound to you, so that in all things at all times, having all that you need, you will abound in every good work."

Thank you, Garrett County!

Doug Riley
Executive Director
Garrett County Habitat for Humanity

Editor's note: The writer of the following letter to Tom Doyle, the writer of a letter that appeared in last week's issue, requested that it appear in this column.

Dear Mr. Doyle:

I would like to clarify several points that were in your letter in the January 22, 2009, edition of The Republican.

You do not indicate this in your letter that the projects you reference were in response to the Federal Economic Stimulus Plan proposed by President Obama. These funds will be made available to all state and local governments. If Garrett County would decline to submit projects for consideration, these funds would be still be allocated to other Maryland jurisdictions. The money would not be returned to the taxpayers. Agree or disagree, this is the way it is.

You state your opinion that several projects are non-essential. Although I respect your judgment, I find it very difficult to understand how you arrived at a conclusive opinion without talking to anyone involved who would have been able to answer your questions and clarify inaccuracy. County government believes that all projects you reference are essential, and the board of county commissioners is committed to economic growth and an improved quality of life for county residents.

In the past I have offered my time to discuss county government matters at your convenience. Rather than address your questions to the party that has accurate information, you have continually elected to write letters to the media that contain misinformation. I find it contradictory and difficult to understand that in your most recent letter you encourage taxpayers to contact the board of county commissioners to "curtail non-essential spending and reduce budgets," yet you have never taken time to discuss anything with anyone in county government.

Again, the board of county commissioners and any county staff would be glad to speak with you at any time.

Sincerely,
R. Lamont Pagenhardt
County Administrator

To the Editor:

This is in response to a letter of January 22 by C.W. "Sonny" Newhall.

I support the forest conservation management program Mr. Newhall is enrolled in and other programs to protect open space and farms. A list of such programs was in a letter to the editor last week by Bob Lewis. These programs protect the rural nature of Garrett County, which makes it a special place to live, work, and play.

Mr. Newhall is correct; the contract he, and others in such programs, sign is with the state of Maryland. The contract says that if the landowner keeps his land in a certain use he receives preferential property tax treatment. The current law establishes a price for forestland of something in the $500 range. Mr. Newhall and other program beneficiaries pay property taxes to Garrett County based on this preferential assessed value, not the market value of their land.

When the commissioners raise property taxes, however, those who do not have preferential property tax treatment pay property taxes based on the full market value of our property.

Let's say I own 100 acres of land that is in the same forestland conservation program as Mr. Newhall's. Let's say the Maryland legislature sets the value of my land at $500 per acre. In this hypothetical example, I would pay property taxes based on a value of $50,000 ($500x100) for my land. At a 1 percent property tax rate, that means I would pay $500 in property taxes. The market value of my land is really $5,000 per acre. I should pay taxes based on a value of $500,000 ($5,000x100). At a 1 percent property tax rate, I should pay $5,000 in property taxes to the county. In reality, I only pay $500. The $4,500 in property taxes I do not pay must be paid by taxpayers in the county who do not participate in such programs.

In that sense, taxpayers in Garrett County not receiving preferential treatment subsidize Mr. Newhall to keep his land in forestland. Empirically the county can estimate how much it loses in property taxes because of these state programs. My only point is that those lost revenues are paid by other taxpayers in the county, and if a landowner pursues industrial opportunities which benefit him financially, the taxpayers in Garrett County are no longer obligated to subsidize that person's property taxes.

Sincerely,
Michael Bell
Mayhew Inn Road

To the Editor:

What an outrage! Two of the county commissioners still persist in listing the Route 219 bypass between Oakland and Mountain Lake Park as the number-one priority for funding. They even list it as the first priority in requesting funds from the stimulus package proposed by our new president.

Surely money would be better spent for improving State Route 495, especially in the Swanton area. I believe the proposed bypass should not be top priority for the following reasons:

1. The town of Oakland approves the bypass, yet the town of Mountain Lake Park, the largest residential town in the county, disapproves. Why is Mountain Lake Park's vote not equal to or greater than Oakland's?

2. Active farmlands will be taken out of production – hardly smart growth.

3. The bypass route seems to create conditions for strip commercial development – not smart growth.

4. Traffic control through Oakland is now controlled by traffic lights. Such control along the proposed bypass route is to be by a roundabout. Such control is inadequate, in my opinion.

5. The cost of the bypass construction is now estimated to be upwards of $80,000,000! And the benefits of the bypass to Garrett County citizens would be certainly small in comparison.

Respectfully submitted,
Paul Shogren
Oakland

picked up the mornings after the application of the toxicant.

The release emphasizes that if a dead crow is ingested by a wild or domestic animal, it will not be adversely affected.

Disposal of any dead crows that are found by area residents should be done by wearing rubber gloves and placing the birds in heavy-duty garbage bags, which should then be sealed. The bags should then be placed in a closed container for pick-up and transfer to the landfill.

Citizens may contact Oakland City Hall if they desire more information, need help removing dead crows from their property, or to report the presence of dead crows on vacant or public lands.

Budget Cuts

cials understand the gravity of our situation, particularly how it affects children of poverty."

"We understand the hard fiscal times the governor is facing and trying to deal with," said Bonnie Cullison, president of the Montgomery County Education Association. "We're trying to adjust to cuts ... [but] we're hopeful that [the index] will be restored completely."

Shielding the Geographic Cost of Education Index from reductions means Maryland schools could continue to keep class sizes down and test scores up, said school officials.

But Delegate Curt Anderson, D-Baltimore, isn't convinced about the prospects of the stimulus package. If it fails, Baltimore would lose an expected $23 million in aid next year.

"We're going to meet with the governor [Wednesday] to find out why he is so confident that this stimulus money is coming in the way he says it's coming at the time that he thinks it's going to come," he said. "Because if it doesn't come before the budget has to be voted on, then what difference does it make?"

Community colleges, which are in "dire straits" and bracing for level funding, could instead receive a 4 percent increase in aid, said Jody Kallis, the legislative liaison for the Maryland Association of Community Colleges.

"We're obviously extraordinarily excited," she said. "It certainly is an indication of where [the governor's] intent is."

An additional $1 billion, including $479 million for highways, $191 million for school construction, and $147 million for clean water, is expected over two years for infrastructure expenses.

"A major investment in our nation's infrastructure is good for public safety and good for the economy," said Sen. Barbara Mikulski, D-Md., in a statement Monday. "Our number-one priority for this recovery bill is to create jobs."

The budget O'Malley introduced last week assumed only $350 million in federal relief, an estimate he then called "conservative and reasonable."

O'Malley said he expects the House of Representatives to vote on the stimulus package soon, based on a Tuesday phone conversation he had with Rep. John Sarbanes, D-Towson.

The $3.9 billion estimate is "based on the language of the two bills," O'Malley said. He acknowledged the figure could change.

"We're keeping our fingers crossed," O'Malley said. "Until it's done, we don't know."

How to Improve Your Financial Literacy

THE ELEMENTS OF FINANCIAL LITERACY
(Second in a series)
by William Welch

Last week financial literacy was defined as knowing how to make the best use of your money. In addition, it was noted that controlling how you spend your money could make your life better.

Financial knowledge is a tool. Like a mechanic's tools, results depend more on the quality of the mechanic than on the brand of the tools. In other words, the user of the tools, not the brand of the tools, determines results. The pyramids, for example, were built without modern tools, and they have lasted for thousands of years, while we read about modern bridges and buildings falling down every year or so. Your results depend on you.

There are three knowledge elements that are helpful to learning financial literacy: 1) basic arithmetic; 2) basic budgeting; and 3) basic records keeping. Having the discipline to stick to a budget is an essential character trait. The objective of budgeting is to spend less money than you earn, because if you spend less money than you earn you have more control of your money – and your life – than if you spend more money than you earn.

Discipline can be defined as being willing and able to stick to a plan. The hardest aspect of discipline is sticking with a plan when situations change, because all situations change. Think about that: All situations change. Discipline is having enough self-control to stick to a plan when the situation changes.

All the financial literacy or knowledge about money in the world can't overcome lack of discipline or self-control. Resources about discipline and self-control are available at the Ruth Enlow Library and via the Internet. As always, when online, be careful to pick honest and reliable resources.

Editor's note: William Welch, a manager for Simon Pearce Inc., serves on the board of directors of GC Community Action Committee Inc. and has written this series from expert sources as part of GCCAC's community financial literacy initiative. Individual readers are advised to use these articles as a starting place to find professional advice on financial literacy.

Lead May Close Book On Library Children's Rooms In Maryland

by Maren Wright
Capital News Service

Libraries may consider banning children instead of books in response to the Consumer Product Safety Improvement Act's required lead testing, an option Garrett County librarian Cathy Ashby doesn't want to consider.

"That would be one of the ways to comply with the law, but I have a feeling that there will be a lot of civil disobedience," Ashby said of her concern that the new law may prevent children from accessing educational materials at Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland where she is the director.

The Consumer Product Safety Improvement Act was passed by Congress Aug. 14 in reaction to findings that some toys imported from China contained dangerous levels of lead. President Bush signed the legislation, which includes stricter limits on lead levels in children's products.

The American Library Association said it fears the law has unintended consequences, and libraries may face the choice of closing their children's sections, banning children under the age of 12, or completing expensive lead testing for every book.

The Institute of Museum and Library Services lists more than 200 public libraries in Maryland with 14,554,000 books in circulation, one-third of which are children's books. The cost of testing each book could be prohibitive.

"We know that the cost of testing a book will be very expensive, and libraries don't have the means to do that," said American Library Association spokeswoman Jenni Terry.

This unintended consequence of the new law isn't the first to rear its head since Congress passed it. A flurry of complaints from second-hand retailers afraid of being bankrupted by the new requirements prompted the commission to release a clarification on Jan. 8 stating the law doesn't require all children's items to be tested.

However, it does make it illegal to distribute any children's item that exceeds the lead limits, said Consumer Product Safety Commission spokesman Joseph Martyak. Though libraries, schools, and thrift shops aren't required to test books for lead, they could face civil or criminal penalties if a book with an elevated lead level leaves their shelves.

On Jan. 22, publishers and librarians met with the commission, but no ruling was issued. The American Library Association sought exemption specifically for libraries, but Martyak said that isn't an option.

"It is important to note that the exemption provisions don't really allow for the exemption of groups, but only products," Martyak said, calling the provisions of the law "narrowly drawn."

One possible solution is for both commissioners of the Consumer Product Safety Commission to agree to enact regulation to exclude books. So far that exemption has not been issued, as the commission searches for the best way to meet the intended lead safety precautions.

The library association has asked its members to lobby the commission to change the requirements before they take effect on Feb. 10.

"Books are safe, and the government shouldn't be wasting its precious resources scaring parents away from encouraging their children to read," stated Emily Sheketoff, executive director of the American Library Association's Washington office.

Linda Mielke, chief of collection and technology management for Montgomery County's libraries, said that while everyone is concerned for child safety, the interpretation of the law is an overreaction.

"Let me put it this way," Mielke said. "Our books don't come back with bite marks out of them."

Kate Landro shared similar sentiments as her 20-month-old, Drew, toddled over to hug an oversized stuffed bear at the children's section of Urbana Regional Library in Frederick. Happy amid the scattered books, he is surrounded by literacy.

"Of course you worry, as a parent. But at some point you need to live and take the risks. Coming to the library is a risk I'm willing to take," Landro said.

But unless the commission chooses to rule on an exemption for books, Landro may no longer have that option.

"I think there comes a point where you have to draw the line," said Karen Lembo of Salisbury, who works at the Wicomico Public Library, where her three children are regular visitors.

Sheketoff said the consequences of inaction could be dire.

"If the commission does not correct their ruling ... communities and schools across the country are going to be shocked and outraged on Feb. 10."

Police Respond To Accidents Caused By Weather Cond.

Garrett County sheriff's deputies, as well as Maryland State Police, have responded to several motor vehicle accidents attributed to the poor weather and driving conditions.

Garrett County sheriff's deputies responded to a Hutton Road residence for a report of a vehicle crashing into a house.

Investigation revealed that James Robert Mullenax, 19, Swanton, had been driving a 1991 GMC east on Hutton Road, when he lost control of the vehicle while navigating a turn. The truck climbed up an embankment on the eastbound side of the road, came off the bank crossing both lanes, struck a parked car, and then collided with a house. The truck penetrated the bedroom portion of the residence, which belongs to Kathryn Marie Dillsworth.

Oakland Volunteer Fire Department and Southern Rescue Squad responded to the scene. There were no injuries, and traffic charges may be filed pending completion of the investigation.

In a separate incident, Maryland State Police responded to a single-vehicle accident on Rt. 42, south of Bishoff Road, Friendsville.

Carrie Sanders, 47, Friendsville, had reportedly been traveling south in a 2004 Ford truck, when she entered a portion of the road that was snow covered from drifting. She lost control of the vehicle and struck a tree.

Northern Rescue Squad transported Sanders to Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Deep Creek Fire Company also responded to the scene. No charges were filed.

Medications Prescribed for Asthma Control

Asthma results in mild to severe airflow obstruction. As one of the leading causes for missed days of school for children, it contributes to over 7 million missed school days per year. Although this condition may occur at any age, children younger than 10 years of age account for about half of all cases. Boys are more likely than girls to be affected by this condition, although women are more susceptible to adult-onset asthma than men. Asthma is classified as mild intermittent, mild persistent, moderate persistent and severe persistent. Peak flow monitors may be used to determine how well the asthma is controlled. Symptoms include wheezing, cough, and chest tightness. Triggers for asthma attacks include exercise, pollutants, mold, animal dander, and dust mites. Persons affected by asthma should avoid exposure to cigarette smoke, aspirin, and non-steroidal inflammatory medications.

For persons with mild intermittent asthma, a short-acting medication such as albuterol should be readily available for immediate relief of occasional symptoms. Typically, persons with persistent asthma also require an inhaled corticosteroid daily, such as fluticasone. Persons with persistent asthma may also require a long-acting medication, such as salmeterol.

SWANTON SCOUTS PARTICIPATE IN PINEWOOD DERBY – Swanton Cub Scout Pack 57 held its annual Pinewood Derby at the Swanton Community Center last Saturday. The races started with an opening ceremony that included the singing of the national anthem. After all the cars passed a pre-race inspection and were certified as "race legal," the cars were staged and the racing began. Cubmaster Rick Eilerman officiated the event. "The races were run in a total of eight grueling heats," said Eilerman. "While most of the cars ran in the same time range, one car, the eventual winner, was in a league of its own." After all heats were run and the final results tabulated, it was determined that, for the second straight year, John Pelland was the winner. Second place went to Colby Eilerman, and Brandon McClung won third. "Swanton Cub Scout Pack 57 would like to thank all who have supported the fledgling pack," said Cubmaster Eilerman. "Because of the great community support, Pack 57 was able to purchase a brand new computerized Pineword Derby track. Without the area businesses, local resident support, the active Scout parents, and the graciousness of the Swanton Community Center, this event might not have been possible." Pictured, left to right, in the front row are Nick Ponceroff, Thomas Gank, Elijah Duvall, Wyatt Sweltzer, Michael Moon, and Dante Broadwater. In the back row are Billy Sweltzer, Peter Tesar, Lance Storey, Colby Eilerman, John Pelland, Justin Shafer, and Brandon McClung.

Real Estate Facts by...

Lori Malcolm

IT'S NO MYSTERY

You don't need a crystal ball to try to predict the future of the real estate market. Every time there is a downturn, an upward trend always follows. The best course of action is to look at the causes, and make decisions based on unbiased facts and incontestable history.

As the choice of loan options grew these last few years, consumers could buy a home more easily. Wall Street took notice of all the hot action in real estate, and investment firms were able to shift the ownership of mortgages to their managers and clients.

Then about three years ago, the market began cooling, as incomes did not increase at the frantic pace that home prices did. Investors had created an atmosphere of unrealistically high appreciation. The perfect storm was brewing.

This cycle of up and then down seems more drastic now, because we enjoyed a longer than usual boom of activity, a full decade of it between 1995 and 2005. But demand still remains high, and although rising slightly, our historically low interest rates also help to fuel property purchases.

While there is no such thing as a national real estate market, and our market has not suffered like others we should be seeing improvement across the board as 2009 draws to a close. If you can, it's wise to buy now - before the ball lands back in the sellers' court. If you are thinking of buying or selling a home but feel "out of touch" with real estate, give me a call today.

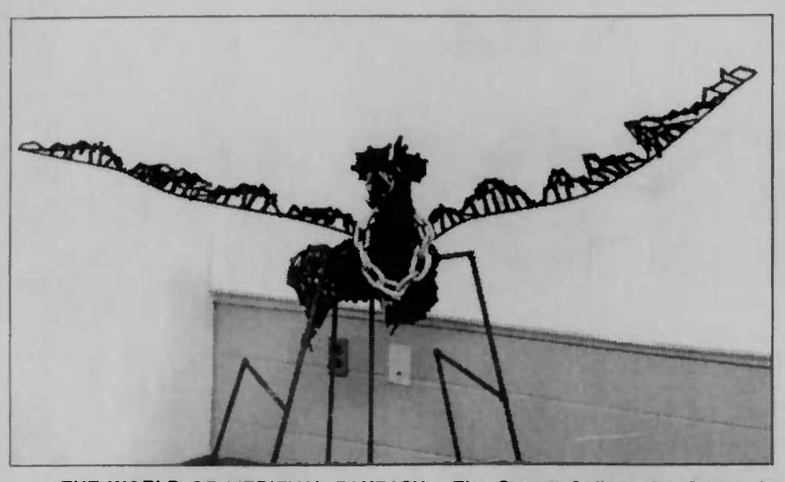
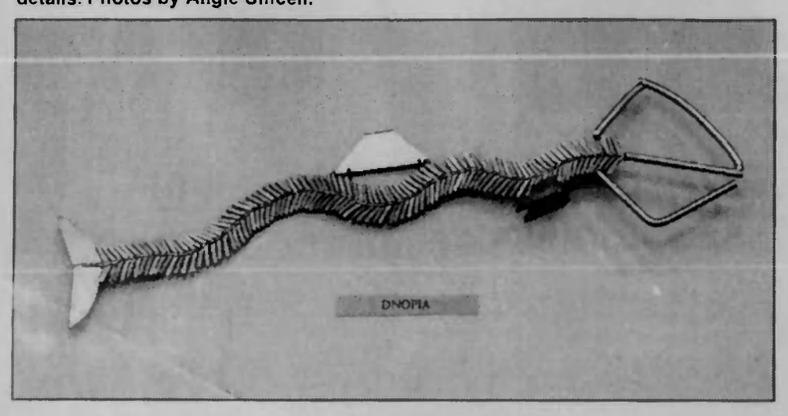
The Arts



THE WORLD OF MEDIEVAL FANTASY – The Garrett College Art Gallery is now exhibiting metal sculptures by Willis Carrico through Feb. 28, with an opening reception scheduled for Saturday evening, Feb. 7, from 7 to 9 p.m. Carrico based his work on themes, characters, and creatures, two of which are pictured above and below, from his next novel Village of the Crescent Moon. See story for more details. Photos by Angie Sincell.



GCAC Hosting Metal Sculptures By Willis Carrico

The Art Gallery of Garrett College is proud to present an exhibition of welded steel sculpture by local artist and author Willis Carrico. The artwork will be on display from Jan. 20 through Feb. 28, with an opening reception set for Saturday evening, Feb. 7, from 7 to 9 p.m. The public is welcome.

Willis has exhibited oil paintings, pen and ink drawings, and photos in group shows previously at the college, and this solo exhibition focuses on metal sculpture which is inspired by his upcoming new book titled Village of the Crescent Moon. He has written several westerns and family-oriented novels, but his new book delves into the realm of medieval fantasy, as evident in the sculptures.

Of his recent work, Willis states: "This show is special to me, because as an artist, I feel I have to explore different facets of art. I have gone from my younger days of oils through the pen and ink stage, and now to metal sculpture. True creativity changes in everyone, and now mine has moved to metal. Some may find my work a bit disturbing, but I assure everyone that this show's work is just the outlet of an inner desire to create."

Willis Carrico is originally from Morgantown, W.Va., but moved to Garrett County in 1971. He is a graduate of Southern High School and Garrett College. He has had training in different art forms from Garrett College and by the late Mark Freeman of Washington state. He is currently employed as welding instructor at Garrett College, and at Southern High School in the vocational department. He lives in Swanton with his wife Camille and daughter Catlin, where they raise both meat and dairy goats.

For more information about this gallery exhibition, persons may contact the artist at gwcgypsy@yahoo.com, the Garrett College Art Dept. at 301-387-3024, or via e-mail at ron.skidmore@garrettcolleg e.com

This exhibition is made possible in part by a grant from the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council. Gallery hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, and on evenings and weekends during special events.

THE THIN BLACK LINE
by Hugh Holton
C. 2009, Forge; $25.95; 320 pages
Review by Terri Schlichenmeyer

Last night promised to be a nice, quiet night. Just you, a bag of something salty, and the remote control for the TV.

And then you heard a loud noise. Knowing it was no slamming door, sure it wasn't a car accident, positive that it was gunshot, you called 9-1-1. Suddenly, your quiet evening wasn't quiet any more.

Imagine what it's like to be on the receiving end of your emergency call.

In the new book The Thin Black Line by Hugh Holton, you'll read stories – in their own words – from African American policemen and women who patrol our toughest cities.

Just over 200 years ago, a New Orleans "free man of color" pulled on a uniform and became America's first documented black police officer. In this book, through stories from almost 30 active and retired police men and women, homage is paid to the high level of commitment possessed by those who marched to that first cop's beat.

From Los Angeles and a cop who was influenced as a child by the Watts Riots, to Washington, D.C., and a policewoman who knew her indifference to corpses meant it was time to find another line of work, this book takes a look at what it's like to fight crime on the streets and racism on the job.

In Chicago, a policewoman investigating a rape finds that it coincidentally hits too close to home. Also in Chicago, a black undercover cop learns to trust his fresh-faced, blonde, white female partner on a drug bust.

A cop from Louisiana recalls the juvenile cases he's been involved with, and the sometimes-heartbreak that comes with such crimes.

Many law enforcement careers are birthed in the military. In this book, you'll read an Indiana cop's memories of Vietnam, and how it tempered him for his current job as a corrections officer in a prison.

And before you think this is all really serious stuff, read the New York officer's story of a run-in with a cool cat – literally.

I was a bit surprised by The Thin Black Line, for several reasons. I expected a lot of shoot-'em-up stories, but while gun battles are in here, that's not the focus. I thought this book might be much more emotional – ranging from overt chest-thumping to tattling rants about bad departmental practices – but there wasn't much of that, either. Most surprising, many of the stories lack the extreme heart-pounding excitement you'd expect in a True Crime oral history book. Still, I liked it.

Before his death, author and Chicago Police Department veteran Hugh Holton gathered officers from several states and metropolitan areas to talk about whatever it was they wanted to discuss. Therefore, some of these stories ramble. Others are funny. Some will make you check your doors. Some will make you angry. All of them will make you glad there are people brave enough to become cops.

For better or worse, if you've ever connected with a police officer, read this book. The Thin Black Line is one to do time with.

TO PLAY HAMLET AT WVU – A production of Shakespeare's Hamlet will be staged at West Virginia University, Morgantown, with Garrett County native Matthew Sincell playing the lead role. A resident of New York City, Sincell is currently a visiting artist at WVU, working with acting students in the College of Creative Arts. Hamlet will be staged in the Gladys G. Davis Theatre at the WVU Creative Arts Center, Feb. 27 and 28, March 1, and March 3-7. Set in Denmark, the play recounts how Prince Hamlet exacts revenge on his uncle Claudius, who has murdered Hamlet's father, the King, and then taken the throne and married Hamlet's mother. Considered to be one of Shakespeare's greatest works, the play vividly charts the course of real and feigned madness, from overwhelming grief to seething rage. A graduate of Southern High School and WVU, Sincell has been a professional actor for eight years, having performed throughout much of the United States and in Europe. Among his larger classical roles have been Romeo in Shakespeare's R&J, which had a highly successful run on London's West End; and Romeo in Romeo and Juliet, Bertram in All's Well That Ends Well, and Ferdinand in The Tempest, all at the American Shakespeare Center in Staunton, Va. Most recently in New York, Sincell played James Wilde in the premiere performance of Burn, Crave, Hold, a role that earned him a 2008 Innovative Theatre Award nomination as Outstanding Actor in a Featured Role. Persons desiring tickets to the WVU production of Hamlet can purchase them by telephoning 304-293-SHOW (7469). There are special rates for groups of 10 or more. More information can also be obtained online at theatre.wvu.edu.

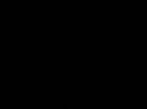
Who went to be with Jesus on Feb. 6, 2004
"When I must leave you"



When I must leave you for a little while,
Please do not grieve and shed wild tears
And hug your sorrow
To you through the years
But start out bravely
With a gallant smile;
And for my sake and in my name
Live on and do all things the same.
Feed not your loneliness on empty days,
But fill each waking hour in useful ways.
Reach out your hand in comfort and in cheer,
And I in turn will comfort you
And hold you near;
And never, never be afraid to die,
For I am waiting for you in the sky!

Loved and sadly missed,

FUN FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY

I Remember Mama
by John VanDruten

Mama, with the help of her husband, brings up the children in their modest San Francisco home during the early years of the century. Mama, a sweet and capable manager, sees her children through childhood, manages to educate them and to see one of her daughters begin her career as a writer. Mama's sisters and uncle furnish a rich background for a great deal of comedy and a little incidental tragedy, while the doings of the children manage to keep everyone in pleasant turmoil.

Ask Sheila

Decorating Dilemma?
Sheila offers helpful advice.

Dear Sheila:

Our 5th anniversary is coming up on Valentine's Day. I would like to do something to surprise my wife.

I have learned over the years NOT to buy her clothes. She is well stocked on perfumes and such and on a diet so that leaves out candy.

I recently received a bonus she doesn't know about and would like for her to be able to decorate the guest-room.

Right now it is junk from yard sales and hand-me-downs, and I know she is embarrassed when her family and friends come from out-of-town to visit. She has ideas. Do you think I could get her a gift certificate from your store to get her started?

Roger

Dear Roger:

By all means we can do gift certificates. We will even wrap it up nicely for you, but I would suggest some diet candy to go along with it too!!

State PW Board Approves Dental Service Contract

The Maryland Board of Public Works yesterday approved a three-year, $6.8 million contract with Doral Dental Services to administer comprehensive dental benefits to eligible Medicaid recipients. The contract covers Medicaid enrollees who are less than 21 years of age, and recipients 21 and over who are pregnant or enrolled in the Rare and Expensive Case Management Program.

"The tragic death of Deamonte Driver in 2007 showed us that our dental public health safety net was nowhere near as inclusive as it needed to be," said Governor Martin O'Malley. "Today's action puts in place a system that will make it easier to link every child with Medicaid to a dental home where care is available."

The contract with Doral Dental Services is a result of a recommendation put forth by the Dental Action Committee, formed by Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DHMH) Secretary John M. Colmers in 2007, to carve dental services out of the seven Managed Care Organization (MCO) service packages and administer services through a single Administrative Services Organization.

"This contract simplifies the system for dentists who want to participate in Medicaid," said Colmers. "It will now be easier for more than 435,000 children enrolled in Medicaid to access comprehensive dental services on a regular basis."

In addition to arranging for services, the contract calls for Doral to enroll and train dental providers; prepare outreach materials for both providers and families; and pay provider claims.

The pre-transition period will begin on March 1, during which Doral will develop provider networks, outreach materials, and computer systems. Doral will be responsible for managing the program and paying for services delivered after June 30.

The term of the contract is for March 1 through June 30, 2012, with two one-year renewal options. The budget for the first three years, four months is $6,858,000.

Colmers said that this contract is part of a major effort by the state to improve dental services for children.

The Dental Action Committee recommended new public health strategies: increases in Medicaid payment rates and alternate delivery models; education and outreach for parents and caregivers; and strategies to improve provider participation, capacity, and scope of practice.

Other strategies that were already in the governor's FY 2009 budget and implemented include:

•Increased payment rates: $14 million as the first installment of a multi-year effort to bring Maryland Medicaid dental rates up to the 50th percentile of the American Dental Association's South Atlantic region charges.

•Additional public health infrastructure initiatives: $2 million to establish new dental public health clinics in underserved regions of Maryland and to increase operational support for existing local health department dental clinics, thereby increasing access to oral health services.

Graduates From West Virginia U.

Vanessa Logan graduated from West Virginia University during a commencement ceremony in Morgantown last month. She received a bachelor of science degree in economics from the College of Business and Economics.

Logan was named to dean's list for the fall 2008 semester, and is currently continuing her studies at WVU as a pre-graduate student.

She is the daughter of Johnny and Susan Logan of Deer Park.

Adorable Adoptables

SEVERAL CANINES ARE AVAILABLE for adoption this week at the Garrett County Animal Shelter, including a 1-to-2-year-old male Rottweiler-hound mix, a male shepherd mix, and a female tri-colored hound. Also in need of a new home is a female white cat with medium-length hair. "There have been many dogs dropped off or picked up by the shelter, and there have been few adoptions, leaving the shelter almost full to capacity," said a Humane Society spokesperson. "Please consider the lifelong responsibilities before adopting a pet, and once you do, please provide it with a loving home and identification tags; it could save its life. Also, please provide adequate shelter for your outdoor pets during this cold winter. The Humane Society has had reports of several animals freezing to death during this last cold snap." For more information, persons may call the animal shelter at 301-334-3553. Located along Oakland Sang Run Road, the facility is open Monday through Friday.

Lakers Top Anne Arundel In OT Before Defeating Westmoreland

The Garrett College Lakers improved their overall record to 17-2 this past week by handing visiting Anne Arundel CC a 75-65 Maryland JUCO conference overtime loss Saturday, and then topping Westmoreland CC in a non-conference contest Monday, 71-62. Both were make-up games.

The win over Anne Arundel upped the Lakers' JUCO record to 6-2.

In that game, Rodney Clark's 18 points and Terrance Taylor's 16 led the scoring column for Garrett, but it was the hustle and tenacity of sophomores J.T. Lewis and Mo Gunn that ultimately led to the OT win.

Down by 11 after 22 minutes of play, the Lakers scrapped their way back to a one-point, 61-60, deficit with 37 seconds remaining in regulation on two clutch free throws by Terrance Taylor.

The Lakers' full-court pressure defense forced a sideline out-of-bounds by the Pioneers. On the ensuing inbounds play from half court, the Lakers missed a defensive assignment, which should have resulted in an uncontested lay-up for Arundel's Kendrick Maybank. But Lewis seemingly came out of nowhere to block the attempt, and Rodney Clark picked up the loose ball.

The Lakers ran their half-court offense, but settled for a three-point attempt from the corner by Brian Koonce. The ball bounced off the rim, but Gunn tipped back to Lewis, who was fouled. He hit one of two free throws to knot the score at 61-61 with 8.3 seconds on the clock.

The Lakers applied full-court pressure again and forced a turnover by Arundel to regain possession with only 2.8 seconds remaining. However, a forced pass to the corner went off Gunn, giving the Pioneers the ball with 2.3 seconds. They were unable to score, sending the contest into overtime.

The Pioneers won the tip, but the Laker defense held and Rodney Clark penetrated and dished to Terrance Taylor for consecutive lay-ups to push the lead to 65-61.

"We beat a good offensive team tonight, but for some reason the match-up zone has stymied our offense the past couple of games," said GC head coach Dennis Gibson. "Our defense or our willingness to take care of the ball is not what it has been previously; we need to get back to the basics and play with more toughness."

Starter Reco Siler was injured in the first few minutes of the game with a sprained ankle, and Brian Koonce and Chris Speicher came off the bench adding 12 and 11 points, respectively.

"Speicher settled our offense and gave us some discipline when we were down 11, which is what we needed at the time," added Gibson. "He is a good player who can really help us through this stretch run."

Leading the Pioneers in scoring was Kevin Coates with a game-high 21 points. Lionel Coleman finished with 18, Kendrick Maybank netted 13, and Justin Brown contributed 11.

A physical, upset-minded Westmoreland Wolfpack team came into McHenry Monday night, but could not contend with Garrett's bench play.

Subs Brian Koonce and Doma Ibrahim came up with timely rebounds and buckets to give the Lakers their second close win in three days. Koonce grabbed nine rebounds, and Ibrahim recorded 11 points and seven boards to help wear down the Wolfpack late in the second half Terrance Taylor led the Lakers' scoring effort with 17 points, and also had seven rebounds. Rodney Clark also reached double figures with 12.

J.T. Lewis turned in another solid all-around game, with seven points, seven assists, six rebounds, and a steal.

Westmoreland closed the Laker lead to two with three minutes remaining, but Ibrahim recorded consecutive assists to point guard Rodney Clark and Terrance Taylor to push the lead to nine points. Koonce finished the Laker scoring, as he was fouled on a defensive rebound and hit two free throws.

"Westmoreland is much improved from last year," Gibson said. "They beat us down the floor on fast breaks too many times, but the difference in this game was Ibrahim. He came in and dominated the boards, but was very unselfish in hitting his teammates for open shots from the post. I cannot be more pleased with his development."

Gibson added that Howard Ferguson and Marko Agbaba came in and played "very good defense," as did Speicher at point guard.

"It is not all about the scoring and media – it is about team play, and these four guys exemplify that concept," Gibson said.

Stough Wins Championship At Thomas Tourney; Huskies 13th

Led by senior Dustin Stough, the Northern High School wrestling team placed 13th among 26 teams in the highly competitive Thomas Automotive Family High School Wrestling Tournament, hosted Friday and Saturday by Bedford (Pa.) High School.

Stough, who is undefeated so far this season, won all four of his matches and captured the individual championship in the 160-pound division.

Other Huskies placing among the top six in their respective weight divisions were Jason Opel, who finished fourth in the 171-pound division; Josh Duckworth, who placed fifth in the 130-pound class; and Adam Moranduzzo, who was sixth in the 135-pound division.

Stough disposed of his first two opponents with pins, then recorded a lopsided 10-0 decision over Mark Zeno of Fort Cherry in the semifinals. In the title bout against John Julian of Penn Cambria, Stough rallied in the final seconds of the match to record a 9-6 decision and claim the championship.

Stough was trailing 6-3 going into the third period, and was still down 6-4 with just 19 seconds left in the match. However, he got a quick takedown and a three-point near fall in those final seconds to gain the victory.

Stough also recorded his 100th win of the season when he pinned Jake Kozorosky in the second round. With his next two victories, he upped his personal mark to 102.

Opel, who was wrestling in his first matches of the season, just missed placing third in his division, as he was edged in a 3-2 decision by Cody Troutman of Tri-Valley.

Duckworth's final match, which gave him his fifth place, was against Scott Burns of Maplewood, whom he shut out, 3-0.

Competing in the highly talented 135-pound division, Moranduzzo was edged by Craig Harris of Richland, 4-2, to just miss finishing in fifth place.

Host Bedford won the team title for the third year in a row, finishing with 233 points. A distant second place was Fort Cherry with 171½, and in third place was Huntingdon with 148½ points.

Northern, which was the only Maryland team in the tournament, recorded 86 team points for 13th place, while Hyndman finished 20th with 53.

The Huskies will compete next Tuesday in a tri-match hosted by Fairmont Senior, host Fort Hill next Wednesday in what will be the Huskies' Senior Night, and travel to Kingwood next Thursday evening for a tri-match at Preston High School.

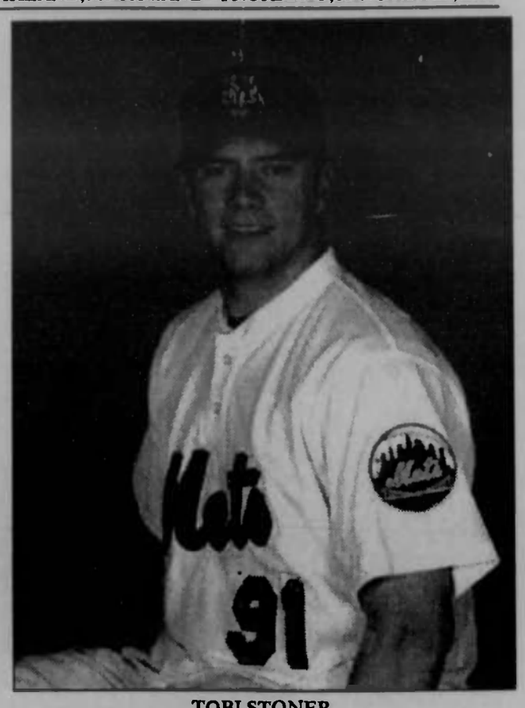
Stoner Invited To Spring Training With The Mets

Garrett County's most successful baseball player in history is now just one step away from taking the mound in the majors, as pitcher Tobi Stoner recently received a call from the New York Mets inviting him to Big League Camp (spring training) in Florida, which will begin Feb. 13.

Stoner, a former standout at Southern High School and Davis and Elkins College, has been with the Mets' organization since he was drafted in 2006.

According to Jon Star of NYFansOnly.com, in just two seasons with the Mets' farm system, Stoner has "developed the deepest repertoire of any pitcher in the organization. He is right on the cusp of a big league debut, and should get his shot in the very near future."



TOBI STONER

After the 2008 season in which Stoner pitched for the Mets' AA team in Binghamton, he went to the Arizona Fall League, where he carried an ERA of 3.56. Then he went to Puerto Rico and participated in the winter league, where he dominated the competition, finishing the season with an ERA of 1.50.

After 2009 spring training with the Mets in Florida is completed, Stoner may return to Binghamton or he may be promoted to AAA Buffalo, where he will likely be the first player tagged to get into the Mets' rotation as a starter.

"The quality of Stoner's pitching is surpassed only by his incredible makeup," wrote Star on the scout.com web site. "He has unflinching poise, the desire for success, and the toughness to be a very solid pitcher at the back of the rotation. If it were not for his depth, his stock would fall, but there are no visible shortcomings to his game. He has proven consistence, and his durability makes him a legitimate candidate for the big league rotation."

SPECIAL OLYMPICS ATHLETES GO BOWLING – The athletes from Garrett County Special Olympics participated in a qualifier bowling tournament recently at The Bowler in LaVale. The local members, along with Allegany and Frederick county athletes, had a great time, a spokesperson said, and brought home gold and silver medals. The event was hosted by Allegany County Special Olympics. Pictured in the front, left to right, are Linda Murphy, Joey Sizemore, Wendy Seymour, Jerry Sweltzer, Dante Broadwater, John Hinebaugh, and Jeff Michaels. In the second row, same order, are Jeff Sizemore (coach), Roger Uber, Mike Lewis, Eric Friend, Adam Friend, Robert Broadwater, Krista Beller, Andy Bittinger, Vicki Hinebaugh, Stacey Geroski, Craig Robison, and Tom Savage. Gala Bowdler also took part, but was unavailable for the photo.

Girls' Softball Traveling Teams Now Forming

The Sluggers is Garrett County's first traveling girls' fast-pitch softball team, and registration for an expanded program this year is now under way. Last year the team played a limited schedule, with just an age 10-&-under team, according to coordinator Anthony Andrews.

"Excitement and interest has grown beyond tie-dyed T-shirts and mismatched pants," Andrews said. "This year we hope to field two teams – the 10-&-under as well as a 12-&-under team. We hope to attend four sanctioned tournaments in the spring and three in the fall, including the Maryland State Championship tournament."

Andrews said that the local teams will also host a tournament during June and extend invitations to teams in the tri-state area. He said that, through these tournaments, the girls will be exposed to "the best competition around," which he said will improve their skills, allow them to compete on an accelerated level, and help them gain confidence.

"Softball is fun, and the girls make friendships and memories that last a lifetime," he said.

An interest and registration meeting will be held this Saturday, Jan. 31, at 9:30 a.m. at the former Oakland Armory along Eighth Street. Any 8-12-year-old girl who would like to play should attend, along with her parents.

"We also need, and would very much appreciate, the support of business or individual sponsors," said Andrews, adding that potential sponsors are encouraged to attend the meeting as well. Those unable to attend, but desiring more information, may contact Anthony Andrews at 301-387-0040 or 301-616-5975, or via e-mail at ankymich@hotmail.com.

SLUGGERS NOW RECRUITING – Garrett County's first traveling girls' fast-pitch softball team, the Sluggers, is recruiting new members with the hope of expanding the program from one to two teams this year. An interest and registration meeting will be held this Saturday, Jan. 31, at 9:30 a.m. at the former Oakland Armory along Eighth Street. Any 8-12-year-old girl who would like to play is invited to attend, along with her parents. Team members pictured above are, from left, Nicole Pysell, Carlee Andrews, Hannah Virts, and Kamrin Weimer. See story for details.

Five Garrett County high school soccer players, led by repeating Offensive Player of the Year Adria Graham of Northern, have been selected as members of the All-Area and the Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference first teams. Ten other players received second-team and honorable mention designation.

Graham, a junior striker at Northern High School, was named the Offensive Player of the Year for the second year in a row, and leads the All-Area and the AMAC first teams.

She scored 33 goals for the 2008 season, for a 5.37 scoring average and holds the area records in scoring average and in assists.

Northern sophomore forward Kaitlynn Fratz received All-Area and AMAC first team honors, finishing third in the area in scoring with 22 goals. She had 11 assists in 16 games for 55 points and a 3.43 average. Her assists were second best in the area, behind teammate Graham.

Justine Harvey received All-Area first team honors, and was Northern's all-time leader in saves (288), save percentage (.864), and shutouts (21).

Southern's Morgan Anderson led the Rams to a 9-6, 4-2 AMAC 2008 season record. She is a repeater on the All-Area and the AMAC first teams with her seven goals and two assists for a 1.14 average. She ranked eighth in the conference in scoring with a 1.50 average.

NHS's Gillum Paces All-Area Football Picks

The All-Area Football Team for the 2008 season was announced recently after a vote of area coaches, and the only player to be named to both the first-team offense and first-team defense is Northern High School senior Kyle Gillum.

Gillum was named to the first-team offense for the second consecutive year as a wide receiver, and was selected the punter on the first-team defensive squad.

Gillum's teammate Zach Fratz, also a senior, earned second-team honors on offense as the all-purpose back, while Northern junior Adam Moranduzzo was named a second-team linebacker.

Huskies receiving honorable mention were offensive linemen Dustin Stough and Tyler Opel, and defensive linemen Jared Rodeheaver, Trevor Tombley, and Randy Wiley.

Receiving honorable mention for the Southern High Rams were running back Travis Skeweris, offensive lineman Dan Shockey, and defensive back Brutus Scheffel.

Gillum had 26 pass receptions in nine games this past season, which yielded 331 yards and three touchdowns for the Huskies. As a punter, he averaged just over 44 yards on 36 punts, with his longest being 62 yards.

Of the 32 first-team All-Area selections, Fort Hill placed 10 players, Keyser placed seven, Allegany had six, Mountain Ridge placed four, Bishop Walsh and Northern had two each, and Frankfort placed one.

Sweitzer Leads V-ball All-Area, AMAC First Team

Three members of the Southern High School varsity volleyball team, led by Player of the Year Shayna Sweitzer, have been named to the All-Area and the Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference first, second, and honorable mention teams.

Sweitzer was named the 2008 Sports Shoppe Area Player of the Year and heads this year's All-Area and AMAC volleyball team. A senior setter/outside hitter, she led Southern to a 10-5 record 2008 season.

Sweitzer completed her high school career first in assists with 592, first in digs with 289, second in service points with 457, and third in kills with 306.

"She will graduate as one of the best all-around players I have had the opportunity to coach," said Southern coach Sue Newton. "I also believe that she will have a successful volleyball career at the college level."

Along with Sweitzer, teammate Alycia Horner was named to the All-Area and AMAC second team and Kaycee Ackerman was selected for the All-Area and AMAC honorable mention team.

EARNS 100TH RUNNING TROPHY – It took nearly 30 years of running, but Wayne McCaughey, Oakland, has finally reached one of his goals in life, which was to accumulate 100 age group awards in foot races. McCaughey said he began running about 30 years ago and soon started to enter races as a means of improving his fitness and performance. Since then he has run in nearly every type of contest, from 1 mile races to those 31 miles long, including six triathlons. He has averaged about one race a month since starting, although he noted that has depended upon his various ailments and travel schedule. "The hardest time was when I ran in Saudi Arabia during the Gulf War, made difficult because of the security." He said he didn't win much in the early days, despite being relatively fast, "because there was always somebody who was even faster." As he reached his 50s and 60s, however, the competition thinned out. "Now I almost always win an age group award. It used to be a good 5K (3.1 miles) was under 20 minutes. Now I have to push to break 30 minutes. Next summer I'll be 70, and there are only 5 or 6 guys in the whole area over 70 who are still racing, so I can start on the next 100." The runner is pictured at right with trophy 100, added to the collection pictured above. This one was for his first-place finish at the Morgantown Back Bay race in December. "Believe it or not, there were a bunch of guys there who were much older than I. They're my heroes."

Southern Joins Allegany County Bowling League

The Allegany County Inter Scholastic High School Bowling League has begun its 2008-09 season with the addition of a new school and coaches.

Southern High School has joined with Allegany, Bishop Walsh, Calvary Christian, Fort Hill, Frankfort, Hampshire, Keyser, and Mountain Ridge to make a nine-team league. This is the first time since the league was inaugurated to have this many teams to participate.

Southern has Joe Lucas as its new coach, and Matt Miller filled the coaching vacancy at Frankfort when Bill Patch moved to Fort Hill

Currently, the Actual Division has the Hampshire girls' team in first place with a perfect record of 8-0. The Mountain Ridge boys' team (5-2) has a slim lead after sustaining its first loss to Allegany (24-12) over Fort Hill at 7-3. Tied for third place are the boys' teams from Keyser (6-3) and Southern at 4-2. Allegany is next with a 6½-3½ record, followed by Hampshire (3½-3½), Frankfort (4-5), Calvary Christian (1-7), and Bishop Walsh (0-10).

The undefeated Hampshire girls are being led by Amanda Greene, who is still maintaining the highest average of both boys and girls with a 218. Since the holidays, her highest game was 227, and she had a 646 set.

Second-place Keyser's only loss was to Mountain Ridge, 30-6. Because of the weather, matches have been postponed, including one between Hampshire and Keyser.

Mountain Ridge is in third place with a record of 5½-1½. Following is Frankfort (4½-4½), Allegany (4½-5½), Southern (3-4), Fort Hill (3½-6½), Bishop Walsh (2-8), and Calvary Christian (0-8).

The Calvary Christian boys have the lead in the Adjusted Division with a 6-2 record. Fort Hill is second at 7-3, and Frankfort (5½-2½) is third. Rounding out the rest of the league are Mountain Ridge (4-3), Bishop Walsh (4½-5½), Southern (3-4), Allegany (3½-5½), Keyser (2½-6½), and Hampshire (2-6).

In the Adjusted Division, the Keyser girls are in first place with 6½-2½, followed by Allegany at 6½-3½. Frankfort is a close third at 5½-3½, followed by Hampshire and Calvary Christian both at 4-4. Rounding out the division are Bishop Walsh (4½-5½), Southern (3-4), Fort Hill (3-7), and Mountain Ridge (2-5).

High games have been rolled by Miranda Nicol (Mountain Ridge) with a 202 and a 556 set. Her teammate Ashley Jenkins rolled the next highest, a 199. Allegany's Shasta Keener recorded a 195, Rachel Whitehair (Keyser) and Jessica Hevel (Fort Hill) each had a 192, and Frankfort's Kristi Salonish rolled a 191.

Kevin Patch (Fort Hill) has to date the high game of 265 for the boys, with a 659 set. Allegany's Matt Riley has the highest set of 672, with his highest game being a 254.

Other high sets above 600 were rolled by Keyser's Charlie Abernathy (234/637) and Frankfort's Andrew Folmer (243/667) and Matt Folmer (602). Others who had outstand-ing sets were Keyser's Thayer Smith (248/605), Southern's Jeremy Sharpless (616), and Mountain Ridge's Tyler DeVore with a 247 game.

McHenry Man Sentenced To One Year For Multiple Charges

In recent Garrett County District Court hearings, Jonathan Lyle Booska, 33, McHenry, was found guilty by Judge Leonard J. Eiswert for charges of having a handgun in a vehicle and for driving under the influence (DUI), and was sentenced to one year, with six months suspended, three years of supervised probation, and fines of $372.50.

Maryland State Police responded to a domestic assault report in November 2008 in the McHenry area and made contact with the victim of assault. At the time of the report, Booska had already left the residence, and a search was implemented.

Officers were able to locate Booska and make a traffic stop. Booska was made to exit the vehicle by force after disobeying orders, and was taken to the ground by officers, and a strong odor of alcohol was detected.

After a search of the vehicle, a fully loaded Glock 9mm was found, as well as several beer cans, including an opened one. Booska was arrested and taken to the McHenry Barrack for pro-cessing. His privilege to drive was found to be suspended in the state of Maryland.

He was not prosecuted on two charges of first degree assault, second degree assault, reckless endangerment, driving white intoxicated (DWI), and driving on a suspended license.

In an unrelated case, Lawrence Joseph Jefferys, 52, Oakland, was found guilty for a second degree assault charge and was sentenced to 30 days, with 22 suspended and eight credit days served, one year of supervised probation, and fines that were suspended. Officers responded to a residence in September 2008 to a domestic assault in progress.

Jefferys had allegedly thrown an adult victim to the ground, then hit and tried to choke the vicitm. After viewing the victim, officers arrested Jefferys and transported him to the Garrett County Detention Center.

In another district court hearing, Jennifer L. Pletta, 50, Friendsville, was found guilty for a charge of failure to comply with a peace order, and was sentenced to one year of unsupervised probation and $157.50 in fines.

It was reported that during the months of July, August, September, and November 2008, Pletta violated a peace order that was put into effect from July 2008 to July 2009, by trespassing on private property and harassing the residences of that property.

She was not prosecuted on a second failure to comply with a peace order.

Antonio Karl Evans, 24, Glen Burnie, was placed on stet for charges of malicious destruction of a vehicle, disturbing the peace by loud noises, and disturbing the peace of another. Conditions of the stet were to pay restitution costs of over $600 to the victim of disturbance within 30 days. He was arrested in November 2008 by Garrett County sheriff's officers.

Erika Christiansen, 20, Oak Ridge, N.J., was handed a stet verdict for two charges of CDS possession not marijuana and a charge of CDS possession of paraphernalia with conditions being to complete 40 hours of community service. Her charges stem from a traffic stop by GCSO and the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force in July 2008.

Rickey Price Walker Jr., 33, Winchester, Va., was placed on stet for charges of controlled dangerous substance (CDS) possession of marijuana and CDS possession of paraphernalia, with conditions being to com-

Ask The Everyday Scientist

POLAR BEARS

by Thomas P. Sheahen

Q. Are polar bears going to become extinct because the Arctic ice is melting?

A. This is a topic that is beset with great confusion. The biggest problem of all is hype, because the entire topic makes terrific copy for a fundraising letter. Children in elementary grades are sometimes being told that this is one of the terrible things happening because of mankind releasing too much CO2.

The emotional appeal is very strong, because polar bears are a memorable feature of any trip to the zoo. There is a book titled Why Are the Ice Caps Melting? by Anne Rockwell, aimed at the 4-8-year-old range. There was also a British band named the Melting Ice Caps who sang totally unrelated songs. Publicity and excitement abound, but science says otherwise.

Let's start with a few facts:

First, the native people of Nunavut (northern Canada bordering the Arctic Ocean) hunt polar bears for food all their lives, and they haven't noticed any shortage of polar bears. Nobody is trying to protect polar bears from people.

Second, polar bears easily swim 100 km (over 60 miles). A polar bear "stranded" on an ice floe offers a photo distressing to humans, but if the ice floe is close enough to be filmed, the bear has a pretty easy trip back to solid ground.

Third, Arctic sea ice is not diminishing; it's currently back to the same extent as in 1979, three decades ago. This was reported in December 2008 by the University of Illinois's Arctic Climate Research Center, derived from satellite observations that keep track of the extent of sea ice, which varies every summer and winter.

Fourth, the Endangered Species Act contains several classifications of concern for animals, and the mildest form is "threatened." The Department of the Interior issued a statement in May 2008 that one sub-group of polar bears (in Alaska) is "threatened." The basis for invoking that classification was the computer-modeled projection that sea ice might decline further in the years ahead. The reasoning goes: Polar bears aren't threatened currently, only sometime in the future if the sea ice goes away.

Here's an excerpt from the press release:

"Interior Department Secretary Dirk Kempthorne cited dramatic declines in sea ice over the last three decades and projections of continued losses.... Kempthorne also said, though, that it would be 'inappropriate' to use the protection of the bear to reduce greenhouse gases, or to broadly address climate change."

Because of that latter limitation, Kempthorne was severely criticized by environmental groups.

The same press release underlined the first point above: "Canada, home to two-thirds of the world's polar bears, will not for now follow the U.S. lead in listing the animals as threatened, Environment Minister John Baird indicated."

The good news contained in the third point above completely negates the reason cited for assigning the classification "threatened" in the first place. On that basis, the category should be withdrawn. But don't hold your breath waiting for that!

Thus, the polar bears are not actually endangered in any way at all. So what's all the fuss about?

What is really going on underneath all this is the attempt by strident environmentalists to prevent exploration and drilling for oil in the Arctic. That's the real issue, and the polar bears are merely a surrogate having emotional appeal.

Here's how a typical fundraising pitch goes (example from the NRDC): "Polar Bear SOS! We must make [the government] protect the polar bear as an endangered species and save it from extinction. I want to help NRDC mobilize one million Americans in support of full-fledged protection and fight in court for the sake of polar bear survival. Enclosed is my tax-deductible membership contribution ..." And in an accompanying angry message to the secretary of the interior: "I am outraged you would allow global warming pollution and Arctic oil exploration to continue unabated while the polar bear is in mortal danger." And still more: "The plight of the polar bear is urgent. We can still save this magnificent species, but the window for action is closing rapidly."

This alarming notice is obviously aimed at those who haven't taken the time to examine the issue, but who simply hear some buzzwords and easily get alarmed. The pitchmeisters lay it on thick in the hope of making such folks reach for their checkbook.

Needless to say, if you make your living as a fund-raiser, you become very adept at weaving together little snippets of news and claims and statements here and there into an urgent call for action – and contributions. But you must also learn to ignore scientific evidence to the contrary when making your pitch.

Although Arctic sea ice had decreased a lot by September 2007, it returned to 1979 levels by December 2008. That scientific fact is unwelcome news to alarmists.

YOUNG CHEFS IN TRAINING – At the Ruth Enlow Library's recent HomeSchooler program in Oakland, 16 young "chefs" learned a few "tricks of the trade" from executive chef Larry Roby, who operates his own rent-a-chef business. "I just love to cook," he told the children. "I started out liking to cook when I was about your age with my mom and my grandma." He explained that in his business, he is a private chef, doing all the shopping and cooking for people who hire him. Supplied with chef hats for each child, plenty of fresh fruits and vegetables, and state-of-the-art tools, Roby led the group in creating a sculpture. He used half a cantaloupe for the base and, with the help of the children, added melon balls on skewers, zucchini slices, blueberries, strawberry fans, and carrot, lemon, lime, and tomato roses. His homemade dips complemented the arrangements. The homeschoolers learned how to use such tools as a melon baler, skewers, a "groovy groover," and a curler. The fruits and vegetables were donated by Larry and Lana Roby of Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty, and gourmet cookie samples were provided by Deep Creek Gourmet. The next HomeSchooler program at the Oakland library is scheduled for Friday, Feb. 20, from 2:30 to 3:30 p.m., with Abbi Kifer presenting a program about nutrition. For more information, persons may contact Krista McKenzie at 301-334-3996, ext. 115, or at krista@reilb.net.

MTN. LAKE PARK WATER SYSTEM
NOTICE OF VIOLATION
Surface Water Treatment Technique

The Garrett County Department of Public Utilities is providing the following notice regarding the Mtn. Lake Park Water System. The springs for the water system have been evaluated for protection against surface water influence as required by the Surface Water Treatment Rule (SWTR), as adopted in the Code of Maryland, COMAR 26.04.01, Quality of Drinking Water in Maryland. The springs were determined to be under the direct influence of surface water by the Maryland Department of the Environment. As a result, this source requires additional treatment, such as filtration, or replacement with a protected water source. Federal and state regulations require that the Mtn. Lake Park Water System install filtration.

What is the Department of Public Utilities doing?

The Mtn. Lake Park Water System disinfects the drinking water that is produced from the spring. The drinking water is tested monthly for coliform bacteria and results have met state and federal standards.

The Department of Public Utilities is in the process of replacing the water supply with a protected water source.

What should I do?

People with severely compromised immune systems, infants, and some elderly may be at increased risk. These individuals should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. General guidelines on ways to lessen the risk of infection by microbes are available from EPA's Safe Drinking Water Act Hotline (800-426-4791). If you have specific health concerns, consult your physician.

What does this mean?

This is not an emergency. This notification is provided to advise Mtn. Lake Park Water customers of the treatment requirements for their water system. Any questions or concerns should be directed to Allen Festerman at 301-387-9141. Please share this information with others who may find it useful.

Date of Notice: January 2009

Fenugreek's Effect on Blood Sugar

Fenugreek is an herb that has traditionally been used to treat menopause, stomach problems, and to induce labor in pregnant women. More recently, it has been used to treat diabetes, high cholesterol, and wound infections. Typically, the seeds of the plant are ground into powder and taken orally. The mechanism of action of fenugreek is not clear, but it is thought that the high fiber content of fenugreek lowers the amount of glucose (sugar) and eholesterol absorbed in the intestine.

A few small studies have shown that fenugreek may lower blood glucose levels in people with diabetes. Larger studies are needed to verify this effect. Side effects are generally mild and may include gas, nausea, and diarrhea. Doses of 100 grams daily or higher are sometimes associated with side effects. It may potentiate (increase) the effects of diabetes medications. Persons with diabetes should check their blood glucose regularly when fenugreek is added to their medication regimen. Fenugreek has exhibited blood thinning activity and should not be taken with warfarin or other blood thinning medications. It should not be used by pregnant women.

Tried and True

© stockphoto.com/blactued

Two brothers inherited a fortune to be divided equally. One brother invested his half in a glamorous product, touted to become a huge success. The other trusted his wealth to a "tried and true" staple.

The glamorous new product enjoyed magical success for a time, but eventually failed and the fortune was lost. The sales of the more practical and proven product continued on a steady scale and the fortune was doubled.

There is no magic formula for success. Invest your faith in the "tried and true." God is "the same yesterday and today and forever." (Hebrews 13:8) Attend His house of worship every week.

Don't Lord It Over Others

Do we enjoy being the boss, telling others what to do, or directing them as if we are a mighty king? Although this may be necessary in some occupations or in situations when someone has to take charge in order to get things done, it is generally a poor way in which to interact with others. Even children can be asked to do things in a nice way and taught to comply with requests rather than simply being ordered around. It is natural for humans to enjoy being "mighty kings." But, this is not the way it should be in the spiritual realm. Consider the lesson Jesus taught at the last supper by washing His disciples' feet. It was a Jewish custom for a host to wash his guests' feet if he was honored by their presence, presumably because the guests were considered socially superior to the host. In John's account of the washing of the feet, Jesus laid aside His garments and girded Himself with a towel, as a servant might do, and then proceeded to wash His disciples' feet and wipe them with the towel. (John 13:4-5) When Peter initially refuses, saying "You shall never wash my feet,"He is suggesting that he will not let Jesus play the role of servant, but Jesus responds by saying, "If I do not wash you, you have no part in me." To which Peter responds, "then not just my feet, but my hands and head as well." We have all heard this story many times, and know what it means, i.e., that we should serve on another and not refrain from doing the lowliest of servile duties. If Jesus could get on His hands and knees and wash His disciples' feet, surely we can do likewise.

For I have given you an example, that you should do as I have done to you.

Garrett County SKIES

By Dr. Bob Doyle
Frostburg State Planetarium

FEBRUARY SUN – In early February, the sun rises in Oakland about 7:25 a.m. and sets about 5:40 p.m. Through mid-February, the sun drifts across the star group Capricornus; the sun enters Aquarius on February 16, where it stays through March 11. As February draws to a close, Oakland and surroundings will have sunrises about 6:55 a.m. and sunsets about 6:05 p.m. So our daily ration of sunlight in February grows about an hour (from 10.2 to 11.2 hours).

FEBRUARY MOON – In early February the moon appears about half full in the evening sky, appearing above and to the left of the brilliant planet Venus. This shape offers the most lunar detail seen through binoculars or telescope. Along the moon's left (straight edge), the rising sun lights up the raised crater rims and mountain peaks while their surroundings are still in shadow. The evening moon grows to full on February 10, then appearing in the star group Leo. A week later, the moon has shifted into the morning sky, appearing half full. The moon then is best seen either at dawn or the early daylight hours. On February 22, a slender crescent moon appears above and to the right of the planets Mercury and Jupiter low in the 6:20 a.m. dawn. On the next morning, an even thinner moon appears near the planet Mars. On February 24, the moon swings from the morning to the evening side of the sun. On the last two days of February, a slender crescent moon appears near the brilliant planet Venus in the southwestern dusk.

FEBRUARY PLANETS – There are two evening planets, brilliant Venus in the southwestern dusk and the bright planet Saturn low in the mid-evening eastern sky. All bright planets shine steadily, not twinkling as the night stars. At dawn, the bright planet Jupiter may be seen very low in the east southeast a half-hour before sunrise. Jupiter glides by Mars on February 17 and by Mercury on February 24.

FEBRUARY STARS – The brightest stars on February evenings are in the south. The brightest star group there is Orion, with his three-star belt (three stars equally bright and equally spaced). Above the belt is the bright pink star Betelgeuse; below the belt is white-blue Rigel, Orion's brightest star. Orion's belt points down and left to Sirius, the night's brightest star. Orion's belt points up and right to Aldebaran, the bright orange star marking the eye of Taurus, the Bull. High in the north is Capella, a bright golden star.

PLANETARIUM PROGRAMS – The February public program at the Frostburg State University is "Equa-torial Skies," with free Sunday presentations each Sunday at 4 and 7 p.m. The planetarium is in Tawes 302, just off the front lobby and facing the Compton Science Center.

Dr. Doyle writes this column for those who would like to identify the brightest stars, planets, and sights in their backyards. To ask questions or get a planetarium/science discovery center bookmark, persons may telephone Dr. Doyle at 301-687-7799 and leave name and mailing address.

SENIORS LEARN ABOUT WEATHERIZING THEIR HOMES – Rodney Powell, Garrett County Community Action Committee, recently gave a presentation about weatherization at the Mary Browning Senior Center in Oakland. Using a life-size wooden window frame, Powell, pictured, demonstrated various techniques that can help cut down on home heating costs. He also described how an energy efficiency blower machine can be used to conduct an energy audit of air movement in a home. Persons may call Community Action at 301-334-9431 to see if they qualify for the Weatherization Assistance Program.

Bloodmobile To Make Four Visits In Feb.

The American Red Cross bloodmobile will make four visits to Garrett County locations during the month of February.

The first will be Friday, Feb. 6, when the bloodmobile and staff will be at the Oakland fire hall. Hours for that visit are noon to 6 p.m.

Garrett County Memorial Hospital will host a visit on Monday, Feb. 6, from 11 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

The third visit will be on Monday, Feb. 23, at Grantsville Elementary School, where donors are asked to respond from noon to 6 p.m.

The final regularly scheduled local visit for the month will be on Wednesday, Feb. 25, at Garrett College in McHenry, with those hours to be from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Donors must be at least 17 years old (16 in Maryland with parental consent), weigh at least 110 pounds, and be in generally good health. Persons may sign up by telephoning 1-800-542-5663, ext. 2861; however, walk-ins are always welcome.

Persons desiring more information about the ARC blood services program may contact Leigh Hull, blood services director of the Western Potomac Chapter, at 301-722-1760, ext. 101, or telephone the Garrett County ARC office at 301-334-3810.

LOCAL SAR CHAPTER DONATES BOOK – The Little Meadows Chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution (SAR) recently presented a copy of Lynne Cheney's best-selling book, A Time For Freedom, to the Ruth Enlow Library. The SAR is a historical, educational, and patriotic organization whose members seek to promote American freedom, an appreciation for "true patriotism," respect for national symbols, and the value of American citizenship. Garrett County's Little Meadows Chapter annually presents a book promoting these goals to the Ruth Enlow Library. Pictured is Ann Leighton, manager of the Oakland library branch, receiving the book from Luther Parrack, SAR chapter president.

Smiling Borzoi Is Not Alone

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: After reading your article about the "smiling" Borzoi, I want to tell you about my smiling Border Collie. "Jamie" will walk up to me with bared teeth, looking for a pat or a backrub. A smile and a head shake tells me she wants to go outside. There also is the "hangdog" look with bared teeth when she knows she has been naughty. No growls, just smiles.

Sometimes when I call her to come inside she looks at me, smiles and trots in the other direction! I wish I could read her mind. Jamie is such a quick study. Smartest dog we have ever adopted. — Carol F., Conesus, N.Y.

DEAR CAROL: Thank you for sharing that! Jamie sounds like a real character, all right.

A dog's "smile" often indicates submissiveness, and certain breeds like the Borzoi actually bare their teeth when they smile. This is fairly uncommon in most other dogs — if you're not familiar with a dog that is baring its teeth, back away.

Still, Border Collies are indeed very smart dogs and quick studies. They also just have that bright, alert, happy attitude that is the mark of a healthy Collie. I have a feeling that Jamie figured out that whenever she "smiles," she gets a positive response from you (a backrub, or a trip outside, or another treat). Either way, it's definitely a good deal on both sides, as you know when Jamie wants something (and can read signals as to what exactly she wants), and Jamie knows how to ask!

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• It is recorded in historical notes of the 19th century that the Reverend Francis Henry Egerton, Earl of Bridgewater, made a habit during the last years of his life of sitting down to a formal dinner every evening with a dozen guests. This might not seem odd until you learn that the guests were all canines, seated in armchairs and with napkins tied around their necks.

• It was French military leader Napoleon Bonaparte who made the following sage observation: "In politics, absurdity is not a handicap."

• After his death in 2005, the ashes of Hunter S. Thompson, pioneer of gonzo journalism and author of the infamous novel "Fear and Loathing in Las Vegas," were fired spaceward from a giant cannon to the accompaniment of fireworks and the Bob Dylan song "Mr. Tambourine Man."

• It's been reported that the average lifespan of a tree in the metropolis of New York City is only seven years.

• Evidently, it's not just humans who associate a deeper voice with maturity (and desirability) in males. It seems that male owls try to appear more macho and attract females by lowering the tone of their hoots.

• Every year an organization known as the Diagram Group awards a prize to the person who submits the strangest title of an actual book that was published in that year. Here's a sampling of previous winners: "Proceedings of the Second International Conference on Nude Mice," "The Theory of Lengthwise Rolling," "High-Performance Stiffened Structures," "Living With Crazy Buttocks," "Greek Rural Postmen and Their Cancellation Numbers" and "Butterworths Corporate Manslaughter Service."

• Records show that in England in 1552, William Shakespeare's father had to pay a fine for littering.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Feb. 4, 1789, 69 members of Congress cast their ballots to elect George Washington the first president of the United States. After months of appearing to sidestep, and even outright rejecting, the idea of assuming the presidency, Washington reluctantly accepted Congress' decision.

• On Feb. 7, 1812, the most violent of a series of earthquakes near Missouri causes a so-called fluvial tsunami in the Mississippi River, actually making the river run backward for several hours. One of the tremors in the series caused church bells to ring in Boston, more than a thousand miles away.

• On Feb. 6, 1820, the first organized immigration of freed slaves to Africa from the United States departs New York harbor on a journey to Sierra Leone in West Africa. The expedition was partially funded by the U.S. Congress, which had appropriated $100,000 to be used in returning displaced Africans to Africa.

• On Feb. 2, 1887, Groundhog Day, featuring a rodent meteorologist, is celebrated for the first time in Punxsutawney, Pa. According to tradition, if a groundhog comes out of its hole on this day and sees its shadow, there will be six more weeks of winter weather; no shadow means an early spring.

• On Feb. 8, 1924, the first execution by lethal gas in American history is carried out in Carson City, Nev. The executed man was Tong Lee, a member of a Chinese gang who was convicted of murdering a rival gang member.

• On Feb. 5, 1937, President Franklin Roosevelt announces a controversial plan to expand the Supreme Court to as many as 15 judges. Critics immediately charged that Roosevelt was trying to "pack" the court and thus neutralize Supreme Court justices hostile to his New Deal.

• On Feb. 3, 1959, rising American rock stars Buddy Holly, Ritchie Valens and J.P "The Big Bopper" Richardson are killed when their chartered Beechcraft Bonanza airplane crashes in Iowa a few minutes after takeoff from Mason City on a flight bound for Minnesota.

Q. I own a Victor Victrola, Model VV90, that was originally purchased by my parents in 1925. It is in excellent condition and has been well cared for. I have packets of the steel needles that are required for this machine. I have been offered many, many dollars for my player and wonder if I should sell it? — Thomas, Decatur, Ill.

A. The Victor VV90 is a fairly common machine. I found several on eBay, all priced in the $300 to $350 range. The ones I spotted on the Internet are housed in mahogany cabinets, although others were manufactured in cherry, walnut and oak. I called several antique dealers in my area, and they agree that $350 is a fair price for this machine and accurately reflects the current marketplace. If you have been offered "many, many dollars" for it — and I assume that "many, many dollars" is more than two or three hundred — take the money and run.

Q. I have a primitive painting done by F.F. Robertson, the brother of Grandma Moses. Do you think this painting has any value? — Patricia, South Butler, N.Y.

A. I was unable to find F.E. Robertson in any of my art references, including Hislop's Official International Price Guide to Fine Art. Your next step is to contact a good art appraiser in your area. Two who are certified are Dr. Charles Semowich, 242 Broadway, Rensselaer, NY 12144; and James Martin, c/o Marmargar, 32 Maple St., Broadalbin, NY 12025. Rory Cochrane

Q: Originally on "CSI: Miami," there was a character named Speedle who was later shot and killed. Who was that actor, and how is it that I have never seen him again on television? –Margie Nataupsky, Jupiter, Fla.

A: Rory Cochrane mostly does feature films. The CBS crime drama was a rare foray into home-screen work for him, though he also appeared in the 2007 TNT miniseries "The Company," and also in the 1997 CBS saga "The Last Don." Cochrane's movies have included "Dazed and Confused," "Love and a .45," "Flawless," "Hart's War" and "Right at Your Door." He also was heard, and seen in animated form, in "A Scanner Darkly."

Q: Molly Ringwald made several movies, but I haven't seen her in anything lately. Is she still acting, or does she have anything planned in the future? –Don Conrad, London, Ohio

A: The muse of filmmaker John Hughes during the 1980s ("Sixteen Candles," "Pretty in Pink," "The Breakfast Club"), Ringwald has just started her second season as the mother of the central character in the ABC Family series "The Secret Life of the American Teenager." The show is seen Mondays; its first season was released on DVD at the end of 2008.

Q: I discovered the series "Jeremiah" on cable about a year ago. I bought season one on DVD, but I cannot locate any other seasons. Please tell me they did not cancel this series. –Dee Nickel, Franklin, Wis.

A: They did, some time ago. The show about survivors of a catastrophic virus had its original run on Showtime, which gave stars Luke Perry and Malcolm-Jamal Warner a two-season run from 2002 to 2004. While the first season was released on disc, the second wasn't.

Q: Charlton Heston starred in a 1960s movie about the Spanish hero El Cid. Is that movie ever going to be shown on television? –Jeanne Lipman, Greeley, Colo.

A: Turner Classic Movies showed "El Cid" around the time it was released on video early last year. That seems the likeliest place on television for the 1961 epic, which also starred Sophia Loren, to resurface.

Q: While watching "A Walk to Remember" over the Christmas holiday, I noticed the fairly good resemblance that film's Shane West has to Neil Patrick Harris. I am wondering if that means there is a family relationship there. –Norma Rhode, Clifton, N.J.

A: There is a certain resemblance – but no, there is no relation.

E-Filing Taxes Strongly Urged By Comptroller

Among stacks of tax returns to be opened and few workers to complete the task, Comptroller Peter Franchot this week urged all Marylanders to file electronically this year to ensure they get their refunds within days as opposed to weeks.

During these tight fiscal times, the comptroller says his office has instituted some cost-savings measures that include a cutback on the number of temporary employees hired to help during tax season. He said that these cuts will not impact the efficiency of the agency, but will slow down the processing time for paper returns, saving the state approximately $450,000 this tax season.

"Now, more than ever before, I am urging all Marylanders to file electronically and sign up for direct deposit," Franchot said. "Those who do will still receive their refunds within a few days.

"In the past, with the help of hundreds of temporary employees, we have been able to process a paper return within two weeks. However, this year every taxpayer should know that, without our usual resources, paper returns could take up to a month to process. So filing electronically is the best way to go to ensure quick refunds while also saving the state money. It's easy, safe, convenient, and fast."

In prior years, the comptroller's office has hired nearly 140 temporary employees throughout the entire income tax filing season; however, no more than 70 workers will be hired this tax season to assist with the high volume of returns received as the deadline approaches.

Franchot said that temporary workers play a significant role in processing paper returns.

"While cutting the workforce by half saves the state money, it lengthens processing time for paper returns and delays refund payments," he said

While the comptroller has asked his entire staff to assist in the return process, he said that e-filing is still the best method to ensure that taxpayers receive refunds within a few days. Additionally, paper returns cost the state $1.98 each to process, compared to 38 cents for an e-filed return. Since its inception in the early 1990s, electronic filing has saved the state roughly $14 million, according to Franchot.

With the comptroller's increased public outreach over the past two years, the number of electronic returns has gone up. For tax year 2007, the comptroller's office processed more than 1.5 million returns electronically, up almost 200,000 from the 1.3 million received in tax year 2006. To date for tax year 2008, the office has already downloaded 96,930 electronic returns. This compares to 82,871 downloaded this same time last year.

For more information on electronic filling or to file free of charge, persons may go online to the comptroller's Web site at www.marylandtaxes.com or telephone 1-800-MD-TAXES (1-800-638-2937).

SCIENTISTS ISOLATE "HEARING PROTEIN"
Scientists have made a recent discovery that may someday help treat people with hearing impairments. The study looked at the part of the inner ear known as the cochlea, which contains two types of sensory cells that detect sounds. Until recently, it was thought that structures called "ion channels" found in the cells, which work like a microphone to transform sound into electrical impulses to the brain, were primarily responsible for distorting sound in the inner ear. (Distortion is important because it enables people to pick out the correct sounds in noisy environments.) However, researchers found that a protein called "stereocilin" (not the ion channels) was keeping the sensory cells intact and allowing the inner ear to properly distort sounds.
We applaud the diligence of scientists and research teams in their recognition of the special needs of the hearing impaired, and we praise their efforts to keep the hearing impaired in the mainstream. Whatever the cause of your hearing loss, see the people who can do the best job for you. We're AUDIBEL, and we will stake our reputation on your complete satisfaction with our approach to addressing your hearing loss. Come in and hear what all the fuss is about.
P.S. Without stereocilin, ears cannot work properly even when their ion channels work.

Registered Nurse Anesthetists Week Being Observed

Providing patients with the professional quality they expect and the personal care they deserve is the theme of the tenth annual National Nurse Anesthetists Week, Jan. 25–31. Garrett County Memorial Hospital and other hospitals across the country are currently recognizing their certified registered nurse anesthetists (CRNAs).

Established by the American Association of Nurse Anesthetists, National Nurse Anesthetists Week was created to encourage CRNAs to take the opportunity to educate the public about anesthesia safety, questions to ask prior to undergoing surgery, and the benefits of receiving anesthesia care from nurse anesthetists.

"One of the many rewards of being a nurse anesthetist is providing patients with the comfort of knowing that I will be by their side monitoring their vital signs and adjusting their anesthetics during the entire time they are asleep, a fact many patients are unaware of," said Suzanne Yaras, CRNA. "National Nurse Anesthetists Week serves as an opportunity to promote exactly what CRNAs do and who we are."

In addition to Yaras, the GCMH Anesthesia Department has three other CRNAs on staff: Sandra Killian, Luke Neubert, and Aaron Zewatsky."

Nurse anesthetists are advanced practice nurses who administer approximately 30 million anesthetics in the United States each year. Practicing in every setting where anesthesia is available, CRNAs are the sole anesthesia providers in more than two-thirds of all rural hospitals, and have been the main provider of anesthesia care to U.S. service men and women on the front lines since World War I.

"CRNAs play a key role in developing trends related to monitoring technology, anesthetic drugs, and provider education," said Dr. Melvin Gonzaga, chief of anesthesia at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. "In fact, anesthesia today is nearly 50 times safer than it was just 20 years ago."

NORTH GLADE 4-H INSTALLS NEW OFFICERS – The North Glade 4-H Club held its 2009 installation of officers ceremony last week at the Swanton Community Center. A candle lighting ritual was held in which the 2008 officers "passed the flame" on to the new officers. The flame represents the importance of each office and being a "light" to the community and club. Pictured, left to right, are the 2009 officers: Hannah Gillespie, photographer; Teroy Friend, reporter; Leah Ringer, secretary; Jackie Markwood, vice president; and Ryan Miller, president. Not pictured is Rebecca Winegardner, treasurer.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

Except when I was fully involved in winter sports like cross-country skiing, ice skating on Peat Bog Lake, and skiing at the Wisp, generally January is not my favorite month in Bittinger. In fact, I can remember two years when I was a young adult that I looked in other states for a job during the winter to avoid January in Bittinger.

I believe this January is somewhat calmer than usual. But even if we are getting fewer blizzards and school children are enjoying fewer snow days, the temperature still seems to be consistently cold.

One thing that there has been plenty of is ice. With driveways and roads thawing, then freezing again, it seems that every surface is a sheet of ice. The national forecast for Tuesday evening is a major ice storm from the Midwest to the Ohio Valley and possibly up to the Mid-Atlantic.

Sheila Southerly took advantage of a day with enough snow to go out on her cross-country skis. She said it was excellent, except that her fingertips were almost frozen.

My brother Barry and coworker used their day off for Martin Luther King Jr. Day to come up and do a little bit of skiing as well.

Bittinger's and Garrett County's winter is beginning to get pretty tough on people. I have heard from many that they are suffering from winter fatigue. The questionable driving conditions, walking on ice, and bitter cold are all getting a bit old for almost everyonc.

I know three households of folks from Bittinger who went south to enjoy a warmer climate for the winter months; however, the weather channel was reporting a bit of a cold snap in Florida recently. Their overnight lows were in the 30s and 40s, which to us seems like a heat wave at times, but it is very bad for the crops in Florida.

Monday night we got lucky; instead of getting an ice storm we only got a couple inches of fresh snow. It will continue to snow for a couple days, but I have heard that toward the end of the week it will turn to rain.

I am not surprised that Sarah Palin got an $11 million book deal. I don't think she will write it though. A ghost writer will deliver her basic message: "Everyone picked on me!"

Her step onto the national political scene was not totally successful, but it did give her what may be her favorite thing – attention. It was also good for her and her family's purses.

In my opinion, she is no longer the most annoying person in America. That would be Illinois governor Rod Blagojevich. And the most toxic person in America is no longer Dick Cheney, but instead, Rush Limbaugh.

NOW THAT'S ONE CHILLY BOAT RIDE – These four kayakers apparently decided the few hours of warmer weather last Sunday afternoon gave them the opportunity to run the Youghiogheny. The outside temps did almost reach 50, but check out the ice and snow along the banks. Still awfully cold out there. The rugged types do love Garrett County at this time of the year, since the weather offers so much outdoor fun. The cold has been relentless this winter, and snow fell on 26 days out of January's 31. That's a lot of snow. This weekend should be a nice break, however, as Saturday is to be sunny and as warm as 45. All those engaging in such outdoor activities, even if the temps do go up, should of course use extreme caution. The water is deadly cold, and will remain so for a few more months. "Mama, a sweet and capable manager, sees her children through childhood, manages to educate them, and is able to see one of her daughters begin her career as a writer." Avery added that there is "a great deal of comedy and a little incidental tragedy" in the show. The cast is pictured. In the front row, from left, are Dan Stiles, Austin Shaffer, Rachel Warnick, Brielle Jobe, and Sara Ashby. In the middle row, same order, are Stan Grimm, Lynn Grimm, Lynne Eimlinger, Cathy Helbig, Judy Bertsch, and Tatiana McCauley. Mental Health Center In Oakland To Close; Victim Of Tough Economy

by Glenn Tolbert

A facility utilized by 143 Garrett County residents seeking relief from all forms of mental illness is scheduled for closing next month.

The Mental Health Center, located at 14689 Garrett Highway just north of Oakland, is apparently a casualty of the current economic crisis being faced by the state of Maryland and the nation in general. Center officials have written each of its consumers a letter referring them to services in Frostburg, where the organization has a viable center, as well as to the Garrett County Health Department and the Casselman Counseling Consortium.

Mark Lannon, executive director of the Mental Health Center Group which is headquartered in Hagerstown, said any questions from consumers can be referred to him by calling 301-791-7891.

Lannon said that the Garrett County office was opened in the fall of 2001 after being invited by the Core Service Agency to "help fill services gaps for county residents."

"At that time, in addition to traditional office-based outpatient mental health services, we offered psychiatric rehabilitation for eligible students at selected schools," he said. "We worked closely with representatives of the Garrett County Public School System."

Lannon said that two years after the Garrett County center opened, another round of serious financial hardships faced by the state restructured the funding and eligibility for Swan Meadow Student Selected For Junior Scholastic Nat'l Advisory Bd.

Junior Scholastic®, a leading source for news for children in classrooms serving students and teachers in grades 6-8 for more than 70 years, has selected 15 middle school students from around the country to be members of the 2009 student advisory board. One of those selected is Destiny Nazelrod, 13, who is a student at Swan Meadow School.

The 15 student advisers were chosen based on their letters to Junior Scholastic's editors, in which they offered their ideas for the magazine. The members of the 2009 advisory board will work with the editors for one year. They were officially announced in the Jan. 5 issue of Junior Scholastic.

Destiny is described by her teachers at Swan Meadow as "a conscientious 8th grader."

"She initiated the process of applying to become a member of Junior Scholastic's student advisory board by sending a letter demonstrating her strengths for this role," said Elizabeth Rees Gilbert, a teacher at the school. "In her letter she indicated the board probably did not have any Mennonite members, and she could offer another point of view. She wrote that topics she'd like to help Junior Scholastic include in future issues would be endangered species, local history, and ancient civilizations."

Destiny is the daughter of Mark and LaVern Nazelrod.

The new student advisers will work with the magazine's editorial staff to offer suggestions about possible articles and news for young people. They also will have the opportunity to express their opinions about a variety of topics in the news.

Frostburg Man Killed In Three-Vehicle Accident

A Frostburg man, Gary Edward Lucas, 59, was killed last Friday as the result of a three-vehicle accident involving a tractor trailer and two other vehicles.

Abdoulaye Kinder, 40, New York, N.Y., had been driving a 2008 Volvo truck tractor pulling a 1996 Great Dane box trailer north on Rt. 219. He reportedly lost control of the vehicle when his vehicle was hit with a gust of wind. The truck crossed the center line and struck a southbound 2003 Mitsubishi driven by Lucas on the driver side.

The truck then continued northbound and struck a second vehicle, a 2004 Ford truck, head on. The Ford was driven by Aaron Thomas Lawson, 34, Oakland.

Lucas was pronounced dead at the scene. His passenger and owner of the Mitsubishi, Patricia Shrout, New Creek, W.Va., and Lawson were both taken to Garrett County Memorial

Bear-Damage Bills May Help Local Farmers

Del. Wendell Beitzel and Sen. George Edwards have introduced legislation in this year's Maryland General Assembly session that would enable farmers to receive more compensation for damages caused by black bears. The local lawmakers also submitted bills pertaining to agricultural easements, assessment of forest conservation lands, the local hotel rental tax, and a salary ordinance.

Currently, the state's Black Bear Damage Reimbursement Fund is financed by proceeds from the sale of a decorative conservation bear stamp or decal, which may be purchased voluntarily by the public for $5 each.

The Department of Natural Resources (DNR) reimburses farmers from that fund for damages to their beehives, fruit and other crops, livestock, and poultry. The damage amount is determined by a University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service agent, and the DNR verifies that the damage has been caused by bears.

A person may be reimbursed from the fund in a amount of not less than $200 or more than $3,000 per year. All compensations are tied directly to the amount of revenue the DNR receives through the stamp and decal sales.

But the department made less than $2,000 from those

Governor Holds Town Hall Event In Frostburg; Notes Demise Of Bypass

Governor Martin O'Malley kicked off the first of a series of town hall meetings at Mountain Ridge High School in Frostburg last night to meet with and discuss the state of Maryland's economy and public education system. There were an estimated 400 people in attendance, including many county and municipal elected officials from Garrett, Allegany, and Washington counties.

The governor was accompanied by Lt. Governor Anthony Brown and nearly every member of his cabinet.

Gov. O'Malley and Lt. Gov. Brown talked about services the state provides to assist individuals and families in these the current difficult economic times. After a presentation by the governor, the floor was opened to questions and comments by those in attendance, which were fielded by the governor and the various cabinet secretaries.

"As we work together to climb out of this national recession more quickly than other states, we can see some very real reasons for hope and optimism in western Maryland," O'Malley said. "Why are we here? Because all of you hold what's been called the most

Hazmat Study Info Presented To Garrett Co. Commissioners

The Garrett County commissioners learned on Tuesday about the wide variety of hazardous materials that are being transported by numerous trucks on four local highways and at least one county road. Director Brad Frantz, Garrett County Department of Public Safety, and consultant Benjamin Sansom presented the officials with data from a recent commodity flow study conducted by S&S Planning and Design.

Sansom said members of the Local Emergency Planning Committee (LEPC) expressed their concerns about 18 months ago about products being moved through the county.

"They were seeing a lot of hazardous materials placards on trucks, and they just weren't sure how much material was coming through or what types," Sansome said about the LEPC.

Grant funding enabled data to be collected in three areas – along I-68, at the Rt. 219/Sand Flat Road intersection near Deep Creek Lake, and the Rt. 135/Rt. 560 intersection in Loch Lynn – to examine those concerns.

The I-68 data was gathered between Nov. 15 and 21, 2007, during two separate time periods: 7 a.m.–2

GARRETT COUNTY UNITED WAY'S "FOOD, FOOLISHNESS, AND FUN" pasta dinner is set for Tuesday, March 31. The dinner will include side dishes and premier desserts from local restaurants. The "foolishness and fun" comes from having some well-known community members dressed in costume and serving as waiters and waitress. Last year's event brought in more than $5,200 for the Garrett County United Way campaign and an additional $1,200 for local affiliated agencies. "What makes this event special is that it benefits an assortment of community agencies that work together daily to make Garrett County a better place to live and visit," said Bob Stephens, planning committee member. "Last year's dinner was a huge success. We raised funds for the local community, and we also provided an opportunity for most of the non-profit agencies to work together and have fun promoting their services. It was great to see volunteers from many different agencies work together for the common good of our community." Advance tickets for the dinner will be available in March at local restaurants and United Way agencies. Pictured is the Food, Foolishness, and Fun planning committee getting "serious" about the fundraiser. Kneeling is Ashley Ruby. Left to right in the first row are Amanda Dillsworth, Donna Brenneman, Gloria MacGowan, and Elaine McDonald. In the back row are John MacGowan and Stephens.

A NEW ADDITION recently became a part of the Grantsville Community Museum. Based on one of Leo Beachy's prints, "National Road Casselman Stone Bridge," which hangs inside the museum, Dick Kelley has incorporated the ideas of five Grantsville Elementary School semifinalists' artwork concepts into a stained glass window (pictured). This new window hangs above another stained glass window that depicts the winning entry at the museum entrance. The museum will open for the season on May 15 at 1 p.m.

FURRY FRIENDS VISIT CHERRY HILL – Judi Schiff and her daughter recently visited Cherry Hill Assisted Living with their two therapy dogs, Maggie, 4, and Molly, 9, in order to spread a bit of cheer to some of the residents there. Schiff and her pets are regular visitors at Cherry Hill, but she is usually only able to bring one dog at a time. Because her daughter accompanied her on this trip, they were able to take both Molly and Maggie. Schiff is pictured at left with Maggie, Molly, and resident Leatrice Yost. The dogs are also regular visitors at Accident Elementary School's Reading to Dogs program and Landon's Library (monthly), and occasionally they visit the Ruth Enlow libraries for the StoryTails program. This is Maggie's second year of work as a therapy dog and Molly's fourth.

Former Lieutenant Governor Steele Elected Republican Nat'l Chairman

by Lauren C. Williams
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON – After six rounds of voting with as many as four opponents, former Maryland Lt. Gov. Michael Steele emerged as the first black chairman of the Republican National Committee on Friday at the Hilton Hotel in Washington.

"He is a quality man with quality values," said Joyce Terhes, Maryland Republican Party national committeewoman, in her nomination speech for Steele.

After vacillating between first and second place in the first five rounds of voting, Steele won with a majority 91 out of 168 votes.

"We won it!" shouted Kevin Igoe after Steele's win. Igoe was as an alternate delegate from Owings Mills at the 2008 Republican National Convention.

Steele, who coined the phrase "Drill, baby, drill" at the 2008 convention, had to battle incumbent chairman Mike Duncan; Ken Blackwell, another African-American contender and the former Ohio secretary of state; Saul Anuzis, chairman of the Michigan Party; and Katon Dawson, chairman of the South Carolina GOP.

Throughout the six-hour election process, all signs pointed to "change" in the GOP.

"The winds of change are blowing at the RNC," Duncan said in withdrawing his name from the ballot after the third round.

In Blackwell's withdrawal speech before the fifth round of voting, he said, "In order to win an election, one of two things must take place – a change in the electoral composition or a change in the electoral attitude."

And with that, he shocked the RNC and Steele by announcing his full support of Steele for chairman.

And while Duncan's and Blackwell's withdrawal from the race helped sway votes to Steele, Blackwell's endorsement gave Steele the advantage.

But Steele has his work cut out for him.

"We need kind of a rejuvenation," said Jason Rheinstein, a guest of the delegation and a Baltimore attorney who also attended the Republican National Convention. "It will be difficult to rebuild what we had [as a party].

"I think he is a true conservative," Rheinstein said. "We need moderates in this party"

Patt Parker, executive committee member of the Maryland State Party, said Steele's ability to communicate will be what restores glory to the GOP.

"[Steele] will be a face that people will want to see, not just because of his ethnicity, but because he believes in the message, and it's contagious," said Parker, who was also a member of Steele's election committee.

Steele's experience as Maryland Republican Party chairman and as the lieutenant governor with a largely Democratic state gives hope to party members for the future of Maryland's and the national GOP.

After the 2008 national convention, Steele acknowledged the need for change and said, "We can't keep our heads in the sand and fall back into the old playbooks that we are comfortable with that quite frankly have no use anymore.

"It's time for something completely different," Steele said in his victory speech. To "friend and foe" he said, "we want you to be a part of us." And to anyone who wants to "obstruct" his vision of progress, "get ready to get knocked over."

Jason Ready, executive director of the Maryland GOP, said Steele's sincerity as a person will resonate with voters.

"[Marylanders] need to know that our party has policies that will help them," he said. "Having [Steele] as chair will help get people motivated" and engage in the party," he continued.

Steele said the revamping of the Republican Party was a "bottom up effort" and said, "I cannot do this on my own."

AMERICORPS TO HOLD CEREMONY IN HONOR OF MARTIN LUTHER KING JR. – AmeriCorps members from Garrett County will be holding a ceremony in honor of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. on Friday, Feb. 6, at 6 p.m. at the Garrett College auditorium. The public is invited to attend the peace ceremony, which will feature Joan C. Browning, a veteran of the Civil Rights Movement. "Browning will share her stories of the past in an attempt to shed light on a peaceful future," said a spokesperson. In a project leading up to the event, AmeriCorps members from the Garrett County Health Department enlisted the help of local businesses, schools, and agencies to "get the train moving." Participants were asked to personalize paper train cars to express their dreams of the future. Above are participants of Partners After School @ Accident with their finished trains. In the front row, from left, are David McKenzie, Hunter Schroth, Ethan Custer, and Audrey Harris. Second row: Kennedi Carr, John Brenneman, Ryan Jacques, and Cayla Lewis. Back row: Matthew Moll, Christan Georg, Saylor Wampler, Trevon Jones, David Becker, and Miranda Neals. "Once all of the participation numbers are received, the connected train cars are expected to span the length of the county," said the spokesperson.

Maryland Slots Estimates Much Lower Than Initially Projected

by Erich Wagner
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS – Companies that submitted proposals to operate slot machines at five locations designated by the General Assembly requested only a total of 6,550 machines, as opposed to the 10,550 initially estimated Monday, Donald Fry, head of the commission that oversees the implementation of slots, said Tuesday.

The 4,000-terminal discrepancy stems mostly from a misunderstanding with the Baltimore bidder, Baltimore City Entertainment Group. Fry said the group bid on only 500 terminals, down from the 3,750 he thought the bid contained Monday night.

Only six companies submitted proposals to the slots committee by Monday's deadline. Of those, only four paid the required licensing fee of $3 million for every 500 machines.

Magna Entertainment submitted a proposal through the Laurel Racing Association and the Maryland Jockey Club to build 3,000 slot machines at the Laurel Park race track in Anne Arundel County, but did not pay the $18 million fee, Fry said. Magna said in a press release Monday night that its proposal was for 4,750 machines.

Empire Resorts proposed 750 initial machines at the Rocky Gap location, and indicated that they would eventually reach a ceiling of 1,500. But the company withheld its fee on the condition that Maryland restructures the revenue sharing formula, which the General Assembly set at 33 percent for slot owners, and negotiates the sale of the Rocky Gap resort, Fry said.

The fate of the proposals delivered without the requisite licensing fees will be discussed at the meeting of the Video Lottery Facility Location Commission on Feb. 12, Fry said.

"At this time it's not appropriate for the staff to say these are not going to be considered, and it's not appropriate for me just as one single commissioner to say they're not going to be considered," he said. "It's an issue for the entire commission to take up."

Fry said eventually there could be as many as 13,000 machines in Maryland, despite the lower projection.

"Yesterday we looked at the situation and thought there was the opportunity sometime in the future for as many as 13,000 machines," Fry said. "Today we looked at it and there's still that opportunity."

House Speaker Michael Busch, D-Anne Arundel, said earlier in the day that the short list of bidders reflects the harsh economic conditions.

"A couple of the bidders that bid in Maryland pulled out of the state of Kansas," Busch said. "You know, capital's very tough to come by."

Senate President Thomas V. Mike Miller Jr., D-Calvert, said people need to recognize that the slot machine money may not materialize.

"What I'm suggesting is that the commission revisit the whole process," Miller said. Asked to elaborate at a press conference Tuesday, Miller declined.

Gov. Martin O'Malley remained hopeful about the bidding process, said Christine Hansen, a spokeswoman.

"He looks forward to learning more about the commission's evaluations," Hansen said. "There was considerable interest ... even in this tough economic climate, but this is a long-term investment."

The 6,550 machines requested represent only 44 percent of the 15,000 terminals authorized by last November's referendum passed by Maryland voters. State officials hoped the machines could bring in at least $600 million annually beginning in the 2012 fiscal year.

Ross Honored By Rural Md. Council At Leg. Reception

Charlie Ross, president and CEO of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, recently received congratulations from the Rural Maryland Council while in Annapolis for the annual Legislative PACE Reception and Breakfast. The occasion marked the end of a two-year term by Ross as council chairman.

For the three years, 2004, 2006, and 2007, Garrett County has received awards for Outstanding Rural Economic Development and Outstanding Rural Community Development.

"This honor was made in recognition for outstanding leadership and dedicated service to Maryland's rural residents and communities." noted Mike Pennington, executive director of the Tri-County Council for the Lower Eastern Shore.

"The achievements of the last two years are many, but three really stand out," stated Ross. "The selection of a superb veteran staff member, Vanessa Orlando, to be executive director, stabilization of staff organization, and the partnering with the Maryland Rural Health Association in a true and formal fashion are benchmarks we can all be proud of "

Orlando pointed to three major initiatives begun this fiscal year: partnering with the State Office of Rural Health to establish a Statewide Telehealth Consortium; partnering with the Department of Aging to expand the Senior Medicare Patrol; and assisting the Herschel S. Horowitz Center for Health Literacy in becoming operational in the next two years.

Before adjourning the meeting honoring Ross, Pennington appointed him to represent the council chair on the Maryland Rural Broadband Coordination Board, thereby continuing Ross's chairmanship of that board.

Ross also thanked the council for inviting his wife, Cherie Ross, to join the council as well as the Rural Maryland Foundation in her role with Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc. as vice president for development.

ROSS RECOGNIZED FOR TWO-YEAR CHAIRMANSHIP – Duane Yoder (left), president of Garrett County Community Action Inc., recently presented Charlie Ross, president and CEO of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, with a plaque in recognition of his two-year chairmanship of the Rural Maryland Council. His wife Cherie Ross, Community Action vice president for development, was also present to receive the plaque. "Ross, who is stepping down as chairman, was given the honor in recognition for outstanding leadership and dedicated service to Maryland's rural residents and communities," said a spokesperson. Libraries Relieved With Postponement Of Lead Testing Of Children's Books

by Maren Wright
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON – The Consumer Product Safety Commission announced Friday that it will postpone lead testing requirements that would have put libraries at risk of liability lawsuits for loaning children's books.

"We are really happy to hear that," said Cathy Ashby, director of the Ruth Enlow Library of Garrett County.

Congress tightened limits on lead levels in children's toys as part of the Consumer Project Safety Improvement Act, following a lead paint scare from imported children's toys. The new requirements were set to take effect Feb. 10 and carried the weight of civil or criminal penalties for distributors of children's products, including books.

This decision, once entered in the Federal Register, will give Maryland public libraries one year to decide how to bring their collections of more than 5 million children's books into compliance.

"We were really stymied as to how to proceed," Ashby said, stating she had considered having to remove all the children's books from the library or tell children under the age of 12 that they could not enter.

While pleased, advocates of libraries would like to see more than a postponement of a troubling requirement.

"I'm gratified that we've had some action, but it still doesn't solve the problem," said Emily Sheketoff, executive director of the American Library Association's Washington office. "This gives us a year to make the commission understand that books are safe and we're not the problem."

Scott Wolfson, spokesman for the Consumer Product Safety Commission, said that the commission is still attempting to resolve concerns.

"We'll work on a set of exemptions for lead-free materials, and of printing ink included in that set, which would resolve the concerns for libraries," Wolfson said.

"I can see both sides," said Urbana Regional Library visitor Jennifer Sheriff. "I think there must be a compromise."

This hiatus gives the commission breathing room for finding the compromise and discerning the best mechanism for implementing what lawmakers intended.

In the meantime, library patrons, especially the under-12 set, can breathe a sigh of relief and pick up another good book.

Several Injured In Weather-Related Vehicle Accidents

Several motor vehicle accidents required the assistance of Garrett County sheriff's deputies, as well as sent a number of drivers and passengers to Garrett County Memorial Hospital in the past week. In most incidents, accidents were caused by poor weather and driving conditions.

Deputies responded to the area of Sand Flat Road and Boy Scout Road for a reported single-vehicle accident involving injuries. Cary Nicole Rush and a juvenile passenger had been traveling on Sand Flat when the vehicle's back tires began to spin. Rush attempted to regain control of the vehicle several times, but she was unsuccessful. The vehicle struck an embankment before spinning across the road and rolling to its side. Both driver and passenger were taken to Garrett Memorial and treated for injuries.

In an unrelated incident, deputies responded to the area of Dennett Road and Pensinger Blvd. for an accident with reported injuries.

Paul Anthony Monar, 60, had been attempting a left turn into an apartment complex, when his 1999 Oldsmobile was rear-ended by a 2005 Jeep, driven by Connie Lynn Green, 47. Monar and his passenger, Victor Franklin Gardea Jr., were transported to Garrett Memorial. Green was cited for failure to control speed to avoid a collision.

Sheriff's deputies responded to the area of Gorman and Chisolm roads for a separate incident reported as a two-vehicle accident.

Robert Cecil, 62, had been traveling in his 1997 Ford Ranger, when he struck an oncoming 2007 Chevy Cobalt, driven by Melissa Dawn Collett. Collett along with her husband Jonathan were transported to Garrett Memorial for injuries.

In yet another incident, deputies responded to Oakland Sang Run Road in reference to a single-vehicle accident.

It was determined through investigation that Trina Elaine Hutzel, 40, Friendsville, had been traveling northbound on Oakland Sang Run, when she lost control of the 2004 Ford F-150 she was operating. The vehicle left the southbound side of the roadway and struck an embankment, causing the vehicle to overturn.

Oakland Volunteer Fire Department and Southern Rescue Squad also responded to the scene.

Brewing Company To Host Business After Hours Next

The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce will hold its next Business After Hours gathering on Wednesday, Feb. 18, from 6 to 8 p.m. at Mountain State Brewing Company near Sang Run. The event will feature exhibits by participating Deep Creek Lake area businesses, along with food and beverages provided by Mountain State Brewing Company, located at 6690 Sang Run Road.

"Our most recent Business After Hours gatherings have been very successful, with lots of new faces and great interaction among our chamber members," said Charlie Ross, president/CEO of the chamber. "We are excited to bring our new Business After Hours format to Deep Creek Lake area residents and business owners. Bring your friends, employees and neighbors to network, socialize, and support this terrific event."

The event will feature a social evening of networking with fellow businesses, employees, guests, and the chamber staff. Deep Creek Lake area businesses will have displays set up for guests throughout the hall. Mountain State Brewing Company will provide wood-fired flatbreads and hand-crafted ales. Those attending are advised to bring their business cards for a chance to win door prizes.

The cost is $6 per person. To register to attend, persons are asked to RSVP to Jessica at 301-387-4386, ext. 16, or send an e-mail to jessica@garrettchamber.com by Monday, Feb. 16.

At the Business After Hours held in December at the McHenry Visitors Center, the chamber announced that, in an effort to allow smaller chamber member businesses an opportunity for additional participation, the 2009 Business After Hours events will be held at a central location in different communities throughout Garrett County.

The January Business After Hours was held at Mountain Lake Park Town Hall, and the remainder of the 2009 schedule is as follows: Accident in March, Deer Park in April, McHenry in May, Friendsville in June, Oakland in July, Grantsville in August, McHenry in September, Loch Lynn Heights in October, and Kitzmiller in November. Dates and exact locations will be announced later.

Driver Hospitalized Following Wreck On Bloomington Hill

A Westernport woman was taken to Cumberland Memorial Hospital last Thursday after losing control of her vehicle near the bottom of Bloomington Road.

Andee Carol Wilson, 42, was traveling eastbound on Bloomington Road in a 1994 Ford Ranger. The vehicle reportedly skidded on a patch of ice, lost control, and struck an embankment at the bottom of the hill.

Tri-Towns Rescue Squad transported Wilson to Cumberland Memorial. Her injuries were unknown at the time of transport. No charges were filed.

A Double Standard?...

All of us are fallible human beings who make mistake after mistake and behave in various sinful ways throughout our time on this earth, but one hopes that people who rise to the top leadership positions in our land are among those who work the hardest to be honorable people, people of the utmost integrity. So how incredibly disappointing it has been in recent days to see so many leaders of Congress go down in flames of controversy.

Probably the biggest shock was generated by former Senate majority leader Tom Daschle, who backed out of accepting the cabinet post of Secretary of Health and Human Services. It seems that Mr. Daschle "forgot" to pay over $100,000 in taxes.

It was that same "forgetfulness" that plagued Timothy Geithner, who failed to pay about $40,000 in back taxes that he owed the government. But, he was quickly forgiven for his little oversight and was confirmed as the new Secretary of the Treasury anyway.

Then there's Charlie Rangel, chairman of the powerful House Ways and Means Committee for nearly four decades, who is also embroiled in tax evasion, perhaps over the course of many years. Perhaps he forgot, too.

Let's not forget New Mexico governor and former presidential candidate Bill Richardson, who was President Obama's first choice for Secretary of Commerce. He withdrew his name for consideration almost immediately under pressure of a federal investigation into how his political donors landed a lucrative transportation contract.

And need we even mention ousted Illinois governor Rod Blagojevich?...

Now, in fairness, some of these individuals have not been charged with a crime, and the few who are facing charges are innocent until proven guilty. But using the excuse, "I forgot" and/or "I made a mistake" seems exceedingly lame in most of these cases. How do such intelligent people, especially those with such large incomes and with personal CPAs, "forget" to pay their taxes? Isn't it true that the average Joe on the street would be charged with tax evasion with almost no hesitation by the IRS? And it seems unlikely that Joe would be exonerated simply by saying "I forgot" and "I'm sorry." Could there be a double standard here?

This column today is not meant to be a political statement, because both major parties seem to have their fair share of corrupt individuals. But it's interesting to note the comments of CNN's David Gergen in reference to the Daschle case: "One cannot underestimate how widely admired Tom Daschle in Washington for his integrity, for his public service.... There's nothing villainous about Tom Daschle. He's been a terrific public servant who is known for his integrity."

Hmm...

Writers of letters to the editor are reminded that letters will not be published if they exceed 400 words, do not include contact information, and/or are deemed to be libelous.

To the Editor:

Your lead story told it all – "Governor Awaits $4 Billion Bailout."

O'Malley and the persons quoted – Eloise Foster, secretary of budget and management; Bonnie Cullison, president of the Montgomery County Education Association; Jody Kallis, legislative liaison for the MD Association of Community Colleges; Senator Barbara Mikulski; and Rep. John Sarbanes – are the problem that Maryland has.

They don't understand what the average citizen understands: "Don't spend beyond your means!" Instead of cutting expenses, O'Malley and company are waiting for someone else to bail him out.

Maryland's financial problems are being repeated nationwide, as our politicians and influence peddlers reign.

We will not get out of this mess as long as the politicians "buy" votes using our tax money for special-interest groups, two of the largest being organized labor and the teachers union. As a nation we all must take responsibility for our actions and be held accountable for them. The bailout at all levels is wrong, and it rewards the very ones who caused the financial crisis the country is in now.

To the Editor:

Killing crows merely for being a nuisance is both inhumane and inappropriate ("USDA Plans to Use Toxicant to Address Crows," Jan. 29). Non-lethal techniques are readily available and effective. Oakland officials should consider what happened recently in Lancaster, Pa. The city's attempts to use poison failed to solve the crow problem, but succeeded in creating significant controversy. In contrast, cities in New York and Indiana are successfully resolving conflicts with winter crow roosts without killing the birds.

There is little scientific evidence that poisoning resolves conflicts with winter crow roosts. Non-lethal methods have scientific evidence vouching for their effectiveness. Some of those methods include harassing crows with distress call recordings, pyrotechnics, and lasers; and reinforcing those harassment methods with effigies of crows. Oakland should halt this futile plan and all future attempts to kill crows. Oakland needs to give non-lethal techniques full support and time to be fully effective.

To the Editor:

During the course of a typical week, I am constantly driving up and down Route 219. Especially during bad weather like we periodically get here, I depend on the lines painted on the road to give me an idea where the lanes are.

Am I the only person who wonders why the paint seems to be worn off right in front of Lowe's? That is a new section of road. There are turning lanes there somewhere.

Might I suggest to whoever takes care of this sort of thing to at least put something temporary there during the next break in the weather? Thank you!

Gary G. Wotherspoon
Swanton

To the Editor:

None of our "most trusted" news reporters or writers ever suggest that weather aberrations could be from God, or that the science of weather could also have been created by Him. Christians believe that when God was in creation mode, He created all of science, thus it belongs to Him, and to Him there is never anything "new under the sun."

Charles Darwin had serious doubts about his evolutionary theory. Years after his demise, a nephew of Darwin was asked why there has always been such assurance in the educational community of its truth. His answer was one word: "Sex."

Do the addition!

Respectfully,
Paul A. Eary

To the Editor:

As the new year is under way, we are all looking at our commitments for 2009. The Garrett County League of Women Voters is doing the same.

Over the years, we have held political forums of the various candidates running for office, we have published The Voters Guide, created and updated The Elected, held our annual picnic for the public to meet our elected officials, and sponsored an informative question and answer session with our senator and delegate.

We have held several meetings on topics of interest locally, statewide, and on a national level. These topics included Identity Theft, Immigration, Healthcare in America, Disaster Readiness, and many more. All of these events have been open to the public free of charge.

We have had very little support from the public or our membership. In the 16 years I have lived in Garrett County, the same few have served on the board of directors and/or have carried the load. If the league does not increase its membership and have more community members step up to the plate, then this non-partisan group may have to dissolve.

This is the one place where you can be kept informed without a party line approach. If you feel we need this non-partisan league, then call and tell me what you are willing to do to keep it here. (Call 301-334-9597.)

Thank you for your time and consideration. Our next meeting for the public will be held at the Ruth Enlow Library at 6:30 p.m. next Monday, Feb. 9, in the room to the left of the entrance.

To the Editor:

This is to thank you and your staff on behalf of Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc. for the generous placement of the financial literacy series, and to encourage readers to respond with questions or feedback.

As always, thanks for all The Republican does for the community. It is a very special part of the community that may sometimes be taken for granted. Garrett County is lucky to have a high quality weekly newspaper like The Republican.

Many have heard the story about The Republican being the first thing the mail clerk and his friends read many years ago when I was in the Army. By the time the paper got to me, it came with questions asking about individuals in the "personals" from soldiers who missed Garrett County without ever seeing it.

Thanks again,
Bill Welch
Gortner

To the Editor:

Even though I have missed Garrett County for 30 years now, I still call it home and proudly promote it through my current position.

However, Monty Pagenhardt's recent berating of Tom Doyle, through a recent letter to the editor, struck a nerve. I find the criticism part of the problem and direction of our country for far too long. The comment to take the money because someone else will is going to expedite the downfall of our country. Pork barreling is so out of hand by federal, state, county, and city governments. It is part of the problem, causing our taxes to rise dramatically while families are struggling to make ends meet. We do not have a pork barrel to pay our bills. Where are we to turn for help? To our government? I do not think so.

The recent spending in the presidential campaign and the three-day party in Washington could have been returned to taxpayers, and the economy would have gained. We elect the same people to office who have already proven they do not belong.

Our newly elected president promised change. What did he do? Appointed a cabinet and chose a vice president who are all part of the old Washington establishment that led us to our problems today and for generations to come.

Yes, Garrett County needs a change in its administration as well. We need more Tom Doyles to get this country back on track.

Sincerely,
W. Dale Ellis

(third in a series)
by William Welch

As noted last week, "all the financial literacy or knowledge about money in the world can't overcome lack of discipline or self control" in spending decisions. Good spending decisions begin with a plan, which in talking about money is another word for "budget."

Budgeting is identifying what you have, then separating what you want from what you want to have, then figuring out how to make what you have get you what you need and what you want. A budget is the first step in getting control of your money.

A budget starts by listing your income by source and amount, then listing your expenses from "necessity" (have to have – food, shelter, transportation), to "want a lot" (like a particular brand of cell phone or clothes), to "want some" (like restaurant meals, movie tickets), and so on. Listing that way prioritizes, or puts things in order of need. Knowing the difference between "need" and "want" is important to successful budgeting.

Once your list is ready you can create a "budget." A budget can be as simple as your income minus your spending, which leaves either cash or debt. When you run out of money you have to decide whether to keep spending or stop spending. As noted in the last column, all things change, so it is best to make your main budget for a short period, maybe a week or a month, then run it out for a several months or a year, so you can make changes as needed.

You can see that budgets are a series short-term plans for long-term financial success. Situations change, which means you need to change your budget as your life changes. The objective is to always have a budget that works "now," and then make changes as needed so your budget always works "now" and toward long-term financial success.

In the next column, we'll look more closely at budgets. Remember, you can get additional information from your bank, at the library, from Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc., and online. Always be careful online.

Maryland School System Wins Another #1 National Ranking

Maryland education gained its second number one national ranking in as many months yesterday as the College Board released its annual report on the rigorous Advanced Placement (AP) program.

The percentage of Maryland seniors who earned a score of 3 or higher on one or more AP exams reached 23.4 percent in 2008, the highest percentage in the nation.

Maryland slipped past New York for the first time to take the top spot in the College Board's annual "AP Report to the Nation." A score of 3 or better is considered "college mastery level" on the AP exams, and many higher education institutions award college credit for high school students scoring in that range.

Maryland also ranked first in the nation in the percentage of graduating seniors who had taken an AP exam. More than a third of all seniors last year – 37.2 percent – had taken at least one AP test.

"We're proud to announce today that Maryland has a new number one ranking, just weeks after another publication ranked Maryland's public schools the best in the nation," said Maryland governor Martin O'Malley. "It's an extraordinary distinction and one that doesn't come as a surprise to anyone who is familiar with the dedication and professionalism of Maryland's educators, who have made our system the best in the America."

Wednesday's announcement follows last month's news that Maryland schools were ranked first in the nation by Education Week's "Quality Counts" report. That report looked at a variety of policy and performance measures, including last year's AP data.

College Board president Gaston Caperton hailed the state's work on AP.

"Leading the nation in this regard represents a significant achievement for Maryland schools and their students," he said. "Under the leadership of Dr. [Nancy] Grasmick, the Advanced Placement program has grown throughout Maryland, and students are entering college better prepared to be successful."

The Maryland State Department of Education has worked in close partnership with the College Board to strengthen the AP program, particularly in parts of the state that have not historically been involved. The results have paid off, as 13 of Maryland's 24 systems have a 30 percent or greater participation rate among seniors in the program.

"Maryland students can achieve great things no matter where their high school is located," said State Superintendent Nancy S. Grasmick. "More of our schools are providing students with rigorous options, such as AP, to better prepare them for what lies ahead."

"Advanced Placement Report to the Nation: 2009" gives many high marks to efforts taking place in Maryland schools. For example:

•From 2003 to 2008, Maryland had the third largest growth in the nation in the percentage of seniors scoring 3 or higher, jumping from 17.7 percent to 23.4 percent.

•Marvland is one of 18 states recognized for having eliminated the equity and excellence gap in AP achievement for the Hispanic and Latino population. While Hispanics were 6.1 percent of the Maryland population last year, 6.9 percent of the seniors who scored 3 or higher on the AP exam were Hispanic.

•No state in the nation has been able to overcome the gap for African American students, but 9 percent of students receiving a grade of 3 or better in Maryland were African American. That is the third-highest percentage among states in the nation. Only 6.4 percent of the Maryland students scoring in the college-mastery range were African American in 2002.

The College Board's Advanced Placement Program, which began in 1955, allows students to pursue college-level studies while still in high school. Students of different interests and backgrounds can choose from among 35 courses and exams in 19 subject areas to demonstrate their knowledge of rigorous academic curriculum.

Local Woman Sentenced For Rape Charge

A 31-year-old Kitzmiller woman was sentenced in Garrett County Circuit Court on Monday for a second-degree rape charge. Judge Jim Sherbin sentenced Andrea Dawn Overstreet to four years in the Division of Corrections for that charge. The judge then suspended all but 60 days of the sentence.

For a second sexual offense, Overstreet received a concurrent sentence of one year, all of which was suspended.

After serving her jail sentence, Overstreet will be on probation with conditions that include continued mental health treatment. She will also have to register as a child sexual offender.

Overstreet was arrested and charged by investigators with the Garrett County Sheriff's Office in April 2008 after learning that Overstreet had an inappropriate relationship with a 13-year old.

In other court proceedings this week, Linda Catherine Tanner, 39, Oakland, pleaded guilty to driving under the influence of alcohol. Related charges were dismissed upon her plea.

Sherbin sentenced Tanner to six months in the Garrett County Jail and suspended all but four days of the sentence, which will be served on weekends.

Tanner was arrested and charged by Maryland State Police in November 2007. Troopers involved in an unrelated traffic investigation had observed Tanner, who appeared under the influence, drive from one business parking lot to another. After she was stopped, she failed field sobriety tests and was arrested, the state's attorney said.

In an unrelated case, Curtis Bailey Layman, 36, Oakland, pleaded guilty to driving while impaired by alcohol. Sherbin then struck the guilty finding and granted to Layman probation before judgment.

Layman is on probation for one year and was also assessed fines and costs of $345.

He was charged by Garrett County sheriff's deputies in December 2008 after employees at a local business called to report a suspicious vehicle in their parking lot in the early morning hours. Layman was found asleep in his car and, after failing field sobriety tests, was arrested, the state's attorney said.

Also in Circuit Court this week, William Ray Woodward, 19, Mtn. Lake Park, pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana. Related drug charges were dismissed upon his plea.

The judge sentenced Woodward to six months in the Garrett County Jail, with the sentence suspended, except for five days. Woodward will be on probation after he serves his jail time.

He was arrested in September 2008 by officers with the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force, who searched Woodward's residence. Quantities of marijuana and CDS (controlled dangerous substance) paraphernalia were recovered.

Two other adults who were residing in the house are pending trial, noted the state's attorney.

In an unrelated case, Nicholas Alan DeWitt, 20, pleaded guilty to two charges – rogue and vagabond and theft. Judge Sherbin sentenced him to 18 months in the Garrett County Jail for the rogue and vagabond charge and suspended all but 90 days of the sentence.

DeWitt received a concurrent sentence of 60 days for the theft charge. He will be on probation after he serves his jail sentence.

DeWitt was charged by Garrett County sheriff's deputies in August 2008, after investigation revealed he and another male had entered into vehicles in Mtn. Lake Park. Property stolen from the vehicles was later recovered, and a witness identified DeWitt as one of the perpetrators, according to the state's attorney.

Package Of Bills Designed To Make Reforms In State Insurance System

by Erich Wagner
Capital News Service

Legislators and health care leaders announced a package of bills Wednesday that would increase the percentage of insurance premiums health insurers must spend on health care, as opposed to administrative costs and profits.

By increasing these ratios from 75 percent to 85 percent in the small group market and 60 percent to 80 percent in the individual market, the insurance administration can make sure more money goes back to consumers for medical procedures, said Ralph S. Tyler, commissioner of the Maryland Insurance Administration.

These numbers haven't been updated in more than 20 years, he said.

"We believe they are unreasonably low, and this is a necessary reform that should be made," Tyler said.

Delegate Heather Mizeur, D-Montgomery, said insurance companies must fall in line with the rest of the state by cutting down on amenities like CEO bonuses.

"Just as our state government, small businesses and families have had to tighten their belts in these tough economic times, we believe health plans can surely afford to operate more efficiently as well," Mizeur said.

D. Robert Enten, a lobbyist for UnitedHealthcare, said Wednesday that he could not discuss the legislation.

Dr. Stephen Rockower, an orthopedic surgeon in Rockville, said increasing the percentage of premiums that goes to health care will preserve the quality and quantity of doctors in the state. As insurers lower their payments for procedures, doctors must reconsider their contracts with the companies, and even their ability to operate in Maryland, Rockower said.

"If I'm a contracting doctor with a particular insurance company, I'll accept what they'll pay me," Rockower said. "If that means getting paid more, I've got a better chance of staying in the plan than going out and trying to get more from the patients."

The package would also provide greater protection for people with pre-existing conditions and ensure that Marylanders who buy insurance policies from out of state are aware of any discrepancies between their plan and state regulations, Tyler said.

Delegate Shawn Tarrant, D-Baltimore, said putting the burden of evidence on the insurance companies for proving the existence of disqualifying conditions will help to protect consumers from loopholes in their insurance plans.

"This way, we can make sure that people who have coverage keep their coverage," Tarrant said.

Delegate B. Daniel Riley, D-Cecil, said the state needs to make sure out-of-state companies are transparent when they offer residents insurance plans, and point out where their plan differs with regulations for in-state insurance companies.

"When an out-of-state firm offers a product in Maryland, we should know everything about that bill, the consumer should know everything about that bill," Riley said. "And the bill should come under the scrutiny of Maryland regulations and mandates."

Carmela Coyle, president and CEO of the Maryland Hospital Association, said the goal of the legislation is to make the healthcare system fair for consumers again.

"These changes will go a long way toward restoring the original intent of insurance," Coyle said. "That is, sharing and spreading health risk across Marylanders rather than allowing insurance companies to avoid risk by excluding people who are sick or have conditions that really require healthcare."

Public Invited To Help Garrett Co.'s United Way Assess Priority Needs

United Way of Garrett County will hold two community needs assessment meetings on Tuesday, Feb. 10: Garrett County Memorial Hospital, 8–9 a.m., and Garrett College Art Gallery, 4–5 p.m. United Way Task Force members are asking local residents to attend and participate in discussions about priority needs.

"For many hard-working families, the basic ingredients for a good life are increasingly beyond reach," said a Task Force spokesperson.

In Garrett County, 12.7 percent of families are living in poverty, compared to 9.2 percent for the state of Maryland, and do not earn enough to provide for their families, according to United Way.

"About 2.1 percent (approximately 35) teenagers drop out of school, imperiling their chances to make a successful transition to adulthood," said the spokesperson. "And only one in three adults and children (10,000 of 30,000 in Garrett County) can be considered healthy, based on risk factor data from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and health statistics from Maryland."

She added that many individuals even lack basic health insurance.

This challenge to existing ways of doing things has led the national United Way agency to identify three areas of focus and to set "goals for the common good." Those are as follows:

Education – Help children and youth achieve their potential, including drop-out and at-risk students, and offer transition age youth programs and address mental health concerns.

Income – Promote financial stability and independence, and offer tools and strategies to help individuals and families increase their income, reduce their debt and build savings, and gain and sustain assets of a home and postsecondary education.

Health – Improve people's health by promoting maternal health and infant well-being for a healthy start, reducing teen drug and alcohol use, and highlighting preventive measures to address childhood obesity and adult hypertension.

"Individuals need a quality education that leads to a stable job, enough income to support a family and the good health to do it," said the spokesperson.

As a result of the national goals, County United Way has decided to establish a community partnership and collaboration across all sectors – business, elected officials, non-profits, academia, faith community, labor, media, parents, and neighbors.

County United Way serves Garrett and Allegany counties in Maryland and Hampshire and Mineral counties in West Virginia. The four-county agency has scheduled needs assessment meetings in each county in February and is asking residents to give their input.

Task Force members from the four counties will then hold a summit in April to identify their collective goals, which will then be presented to the board of directors in June.

If Garrett County schools are closed on Feb. 10, the local assessment meetings will be held on Tuesday, Feb. 24, at the same locations and times. In case of a two-hour delay of school openings on Feb. 10, the assessment meetings will be held as scheduled.

For more information, persons may call the County United Way office at 877-597-2700 or visit cuw.org.

One Driver Taken To GCMH, Other Cited Following Accident

A two-vehicle accident on Gorman Road last Friday resulted in the transport of one driver for minor injuries and the citation of the second driver by Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Jackie Lyn Hawk, 35, Gorman, was reportedly stopped in the southbound lane on Gorman Road, waiting to make a left turn onto a private drive. A second vehicle, a tractor trailer driven by Earl Charles Sellers, 39, Lonaconing, had been following Hawk. When Hawk stopped to make the left turn, Sellers' vehicle collided with the rear passenger side of Hawk's vehicle.

The collision occurred at a slow speed, and damage to both vehicles was minor. Hawk was taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for treatment of apparent minor injuries. Sellers was cited for failure to control speed to avoid a collision.

Gorman Fire Department and the Maryland State Highway Administration assisted at the scene.

Bill Would Allow Non-Profit Groups Statewide To Own Slot Machines

by Dylan Waugh
Capital News Service

Lawmakers presented two nearly identical bills to a Senate committee in Annapolis Wednesday which would allow eligible nonprofit organizations throughout Maryland to own and operate up to five slot machines.

Under current law, qualified organizations in eight Eastern Shore counties can have up to five machines.

Expanding the provision statewide would help nonprofits, particularly veterans' organizations, raise funds, the bills' sponsors, Senators Norman Stone Jr., D-Baltimore County, and Katherine Klausmeier, D-Baltimore County, told the Senate Budget and Taxation Committee.

The bills echo the current law in requiring at least half of the slots proceeds to go to charities.

Slots currently owned by nonprofits in the Eastern Shore counties produced $3.6 million for charities and $3.5 million for the operating organizations in the 2006 fiscal year, Klausmeier said.

"If expanded statewide, this would be a great boon to both the operating organizations and the charities that they choose," Klausmeier said.

Members and supporters of veterans' organizations packed the committee hearing room, frequently applauding the lawmakers' statements. Some testified on behalf of the bills.

Slots proceeds would allow organizations to better serve their communities, particularly their mentoring and youth outreach programs, putting less of the burden on government services and programs, supporters said.

"Failure to pass this legislation will seriously impact and inversely decrease the donations to our myriad of worthy charitable organizations," said Elbert D. White, past department commander of American Legion Post 259 in Clinton.

Sen. J. Lowell Stoltzfus, R-Somerset, who sits on the committee, called the slots currently in place in his Eastern Shore district "very controlled' and "very beneficial."

The slot machines could only be played by members of the operating organizations, not the general public, Stone said.

Allowing more organizations to have slots would not infringe on the state's push for commercial slots parlors at five locations throughout the state, Klausmeier said.

"In my opinion, the people who would play these slots at a nonprofit organization are not necessarily those who would be patronizing the new slots facilities and vice versa," she said.

The bill does not mean all counties will be eligible for slots if they are not interested. Any county seeking an exclusion from the provision can get one, said Stone.

The committee hearing came two days after state officials announced disappointing returns on the much-anticipated, unrelated bids for commercial slots parlors. Slots parlors were approved by voters in November, but interest from developers has so far been less than the state expected.

Klausmeier was careful to distinguish her legislation from the larger, state slots effort.

Braskey Given Melvin Jones Fellow Award

John Braskey, a member of the Grantsville Lions Club since 1973, was recently awarded the highest honor in Lions clubs, a Melvin Jones Fellow Award. Melvin Jones was the founder of Lions clubs 91 years ago.

The award was presented by Barbara McKenney, past district governor, at the Lions Club annual Christmas party.

Braskey served as president of the club in 1979 and 1980. He has worked for many years cooking chicken for the Lions Club barbecue dinners held several times each year.

A graduate of Fairmont State College, he taught English at Northern High School. He is a former Garrett County commissioner and a member of the Sons of the American Legion and St. Anne Catholic Church. He is also an announcer for Northern High School football and basketball.

Braskey lives in Grantsville with his wife Pam. He works for the Maryland Department of Natural Resources and is Program Open Space coordinator for western Maryland.

He joins other Grantsville Lions Melvin Jones Fellow recipients Bill Bender and Bob Watkins, both charter members, and James Carey, Dr. Ronald Gillum, Gerry Beachy, Fred Holliday, Richard Towers, and Bob Leece.

The Grantsville Lions Club was chartered in 1961 and was sponsored by the Lonaconing Lions Club. Club projects include purchasing eyeglasses for the needy, raising funds for vision research, awarding four scholarships at Northern High school, and installing the Town of Grantsville Christmas decorations. Club members also founded the Grantsville Town Park and coordinate the annual Grantsville Days celebration.

The Grantsville Lions major fundraisers include Grantsville Days, annual cash drawing, summer chicken barbecues, and sales of a lottery calendar. All proceeds from the fundraisers are used for Lions projects.

The club meets on the first and third Thursday of each month at Penn Alps Restaurant and is presently having a membership drive and looking for new members. Interested persons may contact any Lions member.

Adorable Adoptables

STILL LOOKING FOR HOMES – The hound-Doberman mix and shepherd mix, pictured above, are still available for adoption at the Garrett County Animal Shelter. "They would be best in a home without any other dogs," noted a Humane Society spokesperson. Also at the shelter are a male orange tabby (above right) and a longhaired female calico (no photo) that were brought to the shelter together as owner giveups. A male tabby with a white nose (below) that was picked up as a stray is also at the shelter. "These and other dogs and cats are available for adoption," said the spokesperson. "Potential owners must fill out an adoption form, pay the adoption fee, and agree to take their new pets to the veterinarian for vaccinations and to be spayed or neutered. Three of last week's adoptables were reclaimed by their owners. Because of the full capacity of the shelter's dog kennel, HART has taken some dogs and cats to rescues downstate, otherwise some animals would have been euthanized because of the lack of room." The spokesperson also noted that the shelter would "gladly" except old blankets, towels, and rugs. For more information, persons may call the facility at 301-334-5335. Located along Oakland Sang Run Road, the shelter is open Monday through Friday.

Of Your Garrett County Forest Conservancy Board

by Paul Shogren

Your Garrett County Forestry Board held its regular monthly meeting on January 12 (every second Monday) at the Mt. Nebo DNR Work Center, with chairman Charles Hoffeditz presiding and county forester Ernie Metz as secretary.

2009 WORK PLAN

The work plan for 2009 was discussed, and the following items were included:

1) Support the annual Natural Resources Careers Conference held in July at Hickory Environmental Education Center, with student scholarships and instructors.

2) Assist the county commissioners in creating a forest protection task force to cope with forest pest and diseasc infestations.

3) Continue tree planting programs at cooperating elementary schools.

4) Cooperate with the National Arbor Day Foundation with tree plantings and posters.

5) Develop displays about forestry for the window at the Oakland library.

6) Participate in the annual Envirothon in cooperation with the county high schools.

GYPSY MOTH TASK FORCE

The board members received a report from Chuck Hoffeditz and Garrett County commissioner Fred Holliday on the state Gypsy Moth Task Force. Hoffeditz, Holliday, and Delegate Wendell Beitzel serve on this task force. Three meetings have been held so far. The task force is to report to the governor in mid 2009.

Extension Service and the state Department of Agriculture reported gypsy moth egg masses are fewer, and many are infected by a fungus. The idea is that no spraying will be done in 2009.

PAPER SUBMITTED

The board accepted a "white paper" titled "Trees are the Answer" written by board member Paul Shogren. It was written to support passage of the Sustainable Forestry Act 2009, which will go before the legislature this session. The white paper contains quotes from conservationists to strengthen the sustainable stewardship of forest lands. It is being distributed statewide by the state Forestry Board Association and the Maryland Forests Association. The white paper and other information are available on the board's web site www.gcforest.sailorsite.net.

LEED LEGISLATION

The board discussed the Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design (LEED) Green Building Rating System that was passed in last year's legislature. It has been proposed this year to change certain state requirements for "green construction" to include Maryland forest products in such use and emphasize use of wood on an equal basis with metal and concrete.

MINUTES, NEXT MEETING

The minutes of the Garrett Forestry Board meetings will be on the board's web site.

The next meeting of the Garrett Forestry Board is scheduled for next Monday, Feb. 9, at the Maryland Forest Service office at Mt. Nebo. The public is invited to attend.

Keep Contributing to Your 401(k) — in all Markets

If you have a 401(k) plan, you've got a very good retirement-savings vehicle that's probably had a rough year. However, while you might have been tempted to toss your statements without looking at them, you don't want to throw away the opportunity to continue contributing to your 401(k) — and now you can contribute even more.

To be specific, the contribution limit for 401(k) plans will increase from $15,500 in 2008 to $16,500 in 2009. And if you're 50 or older, you can put in an extra $5,500 in 2009, up from $5,000 in 2008. (Your 401(k) plan may also allow Roth contributions, which are made with after-tax dollars, although withdrawals, including earnings, are tax-free in retirement.)

Of course, higher contribution limits won't mean much to you if you're questioning whether you should put anything into your plan, given the results of the past year. How can you reassure yourself that you're making the right move by continuing to fund your 401(k) or other employer-sponsored retirement plan, such as a 403(b) or 457(b)?

Here are a few suggestions:

• Know your risk tolerance. If big losses in your 401(k) are causing you to lose sleep, you may be taking on too much risk for your investment personality. If that's the case, you may need to rebalance your 401(k) portfolio so that you have a higher percentage of more conservative investments. Keep in mind, though, that your 401(k) is designed to build resources for retirement, so you will likely need some growth potential.

• Don't overload on company stock. If a downturn hurts your company, and you have a big percentage of company stock in your plan, your account will take a big hit. Diversify your holdings in your plan. While diversification cannot guarantee a profit or protect against a loss, it can help reduce some of the effects of market volatility.

• Adjust your investment mix over time. You need to periodically evaluate and adjust the investment mix in your 401(k). When you're starting out in your career, you can afford to invest more aggressively, because you have decades in which the market can overcome short-term downturns, no matter how severe. As you move closer to retirement, you may want to scale back the aggressive-growth portion of your portfolio and create an investment mix that might be less susceptible to big market drops.

Above all, don't lose faith in the power of your 401(k) to help you save for retirement — in good and bad markets. As a retirement account, a 401(k) offers several key advantages. First, you typically make pre-tax contributions, so the more you put in, the lower your taxable income. Also, your earnings can grow on a tax-deferred basis, unless you are making Roth contributions, which are withdrawn tax-free. Furthermore, you can choose from an array of investments, so you can create a portfolio that fits your risk tolerance, time horizon and individual objectives. Finally, your employer may offer a matching contribution, if you don't accept it, you are literally walking away from "free money."

It can certainly be upsetting to see declines in your 401(k) statements. But if you stopped participating in your 401(k), you'd have a much harder time reaching your retirement goals. So keep contributing, even in down markets. Someday, you may be glad you did.

sales in 2007, Beitzel noted during a prelegislative meeting with Garrett County constituents in November. As a result of the low revenue, farmers only received about one-third of thc amount they requested for bear crop damages in '07.

Edwards also noted at the local meeting that he knows of at least two cases in which bears have caused more than $5,000 worth of damages.

Local farmers, therefore, asked the lawmakers to introduce legislation that would enable them to get full compensation for damages.

Beitzel's House Bill 327 and Edwards' Scnate Bill 293 require that application fees collected by the DNR for thc black bear hunting permit lottery be used to make up the difference betwcen the damage reimbursement fund balance and the amount "sufficient to satisfy all the elaims."

The DNR receives about $40,000 annually from the $15 bear hunt application fee.

The House Environmental Matters Committee will hold a public hearing on HB 327 next Wednesday, Feb. 11, at 1 p.m. in Annapolis. Beitzel's bill is co-sponsored by 15 other delcgates.

SB 293 has been assigned to the Senate's Education, Health, and Environmental Affairs Committee, which has not yet scheduled a hearing date. Edwards is the sole sponsor of that bill.

Should the General Assembly and governor approve the legislation, the provisions would take effect on Oct. 1, 2009.

The House Environmental Matters Committee will also hear publie eomments about Beitzel's HB 333 on Feb. 11 at 1 p.m. The proposed legislation would allow persons who have easement arrangements with the Maryland Agricultural Land Preservation Foundation to drill for natural gas.

Edwards' companion bill, SB 291, has been assigned to the Senate Education, Health, and Environmental Affairs Committee. No hearing date has been set.

The Senate's Budget and Taxation Committee will review SB 223 on Feb. 11 at 1:30 p.m. This piece of legislation pertains to property tax assessments for landowners in the Forest Conservation and Management Program.

The bill would eliminate the need to reassess properties if fewer than six acres of woodland have been harvested. A hearing date has not be scheduled for Beitzel's companion bill, HB 219.

The Budget and Taxation Committee will also hold a hearing on SB 222 on Feb. 11 at 1:30 p.m. This legislation would enable the Garrett County commissioners to increase the local hotel rental tax from the current 5 percent up to a maximum of 8 percent.

The Senate's Judicial Proceedings Committee is scheduled to hold a hearing today, Feb. 5, at 1 p.m. on SB 224. Submitted by Edwards, the bill would repeal the requirement of the Garrett County Salary Study Commission to study the salary of the state's attorney.

The proposed legislation would authorize the commission to reeommend to the Garrett County commissioners certain changes to the salary of thc state's attorney.

Currently, the commission must study the salaries of not only thc state's attorney but also the county commissioners, board of education, board of elcctions supervisors, judges of the Orphans' Court, Liquor Control Board, and county sheriff. After completing thosc studies, the commission can then make recommendations to the commissioners about increasing or decreasing the salaries.

GREEN LIVING FOR DUMMIES
by Yvonne Jeffery, Liz Barclay, and Michael Grosvenor
c. 2008, Harper Audio, $14.95, 3½ hours/3 CDs
Review by Terri Schlichenmeyer

Does it seem lately that everybody wants to "be green?" You go to the grocery store, and they're selling green canvas bags – literally – for carrying groceries. The hardware store has a bin where you can throw away those squiggly new-fangled light bulbs when they die. Even your workplace is looking for ways to reduce, reuse, reecycle.

You'd love to "go green." It all sounds great, but you're afraid it will take two things you don't have: time and money. So what can you do?

You can start by listening to Green Living for Dummies by Yvonne Jeffery, Liz Barclay, and Michael Grosvenor (read by Brett Barry). You'll get dozens of easy-to-use tips that will get you (inexpensively) green in no time.

You already know that going green will help save the planet. You want to do your part, but you're foeus is on saving greenbacks more than anything. You don't have the money for any extras these days. Can sustainable living co-exist with a barely-sustainable bank account?

The authors of this book say yes, and it doesn't take a lot of effort. It's as easy as buying the double-rolls of toilet paper, which gives you the same amount of TP, but saves 50% more of those cardboard tubes in the middle.

You'll save on cleaning supplies if you follow the author's tips, too. Start with the cabinet full of commercial cleaners in your kitehen. There's no need to throw them out; instead, use them up, then replace them with greener cleaners when the bottles are empty. Better yet, take a look at what's already in your pantry. Lemon juiee, baking soda, and vinegar in different combinations make fine (and environmentally friendly) cleaners. Vinegar and olive oil are for more than just a salad.

Speaking of food, you probably already know that organic eating is healthier, but did you know that those little labels on fresh fruit can give you big information?

"Reduee, Reuse, Recycle" has been the rallying ery for the Green Movement, but the authors of this audio-book add one more: Re-gift. Give away that which you don't use. Pass on that perfect-for-someone-else present you got this year by using the three Gs: generous, green, and guilt-free.

Just when you thought you'd heard every possible "green" tip in the entire world, along comes Green Living for Dummies. The authors offer tips filled with the simplest of things that are the easiest to implement, on three CDs that are quick and enjoyable to listen to, at a priee that's right. How can you go wrong?

You'll learn how to gently work green into your lifestyle, from home to work and everywhere in between. The tips come fast (and alas, the web sites really too fast), which means that this audio-book is one you won't want to "recyele, re-gift" beeause you'll be reusing it yourself.

If you think there's no time (or money) for being eeo-minded, piek up Green Living for Dummies. This audio-book will help you go green without going in the red.

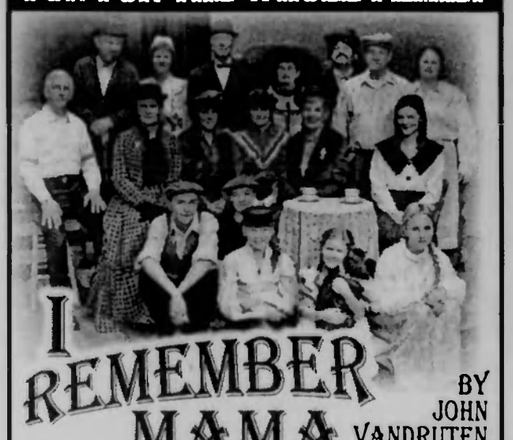
FUN FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY



I REMEMBER MAMA BY JOHN VANDRUTEN

Mama, with the help of her husband, brings up the children in their modest San Francisco home during the early years of the century. Mama, a sweet and capable manager, sees her children through childhood, manages to educate them and to see one of her daughters begin her career as a writer. Mama's sisters and uncle furnish a rich background for a great deal of comedy and a little incidental tragedy, while the doings of the children manage to keep everyone in pleasant turmoil.
